How Is California Solving Most Massive Migration in History?

By JIM McCAULEY

SACRAMENTO—California has been the promised land for one of the most massive migrations in history.

The population explosion brings both prosperity and growing problems. This is the first of a series of articles showing how modern California is dealing with the problems that result from this massive onslaught of people.

Transportation, schools, water, resource conservation, crime and welfare needs are perennial challenges in any state. But in California the problems have been magnified by a population explosion that would stagger most states.

What has been the impact of California's population explosion? A glance at the record book reveals the population has:

—Doubled every 20 years.

—Gained more than a half million each year since 1956.

—Reached 18.8 million to top New York as No. 1 state.

—Added population equivalent to another City of Long Beach every nine months in recent years.

—Braced for an expected 1965 invasion of another 340,000 migrants from other states, plus a net gain of 218,000 from the surplus of births over deaths.

—Anticipated a population of 20 million by 1968.

Processed about 30,000 new migrants to California each month.

—Swamped California with so many population problems that a private organization in Marin County, with tongue in cheek, has suggested a promotional campaign to discourage newcomers.

And though some population experts foresee a slight leveling off soon in the growth rate, even the most pessimistic predict California's population will continue to expand.

The State Finance Department forecast a 3% population gain for 1965, and again this year and next. That would be the lowest population gain since 2.7% in 1951, but it still is twice as great as the national growth rate.

In a state with a static population, public officials can look the other way in the forlorn hope that problems will go away. But California's mushrooming population has challenged officials to handle problems without procrastination.

A minor problem today—if left untended—will become a marathon headache tomorrow. The crush of population assures that.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who catches a lion's share of the growth pressures, is well aware of the population

LBJ's Envoys of Peace Go to Africa, Mexico

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States intensified its peace offensive Saturday, hoping to avoid a bloodier and more dangerous Viet Nam war in 1966 by finding a common ground in a jumble of conflicting peace proposals.

As bombing raids on North Viet Nam were suspended for the ninth consecutive day, President Johnson sent new peace messengers to Africa and Mexico.

From his ranch in Johnson City, Tex., the President also ordered all U. S. ambassadors to tell government leaders that the United States wants peace in Viet Nam. But they also will warn that a bigger and more dangerous war for all the world will result in Viet Nam unless North Viet Nam comes to the truce table.

Johnson said Undersecretary of State Thomas Mann had presented the U.S. position to Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz. G. Mennen Williams, assistant Secretary of State for African affairs, was dispatched carrying a similar message to African leaders.

Meanwhile, in London, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Arthur J. Goldberg conferred with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson for two hours Saturday night in the wind-up of his Viet Nam peace mission. He then announced the United States is ready to "transfer the conflict from the battlefield to the conference table."

In Yugoslavia Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman Saturday handed Yugoslav President Tito a personal message from President Johnson during talks that concentrated on Viet Nam. He later took off for India on the third leg of his peace mission.

Harriman left Belgrade at 9:30 p.m. aboard a giant U.S. Air Force jet for New Delhi where, he said, he will

GOOD LANDING

Aviators sometimes say any landing you can walk away from is a good landing. Pilot William G. Hilpert and passenger Frank Rogers were soaked doing it, but they were able to walk away—through hip-deep water—from this plane after crash-landing in Los Angeles River just north of Pacific Coast Highway. (See story on Page A-3.)

Give SAC Planes to NATO Allies, Hosmer Advises

Rep. Craig Hosmer Saturday urged the United States to turn over to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies 425 strategic bombers and six bomber bases scheduled to disappear from the U.S. military arsenal.

The Long Beach Congressman suggested that the bomber force, or whatever part of it U. S. allies want, be operated from the U. S. bases with the nuclear weapons they carry under strict "American custody and control."

Hosmer's proposal referred to a recent announcement by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that early-model B52 intercontinental bombers and six bases from which they are now flying are to be disposed of by the 1970s. McNamara said the United States will retain about 255 B52s of the two latest models through most of the 1970s.

* * * *

HOSMER said, in a telephonic interview with The Independent, Press-Telegram Saturday night from his Washington home, that he had sent copies of his proposal to President Johnson, Secretary of State Rusk, McNamara and the NATO allies.

He termed it the "first new idea" since MLF the multilateral-force proposal that appears doomed.

McNamara has said that the B52s which the U. S. will retain will be bolstered by about 210 FB111s which, it is hoped, will become operational in the 1968 fiscal year. The FB111s are a bomber version of the highly controversial TFX fighter which later was redesignated the F111.

Hosmer's original recommendation about the bombers and their bases was made to the House Republican Conference in his capacity as chairman of its committee on nuclear affairs. Hosmer is also a senior member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. Hosmer, serving his seventh term in Congress, is a combat veteran of World War II and a captain in the Naval Reserve.

The proposal to turn over the aircraft followed by a week a Hosmer charge that by retiring the bomber force, McNamara was dramatically cutting the nuclear explosive power which the U.S. strategic forces could deliver on target.

Hosmer's mathematics were based on the huge discrepancy between the bomb warheads which can be carried by bombers and much smaller warheads delivered by intercontinental ballastic

'War Horror' Leaflet Drop

A light plane roared over Long Beach Naval Station about 8 p.m. New Year's Day and dropped several hundred leaflets protesting American involvement in the war in Viet Nam.

Base security officials immediately turned samples of the leaflets over to the FBI for investigation.

The green and white pamphlets feature a photo of the charred bodies of an adult and child on one side and carry an anti-involvement message on the other. The photo is titled "Mother and Child."

"If you met the man whose wife and child were roasted to death by napalm bombs," the pamphlet begins, "you might be asked to explain why."

Thousands of similar pamphlets were dropped on Disneyland Saturday night.

* * * *

POLICE said there was nothing on the leaflets to indicate where they originated or what organization may have dropped them.

Officials at Long Beach Airport said there were many light planes in the air around the city when the leaflets were dropped about 8:10 p.m., and they could not trace down which aircraft may have been used.

About 200 of the 5x10-inch leaflets landed on the USS Hector, docked at the base.

Campaign Opens With Big Bang

LEAKSVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Rockingham County kicked off its 1966 Heart Fund Saturday —with a shattering effect.

A small crowd gathered in front of the war memorial monument in the downtown area for the cereceremony.

Fund official Fred Cline spoke briefly. Then he gave the signal for a National Guard 105 millimeter howitzer to fire three shots.

As the shots rang out, the crowd heard the shattering of glass.

The concussion shattered two plate glass windows in a barber shop across the street.

No one was injured.

Very soon President Johnson will appoint the nation's first Secretary for Urban Affairs. Some, who view America's cities through a glass darkly, say it might already be too late.

The problems the new cabinet member will face are legion, their manifestations well known. There's no denying some of the country's proudest cities are sick.

Indeed, glancing at the dreary catalogue of ailments, any smog-choked, traffic-snarled, crime-frightened urbanite might incline toward the view of Mayor Arthur Naftalin of Minneapolis. A generally optimistic man, whose city has been a leader in trying imaginative solutions, Naftalin nonetheless concedes "the gloomy prediction of decay and dissolution may be closer to realization than we care to admit."

But cities die hard. An earthquake couldn't destroy San Francisco or bombs Berlin. And a tour of American cities from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate shows obituaries are patently premature.

Plainly it won't be easy to save them, however, for in many cities the spirit as well as the body needs renewing.

"One doesn't have to be dying of cancer in order to feel lousy," says Stephen K. Bailey, former mayor of Middletown, Conn., and now dean of Syracuse University's School of Citizenship and Public Affairs.

"Some of our cities are dying from urban blight, but also too many of the rest of them are living a half life, sensing the gradual decay and ugliness of what is around them."

The ugliness can depress to the point of despair. It reflects problems which intermesh, feed on one another, hide their root causes, beggar solution.

Poverty gnaws at the urban core. In probably the most comfortably housed nation the world has known, 20% of the citizens still lack decent homes by Census Bureau standards.

LBJ Adviser Talks to Steel Boss: No Effect

President Johnson's chief economic adviser, after meeting with Bethlehem Steel Corp. officials, said Saturday in Washington he still regards their price increase as "unjustified" and hopes it will be rescinded.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, gave no indication, however, that he was promised and such rollback.

Ackley and his colleagues met Saturday afternoon with Bethlehem chairman Edmund F. Martin and other company officials to discuss the $5-a-ton boost on structural steel shapes and piling. Bethlehem announced the price boost Friday.

Shortly after the increase was announced, Ackley had termed the firm's action as "inflationary and not in the public interest."

The President followed up with a statement saying "This is certainly no time for unwarranted price increases which can lead to inflation." And he urged Bethlehem officials to meet at once with Ackley.

After Saturday's meeting, Ackley issued this statement:

"The Bethlehem executives presented no new information that altered the initial judgment of the President's Council of Economic Advisers that the price increase is unjustified and inflationary. I hope that the Bethlehem price increase will be withdrawn and that other producers will refrain from raising their prices."

Luci, Pat Pray

President Johnson's younger daughter, Luci, and her fiancee, Pat Nugent, attended Roman Catholic church services in Fredericksburg, Tex., Saturday, stayed afterwards to pray together, then left separately—to duck photographers.

Luci, 18, and Nugent, 22, whose engagement was announced Christmas Eve, attended morning services in St. Mary's Church. After the Mass, Luci and Pat prayed together privately for about 10 minutes.

Shirt Cashed

The judge ordered Dr. James M. Harris of Oakland to pay $1,500 in fees to the attorney who obtained Mrs. Harris's divorce.

The veterinarian made the final $75 payment with the shirt right off his back. On it, he wrote a check for $75.

The bank cashed it Friday.

'65, '66 Twins

Doris Ronchi was born in 1965 and her twin sister Nicoletta was born in 1966.

Rosanna Ronchi, 26, the wife of a mechanic, gave birth to the twins in a Brescia, Italy, hospital, one on each side of midnight.

Vigil Ends

Two college graduate students who took seats in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Cathedral in Pittsburgh to dramatize their wish for peace in Viet Nam ended their week-long vigil Saturday.

JOHN STEINBECK
Excited by Find

Discovery

Novelist John Steinbeck believes he may have discovered the long-lost original draft of a 15th-century English classic, Sir Thomas Mallory's "Morte d' Arthur," it was reported in Garden City, N.J., Saturday.

Newsday, a suburban Long Island daily newspaper for which Steinbeck writes as a columnist, reported the author had announced in his latest column that he found the handwritten ancient manuscript bound along with others in one of the 20,000 volumes stored in historic Alnwick Castle in Northumberland, England.

The discovery, made with Prof. Eugene Vinaver of Manchester University, an Arthurian expert, if confirmed by further study, could be a major bibliographical discovery.

"I write this in haste and excitement because in this castle library our quest has been almost magically successful," wrote Steinbeck in his column entitled "Letters to Alicia," addressed to the newspaper's first editor and publisher, the late Alicia Patterson. "It will take a long time to study, compare, evaluate and place the find but I assure you it is a scholar's pot of gold, and a holy grail for Arthurian researchers."

He compared it with finding handwritten notes for the Declaration of Independence or Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Lynda Bird Johnson attended the Sugar Bowl football game between Missouri and Florida Saturday but she was not with handsome movie star-boyfriend George Hamilton as expected.

Lynda, 21, and her college roommate were the guests of U.S. Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La. and Mrs. Boggs at the game and Hamilton reportedly was to fly from Spain to meet Lynda and attend the game with her. It had not been certain Hamilton would be able to get to New Orleans in time.

New Russ Moon Shot Said Near

LONDON (UPI)—The Russians may soft-land an instrument package on the moon within a few days, British astronomer Prof. F. Graham Smith said Saturday.

He said the Russians' last attempt with Luna 8 was a "very, very close thing."

Smith said the rocket that launched the instrument package was fired a lunar month ago today so it was possible another attempt would be made shortly.

* * * *

THIS time, Smith said, the attempt might be successful.

Smith, professor of radio astronomy at Manchester University, is associated with Sir Bernard Lovell in the operation of the giant radio telescope at Jodrell Bank.

Smith said the signals recorded from Luna 8 were very complex and Britain did not have the key—but scientists at Jodrell Bank had been able to work out much of what they meant.

Four Youngsters Perish in Flames

WORLEY, Idaho (AP)—Four youngsters believed sleeping in an upstairs bedroom when a fire broke out Saturday morning were missing as authorities waited for ruins to cool so they could probe the ashes for bodies.

A 15-year-old babysitter, Francine Malone, told police she was awakened about 10 a.m. by the fire, but could not reach the upstairs because of flames.

She did rally a friend, nine-year-old Mary Ann Zackery, from the house. And she carried nine-month-old Joseph Matts.

They were sleeping downstairs. None was hurt.

The missing children:

—Anna Marie Zackery, about 8.
—David Matt Jr., about 5.
—Gabriel Matt, about 4.
—Linda Fish, about 7.

The fire consumed the two-story frame house in a matter of minutes.

Big Profits of Year in Land

NEW YORK (AP)—The big money-makers of 1965 were people who owned unimproved land around the world's large cities, says international currency analyst Franz Pick.

There were also handsome profits in rare manuscripts and books, Pick said in his annual "world currency report" released Saturday.

Each year Pick publishes a survey of free market price movements that includes currencies, commodities and less publicized items such as objects of art.

* * * *

THE REPORT said unimproved land ringing cities showed price increases of 80% to 100% over 1964 "from the United States to the Far East and from the Scandinavian countries to Australia." The survey did not include Switzerland, where Pick said the land boom ceased some time ago, and the Communist Bloc countries.

Pick didn't name any specific area of the world where land was most profitable. He said the population explosion everywhere had pushed construction to outlying areas of cities.

As usual, art objects and collectors' items were prominently included in Pick's annual listing.

TAXATION REQUESTED

A Cash 'Thank You' to California Schools

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A former California couple now living in India have asked Gov. Edmund G. Brown to let them pay state taxes even though they are out of the country. Brown said "Yes."

This is a gesture of gratitude toward the state's public system of higher education to which they owe their success, said Mr. and Mrs. David Schiele.

Mrs. Schiele wrote Brown asking that she and her husband—a third secretary at the U.S. Embassy in New Delhi—be sent state tax forms.

Explained the letter, released by Brown Saturday:

"Both my husband and I graduated from Sacramento State State College in June, 1964. Without a degree my husband would not have been able to take the foreign service examination and without the quality of education at Sacramento State, he would have been unable to pass it.

"My husband is one of 13 children . . . Had it not been for the state college he could never have afforded a college education.

"We consider it a privilege to pay our taxes with the knowledge that the money may go to opening the door for another student to an opportunity as wonderful as the one it opened for us."

The governor said he would grant their request, and added:

"How seldom it is that someone takes the time to say thanks. But how rare it is that someone offers to invest in the future of others."

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

LBJ Adviser Talks to Steel Boss: No Effect

President Johnson's chief economic adviser, after meeting with Bethlehem Steel Corp. officials, said Saturday in Washington he still regards their price increase as "unjustified" and hopes it will be rescinded.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, gave no indication, however, that he was promised and such rollback.

Ackley and his colleagues met Saturday afternoon with Bethlehem chairman Edmund F. Martin and other company officials to discuss the $5-a-ton boost on structural steel shapes and piling. Bethlehem announced the price boost Friday.

Shortly after the increase was announced, Ackley had termed the firm's action as "inflationary and not in the public interest."

The President followed up with a statement saying "This is certainly no time for unwarranted price increases which can lead to inflation." And he urged Bethlehem officials to meet at once with Ackley.

After Saturday's meeting, Ackley issued this statement:

"The Bethlehem executives presented no new information that altered the initial judgment of the President's Council of Economic Advisers that the price increase is unjustified and inflationary. I hope that the Bethlehem price increase will be withdrawn and that other producers will refrain from raising their prices."

Luci, Pat Pray

President Johnson's younger daughter, Luci, and her fiancee, Pat Nugent, attended Roman Catholic church services in Fredericksburg, Tex., Saturday, stayed afterwards to pray together, then left separately—to duck photographers.

Luci, 18, and Nugent, 22, whose engagement was announced Christmas Eve, attended morning services in St. Mary's Church. After the Mass, Luci and Pat prayed together privately for about 10 minutes.

Shirt Cashed

The judge ordered Dr. James M. Harris of Oakland to pay $1,500 in fees to the attorney who obtained Mrs. Harris's divorce.

The veterinarian made the final $75 payment with the shirt right off his back. On it, he wrote a check for $75.

The bank cashed it Friday.

'65, '66 Twins

Doris Ronchi was born in 1965 and her twin sister Nicoletta was born in 1966.

Rosanna Ronchi, 26, the wife of a mechanic, gave birth to the twins in a Brescia, Italy, hospital, one on each side of midnight.

Vigil Ends

Two college graduate students who took seats in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Cathedral in Pittsburgh to dramatize their wish for peace in Viet Nam ended their week-long vigil Saturday.

JOHN STEINBECK
Excited by Find

Discovery

Novelist John Steinbeck believes he may have discovered the long-lost original draft of a 15th-century English classic, Sir Thomas Mallory's "Morte d' Arthur," it was reported in Garden City, N.J., Saturday.

Newsday, a suburban Long Island daily newspaper for which Steinbeck writes as a columnist, reported the author had announced in his latest column that he found the handwritten ancient manuscript bound along with others in one of the 20,000 volumes stored in historic Alnwick Castle in Northumberland, England.

The discovery, made with Prof. Eugene Vinaver of Manchester University, an Arthurian expert, if confirmed by further study, could be a major bibliographical discovery.

"I write this in haste and excitement because in this castle library our quest has been almost magically successful," wrote Steinbeck in his column entitled "Letters to Alicia," addressed to the newspaper's first editor and publisher, the late Alicia Patterson. "It will take a long time to study, compare, evaluate and place the find but I assure you it is a scholar's pot of gold, and a holy grail for Arthurian researchers."

He compared it with finding handwritten notes for the Declaration of Independence or Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Football Fan

Lynda Bird Johnson attended the Sugar Bowl football game between Missouri and Florida Saturday but she was not with handsome movie star-boyfriend George Hamilton as expected.

Lynda, 21, and her college roommate were the guests of U.S. Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La. and Mrs. Boggs at the game and Hamilton reportedly was to fly from Spain to meet Lynda and attend the game with her. It had not been certain Hamilton would be able to get to New Orleans in time.

Decorated

The U.S. Army Saturday awarded its highest noncombat award, the Soldier's Medal, to Spec. 4 Lonnie Glasscock III of San Antonio, Tex., for heroism when attacked by a rock-throwing Communist mob in Potsdam, East Germany, last June 1.

New Russ Moon Shot Said Near

LONDON (UPI)—The Russians may soft-land an instrument package on the moon within a few days, British astronomer Prof. F. Graham Smith said Saturday.

He said the Russians' last attempt with Luna 8 was a "very, very close thing."

Smith said the rocket that launched the instrument package was fired a lunar month ago today so it was possible another attempt would be made shortly.

* * * *

THIS time, Smith said, the attempt might be successful.

Smith, professor of radio astronomy at Manchester University, is associated with Sir Bernard Lovell in the operation of the giant radio telescope at Jodrell Bank.

Smith said the signals recorded from Luna 8 were very complex and Britain did not have the key—but scientists at Jodrell Bank had been able to work out much of what they meant.

FOUR 'LOST' HIKERS KNEW WHERE THEY WERE

By ART VINSEL

Thousands gathered in Southland homes and night clubs to celebrate New Year's Eve, but one of the most festive parties occurred on a lonely, snowswept creek bank where four boys ate beef stew, drank soft drinks and shouted and cheered in 1966.

The youths—Jeff Willeford, 17; John Clayton, 17; Raymond DeLea, 17 and Tom DeLea, 16, — were "lost."

But even their makeshift party high in the San Bernardino Mountains was outdone Saturday when they gathered with their families for a real New Year's celebration at the Willeford home, 8372 Handel Drive, Buena Park. The quartet of hikers was airlifted out Saturday morning after they attrated a searching helicopter by tossing a fir tree on their campfire to send a column of smoke skyward.

"We were never lost," said young Clayton, "we were trapped by the snow."

The youths camped on the middle fork of Cucamonga Creek when a heavy snowstorm cut short their four-day hike Tuesday. The rugged terrain had already slowed progress.

"We took one look at those clouds, and then camped," said Clayton. Even then, they were miserable.

"We got soaked," said Tom DeLea, telling how he and his companions huddled together under a Japanese war souvenir blanket in a one-man pup-tent.

"It leaked like a sieve," said Clayton.

The boys built a roaring fire to combat the gnawing cold and had to stay so close to it that their rain-soaked sleeping bags were scorched in places.

They sat, shoulders aching from 40-pound packs. The straps had cut into them as they climbed through the rugged Lytle Creek area the previous day. They listened to their transitor radio.

"That kept us going," said one of them.

Then, as many other youths their age were taking dates to New Year's Eve parties, the crackling radio informed them that a serach was under way for four lost Orange County boys. Then they heard their names.

"We almost died laughing," said the younger DeLea. "We weren't lost—we knew exactly where we were."

But help at least, was on the way, so they splurged and had a party.

They had expected to hike out today on the route by which they entered instead of crossing over Mt. Baldy to Scotland Store, where their parents were to have met them Thursday.

Saturday morning, they spotted the searching helicopter and attracted the pilot's attention, but he couldn't land at their hazardous campsite.

"We tried to make a heliport for him by chopping down small trees and spreading them over the snow," said one of the hikers. "But it wouldn't work. There were dangerous up and downdraft besides."

The craft set down on a nearby ridge and Jeff, Raymond, Tom and John began fighting their way through heavy brush to reach it.

They agreed that their struggle to the helicopter was one of the worst parts of the hike.

While their sons were unaccounted-for, the Willeford, DeLea and Clayton families reacted with concern and confidence.

Raymond DeLea is an accomplished woodsman and guided in the Sierras last summer and all are in top physical condition.

"After all their planning we felt it was the right thing to let them go," said Mrs. Willeford Saturday.

"You have to let them grow up and be men," she said.

Tomorrow, it will be back to classes at Mater Dei and Servite schools for the four men.

They'll have a good story for the boys.

2 WADE AWAY

Airplane Lands in L.A. River

Two men waded away virtually unhurt from a skillful crash-landing of their light plane in the water-filled Los Angeles River just north of the Pacific Coast Highway bridge Saturday afternoon.

The pilot and owner of the Aeronica L-3, William G. Hilpert, 38, of 6843 Huntdale St., Long Beach, elected to try an emergency landing in the flood control channel after his engine lost power just after takeoff from Long Beach Airport.

"I was just maintaining altitude and I was afraid to make any more turns," Hilpert said after he and his passenger, Frank Rogers of Orange, waded ashore through the hip-deep water.

Hilpert, a pilot for 14 years, pancaked the small plane into the channel, filled with runoff water from the week's rains, about 12:30 p.m.

The plane flipped part way over and stopped with its nose in the water and its tail in the air, upside down at a 45-degree angle.

Hilpert and Rogers unfastened their seat belts, opened the door and climbed out onto the plane's wheels. Then they gathered a camera and other personal gear and waded some 75 feet to the east bank.

Hilpert, who sustained a cut on the bridge of his nose, said he was afraid of risking a stall with his faltering engine by trying another turn to head him back for the airport.

"And those power lines started looking awful high," he told police.

Later the plane was towed ashore, its wings were dismantled and it was trucked back to the airport.

Series on Rossmoor Will Start Monday

Rossmoor, an affluent residential and shopping community in western Orange County, frequently has been the target of annexation attempts by neighboring cities, among them Long Beach and Los Alamitos. Seal Beach, too, has considered incorporating it.

Beginning Monday, a two-part series on the newest efforts to annex Rossmoor will appear in The Independent, Press-Telegram.

Reporters Steve Gibson and Earl Griswold spent two weeks interviewing concerned officials and residents for a report on developments affecting the future of an unusual community.

Residents Panic in K.C. Fire

KANSAS CITY (AP) — One man was burned fatally, another critically and 19 persons were injured as fire broke out in a three-story apartment Saturday. Many among the 97 residents panicked and leaped from windows.

Four persons were admitted to hospitals, 15 treated and released.

Batallion Chief Cecil Daniel said persons were jumping from windows when he and his crew of 20 firemen arrived.

"I screamed for them to stop and ordered the men to get ladders to the windows," Daniel said. "But nobody would pay any attention."

Dead was Clifton Christian, 25, of Kansas City, not a resident of the building. He and Cleo J. Peltier, 21, Kansas City, also not a resident, were huddled beneath an exhaust fan. Peltier was critically burned.

California Road Toll Highest

By United Press International

The New Year's holiday traffic toll soared past 400 Saturday night and safety officials said the final total "could exceed 600."

The toll was almost certain to surpass the record 474 deaths for a three-day New Year's holiday set last year.

A tabulation by United Press International at 11:30 p.m. EST showed at least 401 persons dead in traffic accidents during the holiday.

The breakdown:

Traffic	401
Fires	32
Planes	8
Miscellaneous	34
Total	475

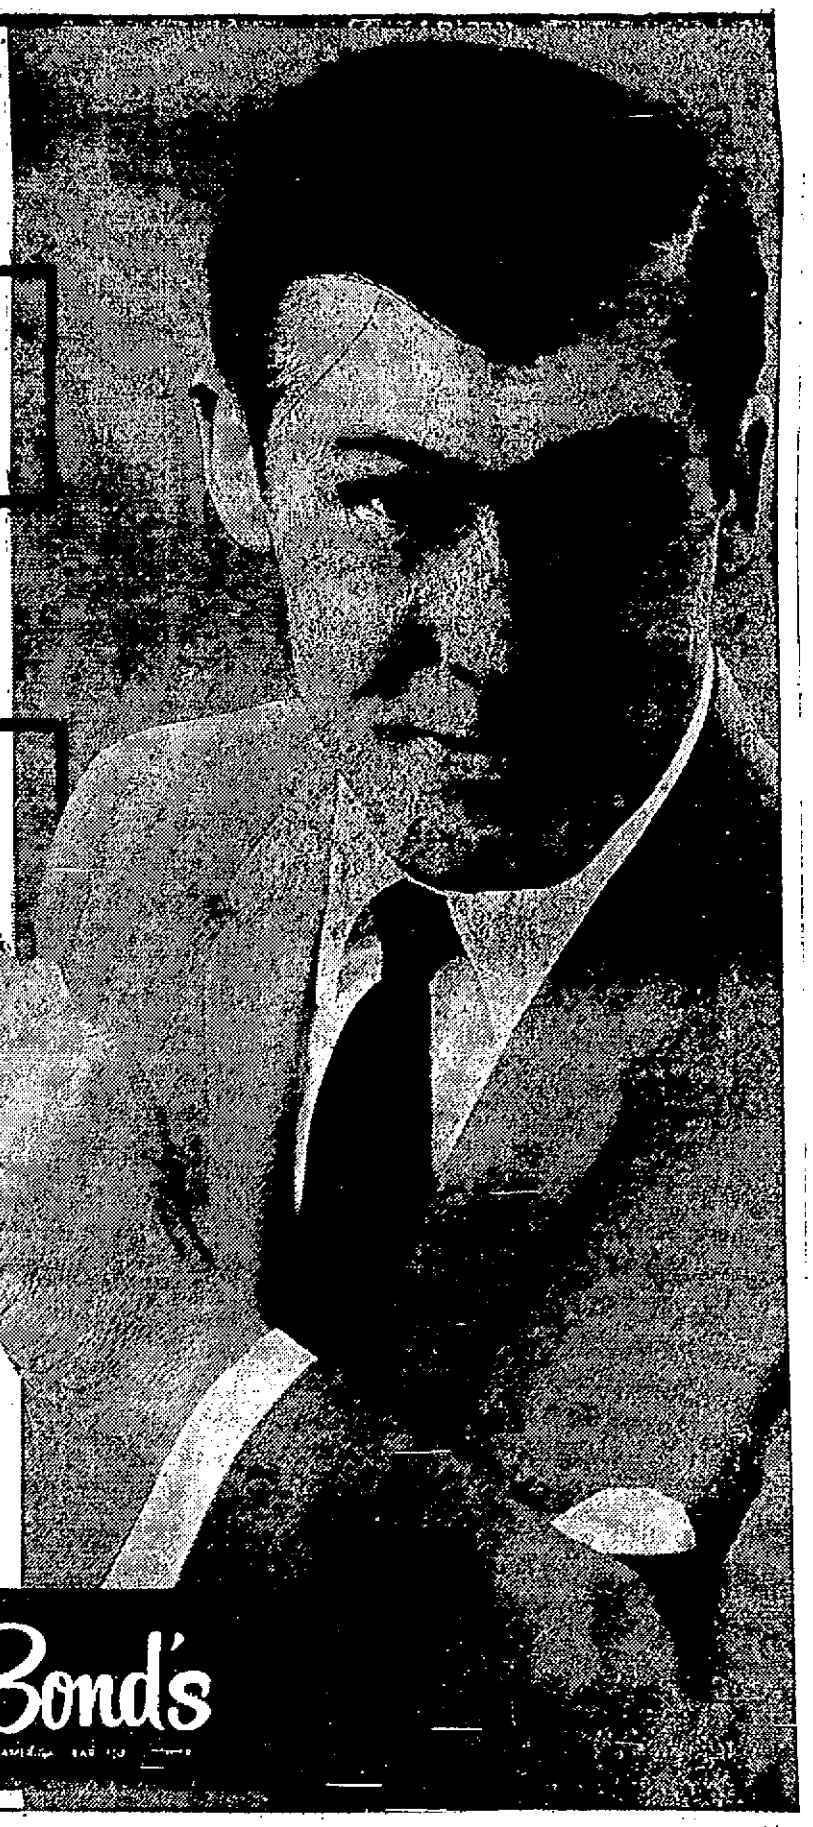

California and Ohio led the nation with 38 dead each in traffic crashes, New York had 28 and Michigan 27.

A National Safety Council spokesman said the death rate was running about 15% higher than at the same time last year.

The spokesman said council experts calculated that "if deaths continue at the present pace, the final total could exceed 600."

"The one bright spot in the picture is that the toll is about 70 deaths below the horrible Christmas pace," he said.

"I screamed for them to stop and ordered the men to get ladders to the windows," Daniel said. "But nobody would pay any attention."

Dead was Clifton Christian, 25, of Kansas City, not a resident of the building. He and Cleo J. Peltier, 21, Kansas City, also not a resident, were huddled beneath an exhaust fan. Peltier was critically burned.

California Road Toll Highest

By United Press International

The New Year's holiday traffic toll soared past 400 Saturday night and safety officials said the final total "could exceed 600."

The toll was almost certain to surpass the record 474 deaths for a three-day New Year's holiday set last year.

A tabulation by United Press International at 11:30 p.m. EST showed at least 401 persons dead in traffic accidents during the holiday.

The breakdown:

Traffic	401
Fires	32
Planes	8
Miscellaneous	34
Total	475

California and Ohio led the nation with 38 dead each in traffic crashes, New York had 28 and Michigan 27.

A National Safety Council spokesman said the death rate was running about 15% higher than at the same time last year.

The spokesman said council experts calculated that "if deaths continue at the present pace, the final total could exceed 600."

"The one bright spot in the picture is that the toll is about 70 deaths below the horrible Christmas pace," he said.

Humphrey Scores in Diplomacy

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief, I-P-T National Bureau

SEOUL, Korea — Vice President Humphrey's first major diplomatic effort drew to a close Saturday as he made a one-day visit to Korea, where a little over a decade ago so many Americans gave their lives in the continuing world struggle. As the vice president's week-long visit to four Far Eastern countries neared its end the general feeling among those aboard the presidential jet was that the journey had been a success.

World-shaking developments had not come out of the voyage nor had they been expected. The purpose of the trip had been for the second highest ranking American to talk with leaders of Asian countries to explain to them the American viewpoint on critical world issues and this is precisely what the vice president did in Japan and in The Philippines, where the inauguration of a new president provided the ostensible reason for the trip.

In Formosa and here in Korea Humphrey was the missionary of American foreign policy. He was seeking to combat among the leaders of those countries a growing feeling of uneasiness about American policy in Southeast Asia. His assignment was to explain what America is doing and why and as far as the impartial observer could ascertain he performed his job well. The Humphrey odyssey had several elements. In addition to speaking to the chiefs of state it was ceremonial.

He placed wreaths at suitable national monuments and at statues to national heros. He mado appearances at American shrines such as the American Cemetery in Manila where he, along with those who accompanied him, were hard put to stifle the tears which welled in the eyes of all.

It was a working trip. The vice president sought not only to explain American foreign policy but also to enlist the aid and support of our Asian allies for our policies in the Far East. While the Humphrey mission obviously was not a crucial factor in other governments' decisions nonetheless the vice president did elicit pledges of support in an economic way from Japan, in a military way from the Philippines, in a logistic way from the Republic of China and with fighting troops from impoverished Korea.

It is far too early to assess the ultimate results of Humphrey's trip but it is clear that he personally made a good impression upon those with whom he came in contact. Those who have been accustomed to travelling with Humphrey were somewhat startled to note his punctuality. He was on time or very close to it for everything, a marked contrast to his procedures when, for instance, campaigning in the United States; his speeches too were terse and to the point, his addiction to oratorical rambling was held in check and he stuck remarkably close to his prepared scripts. He was jovial, enthusiastic, eloquent, but at the same time reflected a dignified mind in keeping with a man who was speaking and acting for his country.

Humphrey image-making was probably the least important part of his trip but one couldn't help but feel that he had not done himself any political harm on his seven-day swing through foreign parts.

Bitar Becomes Syria's Premier, Forms Cabinet

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI)—Salah Bitar, co-founder of the ruling Arab Socialist Baath Party, became premier of Syria Saturday and formed a new 26-man cabinet.

The new government was announced in two decrees by Gen. Amin Hafez, chairman of Syria's Presidency Council.

The government is the fourth Bitar has headed since the Baathists took control of Syria in a military coup in March, 1963.

SEEKING TITO'S INFLUENCE FOR PEACE
President Johnson's special envoy, W. Averell Harriman confers Saturday with Yugoslavia's President Tito as part of U.S. worldwide diplomatic campaign for peace in Viet Nam. With them are President Tito's wife and C. Burke Elbrick, United States Ambassador to Yugoslavia.

have talks with Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri.

Harriman, the millionaire American ambassador-at-large, had traveled by train to Slovenia to meet with Tito, an independent Communist in the former palace of Yugoslav royalty at Brdo.

Despite the intensity of U.S. campaign, there were no indications that peace was any closer, but Washington was giving Hanoi plenty of time to make a considered response. The U.S. appeared in no hurry to resume bombing of North Viet Nam.

Statements from Washington and Hanoi in recent days showed some points in common but many points of disagreement.

These were these important differences:

Four Points—Hanoi wants the United States to "solemnly declare" acceptance of North Viet Nam's "four points" issued last April.

These called for (1) withdrawal of U.S. forces; (2) acceptance of 1954 Geneva accords; (3) settlement of South Viet Nam's affairs "in accordance with the program" of the Viet Cong; (4) eventual reunification of North and South Viet Nam to be left to the Vietnamese.

Point 3—The "program" of the Viet Cong—is the only one flatly unacceptable to Washington, but the U.S. is unwilling to make any "declaration" adopting the four points in advance of peace talks. It would discuss this at a conference but wants freedom to have its own points discussed, too.

Geneva Accords— These 1954 agreements called in general for a nonaligned Southeast Asia free of outside troops. Both sides now endorse them but disagree on interpretation. Hanoi says its four points are the "correct" interpretation of the Geneva accords.

Unconditional discussion — The United States has favored this since President Johnson's April 7 speech in Baltimore. Hanoi never has made it completely clear whether its four points are a "precondition" for peace talks. Sometimes it says this. Other times, as in a Hanoi radio broadcast Thursday, it merely calls them conditions for peace.

Troops — Hanoi has demanded complete withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Viet Nam, but has not made it quite clear when this must happen.

Pope in Peace Plea to Moscow, Peking

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI joined the United States in the quest for a Viet Nam truce Saturday by calling on the Soviet Union and Communist China to intervene in the cause of peace. The pontiff cautioned North and South Viet Nam against escalating the war.

The appeal for a "just and lasting peace" in Viet Nam was made in a series of papal New Year's messages.

Pope Paul sent a similar message to President Johnson by way of United Nations Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, who saw the pontiff at the Vatican earlier last week. The text of the Pope's message to Johnson was not disclosed immediately.

The Pope told Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny and Communist Chinese Leader Mao Tze-tung that their "intervention" to bring the war to the negotiating table would earn them mankind's honors.

New Year Brings No New Peace in Asia

SAIGON (Sunday) (UPI)—The New Year brought no new peace to embattled Viet Nam as American airborne troops joined government forces and units from Australia, New Zealand and Korea in keeping pressure on the Viet Cong near the Cambodian border and elsewhere in the countryside.

A multibattalion force from the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade moved out early today near the Cambodian border 35 miles northwest of Saigon in search of two hard-core Viet Cong battalions that already had lost more than 125 dead in stiff fighting with government troops.

The Americans joined the operation Saturday along with support elements from Australian and New Zealand troops. There were no reports of contact with the Red forces from either the American force or the government troops.

Meanwhile, fighting subsided during the night along the banks of the Massac River where the quick appearance of a government "reaction force" prompted a Viet Cong unit to break contact.

Goldberg in Chicago to Attend Funeral

CHICAGO (AP) — President Johnson's special envoy Arthur J. Goldberg wound up his Viet Nam talks with world leaders Saturday to fly here for the funeral of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Esther Kurgans, who died Friday night. She was 83.

Goldberg canceled a dinner with Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson to make the trip to Chicago in a special Air Force jet after being informed of the death while carrying out his probe of possible Viet Nam peace moves.

Give Allies Planes, Hosmer Proposes

missles which are scheduled to replace most bombers.

As of today, Hosmer said, 680 B52 and B58 bombers still in the U. S. arsenal can carry 27,200 megatons of nuclear-explosive force to distant targets. The 1,350 missles now on hand, according to Hosmer, can carry only about 1,350 megatons.

To this Hosmer added 1,450 megatons of explosive yield which could be sent to enemy targets by tactical weapons or by weapons which at any given time are in reserve or repair status.

* * * *

McNAMARA has said that by 1971 when all the planned FB111s are to be operational, the United States will have at least 1,000 Minuteman ICBMs, 696 Polaris missiles on nuclear-powered submarines, plus a remaining bomber force of 465 planes.

Hosmer said these delivery vehicles, combined, would be able to deliver only about 20,310 megatons of destruction compared to today's total of 28,500.

Hosmer questioned whether this would be enough to deter a Soviet attack, considering Russian emphasis on massive-yield nuclear weapons and past Russian willingness to accept high damage levels, as in World War II.

* * * *

IN THE NEW NATO proposal, Hosmer said that turning over the B52s to American allies would provide nuclear-delivery means faster, cheaper and more effectively than other NATO nuclear-sharing proposals, such as MLF.

In addition, because the bomber force would remain in the United States, the congressman suggested the proposal would be more acceptable to Russia than other proposals which would place NATO nuclear forces in Europe or European waters.

All expense of maintaining the bomber force, Hosmer said, would be borne by the NATO allies operating the planes. This he said would help ease the gold outflow problem.

In addition, it would keep in being the massive megatonnage which Hosmer charges McNamara is otherwise destroying through the shift to lower-yield warheads.

* * * *

CONTROL arrangements under Hosmer's plan would be the same as for tactical weapons now assigned to Europe. Although nuclear weapons would be in planes manned by European allies and flying from U.S. bases, American officers would have arming keys or other devices to prevent use of the nuclear bombs or air-launched missiles without U.S. agreement.

In addition to other advantages, Hosmer said, such a system would provide a way to avoid retiring a bomber "force of operationally tested delivery systems" in favor of "systems (ballistic missiles) never operationally tested."

* * * *

THE UNITED States originally purchased 744 B52s in various models at a total cost of $9.7 billion. A total of 116 B58s was bought at a cost of $3.1 billion.

An earlier Strategic Air Command medium bomber, the B47 was the first jet intercontinental bomber with aerial refueling. A total of 2,041 was built for the Air Force at $5 billion. Only 90 of the B47s have not yet been retired, and they are slated to be out of service by June 30.

3 Lectures Announced by LBCC

Three public lectures are announced for this week by the Long Beach City College forums department.

Dr. Joseph E. Hearn, specialist on African history and politics, will open an illustrated series on "Africa in Transition" at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Rogers Junior High School auditorium, Monrovia Avenue and Appian Way.

This week's topic is "Africa — Cape to Cairo." Additional lectures will cover South Africa, the Rhodesias and Barotseland.

JOHN ROBERT CLARKE, author and lecturer, will present a series of four talks on "Adventures in Poetry" starting at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Boyd High School auditorium, 8th Street and Locust Avenue. First topic will be "Dreamworlds Are Practical—A New Look at Poetry."

"Spain and Portugal," opening lecture in an illustrated series on "The Northern Arc of the Mediterranean," will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Bancroft Junior High School auditorium, 5301 E. Centralia Street. Lecturer is Herb Cullen, principal of Cleveland Elementary School and a frequent traveler to Europe and the Middle East.

90-mph Wind Slams Into Alaska Isle

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A New Year's Day storm with winds of up to 90 miles an hour slammed into Southeastern Alaska, doing extensive damage on Douglas Island, across an inlet from Juneau.

There were no deaths or injuries reported from the storm, which was accompanied by daytime temperatures as low as 10 degrees above zero. Population of the island is estimated at more than 4,500 persons.

The flat roof of the 12-unit Cheechako Apartments in Douglas was blown off and crashed into the home of Mayor Guy Russo, which is next door. A crab cannery at Douglas lost its roof. Many small boats were sunk or damaged at the Douglas small boat harbor as their lines broke and they were hurled about by the high wind. An 18-foot cabin cruiser was blown a block overland from its moorage and crashed through a window into the apartment of Dux Thompson at the Harborview Apartments.

* * * *

THE WIND knocked out utility lines serving the island, disrupting communications and cutting off power to Douglas, West Juneau and North Douglas for most of the day.

Juneau Police Chief J. P. Wellington estimated damage on the island at more than $200,000. Damage in Juneau was relatively light. Boats at the Juneau small boat harbor were not disturbed. Juneau was without power for only about 25 minutes.

The storm was of a kind known locally as a Taku, a rapidly shifting cold wind off the glaciers and snowfields to the east. The Weather Bureau predicted it would die down Saturday night.

Douglas-Tulsa Gets Argentine Planes

The first of 50 Douglas A4B jet attack bombers arrived at Douglas' Tulsa, Okla., division last week for overhaul and modification in accordance with a $7,180,200 contract with the Argentine government, which has purchased the planes from the U.S. Navy.

Peace Hopes Dim in Transit Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Anxious efforts to get New York's stalled subway and bus arteries flowing again failed Saturday night when talks between transit unions and the city were recessed until today.

The Transit Authority obtained two show-cause orders against Michael J. Quill's Transport Workers Union, asking that it and its leaders be held in contempt for going ahead with a strike that the N.Y. State Supreme Court had forbidden.

But Quill told reporters after a day-long series of meetings that he had told mediators "the strike would remain in full force and effect and that we were strengthening our picket lines for Monday morning." He said court papers served on his union "are mounting so rapidly they are cluttering up that apartment we have upstairs."

There was no statement from the Transit Authority.

The day of meetings produced no further offer from the city, Quill said, remarking, "All they have offered is contempt papers and if they think we'll buy that, they're crazy."

* * * *

THE IMPACT of the virtually complete subway and bus shutdown was softened since there were few commuters, due to the holiday.

But as carefree crowds roamed gaily in spring-like weather, the city's new administration worked feverishly to find alternative means of transport for the 7.4 million persons the Transit Authority serves every working day.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, in office less than 24 hours, warned the metropolitan area's 15 million persons that only 25% of the people who normally pour into New York would be able to get in Monday without subways or buses.

Traffic Commissioner Henry Barnes worried over the possibility that an avalanche of private cars could stall virtually all traffic in the streets of Manhattan, creating grave problems for fire equipment and police.

Lindsay cancelled much of his own inaugural celebrations and, branding the strike illegal, demanded a crackdown on its leaders.

500,000 Aliens Due to Report Their Addresses

The district director of the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service estimates that more than half a million aliens residing in Southern California will report their addresses during January.

George K. Rosenberg said noncitizens are required to file the special address report card each January.

In addition, aliens who are temporary out of the United States in January must report their address to the service within 10 days after their return, Rosenberg said.

Address report cards are available at immigration offices and post offices.

Bullet Fells Ex-Convict, Frees Officer

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — An armed ex-convict was felled by a sharp-shooting sheriff's deputy early Saturday as he held a disarmed policeman hostage, detectives said.

Officers said James Leonard Jones, 22, of San Bernardino, was holding two pistols aimed at Officer Sidney Knight when Deputy Richard Huber shot Jones in the neck.

Knight and another officer had been called to quell a disturbance in a bar, officers said, and were disarmed when Jones confronted them with a pistol.

Officers said Jones then marched Knight into an open field and threatened to shoot if anyone interfered. Police units, sheriff's deputies and Highway Patrol officers surrounded the field.

Investigators said they distracted Jones' attention while Huber took aim and fired. Jones was reported in satisfactory condition at the county hospital.

An 18-foot cabin cruiser was blown a block overland from its moorage and crashed through a window into the apartment of Dux Thompson at the Harborview Apartments.

THE WIND knocked out utility lines serving the island, disrupting communications and cutting off power to Douglas, West Juneau and North Douglas for most of the day.

Juneau Police Chief J. P. Wellington estimated damage on the island at more than $200,000. Damage in Juneau was relatively light. Boats at the Juneau small boat harbor were not disturbed. Juneau was without power for only about 25 minutes.

The storm was of a kind known locally as a Taku, a rapidly shifting cold wind off the glaciers and snowfields to the east. The Weather Bureau predicted it would die down Saturday night.

Douglas Tulsa Gets Argentine Planes

The first of 50 Douglas A4B jet attack bombers arrived at Douglas' Tulsa, Okla., division last week for overhaul and modification in accordance with a $7,180,200 contract with the Argentine government, which has purchased the planes from the U.S. Navy.

Peace Hopes Dim in Transit Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Anxious efforts to get New York's stalled subway and bus arteries flowing again failed Saturday night when talks between transit unions and the city were recessed until today.

The Transit Authority obtained two show-cause orders against Michael J. Quill's Transport Workers Union, asking that it and its leaders be held in contempt for going ahead with a strike that the N.Y. State Supreme Court had forbidden.

But Quill told reporters after a day-long series of meetings that he had told mediators "the strike would remain in full force and effect and that we were strengthening our picket lines for Monday morning." He said court papers served on his union "are mounting so rapidly they are cluttering up that apartment we have upstairs."

There was no statement from the Transit Authority.

The day of meetings produced no further offer from the city, Quill said, remarking, "All they have offered is contempt papers and if they think we'll buy that, they're crazy."

* * * *

THE IMPACT of the virtually complete subway and bus shutdown was softened since there were few commuters, due to the holiday.

But as carefree crowds roamed gaily in spring-like weather, the city's new administration worked feverishly to find alternative means of transport for the 7.4 million persons the Transit Authority serves every working day.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, in office less than 24 hours, warned the metropolitan area's 15 million persons that only 25% of the people who normally pour into New York would be able to get in Monday without subways or buses.

Traffic Commissioner Henry Barnes worried over the possibility that an avalanche of private cars could stall virtually all traffic in the streets of Manhattan, creating grave problems for fire equipment and police.

Lindsay cancelled much of his own inaugural celebrations and, branding the strike illegal, demanded a crackdown on its leaders.

500,000 Aliens Due to Report Their Addresses

The district director of the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service estimates that more than half a million aliens residing in Southern California will report their addresses during January.

George K. Rosenberg said noncitizens are required to file the special address-report card each January.

In addition, aliens who are temporary out of the United States in January must report their address to the service within 10 days after their return, Rosenberg said.

Address report cards are available at immigration offices and post offices.

Bullet Fells Ex-Convict, Frees Officer

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — An armed ex-convict was felled by a sharp-shooting sheriff's deputy early Saturday as he held a disarmed policeman hostage, detectives said.

Officers said James Leonard Jones, 22, of San Bernardino, was holding two pistols aimed at Officer Sidney Knight when Deputy Richard Huber shot Jones in the neck.

Knight and another officer had been called to quell a disturbance in a bar, officers said, and were disarmed when Jones confronted them with a pistol.

Officers said Jones then marched Knight into an open field and threatened to shoot if anyone interfered. Police units, sheriff's deputies and Highway Patrol officers surrounded the field.

Investigators said they distracted Jones' attention while Huber took aim and fired. Jones was reported in satisfactory condition at the county hospital.

Bitar Becomes Syria's Premier, Forms Cabinet

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI)—Salah Bitar, co-founder of the ruling Arab Socialist Baath Party, became premier of Syria Saturday and formed a new 26-man cabinet.

The new government was announced in two decrees by Gen. Amin Hafez, chairman of Syria's Presidency Council.

The government is the fourth Bitar has headed since the Baathists took control of Syria in a military coup in March, 1963.

REPORT PRESIDENT 'VERY KEEN' ON BIG SOUTHLAND PROJECT

OK Seen for Water Desalting, Nuclear Power Plant

By ELMER W. LAMMI

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson is expected to give his full backing to a proposed $357 million combined nuclear power and water desalting plant for Southern California, despite deep budget cuts in other areas.

Authoritative sources in the Interior Department say Johnson is "very keen" on the project and is expected to give it high priority in his budget.

Actually, the government would put up only a part of the cost of the huge dual-purpose plant expected to produce fresh water at 22 cents per thousand gallons—far less than the cost at any existing U.S. water desalting plant.

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall and other officials representing the Interior Department and the Atomic Energy Commission are expected to go to Los Angeles Jan. 6 to discuss the proposal with the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, and three utilities.

The federal officials also will talk with representatives of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power, Southern California Edison Co. and the San Diego Gas and Electric Co.

Department sources said that Udall, with the President's backing, was determined to proceed as quickly as possible toward construction of the huge plant found to be technically feasible by a West Coast engineering firm.

The engineer report said the plant could be built and put into operation in the early 1970s to help meet growing water needs in Southern California.

The feasibility report took into consideration a proposal by the three utilities to be represented at the Jan. 6 meeting to finance, build and operate the power facilities of the dual-purpose plant. The plant would include two 3-million-kilowatt nuclear reactors, three 1.8-million-kilowatt electric generators, and a multi-stage flash distillation desalting plant.

The consulting engineers said the plant could provide 150 million gallons of fresh water a day—enough to meet the needs of a city of 750,000. It would produce enough electricity for a city of 2 million, and more than is generated by Hoover Dam.

Total cost of the project was estimated at $94 million for the desalting plant and $183 million for the nuclear power plant.

Hong Kong Plans New 'Township'

HONG KONG (AP)—The Hong Kong Government has announced plans to build a "township" for more than 50,000 "middle class" workers in an exclusive residential area in this British colony by 1969.

The plans, according to a government spokesman, would include 7,500 apartments, multistory car parks, hospitals, bowling alleys and an entertainment center.

Brown Lists 1965 Pluses and Minuses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown, in a year-end review Saturday, labeled the Watts riots a "disappointment" but said the state's "record high" economy was a "major achievement."

"The August riots in Watts again revealed that despite our justifiable pride in our economy and our system of education, not all elements of our society share in California's economic abundance or education excellence," the governor said.

He promised "continuing attention and positive action" to reverse trends shown in economically depressed areas.

* * * *

ON THE PLUS side of 1965, Brown said California's economy "reached high levels in nearly every measureable activity."

He said progress also was made in these categories:

Education—The opening of two new University of California campuses, two new state colleges, authorization of four additional state colleges, building of elementary schools for nearly 200,000 youngsters and creation of new compensatory education programs.

Water — Moving the state water plan ahead of schedule so water could be delivered to Santa Clara County by July 1 and completing nearly 50% of the Oroville Dam.

Parks and Recreation—Approving 10 state park projects and 15 local park projects.

Highways — Completing more than 150 miles of multilane divided freeway and opening new freeway links, including interstate 80 across Donner Summit and the Santa Monica-San Diego Freeway connection.

Aerospace—Launching feasibility studies on the use of systems engineering techniques to solve social problems.

Agriculture — Terminating the bracero program and recording an "all-time high" farm income of $3.7 billion.

The governor also added the medicare and reapportionment bills to the "great achievements" list but regretted the inability of the Legislature to agree on a major revenue program. He said the revenue problem now "must be settled within the framework of a shorter budget session in an election year, instead of a longer general session."

Another 1965 disappointment, Brown said, was the rising traffic death toll. "I will press again in 1966 for legislation aimed at the drunken driver; the number one cause of fatal accidents," he added.

Murders in Britain Up During 1965

LONDON (AP) — The number of murders in Britain during 1965 is expected to exceed 200—the highest figure since records were kept.

One unofficial count put the figure as high as 235—53 more than in 1964.

This has been an extremely violent Christmas season in Britain, with a dozen murders in eight days—four of them in London.

Preliminary statistics compiled by the home office show there were 185 murders in Britain in the first nine months of 1965.

The abolition of hanging, which became law in November, is blamed by some critics for the increase, but the rise is attributed mainly to an over-all increase in crimes of violence.

GREAT SOCIETY GOALS MAY BE SLOWED

Congress Likely to Boost Defense Fund

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The second session of the 89th Congress convenes Jan. 10 to see what, if anything, it can do to help win the Viet Nam war. Besides appropriating the money, this probably won't be much.

President Johnson has not disclosed much of what he will ask of the Congress, either on the home front or abroad. On past performance, the lawmakers would be surprised if he failed to come up with something dramatic in his State of the Union address, probably in the field of foreign affairs.

In any event he will ask for bigger appropriations for defense and smaller appropriations than originally were contemplated for such burgeoning "Great Society" programs as school aid and the anti-poverty war.

Congress is primed to give him whatever he asks for defense, and maybe a little bit extra. There will be a lot more haggling this time than in the first session about how far and how fast to go in pursuing the "Great Society" goals.

* * * *

WHETHER Johnson asks for it or not—and up to now the administration has opposed it—the House can be expected to shove to early enactment a Senate-passed "GI bill" to give returning ex-servicemen up to four years of college payments and special loan guarantees to buy homes.

The benefits, similar to those provided for veterans of World War II and Korea, would be available not only to all men now in service but to those who have served since Jan. 31, 1955.

A fresh resolution of support for the President's actions in Viet Nam may be whipped up and pushed through the House and Senate. Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., chairman of the House Republican Conference, has demanded such action to give firm legal backing to a U.S. combat commitment that has spiralled since Congress last considered the question.

Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., promises an effort to push through legislation outlawing anti-war demonstrations and such acts as the displaying of the Viet Cong flag. So far, drafting such legislation without infringing constitutional guarantees has posed difficulties, and prospects for its passage seem slim.

* * * *

HOUSE and Senate members will conduct oratorical forays against Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's decision to save money for the war by closing some bases and deferring construction of family housing for servicemen. They recognize, however, that they cannot reverse these decisions.

McNamara's decision to build a new bomber—the FB111, a modified version of the controversial TFX fighter — will be subjected to considerable hindsight in light of his earlier refusal to build the bigger, longer-range B52. The decision will not be upset.

McNamara has served notice he will again ask Congress for authority to merge the organized Army Reserve into the National Guard. Congress has served notice that now, more than before, it is little-inclined to let him do it.

Most members don't expect Johnson to ask, now, for new taxes to finance the war. Republicans say if he did, they would vote no. The big Democratic majority no doubt would go along with such a request. But indications are Johnson will trim his budget wherever possible and delay any request for new taxes.

* * * *

THE draft law does not expire until 1967. Liberal members may try to amend it, however, to eliminate the kind of punitive inductions Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey has authorized in the case of deferred registrants who "sit in" at draft boards or otherwise run afoul of the Selective Service law.

Others defend this course, and any such legislation is almost sure to be blocked in House or Senate Armed Services committees.

The lawmakers even before the session convenes are making free with advice about what ought to be done in Viet Nam. This "great debate" is likely to dominate the session, especially in the Senate. Many members of both bodies have visited Viet Nam since adjournment.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who with four other senators spent five weeks sounding out prospects in the area, is expected to touch off the formal debate with a pre-session report on his trip.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH focused on the Viet Nam fighting, the session also must deal with extensions of home front welfare and social legislation, including the controversial anti-poverty program.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell of the House Education and Labor Committee wants to triple the authorized outlay, from $1.5 billion yearly to $4.5 billion. Johnson is said to have decided to ask for only a little more than the current $1.5 billion.

The Senate faces another long and frustrating bout with a House-passed bill to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, the provision under which states may outlaw union shop labor agreements. Indications are it may never get to a vote on the issue.

Another labor-backed bill with somewhat - dimmed prospects in the war-oriented session would raise the federal minimum wage from $1.25 per hour to a figure not yet agreed on and possibly bring additional millions of workers under the law's protection.

Key Trust Suit Trial Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A key government antitrust suit goes to trial Monday in San Francisco federal district court. The defendant is the nation's fourth largest manufacturer of paper products.

A prosecution spokesman says the case of the U.S. vs. Kimberly-Clark Corp., with $515 million reported annual sales, could set a precedent in pending anti-trust suits in the paper industry.

At issue is whether Kimberly-Clark acted against the Clayton Antitrust Act in its 1961 purchase of the West's largest independent paper wholesale firm—Blake, Moffitt & Towne Corp.

* * * *

THE PURCHASE was negotiated through exchange of Kimberly-Clark stock with a $16 million market value.

The Department of Justice contends the purchase acts to restrain competition in the paper industry. The government states that since it filed suit against the company in 1962 there have been further consolidations in the paper industry.

Teachers to Tell All in Survey

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Teachers in 60 Indiana public schools and 15 in Oregon will be given the opportunity this month to say exactly what they think about their principals, their jobs, fellow teachers, their school's equipment and program, and the people of the community.

And they'll do it anonymously in a two-year survey under a grant of $84,612 from the U.S. Office of Education.

Beer, Eggs, Magic Mix Explosively

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—A fight in a theater filled with teen-agers who carried raw eggs and beer into a New Year's Eve midnight movie sparked a melee in downtown Huntington early Saturday morning.

About a dozen persons, including two theater employes, received minor injuries in the street fight involving about 50 teen-agers. None was hospitalized.

Police arrested nine persons, seven on charges of disorderly conduct. Two teen-age girls were charged with assault. Most were released on bond.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH both Negro and White teen-agers were involved, Police Chief E. E. Harper said he could not detect any racial motivation in the disturbance. Instead, he said it appeared some of the youths came to the theater to make trouble. Eggs and beer were confiscated.

The fight erupted after the lights were turned off for a magician's performance. His act was canceled.

Two off-duty policemen hired by the theater to maintain order ejected the fighters, but the battle resumed on the street. Harper declined to estimate how many persons were involved, but witnesses said about 50 youths were fighting and that a large number of spectators were watching.

Jack Hyman, owner of the theater, said the fighters had caused some damage but he had no estimate.

DOUBLE-MURDER SUSPECT'S ARREST

British Protest Red German Fire

BERLIN (UPI)—East German border guards marked the first day of the New Year with bursts of submachine-gun fire that failed to stop a young couple fleeing into West Berlin across the death strip dividing the city.

The commandant of the British sector issued a strong protest after some shots entered West Berlin.

Police identified the two refugees as a 20-year-old East German soldier and his 16-year-old fiancee. Their names were not disclosed.

They fled into the West under cover of darkness in a hail of bullets. Neither was harmed.

A statement from a British-sector spokesman said the acting British commandant "strongly" protested the firing of a number of shots into West Berlin as the couple fled.

The shooting Saturday night was the only incident in a day that saw about 44,300 West Berliners streaming into East Berlin to spend the first day of 1966 with relatives in the Communist half of the city.

Despite often strict examination by Communist border controllers there was little delay for the impatient Westerners, West Berlin police reported.

The official East German news agency ADN said more than 9,000 West Berliners took advantage of special passes issued for New Year's Eve and Jan. 1 to see the New Year in from the eastern sector. Instead of having to return at midnight, the passholders were allowed to remain in East Berlin until 5 a.m. Saturday.

Friday 68,643 crossed through the wall, bringing to 752,634 the number making the trip so far in the 16-day holiday period which ends today. Altogether, 980,206 passes were issued, the news agency said.

A great number of Westerners were expected to travel to East Berlin today, the last opportunity they would have, pending new visitation negotiations between East and West Berlin authorities. No date has been set so far for such negotiations which must precede any new pass issues.

Man 98, Gets First Flight

DAGGETT (UPI) — Sam Silversmith was 36-years-old when the Wright Brothers first flew at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

This week at age 98, he got around to trying out that new-fangled transportation.

After a half-hour flight over the Barstow-Daggett area, Silversmith concluded: "It's a heap bettern'n drivin' a team of mules across the sands of New Mexico, like I used to do. When can we go again?"

Rubbish Pile Fire-Death Said Suicide

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The wife of a Smith College professor was found burned to death Saturday on a rubbish pile near the home of her parents here. Her death was ruled a suicide.

A gasoline can was found near the charred remains of Mrs. D. Bruce Rodes Marshall, 34, of Northampton, Mass., according to Deputy Coroner Charles Proctor. She was the mother of four.

Proctor said Mrs. Marshall apparently poured gas over herself before setting herself ablaze sometime Friday night.

* * * *

MRS. MARSHALL had been visiting here since Thursday without her husband and children. She disappeared from her parents' home Friday evening while they were out.

Better-Housing Campaign Near

By GEORGE WEEKS

Long Beach's neighborhood rehabilitation program—a major venture of 1966—will be set in motion this month with the appointment of a 15-member Citizens Committee for Community Improvement.

Mayor Edwin W. Wade has announced he expects to submit the appointments to the City Council before the end of January. The committee will be asked to organize immediately for a long-term job of fostering support for joint public and private action.

Its duties will be focused on making maximum use here of federal grants and loans, both to the city and to private citizens, authorized by the 1965 Housing and Urban Development Act. The aim is to upgrade housing in areas where the need is greatest.

* * * *

ANOTHER step scheduled for this month is the filing with the council of a document known as a workable program outline. It contains a mass of information on Long Beach housing-code enforcement, planning and related subjects.

James H. Brubaker, city urban renewal director, virtually completed the assignment of preparing the document. If approved by the council, it will be filed with the new U.S. Department of Housing and Home Development.

Scheduled for filing in February with the council and the federal agency is a follow-up application to clear the way for low-cost housing construction loans to individuals, as well as other financial aids available under the legislation.

The specific area for rehabilitation is expected to be defined in this document.

Meanwhile the new committee will be charged with pursuing its own duties as spelled out in a resolution adopted last week by the council.

These are to keep the public informed about the community improvement activities, assist in coordinating these efforts, and make recommendations to the city manager and council on objectives and methods.

* * * *

UNDER THE resolution, the committee is required to meet within 10 days of its appointment to elect a chairman and vice chairman from the membership.

Watts Solon Urges Post of 'Griever'

SACRAMENTO (AP)—An assemblyman who represents much of Watts said Saturday the state needs "a government grievance man" who citizens in such troubled areas can complain to.

Assemblyman Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, said he will press for legislation setting up what other countries call an "ombudsman." This is a man citizens visit to complain about government services, and he has the power to set things right after investigation.

* * * *

AN attempt to set up a California ombudsman cleared the Assembly last year, but was killed in the Senate.

Dymally said "The sterile and overly efficient city government in Los Angeles has emasculated the normal democratic procedures and has left the Negro community not only leaderless, but impotent, for it has no way to exert political leverage within the city to get the action it needs."

He contended "The white power structure can ignore the Negro community and it does. It needs a new avenue of communication in which I feel that an ombudsman is essential."

City Problems Grow Faster Than Solutions

The Appalachian countryside has its poor, to be sure, but in America today there are more slum dwellers than farm dwellers.

As the slums expand, poverty's handmaiden, crime, stalks behind. Inevitably the FBI Crime Index for the first nine months of 1965 was up 5% over the same 1964 period—double the number of rapes in Lincoln, robberies in Duluth, murders in Des Moines.

Racial segregation increases, tension bubbles beneath the asphalt, threatens to erupt—or does erupt. As whites flee to the suburbs southern Negroes, three million since World War II, mostly poor, flock to the central cities. Detroit's Negro population today is twice that of New Orleans; indeed none of the seven cities with the largest Negro populations is in the Deep South. One area of Milwaukee's inner core in 1950 had a non-white population of 17%, by 1960 it was 84%. In Washington, D. C., the present school enrollment is more than 90% Negro.

The changed citizenry of the central city demands more welfare, more health services, police protection, fire protection—and pays less in taxes. City income drops; costs skyrocket. Property taxes, the chief supplier of every city's treasury, rise to meet the costs—driving more property owners to the suburbs, discouraging those who remain from improving their property because to do so is to court increased valuation, higher taxes.

The metropolis sprawls, devouring suburban land at the rate of a million acres a year, spawning shopping centers which in turn lure more merchants from down town. Industry follows, searching for elbow room, lower taxes and parking space for trucks, spreading great chunks of the city's tax base thinly around the periphery, removing job opportunities from the core.

* * * *

BIGGEST VILLAIN in the metropolitan malaise is the automobile, boon of the horizontal suburbs and bete noire of the congested cities. Auto usage is growing twice as fast as the population and its demands for space seem insatiable; a cloverleaf interchange gobbles up more land than a football stadium.

Moreover, when a superhighway swoops and loops through a town it often destroys neighborhood esthetics while blitzing taxable property at the rate of 60 acres a mile.

What to do with automobiles once they leave the roaring highways and dribble onto narrow city streets at the hourglass exits is yet another problem.

New Haven, Conn., a city which has done much to ease the traffic crush by building parking lots near freeway exits, nevertheless has discovered that motorists drive a total of 2,700 extra miles a day just looking for a place to park. Freeways, parking lots and garages now take up more than half the prime space in downtown Los Angeles.

* * * *

THOUGH ABOUT half the nation's motor travel is on city streets most cities get only a fraction of highway users' revenue. In Colorado, to cite one example, the state gasoline tax is 6 cents a gallon. "About 45% of it is collected in the Denver area," says Mayor Thomas G. Currigan, "but when the money is redistributed we get only about 9%."

Legislative reapportionment might relieve this and similar problems of underrepresented cities—and might not.

Because one of the most significant American phenomena today is that the suburbs and the next developing residential ring beyond, which the Census Bureau has christened "rural non-farm," is growing in population twice as fast as great cities such as Boston, New York, Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago.

Chalk it up to the motor car, which has instigated a migration outstripping in size if not in romance even the great push westward a century ago—and manufacturing its own set of interrelated problems.

* * * *

AS AMERICA'S population multiplies the metropolises spread, like stains on a blotter. Then the stains fuse, forming huge megalopolises, or conurbations as the urban planners call them. Next, population density rises, engulfing the very suburbs which were created to escape the crowds.

"Think'st thou, Pierre, the time will ever come when all the earth shall be paved?" Herman Melville asked the question back in 1852. He couldn't know what is happening today, and Pierre's reply was, "Thank God, that can never be!"

The last national census disclosed that 53% of the people lived in 213 urbanized areas, more than half of them concentrated in only 16 such conurbations. By 1980, according to projections by the National League of Cities, more than 80% of Americans will live in 160 massive urban complexes.

* * * *

"WITH THE physical tightness of the city destroyed," says York Willbern, director of Indiana University's Institute of Public Administration, "the sense of community, of common responsibility, tends to go with it."

The fact is the persons fleeing to the antiseptic suburbs, business leaders, creative thinkers, those regarded as members of the power structure, are the very ones the embattled cities need most. Not only have they removed their highly taxable property but also their ideas. They still depend on the cities for their livelihood, still use the museums, zoos, streets and jails but they can't even vote in city elections.

Many felt this was one of the main reasons Birmingham stumbled so badly in trying to solve its racial problems back in 1963. As one resident remarked at the time, "When a man can escape from here, get himself a nice home with a shade tree and a patch of grass, he's got it made. He couldn't care less about Birmingham."

Comments Minneapolis Mayor Naftalin:

"The attitude of persons who run to the suburbs to hide, to keep separate, is absolutely immoral. There is nothing we in the city can do by ourselves. We're totally ineffective. The time has just about come to unincorporate as a city."

* * * *

THE SITUATION is this: There are 213 metropolitan areas in America, but there are no fewer than 92,000 municipalities, school districts and other local units of government which form a tangle of overlapping spending and taxing jurisdictions.

Around Pittsburgh 129 municipalities, special water districts, sewer districts, recreation districts and the like snuggle up for support and sustenance. Around Buffalo are cluttered 155 governmental units, around Chicago 1,000, around New York 1,400.

The jungle gets worse with each mile of suburban expansion. From 1952 to 1962 the number of special districts in the nation increased 50%.

"I can think of no function of government," said Mayor Naftalin, 'that doesn't require metropolitan-wide attention.'

"Take law enforcement. We have a county sheriff and each municipality has its own police force. Yet we know that about 20% of the people we apprehend in Minneapolis live in the suburbs."

* * * *

THERE'S THE rub. What disturbs urban budget makers is the financial burden the suburbanites heap upon the mother city. When Denver had to build an additional viaduct on Sixth Avenue two years ago it was to accommodate the cars of nonresident suburbanites, but it was the residents who were stuck with the bill.

"We are fast approaching a time when self-government may lose its meaning as we know it," says Henry W. Maier, mayor of Milwaukee and president of the National League of Cities. "In years past it was possible to talk of municipal problems as purely local matters, as issues and concerns of the 'city fathers.' That simply isn't true today."

At the same time most federal programs, as now conceived, don't take into account a naturally cohesive urban area and in many instances are themselves hidebound by traditional city, county and state formulas.

* * * *

EVERY ONE of the nation's 213 metropolitan areas, as well as 10,000 smaller communities, has an air pollution problem. Nationally, it's no small matter. The National League of Cities estimates that, even discounting health concerns, air pollution costs each person $65 a year in property damage to buildings, crops, paint jobs and the like.

Similarly, water supply is a metroolitan concern. Nationwide averages of available water are deceptive, since more than half the population lives on only about 7% of the land. It's the supply available to the great conurbations that's critical.

Schaefferstown, Pa., still pipes drinking water from a sparkling spring to a picturesque public trough on Market Street and the 1,000 residents see no crisis. But on a nationwide basis the fact remains that 45% of America's municipal water supply is inadequate, and local problems of storing, treating and distributing run into archaic district, town and state boundaries.

* * * *

A PUBLIC Health Service survey shows that across the nation, 1,342 new sewage treatment works are needed to serve 11 million persons living in towns dumping untreated waste into the country's waters.

Another 1,337 communities serving 16.8 million Americans are treating sewage inadequately and need to enlarge their plants. One good estimate is that it's going to cost $800 million every year for the next decade just to catch up with the problem—plus about $4.5 billion for 6,000 sorely needed new industrial water treatment plants.

Some cities have made remarkably far-sighted efforts to solve the problem.

Denver drilled a 28-mile tunnel through the Continental Divide to tap the western slope of the Rockies after runoff on its own side proved inadequate. San Francisco reached out 456 miles with pipes and aqueducts to a system of dams in Yosemite National Park. Los Angeles is preparing to ask voters to approve an $850 million bond issue so they can stretch their pipelines to sources as far away as 700 miles.

BUT IN FEW cases do such imaginative systems funnel into one big reservoir for a metropolitan area. Scores of middlemen, in the form of municipalities, water districts, sewer districts, fragment the whole into a melange of squabbling parts.

"Back in 1902 Denver was an amalgam of four or five governmental entities," said Mayor Currigan. "The state passed a constitutional amendment and brought them all under one government. That was what had to be done and they did it.

"The situation is far worse today, and if we just had as much courage as our fathers, to tear down archaic political walls which no longer have any meaning . . . I don't say it would be a cure-all, but at least it would allow us to propose solutions equal in scope to the problems."

But those in power rarely yield it voluntarily.

* * * *

ALL THE same, some feel the only path out of the maze is one that leads to a virtual end of the federal system as Americans know it. Others feel that those who wait for such a day wait in vain and had better get on with trying to accommodate traditional lines. An advocate of the former position is Tulane sociology professor Leonard Reissman.

"Our actions and our plans," says Reissman, "are going to have to be phrased in such a way as if the state did not exist." In his view, "the newer effective unit is the conurbation," the networks of cities with common needs and common interests.

"What I'm suggesting," he says, "is that our older boundaries of cities, counties and states simply are no longer functional to meet the trends that are developing. After all, those boundaries were the results of past human decisions. They are not inviolable—and it's time to decide again."

* * * *

HELPING local governments to unify their attacks on metro-wide problems is only one side of the coin the new Urban Affairs Secretary will inherit. The other side will be trying to coordinate all the federal programs.

The new department will deal with mass transportation, for instance, but the Federal Highway Program bears on the same problem and is in an entirely separate department, Commerce. Not long ago the Highway Department was planning an expressway through Baltimore which would have plowed right through an area which the Housing Department was studying for urban renewal. If city officials find things chaotic on the receiving end they ought to take a look at the giving end.

Look they must. "In four years as mayor," said Louisville's William O. Cowger, "we've received $9 million in state aid and more than $120 million from the federal government."

The reason for the ever-growing dependency on Washington, of course, is the ever-diminishing tax base of the cities. A depleted city treasury is the chief drawback in arresting the melancholy cycle of sprawl and blight.

* * * *

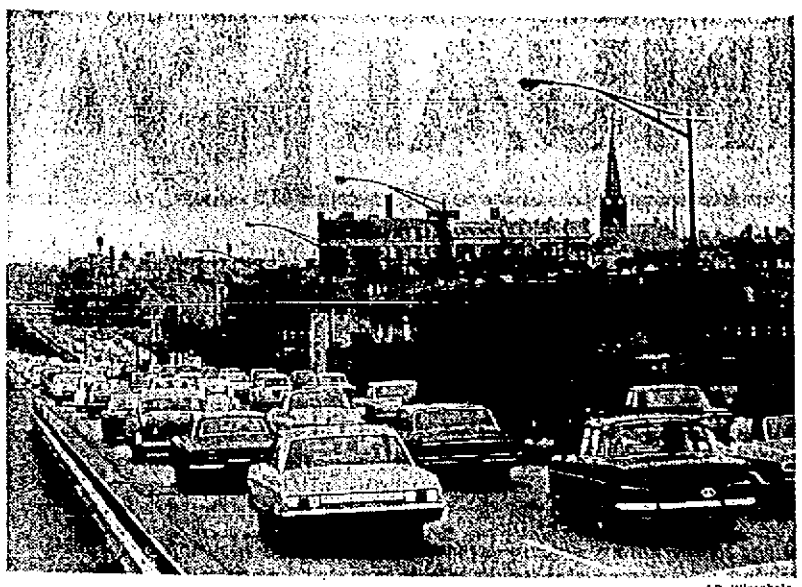

SO ENORMOUS is the job of meeting day to day expenses many cities have no recourse but to abandon the sort of capital projects that were their main concern a generation ago. Consequently huge backlogs of work have piled up.

In Minneapolis 582 miles of oiled dirt residential streets await paving. Wichita, Kan., needs more street lights, water mains, policemen and firemen, and the city "is annually getting further behind," reports Budget Director Don E. Anderson, because "service demands have long outdistanced the funds appropriated." Milwaukee's Mayor Maier figures the nationwide backlog is somewhere around $100 billion.

Services which aren't quite so critical suffer even worse. The U.S. Office of Education says fewer than half of America's urban dwellers enjoy adequate public library facilities—and the city, historically, has been the wellspring of culture.

History also records, however, that Americans have coped successfully many times with staggering social upheavals—waves of immigration, depression, industrialization. Explosive urbanization, in its turn, certainly has produced a grant mess, but there are good reasons to believe it will be conquered and tamed.

Next Sunday: Hope for The Cities.

RUSH FROM SUBURBS

The weekly morning rush into the cities from the suburbs and evening rush home brings traffic and other headaches to cities deprived of taxes and often of needed leadership. City Problems Grow Faster Than Solutions

The Appalachian countryside has its poor, to be sure, but in America today there are more slum dwellers than farm dwellers.

As the slums expand, poverty's handmaiden, crime, stalks behind. Inevitably the FBI Crime Index for the first nine months of 1965 was up 5% over the same 1964 period—double the number of rapes in Lincoln, robberies in Duluth, murders in Des Moines.

Racial segregation increases, tension bubbles beneath the asphalt, threatens to erupt—or does erupt. As whites flee to the suburbs southern Negroes, three million since World War II, mostly poor, flock to the central cities. Detroit's Negro population today is twice that of New Orleans; indeed none of the seven cities with the largest Negro populations is in the Deep South. One area of Milwaukee's inner core in 1950 had a non-white population of 17%, by 1960 it was 84%. In Washington, D. C., the present school enrollment is more than 90% Negro.

The changed citizenry of the central city demands more welfare, more health services, police protection, fire protection—and pays less in taxes. City income drops; costs skyrocket. Property taxes, the chief supplier of every city's treasury, rise to meet the costs—driving more property owners to the suburbs, discouraging those who remain from improving their property because to do so is to court increased valuation, higher taxes.

The metropolis sprawls, devouring suburban land at the rate of a million acres a year, spawning shopping centers which in turn lure more merchants from down town. Industry follows, searching for elbow room, lower taxes and parking space for trucks, spreading great chunks of the city's tax base thinly around the periphery, removing job opportunities from the core.

* * * *

BIGGEST VILLAIN in the metroolitan malaise is the automobile, boon of the horizontal suburbs and bete noire of the congested cities. Auto usage is growing twice as fast as the population and its demands for space seem insatiable; a cloverleaf interchange gobbles up more land than a football stadium.

Moreover, when a superhighway swoops and loops through a town it often destroys neighborhood esthetics while blitzing taxable property at the rate of 60 acres a mile.

What to do with automobiles once they leave the roaring highways and dribble onto narrow city streets at the hourglass exits is yet another problem.

New Haven, Conn., a city which has done much to ease the traffic crush by building parking lots near freeway exits, nevertheless has discovered that motorists drive a total of 2,700 extra miles a day just looking for a place to park. Freeways, parking lots and garages now take up more than half the prime space in downtown Los Angeles.

* * * *

THOUGH ABOUT half the nation's motor travel is on city streets most cities get only a fraction of highway users' revenue. In Colorado, to cite one example, the state gasoline tax is 6 cents a gallon. "About 45% of it is collected in the Denver area," says Mayor Thomas G. Currigan, "but when the money is redistributed we get only about 9%."

Legislative reapportionment might relieve this and similar problems of underrepresented cities—and might not.

Because one of the most significant American phenomena today is that the suburbs and the next developing residential ring beyond, which the Census Bureau has christened "rural non-farm," is growing in population twice as fast as great cities such as Boston, New York, Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago.

Chalk it up to the motor car, which has instigated a migration outstripping in size if not in romance even the great push westward a century ago—and manufacturing its own set of interrelated problems.

* * * *

AS AMERICA'S population multiplies the metropolises spread, like stains on a blotter. Then the stains fuse, forming huge megalopolises, or conurbations as the urban planners call them. Next, population density rises, engulfing the very suburbs which were created to escape the crowds.

Not Too Genteel for $$

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — When it comes to cut-throat competition, conducted with the most genteel of manners of course, one would have to travel a long way to outdo the noble lords of Britain's stately homes.

These are the belted and coronetcd dukes, earls, marquesses and barons, long of lineage but a bit shorter of purse, who open their magnificent homes to the public during the tourist season.

For some the admission fees or the sale of ice cream and souvenirs mean the difference between keeping these vast piles as private homes and turning them over to the nation as glorified museums. And since most of them have a fierce pride in the great family seats, the race for the tourist dollar is ungloved.

* * * *

THE MARQUESS of Bath has just jumped the gun on the 1966 season by buying Sir Winston Churchhill's Boer War passport at auction for more than $2,000. My Lord of Bath (family motto: "I have good reason") is amassing a collection of Churchilliana presumably to counteract the appeal of Blenheim Palace, home of the Dukes of Marlborough.

Lord Bath is not letting it rest there. Despite heavy local opposition, he is fencing off 100 acres of woodland which he plans to stock with 40 lions. "Animals are a big draw," he said, conceding alarmed villagers were referring to him as "the mad marquess."

A zoo at Longleat, the Bath home, would cut into one of the big attractions at Woburn Abbey, the home of the Duke of Bedford (family motto: "What will be will be") who has the finest private zoo in the world but no man-eaters.

* * * *

BARON MONTAGU of Beaulieu (pronounced Muntagu of Benly) (motto: "Let us be judged by our actions") is a bit more with-it than his fellow peers. He has asked American pop music manager Joe Lustig to stage a folk music festival on the grounds of his stately home which has the only private river in Britain.

The Duke of Bedford, who draws half a million visitors a year, has been thinking of ways to cut into Lord Montagu's booming business — Montagu scored heavily last year with his museum of vintage automobiles. At Woburn Abbey for a few shillings visitors can rubberneck while Bedford lunches amid the splendor of his family collection of paintings by Canaletto.

"We are thinking all the time," said the Duke, meaning thinking about how to keep ahead of the competition.

"Next year we are going to have ballooning over the estate and in August a midieval weekend with knights in armor and jousting tournaments. That ought to give them something to think about."

His lordship already runs steam traction races, a beauty contest for dairy maids and puts up rich Americans for blueblooded weekends.

* * * *

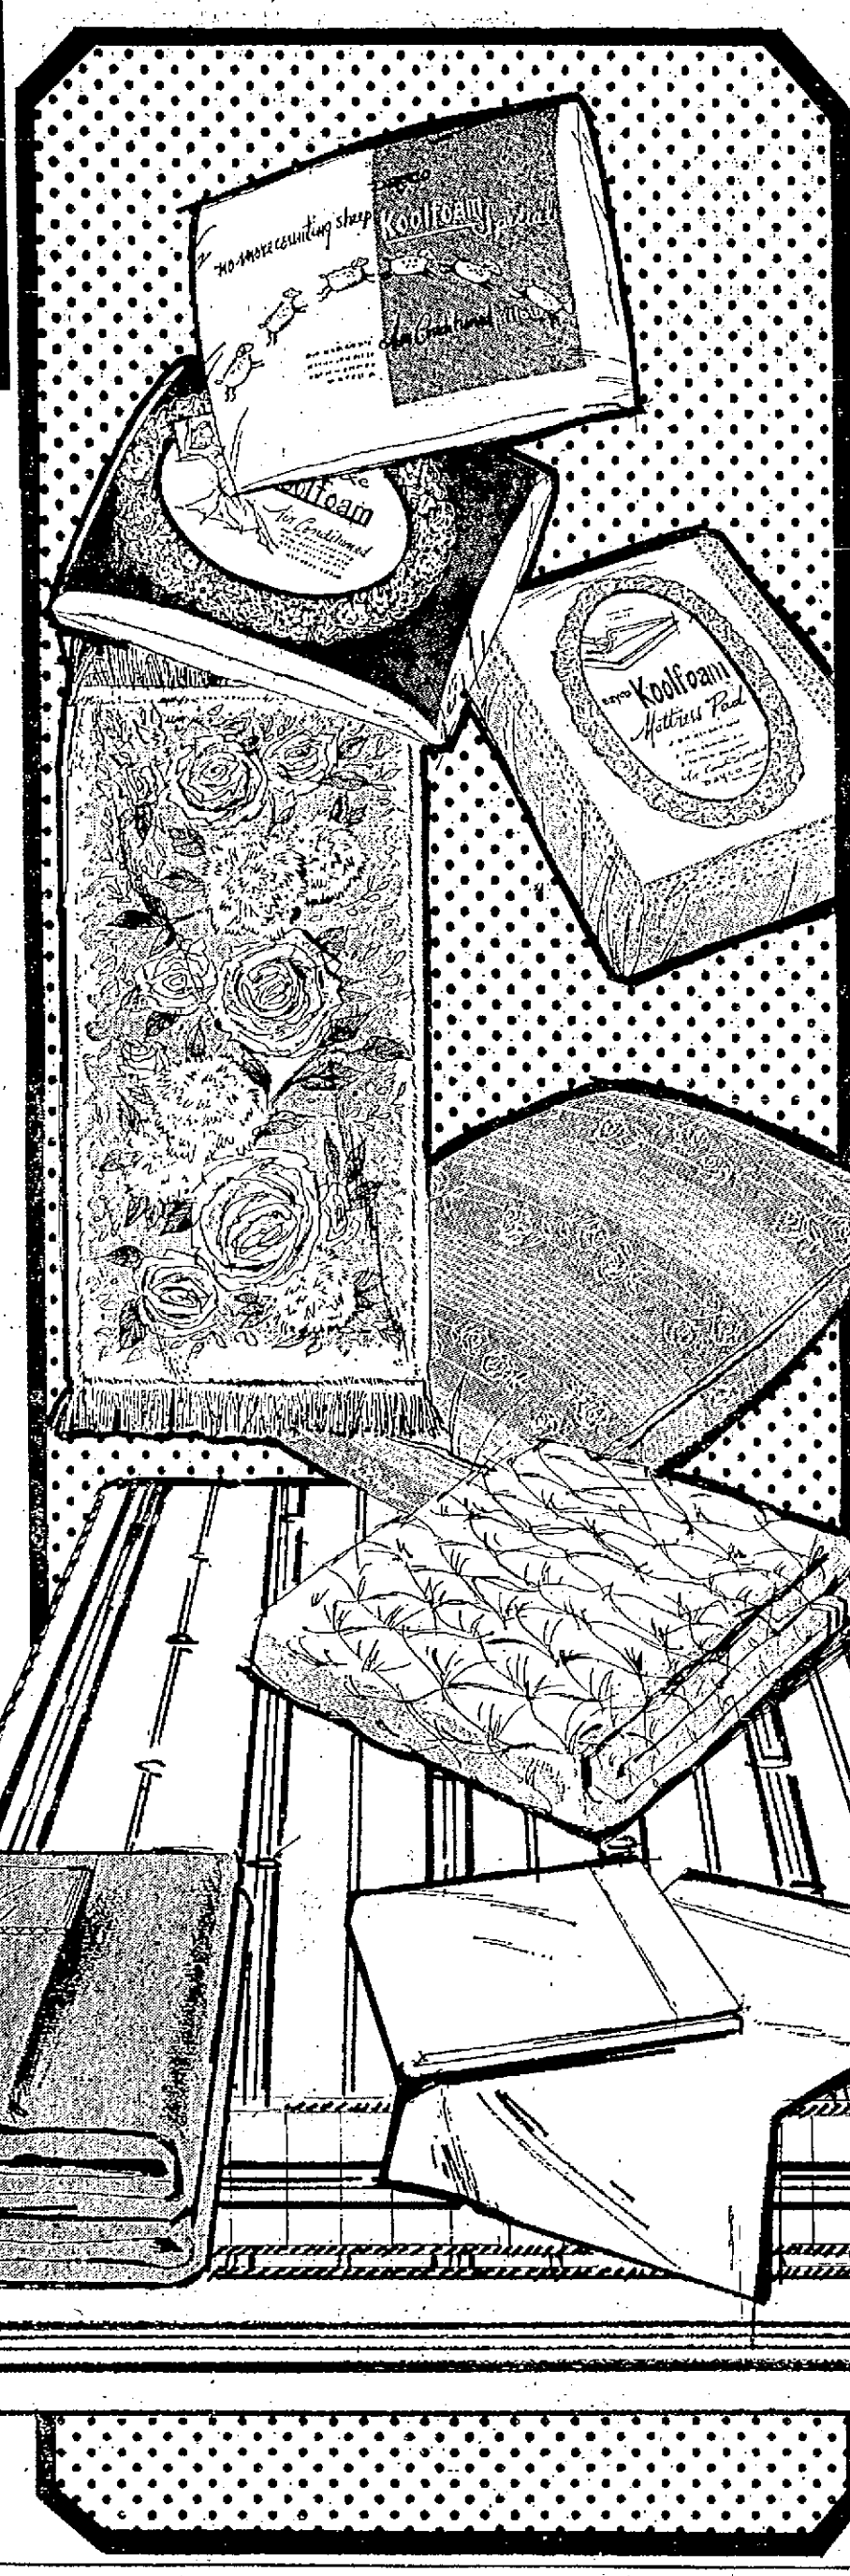

THE MARQUESS of Hertford (pronounced Harford) says his customers pay to watch him water-ski because he falls off so often. He had a fright last season when someone rushed in to tell him," some horrid, dirty children are sucking ice cream in your famous drawing room." He hurried over. It was true, but they were his own children.

Recently the British Travel and Holiday Association brought the tately home owners together to form a union. The idea was that they would share their experiences since none of them was born to trade. Lord Bath suggested more pay lavatories. He said he made more than $1,400 from his last year.

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): How you can gather strength, review plans. Get additional rest after hectic holiday period. Be aware of pessimists. Avoid tension. Key is creative relaxation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Lunar cycle high. Handle responsibility without complaining. Man and woman in high position could argue over your interest. Make it easy for your ally. Be agreeable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): May be necessary to retrace some recent steps. Realize that lack of caution spells difficulty. If extra care is taken, efforts pay off. Prove friendship to loyal associate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be sure to remember special favor friend performed. Adjust to rhythm of constructive year. Adhere to principles, put Golden Rule into practice. Highlight compassion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your hunch now proves accurate. Act on inner feelings. Your personality is magnetic. Members of opposite sex tend to give compliments. Highlight awareness of public relations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you feel letdown from holiday activity, take time in stride. Relax. Key is flexibility. Bring forth sense of humor. Not wise to take everything too seriously.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Efforts now gain results. Essential that you are aware of details. Exude confidence. Realize others look to you as example. Discuss finances with one close to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Legal maneuvers may claim your attention. Look before you leap. Ability to change with the times is invaluable. Member of opposite sex has bright idea. Give it a hearing!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Find the reasons why for recent happenings. Don't be satisfied with superficial explanations. Check sources, read, ask questions. Piece together bits of information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Key is being perceptive. Study Sagittarius message. Get to heart of matter . . . keynote creative approach. Make changes where necessary. Deal with young persons to get new slant.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Slight controversy is no reason for brooding. Realize variety can spice daily routine. With this attitude, you get favorable results. Important person observes your reactions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Now you are looking forward to productive year. Attitude changes for the better. Visitors should be made welcome. Be charming. Others will reciprocate.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Taurus, Gemini, Cancer. Special word to Pisces: Secrets come out into open. Be ready!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Important to get back to basic issues . . . face facts as they exist. Show superiors your capabilities. Income opportunities are present. Discern them. Mate or partner not quite on right track.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Finish tasks. Spread influence, share knowledge for greater advancement. Help one who is temporarily handicapped. You may be deceived concerning legal matter. Be cautious!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): One who works with you may not be fully informed. Be patient, considerate . . . but also be self-reliant. Take initiative. Stress original approach. Fine for meeting new friends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Intuitive feeling apt to be accurate now. Heed "inner voice." Adhere to principles. Older individual could give you valuable benefit of experience. Display gratitude.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Pay little heed to rumors. Base decisions on facts, logic. Conditions at home not to be deceptive. If patient, you get at truth. Surprise friends with sparkling sense of humor.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Check details. You could make valuable discovery. Advisable to confer with accountant, seek advice of expert. Read your paper for special hints. Key is being alert.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Don't commit yourself to costly program. Make necessary changes. Don't throw good money after bad. Contracts should be reviewed by expert. Take nothing for granted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Stress quality. Recent gift may contain latest "gimmicks" . . . but you might be wise to exchange it for more practical one. Key to happiness now is realistic approach.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you dwell upon unpleasant situation . . . you lose advantage. Accept situation, then decide upon intelligent course of action. But avoid brooding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Discovery featured now in connection with friends. Some of your hopes, wishes may have to be revised. Added responsibility indicated. Be thorough—leave no loose ends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Major projects can now be successfully completed. Act accordingly. Your influence spreads, prestige rises. Live up to potential. Quick action now prepares for future advancement.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Stress independence of thought, action. If on journey—check directions. Be sure messages are clear. A time when confusion results if you take too much for granted.

Red China's Frontier Set for Explosion

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — The crescent of crisis that is Red China's frontier with non-Communist Asia will be dangerous in the months ahead.

From Korea in northeast Asia to India's Ladakh region in the west, China will be watched anxiously by those within reach of its massive power.

India, Formosa, Viet Nam, Thailand — all are likely to feel mounting Chinese pressure.

The crucial question is whether China will be content with just talking about its neighbors while prodding the North Vietnamese into action against "Yankee imperialists." A serious, all-out attack on India could trigger a U.S.-China confrontation.

• • • •

SOME CHINA experts feel Peking, despite its tough talk, desperately wants to avoid tangling with the U.S. Air Force's bombers and the nuclear-laden American aircraft carriers now in the Pacific. China, these experts say, will harass, nibble, prod, fight the Americans to the last Vietnamese — but will avoid a showdown.

Others fear that Chinese frustration, brewing since setbacks in Indonesia and Africa, may explode.

One dangerous sector in 1966 will be India's Himalayan frontier with Chinese-ruled Tibet. For China there are cheap, impressive-looking victories to be had in those high mountain passes. And military involvement drives India deeper into economic trouble by forcing it to spend heavily on defense. There also is the possibility that the probes hearten Pakistan, which China has courted for years and which virtually is at war with India.

The India-Pakistan quarrel could be a grave threat to peace in 1966, especially if Communist China tries to meddle as it did during the September war between these two nations.

• • • •

NEITHER PAKISTAN nor India feels it was badly hurt last time, and both are likely to press small scale but bloody skirmishing along 1,500 miles of ceasefire line.

One of the biggest battles will be India's fight to ward off famine. India's population, now 480 million, increases about 12.5 million annually—but food production has dropped off. American food grains will help cover what threatens to be a 14-million ton gap between India's production and what its people need.

Japan, with booming exports and its economy boasting one of the world's highest growth rates, may slow down a bit.

On the China mainland there are indications that Peking has established a solid, if modest, economic base—but it still will be importing wheat from Canada.

• • • •

IMPORTANT changes may come in Asian political lineups. Virtually all of China's top-ranking leaders, outwardly united, are in their 70s. Their arch enemy, President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China, is 78.

There seems little chance that radical policy changes would follow personnel shuffles in either nation.

Washington has at least $11 billion of assistance funds invested in India and Pakistan. There will be a temptation to put more in and hope the initial investment can be saved. The cost of police duties from Singapore north to Scout already is monumental.

Excavator of Troy Honored

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Dr. Carl William Blegen, excavator of Troy and the palace of Nestor at Pylos has won the Archaeological Institute of America's first gold medal for distinguished archaeological achievement.

Dr. Blegen, now residing in Athens, Greece, is professor emeritus of classical archaeology at the University of Cincinnati. Between 1932 and 1938 he directed excavations of the university at the site of Troy and later headed excavations at Pylos in southwestern Greece.

Await First Test of FPC Gas-Pricing

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first major legal test of the Federal Power Commission's right to impose area price ceilings on interstate natural gas producers begins taking shape Jan. 7 and seems certain to wind up in the U.S. Supreme Court.

On that day the 10th Federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Denver will hear arguments on whether the FPC should be permanently barred from enforcing its two-price system for the Permian Basin field in parts of Texas and New Mexico.

If the ceilings are eventually upheld, 22 other fields will be put under permanent ceilings.

• • • •

THE DENVER court had previously granted a temporary stay until Jan. 20 to three of the more than 130 companies challenging the Permian ceilings—Skelly Oil Co., Warren Petroleum Co., and Phillips Petroleum Co.

The commission itself—pending outcome of the case—had granted a stay to all other producers who had not joined in the court action but ordered them to comply with all rate filing requirements as though the ceilings were in force.

Producer foes of the ceilings are gearing for another drive in Congress to shear the FPC of its price-fixing powers. They hold that the commission should have based all ceilings on "market value" arrived at in free competition rather than on price averages based on composite costs.

• • • •

THE FPC set up interim ceilings for all producing fields four years ago after it found the traditional cost-of-service rate-making system hopelessly unworkable. It made the Permian ceilings permanent last Aug. 6 and immediately ran into a legal buzzsaw.

The Denver court said it would issue its opinion by Jan. 20. Neither the producers nor the commission will accept defeat, making it certain the supreme court will be the final arbiter.

The high court, which in the past has been deeply concerned with fair consumer prices, has stated several times that it believed the FPC was on the right track in its new pricing concept. But the court has not yet considered a major test case.

• • • •

THE PERMIAN ceilings now in effect are 18.5 cents per thousand cubic feet for new well gas and 14.5 cents for all other gas, including casing head and residue gas. Quality also figures in the prices.

The Denver court said the Jan. 7 arguments would be limited to: (1) injury to the producers; (2) injury to consumers or any parties between producers and consumers such as interstate pipelines, intrastate distributors, etc., and (3) what procedures can be set up to prevent such injuries in event of grant or denial of the injunction.

Millions of dollars of refunds representing rates which the FPC ruled were too high hinge on the court's decision.

P.O. Reports 'Biggest' Yule Season

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said that Christmas season was the biggest and most successful the Post Office has ever had.

O'Brien said that the volume of mail from Dec. 1 through Dec. 24 was 8% higher than that of the same period last year, which was a record year. Mail volume for the month is expected to be above eight billion pieces.

In addition, O'Brien said, service was better during the month than in the first 11 months of the year despite heavy volume. "Virtually every piece of mail entering a post office of destination by 12:01 a.m. Friday, Dec. 24, was delivered before Christmas Eve," he said.

Red China's Frontier Set for Explosion

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — The crescent of crisis that is Red China's frontier with non-Communist Asia will be dangerous in the months ahead.

From Korea in northeast Asia to India's Ladakh region in the west, China will be watched anxiously by those within reach of its massive power.

India, Formosa, Viet Nam, Thailand — all are likely to feel mounting Chinese pressure.

The crucial question is whether China will be content with just talking about its neighbors while prodding the North Vietnamese into action against "Yankee imperialists." A serious, all-out attack on India could trigger a U.S.-China confrontation.

• • • •

SOME CHINA experts feel Peking, despite its tough talk, desperately wants to avoid tangling with the U.S. Air Force's bombers and the nuclear-laden American aircraft carriers now in the Pacific. China, these experts say, will harass, nibble, prod, fight the Americans to the last Vietnamese — but will avoid a showdown.

Others fear that Chinese frustration, brewing since setbacks in Indonesia and Africa, may explode.

One dangerous sector in 1960 will be India's Himalayan frontier with Chinese-ruled Tibet. For China there are cheap, impressive-looking victories to be had in those high mountain passes. And military involvement drives India deeper into economic trouble by forcing it to spend heavily on defense. There also is the possibility that the probes hearten Pakistan, which China has courted for years and which virtually is at war with India.

The India-Pakistan quarrel could be a grave threat to peace in 1960, especially if Communist China tries to meddle as it did during the September war between these two nations.

• • • •

NEITHER PAKISTAN nor India feels it was badly hurt last time, and both are likely to press small scale but bloody skirmishing along 1,500 miles of ceasefire line.

One of the biggest battles will be India's fight to ward off famine. India's population, now 480 million, increases about 12.5 million annually — but food production has dropped off. American food grains will help cover what threatens to be a 14-million ton gap between India's production and what its people need.

Japan, with booming exports and its economy boasting one of the world's highest growth rates, may slow down a bit.

On the China mainland there are indications that Peking has established a solid, if modest, economic base — but it still will be importing wheat from Canada.

• • • •

IMPORTANT changes may come in Asian political lineups. Virtually all of China's top-ranking leaders, outwardly united, are in their 70s. Their arch enemy, President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China, is 78.

There seems little chance that radical policy changes would follow personnel shuffles in either nation.

Washington has at least $11 billion of assistance funds invested in India and Pakistan. There will be a temptation to put more in and hope the initial investment can be saved. The cost of police duties from Singapore north to Seoul already is monumental.

Excavator of Troy Honored

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Dr. Carl William Blegen, excavator of Troy and the palace of Nestor at Pylos has won the Archaeological Institute of America's first gold medal for distinguished archaeological achievement.

Dr. Blegen, now residing in Athens, Greece, is professor emeritus of classical archaeology at the University of Cincinnati. Between 1932 and 1938 he directed excavations of the university at the site of Troy and later headed excavations at Pylos in southwestern Greece.

Await First Test of FPC Gas-Pricing

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first major legal test of the Federal Power Commission's right to impose area price ceilings on interstate natural gas producers begins taking shape Jan. 7 and seems certain to wind up in the U.S. Supreme Court.

On that day the 10th Federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Denver will hear arguments on whether the FPC should be permanently barred from enforcing its two-price system for the Permian Basin field in parts of Texas and New Mexico.

If the ceilings are eventually upheld, 22 other fields will be put under permanent ceilings.

• • • •

THE DENVER court had previously granted a temporary stay until Jan. 20 to three of the more than 130 companies challenging the Permian ceilings—Skelly Oil Co., Warren Petroleum Co., and Phillips Petroleum Co.

The commission itself—pending outcome of the case—had granted a stay to all other producers who had not joined in the court action but ordered them to comply with all rate filing requirements as though the ceilings were in force.

Producer foes of the ceilings are gearing for another drive in Congress to shear the FPC of its price-fixing powers. They hold that the commission should have based all ceilings on "market value" arrived at in free competition rather than on price averages based on composite costs.

• • • •

THE FPC set up interim ceilings for all producing fields four years ago after it found the traditional cost-of-service rate-making system hopelessly unworkable. It made the Permian ceilings permanent last Aug. 5 and immediately ran into a legal buzzsaw.

The Denver court said it would issue its opinion by Jan. 20. Neither the producers nor the commission will accept defeat, making it certain the supreme court will be the final arbiter.

The high court, which in the past has been deeply concerned with fair consumer prices, has stated several times that it believes the FPC was on the right track in its new pricing concept. But the court has not yet considered a major test case.

• • • •

THE PERMIAN ceilings now in effect are 18.5 cents per thousand cubic feet for new well gas and 14.5 cents for all other gas, including casing head and residue gas. Quality also figures in the prices.

The Denver court said the Jan. 7 arguments would be limited to: (1) injury to the producer; (2) injury to consumers or any parties between producers and consumers such as interstate pipelines, intrastate distributors, etc.; and (3) what procedures can be set up to prevent such injuries in event of grant or denial of the injunction.

Millions of dollars of refunds representing rates which the FPC ruled were too high hinge on the court's decision.

P.O. Reports 'Biggest' Yule Season

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said that Christmas season was the biggest and most successful the Post Office has ever had.

O'Brien said that the volume of mail from Dec. 1 through Dec. 24 was 8% higher than that of the same period last year, which was a record year. Mail volume for the month is expected to be above eight billion pieces.

In addition, O'Brien said, service was better during the month than in the first 11 months of the year despite heavy volume. "Virtually every piece of mail entering a post office of destination by 12:01 a.m. Friday, Dec. 24, was delivered before Christmas Eve," he said.

U.S. Waging Peace as Strong as It Wages War

Combined Wire Services

The story unfolded slowly, but by week's end it was clear: the United States was waging peace over Viet Nam as strong as it had been waging war only a week earlier.

On the ground, in South Viet Nam, the Christmas truce ended in ragged sporadic, small-scale fighting. But the bombing of North Viet Nam did not resume. From Saigon all the way to the Texas White House, American officials refused to speak out, but as the days passed and still no planes headed north, no statement was needed: U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam had been suspended.

* * * *

ON WEDNESDAY, the U.S. peace offensive began to unfold rapidly. The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Arthur J. Goldberg, showed up at the Vatican to see Pope Paul VI. Goldberg reportedly was carrying to the Pope President Johnson's gratitude for the Pontiff's "continuing efforts" to achieve peace in Southeast Asia.

The same day, U.S. Ambassador at Large W. Averell Harriman arrived unexpectedly in Warsaw and conferred secretly with Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki and Wladislav Gomulka — Communist boss. The U.S. Embassy said Harriman discussed the U.S. position on Viet Nam in connection with Poland's membership on the International Control Commission for Viet Nam.

* * * *

AT ALMOST the same time, U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler in Moscow was meeting with Soviet Chief of State Nikolai V. Podgorny in the Kremlin. The one-hour meeting took place at Kohler's request, and the embassy said it was "in the nature of a protocol visit."

One day earlier, Moscow had announced that its top troubleshooter Alexander N. Shelepin, would fly to Hanoi, reason and exact date unannounced. Would he seek a settlement in Viet Nam, or would he, as some said, deliver to Hanoi a master plan for aid to Ho Chi Minh from Russia's East European satellites?

* * * *

EVEN AS THESE moves were under way, Ho Chi Minh blasted anew at the United States. The North Vietnamese ruler, in a message to Pope Paul, said, "United States leaders want war, not peace." He said the Viet Cong were "determined to fight as long as U.S. aggressors still trample upon the soil of their fatherland." Ho said President Johnson's moves "are merely a maneuver to cover up his plan for war intensification and extension in Viet Nam."

* * * *

THERE WERE these other developments:

—A magazine in Hong Kong reported that Ho's regime in Hanoi was split over whether to negotiate for peace.

—Red China again blasted Moscow for allegedly "collaborating with U.S. imperialism."

—Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani of Italy resigned, in the aftermath over reported "peace feelers" brought from Hanoi by Prof. Giorgio la Pira, former mayor of Florence.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey had talks in Tokyo with Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato and then flew to Manila for the inauguration of Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos. Humphrey was to visit Nationalist China and South Korea next.

McGeorge Bundy, Johnson's special assistant, flew secretly to Ottawa Wednesday night to talk with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson. Canada is a member of the International Control Commission on Viet Nam, as is Poland.

Whether all these moves would have any success was still not known. The Texas White House, cautiously revealing its hand, indicated that still other moves were in prospect. What it all meant was stated by Bill D. Moyers, Johnson's press secretary, who said, "Peace remains the foremost objective of the United States in Asia, and everything this administration is doing is designed to bring about conditions in which peace is possible.

BETHLEHEM STEEL Corp. announced an increase of $5 a ton in the price of some types of structural steel, effective Jan. 1. President Johnson promptly called the act "inflationary and not in the public interest." Johnson has been exerting pressure on both industry and labor to hold the wage-price line as an anti-inflation step.

THE LABOR Department reported the cost of living rose two-tenths of 1% in November, an all-time high. This meant the dollar was worth only 90 cents by 1957-59 standards.

* * * *

MORE FEDERAL excise taxcuts became effective with start of the New Year, along with a big raise in Social Security taxes to defray the costs of pension increases and hospital care for the elderly.

* * * *

THE GOVERNMENT published new standards on air pollution which will require that new automobiles sold beginning with 1968 models be equipped with exhaust control devices.

* * * *

ATTY. GEN. Nicholas Katzenbach called on all government officials to seek out and attack radical discrimination in all federally assisted programs, as required by the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

* * * *

AT AUSTIN, Tex., President Johnson was given a head-to-toe medical check and pronounced in "excellent physical condition."

THE NATIONAL Safety Council reported that 721 persons died in "black Christmas" traffic accidents — more than any other holiday period on record. It somberly predicted big additions to the toll among New Year's celebrants.

Population Growth Brings Prosperity, Problems

explosion. It is his favorite speech topic. He sums up the population pressures this way:

"We must hire and train 2,500 new policemen every year. We must build classrooms for 200,000 new students every year. We spend nearly $1 billion a year on roads for some 10 million cars and trucks."

Here is the way some of the problems, magnified by the population growth, are being handled:

SMOG—Air pollution, once mostly a Los Angeles County headache, has crept into other urban areas ranging from San Diego to Sacramento. State enabling-legislation has triggered the formation of air pollution control districts. California has pioneered the most extensive vehicle-exhaust-control-legislation in the nation. All new cars are required to have both crankcase and exhaust devices. Used cars must have a crankcase-control device when they are resold. But as population spreads into new sections of California, the smog program grows wider. Public officials are still challenged to find better smog cures.

RESOURCES PROTECTION—Conservationists assert that freeways, parking lots and housing tracts are gobbling up the California landscape. They say that industry and garbage-pollution are desecrating the shoreline, waterways and forests of the state. No one in Sacramento denies that this is a whopper of a problem during an era of rapid growth.

The state now is landscaping more freeways. Park preserves are being pushed—such as the ones envisioned in 1964's $150-million park-beaches bond issue. In development of the oil-rich tidelands off Long Beach, the state agreed willingly to a city plan that provides that four offshore oil-development islands are to be landscaped with South Seas flora so they will look like tropical resorts.

The state backed legislation to form a San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to assure that the bay-area isn't filled in some day with unsightly land masses.

* * * *

SOCIAL PROBLEMS—There is another side to the coin on California's booming expansion in higher education and its industrial complex. Also up are the state's crime rate and welfare caseload. State officials hope that new federal-state War on Poverty programs will break the cycle of misfortune that results in higher welfare and crime rates. Rehabilitation programs are the key, state officials say. Thousands of prison inmates, all due for release some day, are being taught vocational skills. Hundreds of other idle inmates are prepared for a return to society by being assigned to forest conservation camps where they battle fires, floods and other disasters.

Big new development in correctional techniques in California is to identify the violent-prone offenders, and to earmark them for indefinite retention behind bars. The state has provided more financial help to counties so that probation supervision can be tightened on newly-released inmates.

* * * *

THE CALIFORNIA Highways Patrol will be doubled this year, representing the most massive traffic crackdown ever plotted by the state. Financing came from an increase in your car license tabs. California welfare programs have been broadened to provide medical care to low-income families not quite eligible for public assistance. However, social problems continue to haunt California as they do any state. Gov. Brown says California's violent crime rate has risen less in percentage than that of any other major state since 1958.

A final indication that crime remains a top California headache: felony crime in the state jumped 12.7% during the first half of 1965. Are federal-state War on Poverty programs the key to curbing crime and welfare caseloads? It will be years before the results begin to show up. Meanwhile, Sacramento is optimistic.

(Monday: Education.)

ALMOST TIME AGAIN

This scene will soon be repeated again as thousands of California motorists line up for their new license tabs. Financing for a major increase in Highway Patrol officers will come in a great part from these tab funds.

Johnson Proclaims Feb. 4 as USO Day

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson signed Saturday a proclamation designating Feb. 4 as USO Day, and urged citizens "to give their enthusiastic support to the United Service Organizations."

Since it was created nearly 25 years ago, the proclamation said, the USO has welcomed more than 20 million Americans in uniform and for American service men provided "a breath of home and women, wherever in the world they might find themselves."

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Former presidential advisor and Pulitzer Prize winning historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. will join the staff of the Institute for Advanced Study next month on a temporary basis.

Constitution Talks for Bechuanaland

LONDON (AP) — Constitutional talks for the independence of the British Protectorate of Bechuanaland in Southern Africa will open here Feb. 14, the colonial office announced.

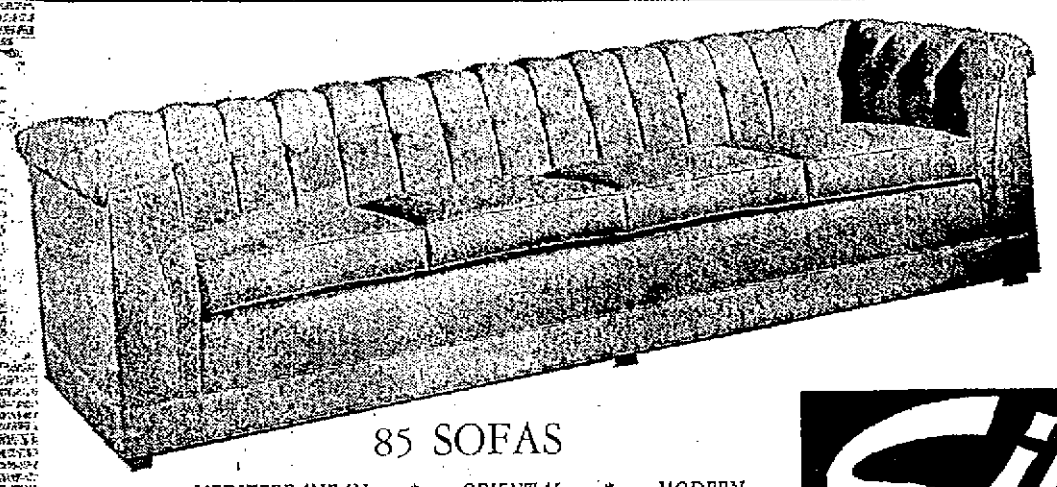

Contract Awarded Ramona School Unit

ARTESIA — Trustees of ABC Unified School District have awarded a $25,900 contract to Donald V. Burnette for an addition to the administration unit at Ramona School.

The Ramona School was part of Carmenita Elementary District prior to the unification of the Artesia, Bloomfield and Carmenita Districts last July.

Funds for the addition will come from bonds approved by Carmenita voters prior to the unification. Award of the contract fulfills the commitment of the ABC Board made before the merger election.

The state backed legislation to form a San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to assure that the bay-area isn't filled in some day with unsightly land masses.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS—There is another side to the coin on California's booming expansion in higher education and its industrial complex. Also up are the state's crime rate and welfare caseload. State officials hope that new federal-state War on Poverty programs will break the cycle of misfortune that results in higher welfare and crime rates. Rehabilitation programs are the key, state officials say. Thousands of prison inmates, all due for release some day, are being taught vocational skills. Hundreds of other idle inmates are prepared for a return to society by being assigned to forest conservation camps where they battle fires, floods and other disasters.

Big new development in correctional techniques in California is to identify the violent-prone offenders, and to earmark them for indefinite retention behind bars. The state has provided more financial help to counties so that probation supervision can be tightened on newly-released inmates.

* * * *

THE CALIFORNIA Highways Patrol will be doubled this year, representing the most massive traffic crackdown ever plotted by the state. Financing came from an increase in your car license tabs. California welfare programs have been broadened to provide medical care to low-income families not quite eligible for public assistance. However, social problems continue to haunt California as they do any state. Gov. Brown says California's violent crime rate has risen less in percentage than that of any other major state since 1958.

A final indication that crime remains a top California headache: felony crime in the state jumped 12.7% during the first half of 1965. Are federal-state War on Poverty programs the key to curbing crime and welfare caseloads? It will be years before the results begin to show up. Meanwhile, Sacramento is optimistic.

(Monday: Education.)

ALMOST TIME AGAIN
This scene will soon be repeated again as thousands of California motorists line up for their new license tabs. Financing for a major increase in Highway Patrol officers will come in a great part from these tab funds.

Johnson Proclaims Feb. 4 as USO Day

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson signed Saturday a proclamation designating Feb. 4 as USO Day, and urged citizens "to give their enthusiastic support to the United Service Organizations."

Since it was created nearly 25 years ago, the proclamation said, the USO has welcomed more than 20 million Americans in uniform and for American service men provided "a breath of home and women, wherever in the world they might find themselves."

Contract Awarded Ramona School Unit

ARTESIA — Trustees of ABC Unified School District have awarded a $25,900 contract to Donald V. Burnette for an addition to the administration unit at Ramona School.

The Ramona School was part of Carmenita Elementary District prior to the unification of the Artesia, Bloomfield and Carmenita Districts last July.

Funds for the addition will come from bonds approved by Carmenita voters prior to the unification. Award of the contract fulfills the commitment of the ABC Board made before the merger election.

Commerce Chief Sees Prosperous Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor made a carefully hedged prediction Saturday night that the economy will grow in 1966 at a pace matching or exceeding that of the past year.

A Commerce Department survey of 77 major industries shows that all except one expect continued growth in 1966.

In the traditional New Year statement by the Commerce Department chief, Connor says that even though prospects "look bright for still another rise in our standard of living at home, we must always be mindful of the fact that a growing proportion of our resources and manpower is being devoted to fulfill our commitments in Viet Nam."

He mentions the possibility of inflationary pressures and other imbalances in the new year.

* * * * *

"WE HAVE a prosperous and exciting year ahead of us," he writes. "But it is not going to be an easy road to travel. Many firms are having difficulty in obtaining the workers needed for their expanding operations. More overtime work can help in this situation. Training new workers for the jobs on hand is also part of the solution.

"In some cases the additional capacity will not be ready in time to fill the new orders received. Thus, price pressures are certain to crop up here and there. Over the past year, prices have already risen more than in any of the past six years.

"Government and business must be ever alert to avoid an inflationary spiral. If we do not succeed in this, it may well upset our splendid five-year record of sustained and stable economic growth."

* * * * *

THE STEEL industry is the only one of the 77 surveyed which forecasts a drop in business this year. Steel executives report sales probably will fall 1 to 2% because of the excessive inventories built up by steel consumers last spring and summer in anticipation of a steel strike.

JOHN T. CONNOR

However, the trend of steel orders in the past few days indicates that the survey may be outdated. An extraordinary demand for steel seems likely to clear away the large inventories sooner than expected.

Sixteen industries expect a 10% growth; 36 anticipate increases of 5 to 10% and 24 estimate their 1966 growth at 5% or less.

The survey includes 62 manufacturing industries which account for 60% of manufacturing output.

* * * * *

CONNOR MAKES no prediction on how much an increase he expects in gross national product this year.

He says the demand for automobiles "will again be a buoyant factor" and that consumer buying in general is expected to parallel the rising trend of income.

"Spending by businessmen for new plant and equipment may match or exceed the 15% increase recorded in 1965.

There is no prediction on housing activity. This important economic segment has been relatively in the doldrums. However, a recent Commerce Department report said a substantial increase is expected in total construction — although most of the rise is expected to come from industrial and commercial, rather than residential, demand.

LONG BEACH FLOAT TOPPED ITS CLASS in Tournament of Roses Parade with enchanting entry depicting triumphant return of mariner-explorer Marco Polo to his native Venice from Cathay (China). The float, awarded first place among entries from California cities with over 250,000 population, depicted the Italian hero with people of various lands as the entourage crosses an ornate Venetian bridge.

MONTANA'S "BIG SKY COUNTRY" ENTRY won the Sweepstakes Award in the 1966 Tournament of Roses Parade with a two-season, winter-summer theme developed through two gardens blooming with roses, orchids and other flowers. It was only the second tournament entry by Montana.

'Big Sky Country' Top Rose Tourney Winner

The big parade is over for another year, but the memories—and most of the flower-bejeweled floats—linger on in this second day of the new year.

Montana's magnificent "Big Sky Country" Sweepstakes-winning entry and scores of the other 62 floats in Saturday's 77th Annual Tournament of Roses will be on display from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. today in Pasadena's Victory Park. The postparade area is at Paloma Sreet and Sierra Madre Boulevard.

Officials estimated nearly two million curbside spectators and tens of millions of televiewers witnessed the latest—and perhaps the greatest—of Rose Parades in clear but nippy weather. In addition to the 63 floats, the procession had 22 marching bands, 250 costumed horseback riders and a host of celebrities, including Walt Disney as grand marshal.

CITY OF LAKEWOOD'S IMPOSING FLOAT, entitled "World of Beauty," won first place in its class—entries from cities with populations of 65,000 to 75,000—at 77th Annual Tournament of Roses in Pasadena New Year's Day. Mythical horses and lovely living maidens were decorative features.

BEACH COMBING

MALCOLM EPLEY

NEW Year's greetings to everybody, and special salute and best wishes to two groups that have been mighty important to this dept. and this writer in 1965.

They are:

1. My participating readers — the people who mull over this column day by day and those who, from time to time, send along contributions and suggestions. Gee, it would be tough without these.

2. All of those who helped in the United Crusade Campaign in our Long Beach area which I had the honor of heading in 1965. Our drive went over the top—I think it eventually will be 103 per cent of goal or thereabouts. The basic credit must go, of course, to the people who supported it with their contributions and their work.

IN previous columns I've mentioned the great contribution to this effort by the people of the Navy and the Coast Guard installations here. They had a key part in the success of the campaign.

On the civilian side, I was especially pleased at the results of the residential campaigns. In Long Beach, (103.2 at last count); Bellflower, 129.8; Paramount, 163.1 the residential efforts went over the top, and there were good returns from Lakewood and Signal Hill.

What I liked about success here was that this was grass-roots giving. Most noteworthy were the hundreds of dollars which were sent to this desk voluntarily by people who had not been contacted by workers. This was one of the finest volunteer showings for good cause I've seen in years.

All of these givers, from the elderly woman who brought me a $300 check to those who sent in dollar bills, have my heartfelt thanks. So does everybody else, of course.

THERE were some soft spots in the campaign and we're still hoping that late contributions will bring up the professional divisions in all areas and the small industry division, two which aren't quite up to the others.

It would be great if we could bring all civilian giving up to a par with the level of Navy-Coast Guard support.

Finally, I appreciate the tolerance of readers about my frequent reporting on this campaign in the column. It was a job that took a lot of my attention and naturally I wrote about it in this daily stint—I hope not too much. In this regard, I want to say that the support of my publishers and our newspaper was a big factor in the success of the campaign and in personal encouragement for me.

It turned out to be a happy 1965 experience for the community and for those of us who worked on and supported this drive for 33 United Way agencies and the Red Cross.

OPERATION "Have Ears—Will Listen" had some interesting results.

This was the project of a group known as the Explorers Church who announced they would staff a couple of telephones with people willing to talk to those who might be depressed or need a friendly ear for some reason at Christmas time.

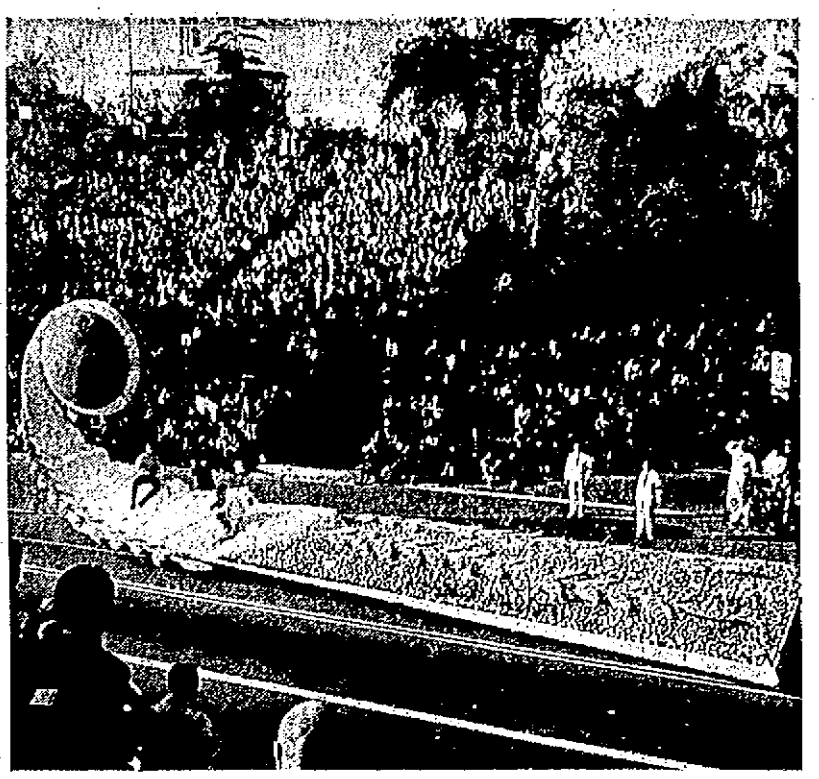

The operation got about 70 calls, half of them from people who weren't merely curious. On 15 or so some concrete service was rendered, and on 10 there were follow-up contacts between Explorers and callers. One Explorer, for instance, drove a woman to a hospital in a nearby city to see her sister.

The people who ran this project feel that there is a need in the community that can be filled by an activity of this kind and are talking about doing something on a continuing basis, rather than just at Christmas time.

It appears that there are people who can be helped by finding a sympathetic ear, even if the ear belongs to a stranger.

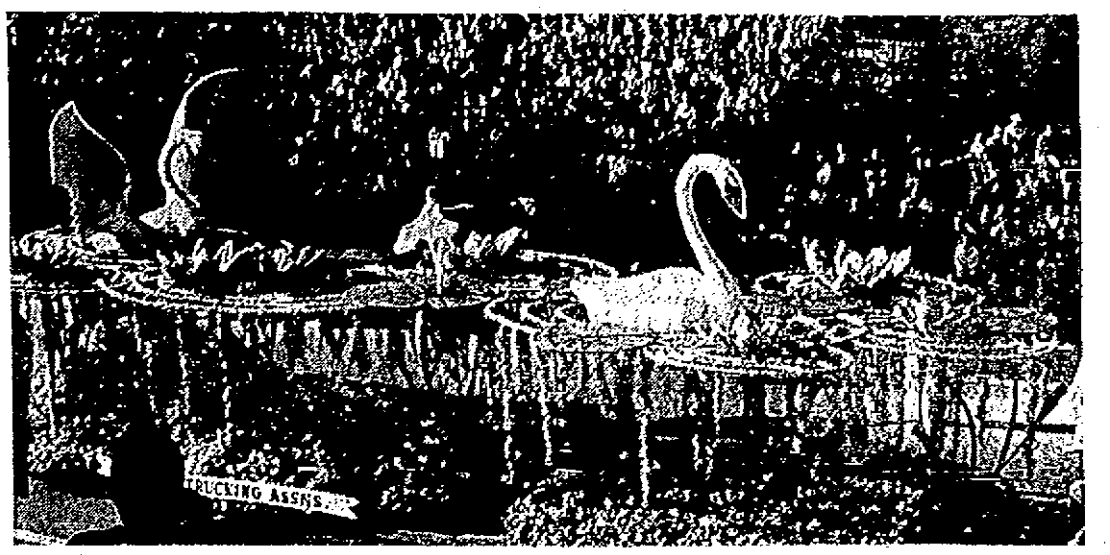

DOWNEY ENTRY won first place among cities of 75,000 to 85,000 population with "Pupulation Explosion" theme built around LBJ's famous beagle and attended by bevy of beauties including "cowgirl" Marian Snyder, with smile.

THEME PRIZE AWARD in Rose Parade went to the City of San Gabriel for impressive floral salute to American Field Service — "most fitting" to this year's Tournament theme of "It's a Small World."

TORRANCE ENTRY, depicting the "small world" of the Old Lady Who Lived in a Shoe, won first place for cities of 100,000 to 250,000 population.

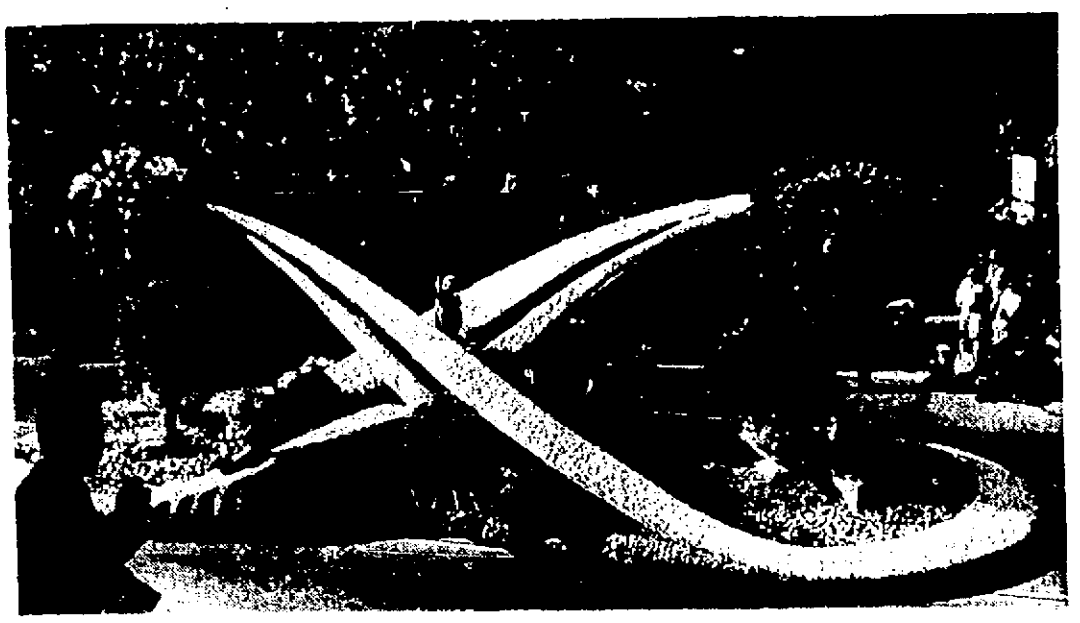

WINNER OF GRAND PRIZE AWARD in 1966 Tournament of Roses was this entry by the American Trucking Association entitled "World of Music—Swan Lake." Designers created tonal effects from use of orchids, green fern, giant water lilies, white stock and other living blooms to create illusion.

LONG BEACH FLOAT TOPPED ITS CLASS in Tournament of Roses Parade with enchanting entry depicting triumphant return of mariner-explorer Marco Polo to his native Venice from Cathay (China). The float, awarded first place among entries from California cities with over 250,000 population, depicted the Italian hero with people of various lands as the entourage crosses an ornate Venetian bridge.

MONTANA'S "BIG SKY COUNTRY" ENTRY won the Sweepstakes Award in the 1966 Tournament of Roses Parade with a two-season, winter-summer theme developed through two gardens blooming with roses, orchids and other flowers. It was only the second tournament entry by Montana.

'Big Sky Country' Top Rose Tourney Winner

The big parade is over for another year, but the memories—and most of the flower-bejeweled floats—linger on in this second day of the new year.

Montana's magnificent "Big Sky Country" Sweepstakes-winning entry and scores of the other 62 floats in Saturday's 77th Annual Tournament of Roses will be on display from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. today in Pasadena's Victory Park. The postparade area is at Paloma Sreet and Sierra Madre Boulevard.

Officials estimated nearly two million curbside spectators and tens of millions of televiewers witnessed the latest—and perhaps the greatest—of Rose Parades in clear but nippy weather. In addition to the 63 floats, the procession had 22 marching bands, 250 costumed horseback riders and a host of celebrities, including Walt Disney as grand marshal.

MALCOLM EPLEY

NEW Year's greetings to everybody, and special salute and best wishes to two groups that have been mighty important to this dept. and this writer in 1965.

They are:

1. My participating readers — the people who mull over this column day by day and those who, from time to time, send along contributions and suggestions. Gee, it would be tough without these.

2. All of those who helped in the United Crusade Campaign in our Long Beach area which I had the honor of heading in 1965. Our drive went over the top—I think it eventually will be 103 per cent of goal or thereabouts. The basic credit must go, of course, to the people who supported it with their contributions and their work.

IN previous columns I've mentioned the great contribution to this effort by the people of the Navy and the Coast Guard installations here. They had a key part in the success of the campaign.

On the civilian side, I was especially pleased at the results of the residential campaigns. In Long Beach, (103.2 at last count); Bellflower. 129.8; Paramount, 163.1 the residential efforts went over the top, and there were good returns from Lakewood and Signal Hill.

Indian Tells Drastic Cure

PROF. S. Chandrasekhar, a population expert from India, says that America, and especially California, had better start thinking about control of population — and of automobiles.

The U.S. population is growing at a faster rate than India's, he said. And he thinks much of the increase will be in the Southland. Naturally these people will have cars as soon as possible.

"Where can these millions of cars be parked?" he asked.

His solution sounds drastic. Cars must be rationed one to a family, he said.

There is a sinister, un-American sound to his proposal. How would father get to work without a car? How would mother get to the supermarket? How would junior get to high school? Where could daughter's boyfriend do his courting?

Seriously, the professor has a point.

Freeways are necessary — in fact more are needed. But what happens when the freeways won't handle the traffic?

It is obvious that our Southland civilization is built around the auto and it likely will stay that way for a good long time despite the smog and other inconveniences.

Most places anyone wants to go are too far for hiking—and many streets after nightfall are dangerous. To millions the car is more than a toy and status symbol. It is a necessity.

There must come a day of reckoning, a time when the addition of one more car will paralyze the metropolis.

The only solution in sight is the development of an adequate rapid — and we stress rapid — transit system. Many may feel it isn't needed now; that they won't benefit because they'll drive their own cars. But what about 10 years, or 20 years from now? It should be remembered that it will take some 10 years, with good luck, to get a functioning rapid transit system.

Until that time comes there is not much that can be done about automobiles except figure out how to make the payments on new ones.

He Smelleth the Battle

He sayeth among the trumpets, Ha, ha; and he smelleth the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains and the shouting. —BOOK OF JOB

If horses remember the past, there is one in Ft. Riley, Kan., who thinks often of "the thunder of the captains and the shouting." He is 34-year-old Chief, the last horse in the U.S. Cavalry.

The cavalry tamed America. From forts like Riley the troopers followed their guidons on patrols against the Indians. The great names of the Civil War learned the art of war in such forts.

For about a century Ft. Riley was the training school for horses and horsemen. There the cavalry reached its highest efficiency, and there it remained a glamorous relic long after its usefulness had passed.

The machine guns of World War I rendered horse cavalry obsolete, but almost until World War II Riley emphasized horses. Tradition dies hard, and men had always ridden on horses to glory and death. The cavalry was a hard trade, but exciting and challenging. Men and horses functioned in perfect discipline at Riley. The last of the horse cavalry was disbanded in 1949.

But Chief lingers on, the last of his kind. And many an old trooper comes by to see how he is doing and to chat a bit of the good old days.

A grass roots campaign to clean smut out of California has just started under the name of "Clean Incorporated."

Purpose of this campaign is to get an initiative on the ballot for the next general election that will provide local control over obscenity.

No doubt you have noticed the filth that our citizens are exposed to in their newsstands, especially in liquor stores. Now there are topless cocktail maids.

"Playboy" opened the door and now it is mild compared to some of the other magazines. These demons who put out this literature would have you believe it is art.

It's not so. When you go to the museum or look in an encyclopedia you can see nudes but not in an inviting pose, and their purpose is not to entice.

I would like to suggest an approach to the problem that, if tried by enough people, could drive the smut out of the market even before the election.

Everytime you are in a store, take a couple of minutes to check the newsstand. If you see something there that is offensive pick it up and carry it back to the manager and register a complaint.

Notice the number of teenagers that pick up these lurid picture magazines and stare at them. The effect can hardly be beneficial.

'What's More Important?'

EDITOR:

I was shocked to read in a recent issue of the Independent that the United States Supreme Court deemed the legality of the nursery rhyme prayer as beneath their august attention.

What is more important than the morality of children? In my opinion, children need all the moral influence that can be employed to prevent them from becoming criminals.

This little prayer in the form of a poem was to be recited on a voluntary basis, and therefore did not come under the 1962 decision of the United States Supreme Court anent prayer in schools.

Many minds would be put at rest if said Court would clarify the subject of prayer in schools. Has God been expelled from schools?

The Communists receive prompt attention from the United States Supreme Court. Why not God? With the waning of religion, communism will rise.

Question of Enemies

EDITOR:

Nicolai Lenin once said, "If you have 5 enemies, first ally yourself with four of them to destroy the one that is the most dangerous to you. Then ally yourself with three to destroy the fourth, and so on till you have only one enemy left, and you can take care of him yourself."

These so-called "liberals" who, knowingly or unknowingly, are allying themselves with the Communists in attacking anti-communist organizations, such as the John Birch Society, should realize that if they succeed in destroying these effective opponents of communism, then it will be their turn to be destroyed in turn by the forces that are to be left of even "liberalism."

Even Peace in Viet Nam Won't Solve Problems Facing 'Our Side'

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON—As this is written, unspecified peace moves seemingly of major dimensions are under way. By the time this is published, they may ave blossomed into real promise of an end of the conflict in Viet Nam, or they may have withered into meaningless nothings, or they may be continuing in their indeterminate state.

At any rate, once more, as on some occasions before, hope is stirring for at least a moment that the armed struggle in which United States troops are being wounded and killed, and the soldiers of Viet Nam are meeting the same fate, and a great many people other than soldiers are suffering, might come to an end.

It would be a blessing to be able to feel that beyond such a peace, if it is achieved, there might be nothing but more peace.

Unfortunately, that blessing is denied. Honest examination of what lies beyond the immediate and geographically limited collision in Viet Nam has to lead to the conclusion that it is only an episode in a process that as far as anyone can tell is likely to go on and on and on for years.

If Viet Nam quiets down there will be an outcropping of what is essentially the same conflict somewhere else —or quite conceivably, a recurrence in Viet Nam.

AT THE VERY MOMENT when various truces and cease fires in different degrees of authenticity are being arranged and talked about in Viet Nam, subversive terrorism in behalf of an outside power is being intensified in Thailand.

This development, long and openly advertised by Peking, is just the latest example of something that can be described only as what we are up against.

We have been up against it now for 20 years, and all the periods of detente, the tactical campaigns of smiles, the isolated instances in which a genuine but purely fortuitous common interest has made actual agreement possible, have not altered in its fundamentals a pattern of deep and continuing hostility against what we would regard as the desirable design for life on this planet.

It doesn't take a Kremlinologist or a Pekingologist to determine that the manifestations of this hostility are becoming more intense and dynamic.

The Soviet Union, despite all the signs of evolution toward what we would consider a more rational view of the world, is still the proprietor in fact of the Berlin Wall, where more blood was spilled only last week.

The Chinese, painfully developing a nuclear technology, devote their public pronouncements to explaining how the underdeveloped nations of the world are going to subvert and subjugate the advanced nations. Even though it can be supposed that this is an impossible dream, their efforts to make it come true can cause endless trouble.

AND EVEN IF the unexpected happened and a universal peace broke out, we would be the helpless captives of our new awareness, derived from our involvement in places we never heard of before, that the task of improving the condition of mankind has magnitudes almost beyond the capacity of the human mind to encompass.

Just as we are learning the size of the job at home we find three other continents in which it is staggeringly larger. But we are seized by this problem whether we like it or not, and it is going to command a large measure of our resources and energies long into the future.

Peace in Viet Nam would be great cause for rejoicing, but a very weak excuse for thinking the time had come for taking things easy.

California Solons Face Roughest Session Ever

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The Legislature is braced for its most hectic session in history, in 1966.

Chaotic times are likely for a number of reasons. For one, every legislative seat will be up for grabs at election—due to reapportionment. Senators will be jockeying to out-maneuver rivals from the same house for Northern California Senate seats. Assemblymen will be trying to flex their election muscles for an assault on new Southern California Senate seats.

Further, Gov. Edmund G. Brown and the constitutional officers face re-election battles. This alone could inject a partisan note into capitol affairs.

The picture further is complicated by an anticipated $300 million budget gap. That means lawmakers either must slash state services or raise taxes in an election year.

Key legislative battles also are shaping up over rapid transit, smog, welfare, education and how to solve problems spotlighted by the McCone Commission Report on the Watts Riots.

AN ADDITIONAL roadblock to fast legislation may be a balky Senate—likely to be influenced by miffed lawmakers who are being forced out of legislative seats due to one-man-one-vote reapportionment. They are likely to resist transit, smog and other urban legislation as one last fling of rural indignation. Some 13 Senators — the unlucky bloc — will be knocked off by reapportionment. Others also could fall due to new district lines.

An indication of deep rifts in Sacramento: finances.

Gov. Brown probably will present a $4.5 billion budget. And to finance it, he needs new taxes. However, Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh has served notice he will not vote for any tax increase without property tax reform.

That was the same issue that almost deadlocked the Legislature in 1965. It remains to be seen how it can be compromised in 1966.

Other Sacramento Soundings:

SPECIAL SESSION—There's some talk of either a Jan. 17 or Jan. 24 special legislative session as a prelude to the Feb. 7 budget session. However, most capitol sources are betting the key issues won't be resolved until after the June primary.

BUDGET STRAIN—State officials came up with a unique way last week of exploring how to close next year's anticipated $300 million budget gap. They widened the budget gap a bit by a free-spending junket to Palm Springs to discuss finances. The same conference could have been held in Sacramento. But who wants to discuss gloomy finances in gloomy Sacramento fog!

Hanna Eyed for Anderson State Office

WE MAY have come very close this holiday season to getting a new lieutenant governor. It seemed for awhile that almost any day one could expect an announcement that Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson had accepted a federal appointment and that Gov. Edmund G. Brown would appoint Orange County Congressman Richard T. Hanna to fill the vacancy.

But Anderson made the development almost impossible by saying flatly he had received no offers of such an appointment and, furthermore, intended to fill out his four-year obligation to the people of California.

Something was stirring, however. Republican L.G. candidate Robert H. Finch got the word in several and separate reports from Washington contacts. He sought only a little firmer information before cracking the story himself as a prediction. His reason, frankly, was to head off Anderson's replacement because he says he would prefer that Anderson be his Democratic opponent in the finals.

When the question arose as to whether Governor Brown has the power to appoint in the event of a vacancy in the L.G. office, Finch people researched and found a court precedent. A court ruling upheld such an appointment by Democratic Gov. James Budd back about 1896.

Interestingly, Finch's researchers found in their checking that Governor Brown's people had already covered the same ground.

CONGRESSMAN HANNA told me this past week that he had discussed the possibility with Brown and that he was aware the Governor does have the power to make the appointment. Asked if the idea was attractive to him, Hanna said yes, indeed—he would like to return to California. But he added that he is not excited about the possibility now since Anderson made his flat statement about staying in office full term.

Some of those denying the story kept saying Brown couldn't appoint an L.G. successor. But the fact is there have been gubernatorial appointments to all five state constitutional offices below governor since Budd named an L.G. in 1896. Sen. Tom Kuchel was appointed state controller; A. Ronald Button was appointed treasurer; Paul Peek was appointed secretary of state; Tom Lynch was appointed attorney general.

WHY HANNA as a prospective appointee? Well, Brown has conceded Democrats may come off badly because of the South Los Angeles riots and Anderson was specifically criticized in the McCone report.

To invite as running mate lions like Speaker Jesse Unruh or L.A. Mayor Sam Yorty would be moving king-size ambition too close to the helm. And if LBJ has any influence in the matter it isn't likely he'd want to see California go Unruh one day, in view of Unruh's close ties with the late President Kennedy.

Hanna, on the other hand, shades down to neutral in these considerations and might even help a Brown reelection campaign in Orange county, which Brown has never won.

It was a good almost-story.

I was shocked to read in a recent issue of the Independent that the United States Supreme Court deemed the legality of the nursery rhyme prayer as beneath their august attention.

What is more important than the morality of children? In my opinion, children need all the moral influence that can be employed to prevent them from becoming criminals.

This little prayer in the form of a poem was to be recited on a voluntary basis, and therefore did not come under the 1962 decision of the United States Supreme Court anent prayer in schools.

Many minds would be put at rest if said Court would clarify the subject of prayer in schools. Has God been expelled from schools?

The Communists receive prompt attention from the United States Supreme Court. Why not God? With the waning of religion, communism will rise.

Question of Enemies

EDITOR:

Nicolai Lenin once said, "If you have 5 enemies, first ally yourself with four of them to destroy the one that is the most dangerous to you. Then ally yourself with three to destroy the fourth, and so on till you have only one enemy left, and you can take care of him yourself."

These so-called "liberals" who, knowingly or unknowingly, are allying themselves with the Communists in attacking anti-communist organizations, such as the John Birch Society, should realize that if they succeed in destroying these effective opponents of communism, then it will be their turn to be destroyed in turn by the forces that are to be left of even "liberalism."

Even Peace in Viet Nam Won't Solve Problems Facing 'Our Side'

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON—As this is written, unspecified peace moves seemingly of major dimensions are under way. By the time this is published, they may ave blossomed into real promise of an end of the conflict in Viet Nam, or they may have withered into meaningless nothings, or they may be continuing in their indeterminate state.

At any rate, once more, as on some occasions before, hope is stirring for at least a moment that the armed struggle in which United States troops are being wounded and killed, and the soldiers of Viet Nam are meeting the same fate, and a great many people other than soldiers are suffering, might come to an end.

It would be a blessing to be able to feel that beyond such a peace, if it is achieved, there might be nothing but more peace.

Unfortunately, that blessing is denied. Honest examination of what lies beyond the immediate and geographically limited collision in Viet Nam has to lead to the conclusion that it is only an episode in a process that as far as anyone can tell is likely to go on and on and on for years.

If Viet Nam quiets down there will be an outcropping of what is essentially the same conflict somewhere else —or quite conceivably, a recurrence in Viet Nam.

AT THE VERY MOMENT when various truces and cease fires in different degrees of authenticity are being arranged and talked about in Viet Nam, subversive terrorism in behalf of an outside power is being intensified in Thailand.

This development, long and openly advertised by Peking, is just the latest example of something that can be described only as what we are up against.

We have been up against it now for 20 years, and all the periods of detente, the tactical campaigns of smiles, the isolated instances in which a genuine but purely fortuitous common interest has made actual agreement possible, have not altered in its fundamentals a pattern of deep and continuing hostility against what we would regard as the desirable design for life on this planet.

FREDERIC COLLINS

It doesn't take a Kremlinologist or a Pekingologist to determine that the manifestations of this hostility are becoming more intense and dynamic.

The Soviet Union, despite all the signs of evolution toward what we would consider a more rational view of the world, is still the proprietor in fact of the Berlin Wall, where more blood was spilled only last week.

The Chinese, painfully developing a nuclear technology, devote their public pronouncements to explaining how the underdeveloped nations of the world are going to subvert and subjugate the advanced nations. Even though it can be supposed that this is an impossible dream, their efforts to make it come true can cause endless trouble.

AND EVEN IF the unexpected happened and a universal peace broke out, we would be the helpless captives of our new awareness, derived from our involvement in places we never heard of before, that the task of improving the condition of mankind has magnitudes almost beyond the capacity of the human mind to encompass.

Just as we are learning the size of the job at home we find three other continents in which it is staggeringly larger. But we are seized by this problem whether we like it or not, and it is going to command a large measure of our resources and energies long into the future.

Peace in Viet Nam would be great cause for rejoicing, but a very weak excuse for thinking the time had come for taking things easy.

California Solons Face Roughest Session Ever

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The Legislature is braced for its most hectic session in history, in 1966.

Chaotic times are likely for a number of reasons. For one, every legislative seat will be up for grabs at election—due to reapportionment. Senators will be jockeying to out-maneuver rivals from the same house for Northern California Senate seats. Assemblymen will be trying to flex their election muscles for an assault on new Southern California Senate seats.

JAMES McCAULEY

Further, Gov. Edmund G. Brown and the constitutional officers face re-election battles. This alone could inject a partisan note into capitol affairs.

The picture further is complicated by an anticipated $300 million budget gap. That means lawmakers either must slash state services or raise taxes in an election year.

Key legislative battles also are shaping up over rapid transit, smog, welfare, education and how to solve problems spotlighted by the McCone Commission Report on the Watts Riots.

AN ADDITIONAL roadblock to fast legislation may be a balky Senate—likely to be influenced by miffed lawmakers who are being forced out of legislative seats due to one-man-one-vote reapportionment. They are likely to resist transit, smog and other urban legislation as one last fling of rural indignation. Some 13 Senators — the unlucky bloc — will be knocked off by reapportionment. Others also could fall due to new district lines.

An indication of deep rifts in Sacramento: finances.

Gov. Brown probably will present a $4.5 billion budget. And to finance it, he needs new taxes. However, Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh has served notice he will not vote for any tax increase without property tax reform.

That was the same issue that almost deadlocked the Legislature in 1965. It remains to be seen how it can be compromised in 1966.

Other Sacramento Soundings:

SPECIAL SESSION—There's some talk of either a Jan. 17 or Jan. 24 special legislative session as a prelude to the Feb. 7 budget session. However, most capitol sources are betting the key issues won't be resolved until after the June primary.

BUDGET STRAIN—State officials came up with a unique way last week of exploring how to close next year's anticipated $300 million budget gap. They widened the budget gap a bit by a free-spending junket to Palm Springs to discuss finances. The same conference could have been held in Sacramento. But who wants to discuss gloomy finances in gloomy Sacramento fog!

COLLEGE TARGET—Another try to force Long Beach City College into a separate district is expected at the 1966 special session.

Hanna Eyed for Anderson State Office

WE MAY have come very close this holiday season to getting a new lieutenant governor. It seemed for awhile that almost any day one could expect an announcement that Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson had accepted a federal appointment and that Gov. Edmund G. Brown would appoint Orange County Congressman Richard T. Hanna to fill the vacancy.

But Anderson made the development almost impossible by saying flatly he had received no offers of such an appointment and, furthermore, intended to fill out his four-year obligation to the people of California.

Something was stirring, however. Republican L.G. candidate Robert H. Finch got the word in several and separate reports from Washington contacts. He sought only a little firmer information before cracking the story himself as a prediction. His reason, frankly, was to head off Anderson's replacement because he says he would prefer that Anderson be his Democratic opponent in the finals.

When the question arose as to whether Governor Brown has the power to appoint in the event of a vacancy in the L.G. office, Finch people researched and found a court precedent. A court ruling upheld such an appointment by Democratic Gov. James Budd back about 1896.

Interestingly, Finch's researchers found in their checking that Governor Brown's people had already covered the same ground.

CONGRESSMAN HANNA told me this past week that he had discussed the possibility with Brown and that he was aware the Governor does have the power to make the appointment. Asked if the idea was attractive to him, Hanna said yes, indeed—he would like to return to California. But he added that he is not excited about the possibility now since Anderson made his flat statement about staying in office full term.

Some of those denying the story kept saying Brown couldn't appoint an L.G. successor. But the fact is there have been gubernatorial appointments to all five state constitutional offices below governor since Budd named an L.G. in 1896. Sen. Tom Kuchel was appointed state controller; A. Ronald Button was appointed treasurer; Paul Peek was appointed secretary of state; Tom Lynch was appointed attorney general.

WHY HANNA as a prospective appointee? Well, Brown has conceded Democrats may come off badly because of the South Los Angeles riots and Anderson was specifically criticized in the McCone report.

To invite as running mate lions like Speaker Jesse Unruh or L.A. Mayor Sam Yorty would be moving king-size ambition too close to the helm. And if LBJ has any influence in the matter it isn't likely he'd want to see California go Unruh one day, in view of Unruh's close ties with the late President Kennedy.

Hanna, on the other hand, shades down to neutral in these considerations and might even help a Brown reelection campaign in Orange county, which Brown has never won.

It was a good almost-story.

L. A. C. SAYS

A Crucial Year Ahead in 1966

IT IS PROBABLE 90% of the American people are involved in some way in the stock market. They may not have stock in their own name—although over 20 million of them do. But today the largest stockholders are insurance companies, mutual and pension funds. This means about everyone has an interest in one or more of these groups. As this is written the market has climbed to its highest level in history. But half the blue chip stocks making up the 30 Dow Jones industrial average are lower than they were at top of the last big bull market in 1959-61. This is in spite of the highest prosperity most of our people have ever experienced—more are employed than ever before. But with all this boom over the past five years people have lost money in half the D-J stocks they purchased at top of the 1959-61 boom. There is a grave question as to how long this present "boom" can continue.

WHILE 15 of these stocks have increased from 1% to over 200% during this period, the other 15 have decreased from 1% to 51%. In the big increases Chrysler rose over 200%, General Motors 90%, Sears 31%. Among those that decreased were U. S. Steel down 51%, Procter & Gamble and American Tobacco down 25%. It is a warning that high averages do not necessarily mean even a majority of stocks have increased in value. During the period the D-J industrial averages increased 30%. It is evidence that "all that glitters is not gold."

It is an example of the highly selective pattern of stock valuations. The Value Line estimate says, "To those who believe they have found sanctuary against inflation in the towers of this seemingly topless stock market, we again mutter our unwelcome warning the stock market is in danger and its fall when it comes will be of major proportions." It points to the very high prices compared to earnings of some of the glamour stocks—which have been the major impetus to recent stock market sales.

MILLIONS OF new investors have been added to the stockholders. In most cases they are looking for a hedge against inflation. But it is warned that this may be an unsound hedge. There has been talk in Washington of excess profit taxes to help pay for the war in Viet Nam. The government has placed restrictions on prices for the steel, aluminum and copper producers. Surplus wheat was sold by the government to hold down wheat prices.

These have all been controls without laws being enacted. But if the danger of inflation spirals—as there is danger of it doing—we must face the fact that controls will be placed on profits, rents and prices. This can and should be applied to wages and salaries if applied to the rest of the economy. Under such controls the common stock hedge will be discouraged.

THE ATTITUDE that there will be no more recessions, that we can continue spending more than we take in without reaching a crisis is that of the Great Society planners. But that idea has never been proven a success throughout our economic history. The results of such fiscal policies has always ended in inflation followed by recession or deep depression. We will have to spend more if the Viet Nam war continues and accelerates. If that is true then we must expect a freeze on profits and dividends. That is the greatest danger to holders of common stocks bought at top prices. It is also a danger to new construction, rentals, and in fact, the whole economy. It is not a cheerful subject for the New Year, but it is a warning that 1966 is a crucial year in our economy.

War Aid, Viet Nam Sore Points

DREW PEARSON

JERUSALEM—A delegation of seven senators stopped off here en route from a trip through Asia during which they arrived at two important conclusions:

1. U.S. arms supplied to once neutral nations are breeding war.

2. There is almost no support for U.S. policy in South Viet Nam from anybody in Asia.

Travelling up to the Indian-Pakistan border, two of the senators got their most graphic lesson as to what U.S. arms have done to the peace of the world.

At Amritsar on the Indian side of the border, Senators Vance Hartke, Ind., and Quentin Burdick, N.D., both Democrats, saw what was called a "Patton Tank Graveyard" — 70 battered American tanks taken by the Indians from the Pakistanis, tanks which the United States had given Pakistan with the written agreement they would not be used against India, but only to defend Pakistan against Communist aggressors.

Instead of being used to help in South Viet Nam to stop Chinese Communist aggression, however, they had been used against India, which has been fighting communist aggression.

On the streets of Amritsar, little Indian boys greeted the senators with taunts of "Patton! Patton-"

On the Pakistan side of the border, Pakistan officials told the Senators that only 25 of the tanks came from the United States; the remainder came from Red China.

"We can count," replied Hartke.

Afterward, Sen. Burdick remarked: "I'm the first North Dakotan in Congress who has voted for foreign aid. But you're now looking at a senator who has cast his last vote for military aid."

Arriving in Israel later, the senators were briefed by Maj. Gen. Isaac Rabin, Israeli Chief of Staff, who told them that his observers, peering across the gulf of Aqaba at the shores of Jordan, had been able to see American tanks being unloaded for the Jordanian army. This made it necessary for Israel to buy more tanks to maintain the arms balance.

The senatorial delegation included Wayne Morse, D-Ore., as chairman; Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, chairman of the Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Asia, who was taking his first trip abroad; Everett Jordan, N.C., Hartke and Burdick, all Democrats; with Winston Prouty, Vt., and Peter Dominick, Colo., Republicans.

The Japanese government had requested that a Senate delegation attend a parliamentary meeting; later India and Pakistan requested the senators to stop off there.

In Japan several senators tried to stir up support for the American position in Viet Nam, got nowhere. Sen. Hartke several times broached the idea of getting Japanese troops to help the United States, asked whether Japan was fearful of the growing power of Communist China. The answer to both was negative. The Japanese didn't consider China a menace, emphatically disagreed with the Johnson-Rusk statements that Chinese communism was pushing south into Viet Nam.

Toward the end of the trip, several of the Senate delegation were convinced U.S. policy in South Viet Nam was a mistake. Not, however, Sen. Lausche. He remained the strongest supporter of the Johnson policy.

"Frank, how many children do you have?" asked Hartke of his colleague from Ohio.

Lausche had none.

"Well, I have four boys," said the senator from Indiana, "and I don't want any of them killed in Viet Nam."

Only foreign support for the Viet Nam war came officially from Israel when the senators met with Deputy Premier Abba Eban, former ambassador to the United States and about to become Israeli foreign minister. When Hartke asked what he thought about the Viet Nam war, Eban replied:

"We are for the rights of small countries. As a small country ourselves, we naturally champion the right of South Viet Nam to remain independent."

Space Program Draws Criticism of Scientists

From The Washington Star

SEVERAL THOUSAND scientists converged this week on the University of California at Berkeley for the annual meeting of the American Association for Advancement of Science.

Superficially the meeting was much like other recent conventions of the 117-year-old society. But it was apparent, even before sessions began, that this year something new has been added.

The "something new" is a growing undercurrent of healthy skepticism and honest concern over what the United States is doing in space. During the first decade of the space effort, the preponderance of scientific opinion seemed to favor first America's plans and later her accomplishments beyond the atmosphere.

Now there is evidence that the pendulum is swinging away from a broad and uncritical approval of the space program, toward more sober analysis of what is being gained and lost in a multi-billion-dollar effort heavily oriented toward manned space flight.

PHILIP H. ABELSON is one of the earliest, most consistent, most vocal and most uninhibited scientific critics of the space program. A noted chemist and geophysicist, he edits the AAAS' influential weekly magazine, "Science."

For the last couple of years, Abelson has been blasting away at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for spending two dollars out of every three on manned flight, while cutting back more scientifically productive instrument flights into orbit and to the moon and planets.

WILLIAM HINES

When Abelson initially attacked the manned flight program, many scientists more sympathetic to NASA's aims counterattacked on a personal level, labeling him everything from a sorehead to a nut.

One scientist "confidentially" tipped reporter friends just before the 1964 election that Abelson was secretly dickering to become science adviser in the event of a Goldwater victory.

(It is amusing to a layman to see how quickly the lofty dialogues of modern science can descend to the Billingsgate level when someone's sacred ox is being gored.)

Abelson was not above personalized vituperation himself in discussing the scientific worth of manned space flight.

He repeatedly suggested ("implied" is too weak a word) that leading proponents of the Apollo moon program had been bought by the government with honors or fat research contracts or both. His term for them was "tame scientists."

If there are tame scientists, then clearly there must be wild scientists too, and on this roster Abelson's name long led all the rest. Until quite recently the wild scientists were few in number and furtive in habit. Only Abelson, growling periodically from the mouth of his editorial den at "Science," was consistently identified with the anti-Apollo crusade.

But lately other wild scientists have grown bolder and some of the tame ones, hearing the call of the wild, have broken from the well-fed security of the fold to join their feral fellows. The defection rate will grow as funds for general science are cut back to feed the increased demands of Viet Nam and the insatiable appetite of Apollo.

ALREADY there are strong indications of what is coming. NASA has cancelled an advanced unmanned orbiting observatory, and the word is out that the first unmanned "Voyager" landing will not come before 1973 at earliest. NASA has a budget problem; Apollo has high priority; something has to give: Q.E.D.

Public expressions of concern came just last week from a new and extremely respectable source. In Los Angeles, Prof. Gordon J. F. MacDonald of UCLA criticized over-emphasis on manned exploits and warned:

"America's space program can either continue as a series of glamorous engineering spectaculars or rise to the level of scientific and intellectual exploration of man's world. If glamorous achievements such as placing a man on the moon are confused with fundamental science, the latter will suffer both in public support and in attraction to gifted men."

MacDONALD cannot be shrugged off. He is a brilliant scientist; he has been active in space since the start, and he is the youngest member of the prestigious President's Science Advisory Council, an august group that might logically be considered the tamest of the tame.

MacDonald now appears to have joined Abelson, and others will follow. This, the wild line, is emerging as the scientific consensus. A look at the program of the AAAS' Berkeley meeting seems to bear this out.

Hines Wins $1,000 Prize

William Hines, the author of the above column, has just been given $1,000 science writing award sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science and Westinghouse Corp. The award was based upon articles dealing with the historic journey of Mariner IV to Mars. Hines won similar special awards in 1959, 1960 and 1961.

told them that his observers, peering across the gulf of Aqaba at the shores of Jordan, had been able to see American tanks being unloaded for the Jordanian army. This made it necessary for Israel to buy more tanks to maintain the arms balance.

The senatorial delegation included Wayne Morse, D-Ore., as chairman; Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, chairman of the Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Asia, who was taking his first trip abroad; Everett Jordan, N.C., Hartke and Burdick, all Democrats; with Winston Prouty, Vt., and Peter Dominick, Colo., Republicans.

The Japanese government had requested that a Senate delegation attend a parliamentary meeting; later India and Pakistan requested the senators to stop off there.

In Japan several senators tried to stir up support for the American position in Viet Nam, got nowhere. Sen. Hartke several times broached the idea of getting Japanese troops to help the United States, asked whether Japan was fearful of the growing power of Communist China. The answer to both was negative. The Japanese didn't consider China a menace, emphatically disagreed with the Johnson-Rusk statements that Chinese communism was pushing south into Viet Nam.

Toward the end of the trip, several of the Senate delegation were convinced U.S. policy in South Viet Nam was a mistake. Not, however, Sen. Lausche. He remained the strongest supporter of the Johnson policy.

"Frank, how many children do you have?" asked Hartke of his colleague from Ohio.

Lausche had none.

"Well, I have four boys," said the senator from Indiana, "and I don't want any of them killed in Viet Nam."

Only foreign support for the Viet Nam war came officially from Israel when the senators met with Deputy Premier Abba Eban, former ambassador to the United States and about to become Israeli foreign minister. When Hartke asked what he thought about the Viet Nam war, Eban replied:

"We are for the rights of small countries. As a small country ourselves, we naturally champion the right of South Viet Nam to remain independent."

Space Program Draws Criticism of Scientists

From The Washington Star

SEVERAL THOUSAND scientists converged this week on the University of California at Berkeley for the annual meeting of the American Association for Advancement of Science.

Superficially the meeting was much like other recent conventions of the 117-year-old society. But it was apparent, even before sessions began, that this year something new has been added.

The "something new" is a growing undercurrent of healthy skepticism and honest concern over what the United States is doing in space. During the first decade of the space effort, the preponderance of scientific opinion seemed to favor first America's plans and later her accomplishments beyond the atmosphere.

Now there is evidence that the pendulum is swinging away from a broad and uncritical approval of the space program, toward more sober analysis of what is being gained and lost in a multi-billion-dollar effort heavily oriented toward manned space flight.

PHILIP H. ABELSON is one of the earliest, most consistent, most vocal and most uninhibited scientific critics of the space program. A noted chemist and geophysicist, he edits the AAAS' influential weekly magazine, "Science."

For the last couple of years, Abelson has been blasting away at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for spending two dollars out of every three on manned flight, while cutting back more scientifically productive instrument flights into orbit and to the moon and planets.

When Abelson initially attacked the manned flight program, many scientists more sympathetic to NASA's aims counterattacked on a personal level, labeling him everything from a sorehead to a nut.

One scientist "confidentially" tipped reporter friends just before the 1964 election that Abelson was secretly dickering to become science adviser in the event of a Goldwater victory.

(It is amusing to a layman to see how quickly the lofty dialogues of modern science can descend to the Billingsgate level when someone's sacred ox is being gored.)

Abelson was not above personalized vituperation himself in discussing the scientific worth of manned space flight.

He repeatedly suggested ("implied" is too weak a word) that leading proponents of the Apollo moon program had been bought by the government with honors or fat research contracts or both. His term for them was "tame scientists."

If there are tame scientists, then clearly there must be wild scientists too, and on this roster Abelson's name long led all the rest. Until quite recently the wild scientists were few in number and furtive in habit. Only Abelson, growling periodically from the mouth of his editorial den at "Science," was consistently identified with the anti-Apollo crusade.

But lately other wild scientists have grown bolder and some of the tame ones, hearing the call of the wild, have broken from the well-fed security of the fold to join their feral fellows. The defection rate will grow as funds for general science are cut back to feed the increased demands of Viet Nam and the insatiable appetite of Apollo.

ALREADY there are strong indications of what is coming. NASA has cancelled an advanced unmanned orbiting observatory, and the word is out that the first unmanned "Voyager" landing will not come before 1973 at earliest. NASA has a budget problem; Apollo has high priority: something has to give: Q.E.D.

Public expressions of concern came just last week from a new and extremely respectable source. In Los Angeles, Prof. Gordon J. F. MacDonald of UCLA criticized over-emphasis on manned exploits and warned:

"America's space program can either continue as a series of glamorous engineering spectaculars or rise to the level of scientific and intellectual exploration of man's world. If glamorous achievements such as placing a man on the moon are confused with fundamental science, the latter will suffer both in public support and in attraction to gifted men."

MacDONALD cannot be shrugged off. He is a brilliant scientist; he has been active in space since the start, and he is the youngest member of the prestigious President's Science Advisory Council, an august group that might logically be considered the tamest of the tame.

MacDonald now appears to have joined Abelson, and others will follow. This, the wild line, is emerging as the scientific consensus. A look at the program of the AAAS' Berkeley meeting seems to bear this out.

Hines Wins $1,000 Prize

William Hines, the author of the above column, has just been given $1,000 science writing award sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science and Westinghouse Corp. The award was based upon articles dealing with the historic journey of Mariner IV to Mars. Hines won similar special awards in 1959, 1960 and 1961.

Day Care Urged for Children

By BOB GEIVET

Day care for children of working mothers, and a homemaker service to aid ailing adults, should be provided by Orange County for its less-fortunate citizens, the Orange County Grand Jury believes.

The recommendations were included in additional reports of its 1965 activities, out last week for perusal by the Board of Supervisors.

The jury also recommended that there be some overhaul in the data processing department, notably as it applies to the heavy use by the auditor's department.

Foreman James P. Holm expressed his jurors' "doubts" that the new IBM system will be capable of handling the county's planned "management system" as well as the needs of the auditing department.

It might be best, the jury suggested, to get less-expensive equipment for the auditor "to solve his needs today, rather than concentration on one large unit with tomorrow's dreams unable of being realized within a reasonable period of time."

* * * *

INDICATING that its studies of the welfare program of the county consumed much time and brought many questions to mind—some the subject of earlier recommendations — the grand jury concentrated this time only on the day-care and adult-aid suggestions.

"Adequate day care for children of working mothers, and mothers occupied in training programs, will enable them to become employed," the jury reminded.

"A homemaker service will enable a person to remain in his or her own home during illness or incapacity, rather than seeking out-of-home care in nursing homes, hospitals, boarding homes, etc.," the report reminded.

Such a service also would be available to mothers "unable to run a household due to temporary hospitalization or illness," the recommendation added.

* * * *

OTHER recommendations included overhaul of the accounting system used by the road department; it was described as "archaic" with "a great amount of duplicated work being done by hand or on obsolete accounting equipment."

There should be "a thorough review of equipment usage and costs" and in such a study, the jury suggested that the county consider leasing rather than purchasing some equipment it might find necessary to acquire.

Budgetary practices of the Veterans' Affairs Department also should be revised, the jury recommended.

Operation of this department should be included in any "future study of the work-load and efficiency of operations of personnel" in county service—which the grand jury earlier had suggested be done.

AERONUTRONIC EXEC DESCRIBES PROBLEMS

'New Type of War in Viet'

By MOLLY BURRELL

"Eleven year old kids and 80-year old grandmothers in native clothes —these are part of the irregular forces without identity that make conflict in Viet Nam so confused and difficult," says a former guerrilla warfare expert for the Defense Department.

Dr. Harold H. Hall, one of the founders of Aeronutronic, has returned to the company after 18 months as Chief Scientist for Remote Area Conflict in the Advanced Research Projects Agency. He's the new director of applied research laboratories.

* * * *

"GUERILLA warfare is as old as the history of man; what's new about Viet Nam fighting is the continuning battle against unidentified foes," he says.

"I suppose our earliest guerrilla warfare experiences were in the Revolutionary War against Gen. Braddock's redcoats. Through the Civil War and both World Wars there was general adherence to conventional ways of warfare for the most part—uniforms, tactics, etc. Suddenly, in Viet Nam, there are no reliable rules—men have to improvise, make up new rules as they go along."

Dr. Hall's top secret work in research and development of weapons, mobility, and information processing was the outgrowth of a hobby.

"I did a lot of reading on irregular warfare, some standard works, and came up with some ideas which the defense department seemed to feel were worth developing," he explains.

* * * *

HE DIRECTED laboratory programs for Project AGILE, administered contracts dealing with weapons, surveillance, communications, and effects of environment in remote areas. Two three-week visits to Viet Nam battle areas were a part of his assignment.

Prior to the Defense Department post, Dr. Hall was assistant director of Aeronutronic's re-entry and space systems programs and was one of the group of eight scientist-executives who formed the company in 1956.

Other professional distinctions: he worked at UC Berkley's Lawrence Radiation laboratory and Livermore Weapons laboratory designing large thermonuclear weapons; at Lockheed Missile Systems Devision Research laboratory he worked on weapon delivery systems; with another scientist he was instrumental in the discovery and investigation of X-ray effects in the tracking and destroying of missiles.

* * * *

WHEN HE'S NOT occupied with matters scientific, Dr. Hall directs operations of a large farm in the Midwest and defeats his five youngsters at tennis.

His views on Viet Nam today: "There seems to be an improving trend over a long period. The administration and the people are showing we mean business now."

NEW GROWTH AT LOMITA PARK

Lomita Mayor Clyde Bernhardt breaks ground for a $28,000 addition to the Lomita Park recreation building at 24428 Eshelman Ave. Also taking part in the ceremony are (from left) contractor Mark Roessler and Ray Ferrin, chairman of the Lomita Parks and Recreation Commission. The addition will house meeting rooms.

HEART PRINCESS

Regina Higgins, of Rolling Hills, receives crown as Los Angeles County Heart Association princess for southwestern area, from Naomi Adame, of Wilmington, last year's princess. Looking on is Louis Scibona, of Torrance, branch heart princess chairman. Regina is eligible to compete for Queen of Hearts title.

Top Rotary Aide Will Be Hosted

Dutch nationals and Rotary Clubs of Artesia, Bellflower, Downey, Paramount and Norwalk will host C.P.H. Teenstra, president of Rotary International, at a fellowship hour and luncheon at the Golden West Auditorium, 12400 Studebaker Rd., Norwalk, Monday at 11:30 a.m.

Teenstra, a physician, prominent in the field of bone disease, comes from The Netherlands, where he was accorded royal honors in 1960 for his work with cripples.

Prior to the inter-club luncheon meeting, Teenstra will be met by Roy Reynolds, Norwalk, district governor of Rotary, and other area club officials for a tour of the Cor Van Dam dairy farm, 13811 S. Valley View Ave., La Mirada.

During the afternoon he will visit other points of interest of the Southland dairy community, then tour the Paramount City Hall, where he will use the city's Civil Defense communications facilities to talk with relatives in his homeland.

CAMPUS PLANNER

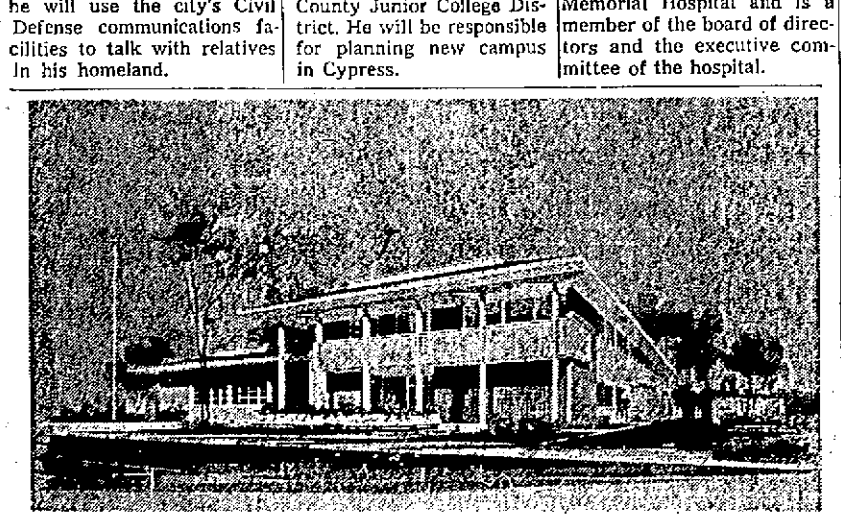

Dr. Otto Roemich, vice president for instruction at Fullerton Junior College, takes new position Monday as deputy superintendent for new North Orange County Junior College District. He will be responsible for planning new campus in Cypress.

Brown Picks Dr. Witlin

Dr. A. Allan Witlin, 9551 Raviller Dr., Downey, has been appointed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown to the first five-member District Review Committee of the Second District of the State Board of Medical Examiners.

The second district includes San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura and Los Angeles Counties. Five reviewer committees were created by the 1965 Legislature in a bill authored by Sen. Walter W. Stiern to assist the State Board of Medical Examiners on disciplinary matters.

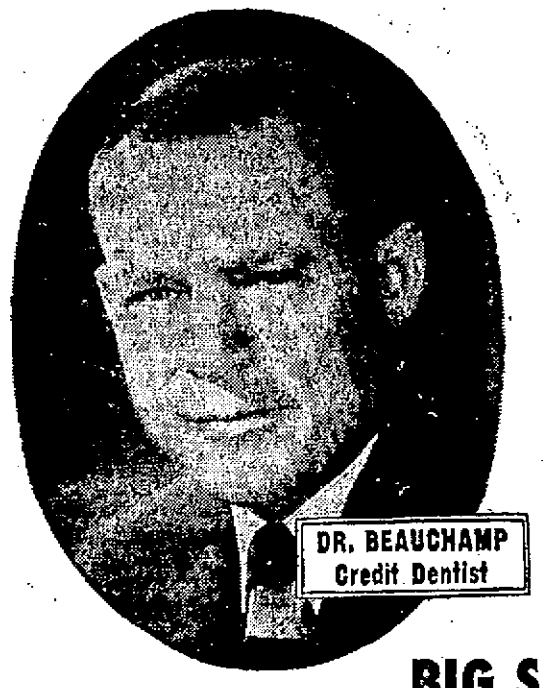

Dr. Witlin is one of the original founders and past president of the Rio Hondo Memorial Hospital and is a member of the board of directors and the executive committee of the hospital.

FIRE COMMUNICATIONS CENTER PLANNED

Buena Park plans to invest $315,000 in two-story fire station headquarters and communications center. It also will have complete training facility for firemen, according to Fire Chief Bill Verbeck. Structure will have 18,800 square feet of floor space. Living quarters for firemen will be upstairs. Building is planned for Western Avenue south of La Palma, near Knott's.

L.B. Boy First Car Fatality

An 18-year-old Long Beach youth was the county's first traffic fatality of the year and a Carson woman died from injuries she suffered in a New Years Day crash in the Los Angeles City strip near Torrance.

California Highway Patrolmen said Ford Dwayne McKelvey, of 3232 Baltic Avenue, a student at Harbor College, was dead at the scene after his car slammed into an abutment on the Long Beach Freeway at Alondra Boulevard at 12:10 a.m.

His girl friend, Mary Dianne Bohlier, 18, of 18222 Towne Ave., Gardena, was reported to be in satisfactory condition Saturday night at Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, Compton. She also attends Harbor College.

* * * *

MRS. Rita P. Burke, 38, of 237 Shadwell St., died Saturday at Harbor General Hospital seven hours after she was injured in a two-car crash on Carson Street near Normandie Avenue.

Her husband, Wendell Burke, 51, was reported in fair condition in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Officers said the Burke and a car driven by Isamu Hirose, 24, of 2436 W. 234th St., Torrance, collided. Hirose suffered minor cuts and bruises in the 3:14 a.m. accident.

IT FIGURES

Jail Sum: 500,000 Plus 502

A drunken-driving suspect, arrested shortly before the year's end, earned the dubious distinction of becoming the 500,000th prisoner booked into the Long Beach city jail.

Officer Don Dombrowski said 31-year-old Olen D. Cochran, 2084 Temple Ave., Signal Hill, was arrested at 10:45 p.m. Friday, following a noninjury traffic accident in the 2700 block of East 11th Street. He was held in lieu of $562 bail.

Lt. Paul Helm, records superintendent, said the date of the first in the half-million bookings at police headquarters is not available, but he estimated it took more than 50 years to reach 500,000.

Lloyd E. Christiansen, retired records officer, said he thinks the use of official booking numbers started about 1906.

There were no flashing lights, no prizes, and no celebration for the milestone booking—in fact, Cochran wasn't even given a choice of cells.

Folk-Dance Program

Silverado Folk Dancers will present European dances in native costumes Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Bixby Park recreation center. The public is invited to the program sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Department.

Grand Jury Returns Record Indictments

More indictments were handed down by the 1965 Orange County Grand Jury than by any other inquisitorial body in the county's history.

There were 46 of them, including two which have not been served and so remain sealed.

Only the more-serious offenses took the interest of the Grand Jury. There were 14 indictments for grand theft and conspiracy to commit grand theft, nine for narcotics violations, three for perjury, two each for murder, forgery and conspiracy, and 10 for bookmaking and conspiracy to make book.

In sharp contrast to other counties, notably Los Angeles County, persons convicted of bookmaking in Orange County almost invariably spend time in jail. Courts do not generally assess fines only; the sentences usually are for jail time plus probation.

The superior courts dismissed six indictments brought by the grand jury, and one was acquitted after a trial. Of 11 cases on which there were convictions or guilty pleas, seven brought sentences to prison or jail, and four other cases are set for sentencing early this year. Ten others are pending.

Minister's Health Seminar Thursday

Third in a series of seminars on religion and health for Long Beach-area ministers will be held Thursday in Memorial Hospital according to Rev. Robert F. Gunter, director of the hospital's department of pastoral care.

Dr. Bernard J. Michela will talk on "Rehabilitation, a Community Responsibility."

L.B. TRAFFIC TOLL DOWN

More Drivers Alive

By BILL HAZLETT

Safer driving and stepped-up traffic enforcement paid off for Long Beach during 1965 — in human lives.

The city's traffic death toll of 60 was down five from the all-time fatality record set in 1964, according to Traffic Capt. Fred Stevenson.

"And, there were no traffic deaths in Long Beach on either Christmas Eve or New Years Eve," the senior traffic officer added.

However, the city's motorists and pedestrians were still averaging almost 20 accidents and seven injuries every day, according to police statistics, despite the use of additional patrol and traffic units, and the issuance of more citations for violations.

Traffic experts feel that the increased enforcement program accounted for the more than 500 fewer accidents during 1965, but "most people still seem to take the problem of traffic safety too lightly," Capt. Stevenson said.

There were 53 fewer pedestrians hurt during 1965, but almost 150 more were hurt in vehicle accidents. There were a total of 2,835 traffic injuries reported to police during the year.

Among those killed in traffic, 25 were pedestrians and 35 were in vehicles. These figures compare to 42 who died in vehicles last year, and 23 killed in pedestrian accidents.

Although the 1965 traffic toll was below the 1964 record, Capt. Stevenson said, it was still 5 higher than the 55 killed in 1963, and only two below the previous all-time high of 62 which was set in 1945, during the war-imposed dimouts.

In an effort to further cut the death toll, Capt. Stevenson said, "the police department is going to continue the stepped-up enforcement program, aiming specifically at those violations which cause fatal accidents."

"But that's not the whole answer," he added. "Accidents are caused by people, and only people can keep them from happening."

A reduction in statewide traffic deaths was noted by the California Highway Patrol. The toll for 1965 was 4,710, which was a bit lower than for 1964, when the figure was 4,743.

Tournament Bridge Play Will End Today

Final events in the holiday bridge championship play, the Long Beach eighth annual winter sectional tournament, will be held in Edgewater Inn.

The three-day tournament is expected to draw a total of 4,000 players, according to the coordinator, Marshall Ketchum.

Five contests were held Friday.

Conrad Potvin of Inglewood and Sol Stein of South Pasadena won the men's pairs championship. Ron Garber, West Los Angeles, and Hans Kraepelien, Riverside, were second. Larry Israel, Santa Monica, and Olavi Vare, Paramount, third.

Ann Arndt of Inglewood and Irene Greenfield, Sherman Oaks, took first in women's pairs. Eugenie Mathe and Hermine Baron, both of Los Angeles, were second. Joan Danielsen, Long Beach, and Marbe Bentz, El Monte, third.

Players from Pomona, Dorinda Wheelock and L. G. Lawrence, won the Jupiter pairs. Delbert Woodinorth, Whittier, and John Schnoor, Baldwin Park, were second. David Miller and Julie Gorman, both Los Angeles, placed third.

In mixed pairs, the champions were Maurice and Florence Litman of Beverly Hills, followed by Paul Taylor of Long Beach and Marge Bentz of El Monte, and Joe and Clara Turner of San Pedro.

Dr. A. W. Olsen of Los Angeles and Hugh Lofton of Long Beach won the New Years Eve pairs. James Up de Graff, Los Angeles, and John Rygh, Encino, placed second. Tied for third were Matt Bartosik, Los Angeles, and T. L. Alexander, Corona; Mike Savage, Van Nuys, and Ed Henrie, Claremont.

After the first round Saturday afternoon, with a second round scheduled, leaders in four other events were:

Life masters pairs: north-south, George Ateljevich of San Francisco and Bill Goldman of North Hollywood; east-west, Richard Potter of Manhattan Beach and Gaylor Kasle of Tucson.

Masters pairs: north-south, Earl Lindley of Huntington Beach and Mrs. LaVern Thomas of Lakewood; east-west, H. E. and Helen Davisdon.

Junior pairs championship: Joseph Mathews of Hawthorne and J. Harvey Cross of Los Angeles.

Stardust pairs: Mrs. R. C. Babcock and Martha Merrill, both of Seal Beach.

City Sanitarian Spangler Ends 20-Year Service

William A. Spangler, a sanitarian in the Long Beach Department of Public Health, retired after 20 years service.

Since joining the city staff in November 1945, Spangler had been employed continuously as an inspector of restaurants and other businesses subject to scrutiny by the Health Department.

He helped train food handlers for the Long Beach Unified School District and also had served for many years as a director and member of the credit committee of the City Employees' Federal Credit Union. He lives at 3610 Lewis Ave.

City officials and other employes in the department honored him earlier at a dinner at the Hawaiian.

E.B. Boy First Car Fatality

An 18-year-old Long Beach youth was the county's first traffic fatality of the year and a Carson woman died from injuries she suffered in a New Years Day crash in the Los Angeles City strip near Torrance.

California Highway Patrolmen said Ford Dwayne McKelvey, of 3232 Baltic Avenue, a student at Harbor College, was dead at the scene after his car slammed into an abutment on the Long Beach Freeway at Alondra Boulevard at 12:10 a.m.

His girl friend, Mary Dianne Bohlier, 18, of 18222 Towne Ave., Gardena, was reported to be in satisfactory condition Saturday night at Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, Compton. She also attends Harbor College.

* * * *

MRS. Rita P. Burke, 38, of 237 Shadwell St., died Saturday at Harbor General Hospital seven hours after she was injured in a two-car crash on Carson Street near Normandie Avenue.

Her husband, Wendell Burke, 51, was reported in fair condition in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Officers said the Burke and a car driven by Isamu Hirose, 24, of 2436 W. 234th St., Torrance, collided. Hirose suffered minor cuts and bruises in the 3:14 a.m. accident.

IT FIGURES

Jail Sum: 500,000 Plus 502

A drunken-driving suspect, arrested shortly before the year's end, earned the dubious distinction of becoming the 500,000th prisoner booked into the Long Beach city jail.

Officer Don Dombrowski said 31-year-old Olen D. Cochran, 2084 Temple Ave., Signal Hill, was arrested at 10:45 p.m. Friday, following a noninjury traffic accident in the 2700 block of East 11th Street. He was held in lieu of $562 bail.

Lt. Paul Helm, records superintendent, said the date of the first in the half-million bookings at police headquarters is not available, but he estimated it took more than 50 years to reach 500,000.

Lloyd E. Christiansen, retired records officer, said he thinks the use of official booking numbers started about 1906.

There were no flashing lights, no prizes, and no celebration for the milestone booking—in fact, Cochran wasn't even given a choice of cells.

Folk-Dance Program

Silverado Folk Dancers will present European dances in native costumes Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Bixby Park recreation center. The public is invited to the program sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Department.

Grand Jury Returns Record Indictments

More indictments were handed down by the 1965 Orange County Grand Jury than by any other inquisitorial body in the county's history.

There were 46 of them, including two which have not been served and so remain sealed.

Only the more-serious offenses took the interest of the Grand Jury. There were 14 indictments for grand theft and conspiracy to commit grand theft, nine for narcotics violations, three for perjury, two each for murder, forgery and conspiracy, and 10 for bookmaking and conspiracy to make book.

In sharp contrast to other counties, notably Los Angeles County, persons convicted of bookmaking in Orange County almost invariably spend time in jail. Courts do not generally assess fines only; the sentences usually are for jail time plus probation.

The superior courts dismissed six indictments brought by the grand jury, and one was acquitted after a trial. Of 11 cases on which there were convictions or guilty pleas, seven brought sentences to prison or jail, and four other cases are set for sentencing early this year. Ten others are pending.

Minister's Health Seminar Thursday

Third in a series of seminars on religion and health for Long Beach-area ministers will be held Thursday in Memorial Hospital according to Rev. Robert F. Gunter, director of the hospital's department of pastoral care.

L.B. TRAFFIC TOLL DOWN

More Drivers Alive

BIKE CHECK
On parking lot behind Harbor Division police station, San Pedro, James C. Goulld, 15, left, and William Watchman, 14, aid police officer Slibr Spies in getting serial number for registry of new bicycle.

THOUSANDS TO REGISTER

Police Tackle Big Bike Task

SA NPEDRO—It's time again for bike registration.

That may not sound like much of a job, but listen to this memo sent to the Harbor Division police station:

"Scope of the Problem—There are in excess of one million bicycles in the city of Los Angeles, of which an estimated 750,000 do not have licenses."

Officers on duty at the Harbor Division station are facing—with customary bravery—the task of registering new Christmas bikes.

"There are hundreds of new bicycles, maybe thousands, here in the harbor area," Officer Wilbur Spiess reported as he busily recorded serial numbers, boys' names and addresses, and other information.

"We don't register all of them here at the station, of course. Many bicycles will be registered at school. But we'll do our share!"

Bike registration costs one dollar and licenses the bicycle until 1969.

'Sex Symbol' Girl Training Held Marriage Flop Cause

By PAUL SISCO

CHICAGO (UPI) — Many American marriages are failures because girls are trained to be "sex symbols" and not much else, according to a divorce court psychologist.

"Our young girls think if they know how to apply lipstick, wear a bigger brassiere and have the right-shaped hips, that's all they have to know," Dr. I. A. Burch said.

Consequently, when a marriage gets into trouble, women have little to fall back on except sex appeal and divorce usually results, he said.

Burch is director of the divorce Conciliation service for the Illinois Circuit Court branch in Cook County.

* * * *

"IF A GIRL flunks algebra today," Burch said, "she just increases her number of dates. She figures if she can get a husband who needs algebra?"

Burch said it is "inevitable" in American society that men eventually fail or run into trouble.

"Women then become terrified, they become more demanding. When her husband needs her most, she fails," Burch said.

BURCH said girls must be taught to "develop themselves as persons. Instead of sex education in the schools, we should term it person education."

Burch, who came to his newly-created post from the University of Illinois Counseling Department, said sex is not a major factor in divorces.

"Couples may think so, but the truth is that sex is usually just a side issue," Burch said. "It often gets blamed for more fundamental problems."

* * * *

MEN OFTEN turn to sex, he said, because they are disappointed in themselves.

"A college student may flunk a calculus test and then try to get his girl into bed," Burch said. "If he succeeds, then he feels he's not really a failure."

Burch said his counseling division has shown remarkable success since it was set up last March as part of Illinois' new court system.

"We're batting about 46%," he said. "In one month, August, we were able to effect reconciliation in 68% of the cases referred to us. We'll probably never do as well again."

Mint Makes New Medal of Johnson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new President Johnson medal, commemorating the beginning of his current term, was announced Saturday by the U.S. mint.

The mint issued another Johnson medal March 6, 1964, to mark his succession to the presidency on the death of President John F. Kennedy.

The new medal bears a full-face portrait in relief of the President with the words Lyndon B. Johnson around the top half. On the reverse side is a quotation from Johnson's Jan. 20 inaugural address.

Below the quotation is a small replica of the presidential seal together with the Chief Executive's signature in script and the inaugural date.

Red Cross Shows Deficit Despite Record Revenues

WASHINGTON (U.P.I.) — Despite a record fund-raising campaign, the American Red Cross Saturday reported a $2,920,102 deficit for the fiscal year ended last June 30.

In its annual report, delivered to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, the organization cited increased commitments in Viet Nam and disaster relief at home as reasons for the debit.

The total fund raised was $90,463,761. The Red Cross said three things contributed to the unprecedented amount:

—Every method of fund raising brought in a higher percentage.

—Every area turned in a higher percentage.

—Every administrative grouping of chapters compiled a higher percentage.

The report listed total revenue at $105,029,833, compared with expenditures of $108,081,320. It said this marked one of the busiest and most active years in the post World War II period.

* * * *

THE $15,770,819 spent for disaster relief was one of the top expenditures of the post-war period. The $17,500,000 assistance to victims of Hurricane Betsy will be figured in next year's report.

The organization listed two records in service activities:

—The 2,775,200 units of blood collected was the largest response in the history of the civilian program.

—The issuance of 2,534,000 water safety certificates also was an all-time high.

Administrative costs, which include staff salaries, office space and accounting services, amounted to $12,083,279. This represents 11.2% of the total expenditure, which means that out of every dollar contributed, 89 cents was used for Red Cross programs.

Secretary McNamara will forward the report to Congress later in the new year along with a Defense Department audit of Red Cross expenditures.

Downey Parks Board Applicant Interviews

Directors of Downey Parks and Recreation District are accepting applications at the district office, 12540 S. Rives Ave., from candidates interested in filling the present board vacancy.

Interviews will be held at the board meeting, Jan. 5, at 7:30 p.m. at Ria San Gabriel Park, 9612 Ardine Ave. The Park Board will make recommendation to the Downey City Council for consideration of appointment.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of Mrs. Fannie E. Weiss, an original member of the board who resigned because of health.

Public School Cost Up 13%

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 1965-66 public school year is costing local and state governments $24.7 billion, 13% more than last year, the National Education Association reported Saturday.

Federal government school aid also rose by 130% to a total of $1.9 billion. This was due mainly to congressional passage of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The association said local taxpayers accounted for $13.1 billion of school income, an increase of 5.8%, while the states put up $9.7 billion, 10.9% more than last year.

* * * *

THE REPORT said the rising number of high school graduates is beginning to level off because most of the World War II babies have now finished their secondary education.

"But the boom is still booming," it said, and "is showing up in college enrollment." It added that 2.4 million high school students will graduate in June, a 1.1% rise over last year. It said that in the two preceding years graduating classes had shown increases of 16 and 17%.

The NEA said salaries of instructional classroom teachers will average about $6,900 this year and those of regular classroom teachers $6,200. It said the average teacher's salary represents a 55.9% increase over $4,055 received 10 years ago.

* * * *

IT SAID this year's school enrollment of nearly 44 million students showed a gain of 2.3%. But it represented an increase of 40.8% over 1955-56, with the highest rise coming at the high school level where it was 86.7%.

BIKE CHECK
On parking lot behind Harbor Division police station, San Pedro, James C. Gould, 15, left, and William Watchman, 14, aid police officer Slibr Spies in getting serial number for registry of new bicycle.

THOUSANDS TO REGISTER

Police Tackle Big Bike Task

SAN PEDRO—It's time again for bike registration.

That may not sound like much of a job, but listen to this memo sent to the Harbor Division police station:

"Scope of the Problem—There are in excess of one million bicycles in the city of Los Angeles, of which an estimated 750,000 do not have licenses."

Officers on duty at the Harbor Division station are facing—with customary bravery—the task of registering new Christmas bikes.

"There are hundreds of new bicycles, maybe thousands, here in the harbor area," Officer Wilbur Spiess reported as he busily recorded serial numbers, boys' names and addresses, and other information.

"We don't register all of them here at the station, of course. Many bicycles will be registered at school. But we'll do our share!"

Bike registration costs one dollar and licenses the bicycle until 1969.

'Sex Symbol' Girl Training Held Marriage Flop Cause

By PAUL SISCO

CHICAGO (UPI) — Many American marriages are failures because girls are trained to be "sex symbols" and not much else, according to a divorce court psychologist.

"Our young girls think if they know how to apply lipstick, wear a bigger brassiere and have the right-shaped hips, that's all they have to know," Dr. I. A. Burch said.

Consequently, when a marriage gets into trouble, women have little to fall back on except sex appeal and divorce usually results, he said.

Burch is director of the divorce Conciliation service for the Illinois Circuit Court branch in Cook County.

* * * *

"IF A GIRL flunks algebra today," Burch said, "she just increases her number of dates. She figures if she can get a husband who needs algebra?"

Burch said it is "inevitable" in American society that men eventually fail or run into trouble.

"Women then become terrified, they become more demanding. When her husband needs her most, she fails," Burch said.

BURCH said girls must be taught to "develop themselves as persons. Instead of sex education in the schools, we should term it person education."

Burch, who came to his newly-created post from the University of Illinois Counseling Department, said sex is not a major factor in divorces.

"Couples may think so, but the truth is that sex is usually just a side issue," Burch said. "It often gets blamed for more fundamental problems."

* * * *

MEN OFTEN turn to sex, he said, because they are disappointed in themselves.

"A college student may flunk a calculus test and then try to get his girl into bed," Burch said. "If he succeeds, then he feels he's not really a failure."

Burch said his counseling division has shown remarkable success since it was set up last March as part of Illinois' new court system.

"We're batting about 46%," he said. "In one month, August, we were able to effect reconciliation in 68% of the cases referred to us. We'll probably never do as well again."

Mint Makes New Medal of Johnson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new President Johnson medal, commemorating the beginning of his current term, was announced Saturday by the U.S. mint.

The mint issued another Johnson medal March 6, 1964, to mark his succession to the presidency on the death of President John F. Kennedy.

The new medal bears a full-face portrait in relief of the President with the words Lyndon B. Johnson around the top half. On the reverse side is a quotation from Johnson's Jan. 20 inaugural address.

Below the quotation is a small replica of the presidential seal together with the Chief Executive's signature in script and the inaugural date.

Red Cross Shows Deficit Despite Record Revenues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a record fund-raising campaign, the American Red Cross Saturday reported a $2,920,102 deficit for the fiscal year ended last June 30.

In its annual report, delivered to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, the organization cited increased commitments in Viet Nam and disaster relief at home as reasons for the debit.

The total fund raised was $90,463,761. The Red Cross said three things contributed to the unprecedented amount:

—Every method of fund raising brought in a higher percentage.

—Every area turned in a higher percentage.

—Every administrative grouping of chapters compiled a higher percentage.

The report listed total revenue at $105,029,833 compared with expenditures of $108,081,320. It said this marked one of the busiest and most active years in the post World War II period.

* * * * *

THE $15,770,819 spent for disaster relief was one of the top expenditures of the post-war period. The $17,500,000 assistance to victims of Hurricane Betsy will be figured in next year's report.

The organization listed two records in service activities:

—The 2,775,200 units of blood collected was the largest response in the history of the civilian program.

—The issuance of 2,534,000 water safety certificates also was an all-time high.

Administrative costs, which include staff salaries, office space and accounting services, amounted to $12,083,279. This represents 11.2% of the total expenditure, which means that out of every dollar contributed, 89 cents was used for Red Cross programs.

Secretary McNamara will forward the report to Congress later in the new year along with a Defense Department audit of Red Cross expenditures.

Downey Parks Board Applicant Interviews

Directors of Downey Parks and Recreation District are accepting applications at the district office, 12540 S. Rives Ave., from candidates interested in filling the present board vacancy.

Interviews will be held at the board meeting, Jan. 5, at 7:30 p.m. at Ria San Gabriel Park, 9612 Ardine Ave. The Park Board will make recommendation to the Downey City Council for consideration of appointment.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of Mrs. Fannie E. Weiss, an original member of the board who resigned because of health.

Public School Cost Up 13%

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 1965-66 public school year is costing local and state governments $24.7 billion, 13% more than last year, the National Education Association reported Saturday.

Federal government school aid also rose by 130% to a total of $1.9 billion. This was due mainly to congressional passage of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The association said local taxpayers accounted for $13.1 billion of school income, an increase of 5.8%, while the states put up $9.7 billion, 10.9% more than last year.

* * * *

THE REPORT said the rising number of high school graduates is beginning to level off because most of the World War II babies have now finished their secondary education.

"But the boom is still booming," it said, and "is showing up in college enrollment." It added that 2.4 million high school students will graduate in June, a 1.1% rise over last year. It said that in the two preceding years graduating classes had shown increases of 16 and 17%.

The NEA said salaries of instructional classroom teachers will average about $[illegible] this year and those of regular classroom teachers $6,2[illegible] It said the average teacher salary represents a 55.9% increase over $4,055 reached 10 years ago.

* * * *

IT SAID this year's school enrollment of nearly 44 million students showed a gain of 2.3%. But it represented an increase of 40.8% over 1955-56, with the highest rise coming at the high school level where it was 86.7%.

Shell in the Mail but No Snail

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A Florida state park ranger found a snail in his mail.

W. F. Hodgdon, a ranger at Bahia Honda State Park in the Florida Keys, said the snail came airmail, wrapped in a moist sponge with this note:

"Enclosed you will find a snail, one of the common variety which occurs in the Florida Keys. While on vacation in Florida, I picked it up as a pretty shell, too late realizing that the animal was still inside . . .

"Since I cannot feed it, would you please be kind enough to lay it on any grassy area so that it has a chance to survive?"

However, Hogdon said the shell's occupant had disappeared.

We are locating in LONG BEACH

JANUARY 3, 1966 is a very important date to us at Fidelity . . . on that day we will open our first regional office. During 28 years in one location in Glendale, Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan has become one of the largest associations in the United States, with assets of more than $360 million.

In that period, Fidelity has paid its savings account holders dividends in excess of $86 million, and has never missed a payday.

Why are we in Long Beach? Because it is a large and soundly growing metropolitan area. Because in the past five years alone we have financed some $52 million of new single family and multiple-unit housing within the city of Long Beach. Because we like its people. We hope you will like us.

N. C. Hayhurst

FOR A SHORT PERIOD we will occupy this temporary building on our block-long property on Ocean Boulevard. In a few months we will begin construction of a modern multi-story office building which, together with an extensive parking area, will become our permanent regional home in Long Beach.

We are locating in LONG BEACH

JANUARY 3, 1966 is a very important date to us at Fidelity . . . on that day we will open our first regional office. During 28 years in one location in Glendale, Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan has become one of the largest associations in the United States, with assets of more than $360 million.

In that period, Fidelity has paid its savings account holders dividends in excess of $86 million, and has never missed a payday.

Why are we in Long Beach? Because it is a large and soundly growing metropolitan area. Because in the past five years alone we have financed some $52 million of new single family and multiple-unit housing within the city of Long Beach. Because we like its people. We hope you will like us.

N. C. Haythurst

FOR A SHORT PERIOD we will occupy this temporary building on our block-long property on Ocean Boulevard. In a few months we will begin construction of a modern multi-story office building which, together with an extensive parking area, will become our permanent regional home in Long Beach.

Cory Named Assembly Administrative Officer

I. P-T. State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — J. Kenneth Cory of 13361 Edwards St., Westminster, has taken over as chief administrative officer of the California Assembly.

It is one of the top staff positions in the Legislature.

Cory, 28, was the first chairman of the Westminster Merit System Commission. He became a staff assistant to Rep. Richard T. Hanna, D-Fullerton, when Hanna was an assemblyman, then was a consultant to the Assembly Education Committee.

As chief administrative officer, Cory hires and fires Assembly employes. He supervises the assembly staff and passes on purchase orders and payroll claims.

In recent years Cory has been chief assembly researcher on educational bills. He has concentrated on school finance and teacher's credentials. He attended Huntington Beach High School and Orange Coast College.

Cory performed the administrative officer's duties during the 1965 legislative session, but his appointment was not announced until Saturday.

Bull Market Finishes 1965 at All-Time Peak

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — The long bull market survived another year in 1965; did it on record volume and finished at a new all-time peak.

The journey was not without its detours.

The year was marked by a series of frightening tumbles and dizzying upswings and although the nation's thriving economy was the driving force behind the advance, Wall Street never took its eyes off the world situation.

* * * *

THE POPULAR averages turned in another good performance but gains in the indicators fell short of 1964. Chief depressant was the May-June decline which Wall Street labeled the "Martin-market" after Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin whose remarks, paralleling the conditions of 1929 and 1965, touched off the slide.

The most popular indicator, the Dow-Jones industrials, got off to a strong start and crashed through the "magic" 900 level on April 9, backtracked a while, then moved to 939.62 on May 14. The Martin market began a few days later and on June 28, the average hit a new 1965 low of 840.59—a drop of 99.03 from the peak 30 sessions before. The indicator did not cross the 900 mark again until Sept. 2, and failed to set another new peak until Oct. 11 when it closed at 942.65.

During this period the market also suffered from such adverse factors as the failing British economy and devaluation fears, nervousness created by the Viet Nam conflict and intervention in the Dominican Republic, and the slow intensification of the cold war by the new administration in Moscow.

* * * *

THE BRITISH economic problem plagued the market through most of the summer and several analysts were anticipating a devaluation of the pound by September. Instead, there was a slowly improving economy and a subsequently stronger pound.

This, plus the rescaling of the 900 level by the Dow-Jones average, sparked a brisk rally which lasted until around the end of October.

A more or less churning action marked the remainder of the year and only a few rallies were seen. Even the traditional year-end rally was half-hearted.

The big disappointment in the final quarter, according to many analysts, was the action of the blue chips. These higher quality shares were pretty much neglected as Wall Street went on a speculative binge which continued to year-end. Low-priced and growth shares were the center of attention and many of these doubled, tripled and even quadrupled in value over 1964.

Winery on Move —It's Atop Fault

By RODNEY GUILFOIL

MENLO PARK (UPI)—The owners of a winery seven miles south of Hollister are constantly having to patch and repair the building. And small wonder—it is built exactly atop the notorious San Andreas Fault, which breeds California's earthquakes.

Slowly the winery is being pulled apart, at the rate of half an inch a year. Scientists have used the lateral movement of concrete slabs in the building to measure "fault creeps" in millimeters. A fault, in geological terms, is a break in rock strata.

The non-scientific can also see the results of the fault's movement. Straight white lines have been painted across the concrete slabs. They no longer join. And every year, the two parts of the line get further apart.

Outside the winery, the creep is also noticeable in the jog of a drainage ditch and out-of-line rows of grapevines in the vineyard.

* * * *

NOW, IN THE hope of eventually being able to predict when earthquakes will occur, geologists are undertaking an intensive study of the San Andreas Fault, which runs 600 miles from Pointe Arena on California's northwest coast to the Salton Sea in the Southern California desert.

It was the San Andreas Fault that caused San Francisco's disastrous earthquake and fire of 1906 and earthquakes periodically since then. Scientists say serious earthquakes can be expected in the future.

Research on the fault is being conducted for the National Center for Earthquake Research here. It is a division of the Interior Department's U.S. Geological Survey.

One of the first jobs is being carried out by geologist Thomas Dibblee Jr., who plans a 10-year job of mapping the geology on each side of the fault.

"The San Andreas Fault was chosen for the research because it's one of the largest and most active earthquake faults in the world," Dibblee says.

His job will be to produce geological maps indicating the amount of horizontal offset in the various geological periods.

* * * *

"IT IS APPARENT that one side or other of the faults is moving," Dibblee says, "but geologists aren't sure which it is."

He says geologists believe there has been a total displacement of 350 miles since the Jurassic period 200 million years ago. In the 1906 San Francisco earthquake, the fault shifted horizontally as much as 21 feet.

"Based on the historic interval, we think now that the fault is due for another big shake, along some part of it," Dibblee says. "However, there is no way yet of predicting when, and there is no way of predicting where.

"But we know that there is movement along the fault, at the rate of about half an inch per year, even without a quake. Tensions are building up and eventually they will snap."

NOW, IN THE hope of eventually being able to predict when earthquakes will occur, geologists are undertaking an intensive study of the San Andreas Fault, which runs 600 miles from Pointe Arena on California's northwest coast to the Salton Sea in the Southern California desert.

It was the San Andreas Fault that caused San Francisco's disastrous earthquake and fire of 1906 and earthquakes periodically since then. Scientists say serious earthquakes can be expected in the future.

Research on the fault is being conducted for the National Center for Earthquake Research here. It is a division of the Interior Department's U.S. Geological Survey.

One of the first jobs is being carried out by geologist Thomas Dibblee Jr., who plans a 10-year job of mapping the geology on each side of the fault.

"The San Andreas Fault was chosen for the research because it's one of the largest and most active earthquake faults in the world," Dibblee says.

His job will be to produce geological maps indicating the amount of horizontal offset in the various geological periods.

* * * *

"IT IS APPARENT that one side or other of the faults is moving," Dibblee says, "but geologists aren't sure which it is."

He says geologists believe there has been a total displacement of 350 miles since the Jurassic period 200 million years ago. In the 1906 San Francisco earthquake, the fault shifted horizontally as much as 21 feet.

"Based on the historic interval, we think now that the fault is due for another big shake, along some part of it," Dibblee says. "However, there is no way yet of predicting when, and there is no way of predicting where.

"But we know that there is movement along the fault, at the rate of about half an inch per year, even without a quake. Tensions are building up and eventually they will snap."

Polar Bear Swim Very Chilly Affair

With the water temperature 56 degrees and the air temperature also in the mid 50s, the Polar Bears found little company Saturday for their annual New Year's Day plunge in the Pacific Ocean at San Pedro's Cabrillo Beach.

Some 70 hardy souls, instead of the expected 200, were issued certificates by the Los Angeles City Recreation and Parks Department as honorary members of the Polar Bears, an informal group of year-around swimmers at the strand.

Crowned as King and Queen Neptune before the noontime dip were Wayne Perkins, 41, of 741 W. 31st St., and Mrs. Helga Berg, 35, of 1110 W. 36th St., both San Pedro. Both proved their right to rule by taking a brisk swim, then received gifts from their subjects—pale blue sweatshirts.

Moving aside — but only briefly—for the entrance of the Polar Bears were more than a score of surfers who had been skimming the waves for hours.

Driver Fined, Loses Control of Horse

BALTIMORE (AP) — Roland Fleming, 24, was fined $110 in traffic court on drunken driving charges after testimony that Fleming, driving a horse and wagon in downtown Baltimore, lost control of the animal and it jumped on the trunk of an automobile.

Jail Girl, Wounded Man as Bandits

A Buena Park barmaid and a bearded boyfriend who bore two bullet wounds were booked by sheriff's officers Saturday on suspicion of robbing a Lakewood liquor store of approximately $3,500.

The suspects, both arrested in an Eighth Street apartment in Buena Park about 2:30 a.m., were booked at the Lakewood sheriff's station at 5:10 a.m. They gave their names as Sandra Anne Brown, 21, and Richard Alan Watts, 22.

An all-points police bulletin still is out for a third suspect, named as Robert M. Maguire, 23, also of Buena Park.

Watts, who reportedly came to Southern California recently from Tennessee and is known to police under aliases of Braught and Brown, was transferred from the Lakewood sheriff's station to the jail ward of Los Angeles County General Hospital Saturday morning for treatment of wounds on the back of his head and his right forearm.

* * * *

DEPUTIES said the wounds were from bullets from a .45-caliber automatic pistol fired by the proprietor of the Beto Liquor Store, 5810 N. Lakewood Blvd., as two men sped from the scene in a 1965-model station wagon.

Michael Betor, 34, told officers he emptied the weapon at the tailgate window of the vehicle. When the car was abandoned five blocks away, officers found considerable blood on the driver's seat.

After abandoning the station wagon, which reportedly had been stolen last Wednesday in Pasadena, the two occupants made their getaway from the corner of Hedda Street and Hazelbrook Avenue in a second automobile.

Detectives who checked Miss Brown's apartment several hours after the 3:30 p.m. Friday holdup found bloodstains and shortly thereafter put out the "wanted" bulletin for Watts and for Maguire.

Officers said that Miss Brown, after being arrested with Watts following their return to the apartment early Saturday, first told them that Watts had injured himself while shooting at targets near Elsinore. Watts himself had reported to deputies shortly after the liquor-store robbery that he had been shot twice by "a sniper."

* * * *

BESIDES working as a barmaid in Buena Park, the woman suspect—described by jailers as 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds reportedly told officers she was a belly dancer in a Hollywood nightclub.

The liquor-store proprietor's wife, two young sons and five male customers were in the store when two bandits entered Friday afternoon. One of the gunmen fired a shot into the floor and ordered all nine victims to lie down as his partner emptied the cash register.

LITTLE THEATER

. . . You've Had a Busy Year

By GEORGE ERES

Some theaters bit the dust, some expanded; some boiled over with internal dispute, some cursed the reviewer; some shows had audiences, some had none — but through it all, area little theater not only survived but managed to get more than 75 works on stage in 1965.

Biggest loss to the area was the demise of the Orange County Theater, Tustin, which midway in its second season of presenting nightly Equity performances left the scene for want of cash.

Other producing groups which faded away were the Pine Players and Theater Upstairs in Long Beach and Actor's Co. of Seal Beach which left Peppermint Playhouse there devoted primarily to children's plays.

* * * *

PORTS OF Call Players, a summer stock company with a heavy contingent of Long Beach State College-developed actors, folded its tent after the season and although there was some talk of looking for a permanent showplace, nothing developed.

However, Actor's Circle, stocked with L.B. State-trained players, got a place in Belmont Shore and plans on staying.

Palos Verdes Players, in Palos Verdes, which had been operating for a long time on a curtailed schedule, blossomed out as a year-around theater, functioning weekends as do other area theaters.

* * * *

MAGNOLIA Theater, for some 10 years operating in the round on Magnolia Avenue, shifted operations to Morgan Hall's proscenium stage, succeeding Theater Upstairs and various other groups who have played there over the years.

Off-Broadway got a resident director, Ron Hogue, who announced an ambitious program for the theater, including stage remodeling, and plans for keeping the playhouse open every night in the week with some activity — a rather strenuous schedule in view of lack of rehearsal place.

Community Playhouse, oldest established non-professional theater in the southland went through reorganization and growing pains as it added a new wing — upstairs Studio Theater and Studio Room, hired a coordinator, and revised its policies. The new idea is to make the playhouse more a community cultural center—bring in new ideas through guest directors—and, incidentally, save money by eliminating a resident director. Still in the formative stages is the program for the Dramatic Arts Center and under discussion is use of the new wing.

South Coast Repertory Co., which got its start here but felt dissatisfied with response to its program has apparently found a home at Newport Beach.

* * * *

IN ALL there were some 17 playing groups active during the year, including L.B. State and City colleges. Works produced ran the gamut from children's offerings pure and simple to avant garde.

If not dead, then at least dormant, was the Council of Living Theater, which was organized to promote live theater in Long Beach. It staged a Drama Day, but lapsed for want of leadership and inability to find a group reason for being.

It was, in short a typical little theater year—full of struggle to get a curtain up, internal disputes and personality squabbles — all the rifts and frenetics without which it could not exist—and a Happy New Year to all involved.

LAST YEAR'S HUMOR

Not Too Hilarious

By EARL WILSON

'Sixty-five was not as funny a year as some of its predecessors in the Sexy 60s . . . this I sadly discovered in racking up my nominations for the year's Best Laughs.

The humor was more grim, and less carefree, and often a commentary.

"Defense Secretary McNamara has a new book, 'What To Do In Case of Peace.' " said Ukie Sherwin, an ex-Hollywood gag writer, in a representative quip. He also spoke of "The Atheists' theme song: 'Hmmm Bless America.' " Joe E. Lewis switched from whisky gags in one joke: "Old soldiers never die, because young soldiers do all the fighting."

* * * *

BACK IN February '65, it was funny when Jack E. Leonard said, "Bob Hope couldn't be here tonight — he's entertaining the troops at UCLA."

But in December, with Hope and troupe in Viet Nam, it was less amusing.

* * * *

DEAN MARTIN was alleged to have read of Frank Sinatra's interest in Mia Farrow, 20, and to have wired him, "I've got Scotch older then she is."

* * * *

THE SUPPOSED moral breakdown was reflected in many quoted quips. Carol Lynley asked, "Why is everybody so worried about me posing nude? It's only skin!". Dave Astor praised speed reading: "It saves you many wasted hours getting to the dirty part" . . .

Lou Nelson said a chap approached him at a subway exit and said, "Mac, can you let me have a few dollars? I'm broke, and all I got in this world is this gun."

'Angels on Frosting' Cake Doesn't Rise

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

"If I survive, how will I live?"

That is the sad, earth-shaking question Jerry Di Iorio as the nuclear-tinkering husband, Harry Rifkin, tosses around in Magnolia Theater's production of Luby Miller's new comedy, "Angels On The Frosting," which opened New Year's Eve in the magnificently refurbished theater in Morgan Hall.

Unfortunately, the question of survival or even upstaging an old-fashioned hangover is not what confronts Mrs. Miller's play—her second. Mrs. Miller's "non-problem" play which oddly tackles more social problems than a play by Arthur Miller (alas! no relative) is confronted on all sides by a more primary question:

When will it ever come alive as a play?

* * * *

FOR THE simple, honest verdict on "Angels" — and what a cheerful way to start the New Year!—is that Mrs. Miller's play is poorly written and conceived.

And it is not the frosting on it. The theater has room for sweetness and fluff and even angels trumpeting that "nothing in life is serious enough to worry about." Being a devil, I do not happen to agree, but as a critic I am willing enough to have my vision corrected.

What Mrs. Miller serves up is not really over-sweet frosting, but, like most people who refuse to see life's problems for the frosting on top, she has unwittingly given us some of the blackest comedy this side of Marat/Sade. (And that the old Marquis did brilliantly and intentionally—in an asylum).

Consider her main character who is tinkering with a "re-reactor" which will make fallout radiation "work" for us (I said "work"). In other words, Harry's little invention will put the pieces of nuclear explosion back together into new creative energy and so instead of destroying us for good, save us.

* * * *

OR CONSIDER when Harry's daughter, Eve (Diana Caldwell) tells her boyfriend, Philip (Lee Rhoads), that he will come back to her on his knees. Now what do you think the cleancut American boy replied? "Only in case of amputation, baby!" And Philip is even more cheerful and "campy" when he talks about kissing his girl—after a makeup — in "the glossy glow of your cold diamonds" . . . or purple words to that effect.

JERRY DI IORIO and Millie Peretz in scene from "Angels on the Frosting."

No wonder, to quote one character, the "neighbors are restless." I would be restless, too, if I thought the oddballs next door—or "irresponsible delinquents" as the rich Moses Whetstone (Dev Burke) called them—were just lovable goofballs out of "You Can't Take It With You" and they turned out to be a bunch of "gassers" who were really going to blow us all up the better to put us together again.

* * * *

SINCE THAT fine actor, dropping down in class, Travis Bryan as the amusing baker (Ikkle) and, now and then, Lee Rhoads (Philip) and Dev Burke (Moses) were the only members of the cast who spoke and acted as if punctuation "floss" did not become between each word or "fallout" business between their stage movements, let's not name the others involved.

THE STARS

What They're Doing . . .

DONLEVY TINA BORGNINE ADAMS

By M. E. GEORGE

Veteran actor Brian Donlevy goes into "Waco" . . . Virna Lisi, having completed "Assault On A Queen" has returned to Italy . . . Joanne Woodward and Jean Seberg, finished with "A Fine Madness"; Joanne has gone back to her Westport, Conn., home; Jean back to Paris . . . Tina Marquand, daughter of Jean-Pierre Aumont and the late Maria Montez, makes her movie bow in "Modesty Blaise," as Terence Stamp's girl friend. She's the private life wife of Christian Marquand, who is in "The Flight of the Phoenix" with Richard Attenborough, James Stewart, Peter Finch, Hardy Kruger and Ernest Borgnine.

Warren Beatty stars as a nightclub entertainer in "Mickey One", suspense drama with Franchot Tone, Hurd Hatfield, Alexandra Stewart, Teddy Hart and Fujiwara . . . Tom Adams is only the "2nd Best Secret Agent in the Whole Wide World" in the picture of the same name.

Nigel Green, British actor ("The Ipcress File" and "Let's Kill Uncle"), has been set to star with Rock Hudson and George Peppard in "Destination Tobruk".

George Chakiris left last Thursday for London to meet with producer Kenneth Heyman about a starring role in "The Dirty Dozen," film which Heyman puts before the cameras early in 1966. Chakiris returns to Hollywood the middle of this month.

Martin Milner, who stars with Connie Stevens in the Broadway comedy, "Any Wednesday," opening Jan. 11 at Melodyland Theater in Anaheim, played in the first production of the Muriel Resnik stage hit presented outside New York City, at the Poinciana Playhouse in Miami Beach.

Science Projects Make Hair Curl

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some of the projects undertaken by scientists in the year just ended would, if they succeeded, curl your hair.

Others would make chickens more tender and tasty. One, indeed, may disclose what Dante really wrote when he wrote the "Divine Comedy" back in the 14th century.

But, alas, it must be reported that the sudsy detergent problem remained unsolved in 1965.

Dr. Robert A. Wall of the Clairol research laboratories, Stamford, Conn., told the American Chemical Society at its 150th meeting it is now possible to determine the damage done to hair by beauty shop or home treatments.

* * * *

THE NEXT STEP, he said, is to develop methods for undoing this damage. The step after that? Nothing less than techniques for making human hair permanently curlier, or straighter, depending on what the customer wants.

The cause of the touch chicken, and its solution, was discussed at the same convention by Dr. Donald de Fremery of the Agriculture Department.

According to De Fremery, a chicken gets tough largely because of harsh processing treatments such as mechanical feather picking, high scalding temperatures, freezing and thawing.

All this causes a breakdown of glycogen, or animal starch, the result being that the chicken you pluck out of the supermarket's frozen meat bin is sometimes less than perfect.

Chemists at the Agriculture Department's western regional research laboratory discovered a way to minimize glycogen breakdown — inject the chicken with epinephrine or sodium iodoacetate. Do this, De Fremery said, and you have a tender and tasty bird.

* * * *

AS FOR DANTE and his great poem, scholars have been worrying about the fact that his original words appear to have been obscured by more than 300 different versions published in the last six centuries.

So they have put a computer system to work in a project to sort out and catalogue words known or assumed to be Dante's own. By this means they hope to spot any words supplied by well-meaning editors and restore the poem to its original Dantesque purity.

It took the computer less than 19 hours to complete one comparing-counting-sorting operation that would have taken many scholars many years to finish.

Back to the sudsy detergent. Manufacturers in recent months have reported development of new "soft" detergents supposed to do their work and then fade away.

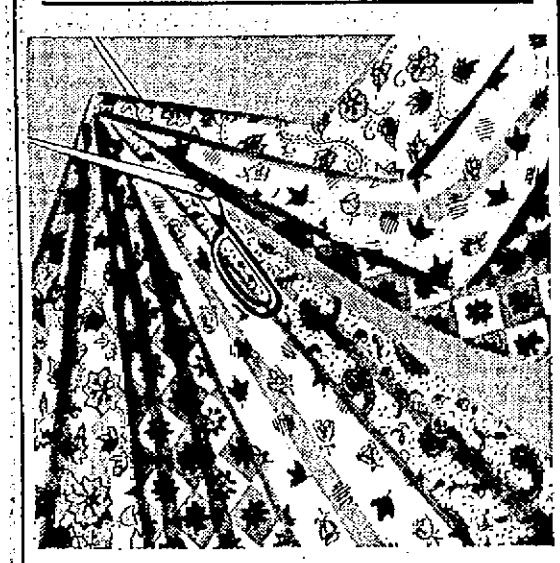

* * * *

UNHAPPILY, according to Dr. Cooper H. Wayman of the Geological Survey, we still have with us the problem of suds backup in faucets, foam on rivers and in sewage plants, and fish killed for lack of oxygen in streams contaminated by detergents.

He said a "new generation of super-soft detergents" is urgently needed along with new treatment facilities to decompose them with or without oxygen.

Stiles, Beban Lead UCLA in 14-12 Surprise

By JEROME HALL

All those who left their hearts in Ypsilanti had best turn to the comics section because they'll find this the sad, sad tale of a monumental triumph by a bunch of young fellows who didn't have a chance in the Rose Bowl Saturday against the brutish champions of the Big Ten.

But the score turned out to be 14-12 for the 14-point underdogs as the poor little UCLA Bruins astounded even their most ardent rooters by poking, prodding and pummeling the Michigan State Spartans and holding them scoreless until the closing minutes.

The Spartans came into the game already conceded the '65 national championship and they had been branded possibly the best of all the standout Big Ten teams that have built a record of 15 victories in the 20 years of the series, but UCLA won this game in exactly the fashion that Michigan State was supposed to win it—with a furious, tenacious, courageous defense.

UCLA struck for two touchdowns in a three-minute span early in the second period and then hitched their belts a notch to hold off the champions until the last seven minutes when they showed the expectable effects of struggling with an opponent of vastly superior heft.

The Bruins turned a fumbled punt in the shadow of the Spartan goalpost into a quick-strike touchdown on the first play of the second period, with sophomore quarterback Gary Beban stabbing through the middle of the behemoths for one gigantic yard.

2 Pages of Pictures . . . C-4, 5

Then the Uclans executed an on-side kickoff that seemed to startle the Spartans and swooped 42 yards in seven plays, with Beban again stabbing through the middle from one yard out.

KURT ZIMMERMAN'S PLACEMENTS provided the two all-important conversions.

The Michigan Staters finally crashed the scoreboard with seven minutes remaining as substitute quarterback Jimmy Raye pitched a lateral to Hawaiian Bob Apisa on Raye's first play in the game and Apisa rambled 38 yards to the end zone with it.

The Spartans drove 49 yards for their second touchdown as the clock ticked off the final minutes. Starting QB Steve Juday plowed over from the one with 31 seconds remaining and that brilliant Bruin defense rose up to throw back the big fellows from the Big Ten on a two-point conversion try that would have tied it.

The Uclans' defense thwarted a try for two points on the previous enemy touchdown, too.

It had been billed as a match of UCLA's "bomb," It's long-pass threat, against a monsterous Michigan State defense that had become famous for holding opponents for few points and minus yardage, but the Bruins poked a hole in that theory by gaining more yards on the first play of the day than the Spartans gave up in half their games the past season.

When Beban, the Bruin superman quarterback, ran around right end for 28 yards into Spartan territory on that first play, it served as an accurate warning to the 100,081 in the famed Pasadena stadium, as well as millions on television, just what was to come.

"Rather than offer any alibis I would rather give full credit to UCLA for playing a truly great game," commented a somber Duffy Daugherty, the Michigan State comedian-coach. "They kept us off balance from the start and forced us into mistakes."

It was the first Rose Bowl victory in six tries by a UCLA team and more than avenged their 13-3 loss to the Spartans last September.

Too, it turned coach Tommy Prothro into a genuine gridiron miracle worker for he turned a patchwork squad, that had the worst defensive record in the country last year, into a team that will be remembered for a startling defensive show in the most important college football game in the nation.

Time after time the Uclans blunted line plunges and took the ball away from the team that rambled through all 10 of its opponents to win the mythical national championship.

The Bruins intercepted three passes, two of the thefts leading to the selection of Long Beach City College grad Bob Stiles as "player of the game."

Once in the fourth quarter the Spartans tried to plunge one yard on third down and the Bruins stopped them, and so the Spartans tried to plunge that one yard on fourth down and the Bruins threw them back and took over the ball at the MSU 27.

Blended into this kind of defense was enough offense to keep the Spartans from achieving ball control, a major objective. UCLA had 80 plays to 77 for the team that had allowed no more than 13 points to any of its 10 opponents through an undefeated schedule.

THE MIDWESTERN TEAM had an advantage in most of the statistical categories. The game's leading rusher was Spartan halfback Clint Jones, with 113 yards in 20 carries.

Apisa, the team's rushing star most of the season, was not fully recovered from his knee injury as claimed and carried only four times. He totaled 49 yards, 38 of them coming on his touchdown run.

"He ran okay on that touchdown," said Daugherty, "but he couldn't run very well to his left."

Spartan quarterback Steve Juday, who was supposed to be on a personal vendetta to get even with the pros for not drafting him, showed why the pros didn't draft him. He can't pass and was an ineffective runner. He fumbled spectacularly once, choking off a touchdown drive at the UCLA 19.

The Bruins got off to a fast start when Beban worked a fake handoff to Farr and scooted around end for 28 yards down the sideline on the game's first scrimmage play.

That put the Bruins inside Michigan State territory with but 22 seconds gone and sent the Spartan coach scurrying for a field phone to discuss matters with his assistants in the press box.

On the game's third play, Beban tried for the payoff, a long pass that was obviously the tactic the Bruins were depending on for upset, since they didn't know then about their defense. The throw went deep toward end Dick Witcher who was in the open and would have gone for six points on a 46-yard play if Beban hadn't thrown a step too far.

It looked like the Spartans were moving goalward late in the first period when they ran into trouble that turned the flavor of the game with a suddenness that left the thousands of Midwestern rooters still and numbed.

On a third down pass play Juday was trapped for a minor loss but he wiggled loose and threw a poor pass far over the head of his nearest teammate, a pass which Stiles grabbed on his 10 and returned down the sideline 47 yards into Michigan State territory.

The Uclans were unable to move and punted, but on the kick they got another lucky break when defensive specialist Don Japinga, Spartan co-captain, fumbled it on the 10 and reserve center John Erquiaga fell on the ball at the six.

Beban took it the rest of the way on two ground thrusts. He scored on the first play of the second period, plunging through the middle from the one-yard line.

Kurt Zimmerman booted the first of his two conversions that eventually meant the difference and the underdogs were out in front by a 7-0 count.

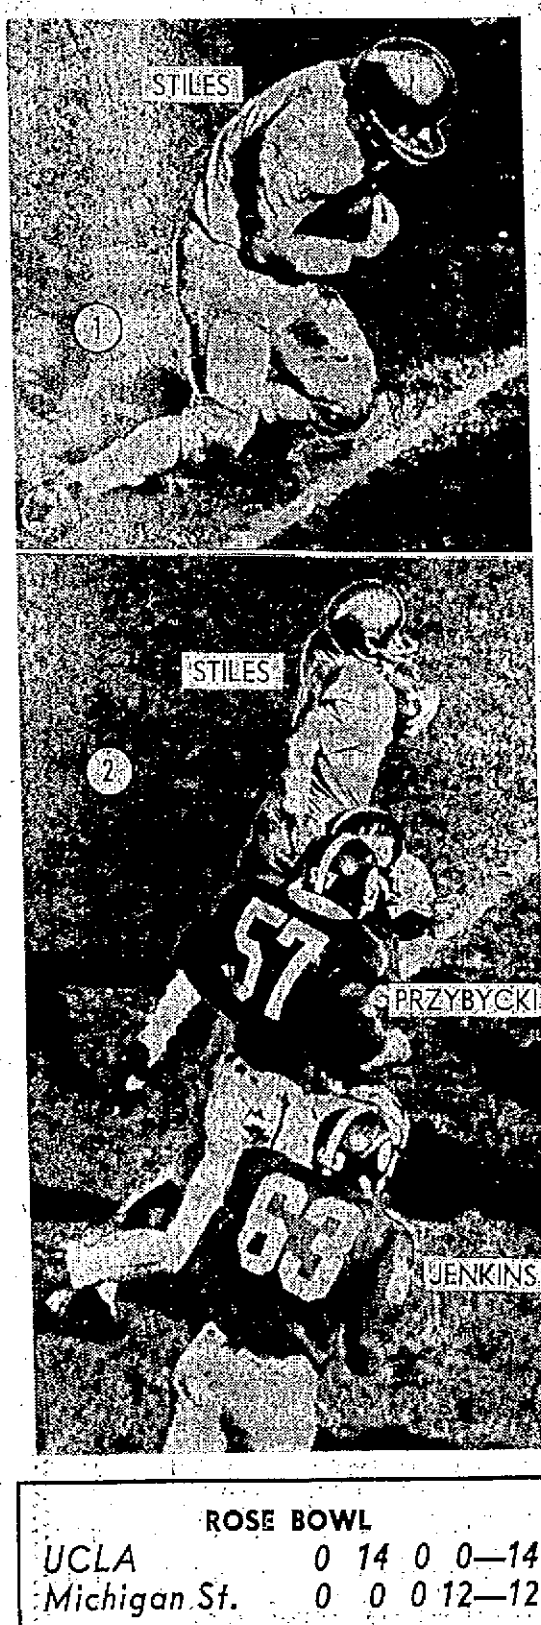

That set the stage for the most devastating play in the sport of football, the on-side kickoff, the play that the Bruins used to shoot down the Trojans in the dramatic

And He Didn't Flip Ball in Stands

Bob Stiles, the ex-Long Beach City College hero who gained national notoriety for tossing a ball into the stands in 1964 Junior Rose Bowl game, restricted his show to the playing field Saturday. And he had quite a day for UCLA. From the moment he returned the opening kickoff 22 yards, Stiles, a defensive specialist, was most offensive, as far as Michigan State was concerned. He was named the game's outstanding player. In sequence (1-4), Stiles intercepts Steve Juday pass and returns 42 yards in first quarter. Below, Stiles was a bit too aggressive. He was called for pass interference on Spartans' Gene Washington in second period.

Prothro Limp . . . No Alibi by Daugherty

Coach Tommy Prothro looked limp but most of his UCLA players had enough energy left to pound each other on the back and shout like New Year's Eve celebrants after their surprise 14-12 Rose Bowl win over Michigan State Saturday.

Several of the Bruins cried in derision, "The greatest mismatch of the century!"

Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty, after consoling his players in a 15-minute period before permitting the press to enter the dressing room, refused to alibi.

Prothro, with his first Rose Bowl win as coach or as a player, looked weary after the game as he nervously sipped on a soft drink. He said:

"I think we played all year as a team and we did it again today. I think our offense played fine football today, but maybe the defense deserves a little more credit."

Daugherty agreed that the UCLA defensive team played a "fine game" and said the UCLA linebackers were stunting on almost every play.

Prothro and his players all had praise for the Spartans as a tough football team, although the MSU players obviously were not pleased with their showing.

Steve Juday, the Spartan quarterback who had an off day personally, said he didn't feel UCLA was much different from the first regular season meeting won by the Spartans 13-3.

Juday also disclosed that on a key play when the Spartans tried to make a two-point conversion after their first touchdown that end Gene Washington slipped and fell, giving him no receiver for the ball.

UCLA quarterback Gary Beban said of the Spartans: "Those front linemen of theirs are really large hitters. They've got a great ball club."

Stiles, Beban Lead UCLA in 14-12 Surprise

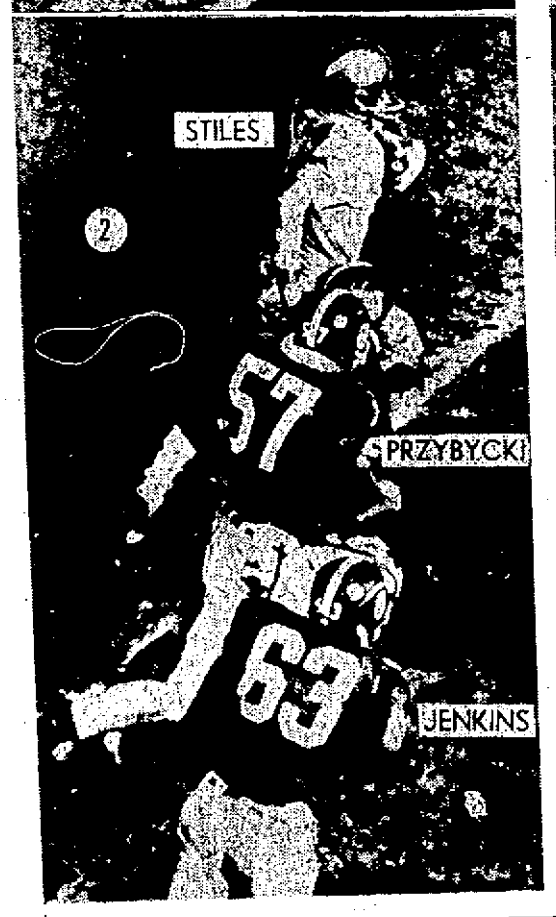

By JEROME HALL

All those who left their hearts in Ypsilanti had best turn to the comics section because they'll find this the sad, sad tale of a monumental triumph by a bunch of young fellows who didn't have a chance in the Rose Bowl Saturday against the brutish champions of the Big Ten.

But the score turned out to be 14-12 for the 14-point underdogs as the poor little UCLA Bruins astounded even their most ardent rooters by poking, prodding and pummeling the Michigan State Spartans and holding them scoreless until the closing minutes.

The Spartans came into the game already conceded the '65 national championship and they had been branded possibly the best of all the standout Big Ten teams that have built a record of 15 victories in the 20 years of the series, but UCLA won this game in exactly the fashion that Michigan State was supposed to win it—with a furious, tenacious, courageous defense.

UCLA struck for two touchdowns in a three-minute span early in the second period and then hitched their belts a notch to hold off the champions until the last seven minutes when they showed the expectable effects of struggling with an opponent of vastly superior heft.

The Bruins turned a fumbled punt in the shadow of the Spartan goalpost into a quick-strike touchdown on the first play of the second period, with sophomore quarterback Gary Beban stabbing through the middle of the behemoths for one gigantic yard.

Then the Uclans executed an on-side kickoff that seemed to startle the Spartans and swooped 42 yards in seven plays, with Beban again stabbing through the middle from one yard out.

KURT ZIMMERMAN'S PLACEMENTS provided the two all-important conversions.

The Michigan Staters finally crashed the scoreboard with seven minutes remaining as substitute quarterback Jimmy Raye pitched a lateral to Hawaiian Bob Apisa on Raye's first play in the game and Apisa rambled 38 yards to the end zone with it.

The Spartans drove 49 yards for their second touchdown as the clock ticked off the final minutes. Starting QB Steve Juday plowed over from the one with 31 seconds remaining and that brilliant Bruin defense rose up to throw back the big fellows from the Big Ten on a two-point conversion try that would have tied it.

The Uclans' defense thwarted a try for two points on the previous enemy touchdown, too.

It had been billed as a match of UCLA's "bomb," it's long-pass threat, against a monsterous Michigan State defense that had become famous for holding opponents for few points and minus yardage, but the Bruins poked a hole in that theory by gaining more yards on the first play of the day than the Spartans gave up in half their games the past season.

When Beban, the Bruin superman quarterback, ran around right end for 28 yards into Spartan territory on that first play, it served as an accurate warning to the 100,081 in the famed Pasadena stadium, as well as millions on television, just what was to come.

"Rather than offer any alibis I would rather give full credit to UCLA for playing a truly great game," commented a somber Duffy Daugherty, the Michigan State comedian-coach. "They kept us off balance from the start and forced us into mistakes."

It was the first Rose Bowl victory in six tries by a UCLA team and more than avenged their 13-3 loss to the Spartans last September.

Too, it turned coach Tommy Prothro into a genuine gridiron miracle worker for he turned a patchwork squad, that had the worst defensive record in the country last year, into a team that will be remembered for a startling defensive show in the most important college football game in the nation.

Time after time the Uclans blunted line plunges and took the ball away from the team that rambled through all 10 of its opponents to win the mythical national championship.

The Bruins intercepted three passes, two of the thefts leading to the selection of Long Beach City College grad Bob Stiles as "player of the game."

Once in the fourth quarter the Spartans tried to plunge one yard on third down and the Bruins stopped them, and so the Spartans tried to plunge that one yard on fourth down and the Bruins threw them back and took over the ball at the MSU 27.

Blended into this kind of defense was enough offense to keep the Spartans from achieving ball control, a major objective. UCLA had 80 plays to 77 for the team that had allowed no more than 13 points to any of its 10 opponents through an undefeated schedule.

THE MIDWESTERN TEAM had an advantage in most of the statistical categories. The game's leading rusher was Spartan halfback Clint Jones, with 113 yards in 20 carries.

Apisa, the team's rushing star most of the season, was not fully recovered from his knee injury as claimed and carried only four times. He totaled 49 yards, 38 of them coming on his touchdown run.

"He ran okay on that touchdown," said Daugherty, "but he couldn't run very well to his left."

Spartan quarterback Steve Juday, who was supposed to be on a personal vendetta to get even with the pros for not drafting him, showed why the pros didn't draft him. He can't pass and was an ineffective runner. He fumbled spectacularly once, choking off a touchdown drive at the UCLA 19.

The Bruins got off to a fast start when Beban worked a fake handoff to Farr and scooted around end for 28 yards down the sideline on the game's first scrimmage play.

That put the Bruins inside Michigan State territory with but 22 seconds gone and sent the Spartan coach scurrying for a field phone to discuss matters with his assistants in the press box.

On the game's third play, Beban tried for the payoff, a long pass that was obviously the tactic the Bruins were depending on for upset, since they didn't know then about their defense. The throw went deep toward end Dick Witcher who was in the open and would have gone for six points on a 46-yard play if Beban hadn't thrown a step too far.

It looked like the Spartans were moving goalward late in the first period when they ran into trouble that turned the flavor of the game with a suddenness that left the thousands of Midwestern rooters still and numbed.

On a third down pass play Juday was trapped for a minor loss but he wiggled loose and threw a poor pass far over the head of his nearest teammate, a pass which Stiles grabbed on his 10 and returned down the sideline 47 yards into Michigan State territory.

The Uclans were unable to move and punted, but on the kick they got another lucky break, when defensive specialist Don Japinga, Spartan co-captain, fumbled it on the 10 and reserve center John Erquiaga fell on the ball at the six.

Beban took it the rest of the way on two ground thrusts. He scored on the first play of the second period, plunging through the middle from the one-yard line.

Kurt Zimmerman booted the first of his two conversions that eventually meant the difference and the underdogs were out in front by a 7-0 count.

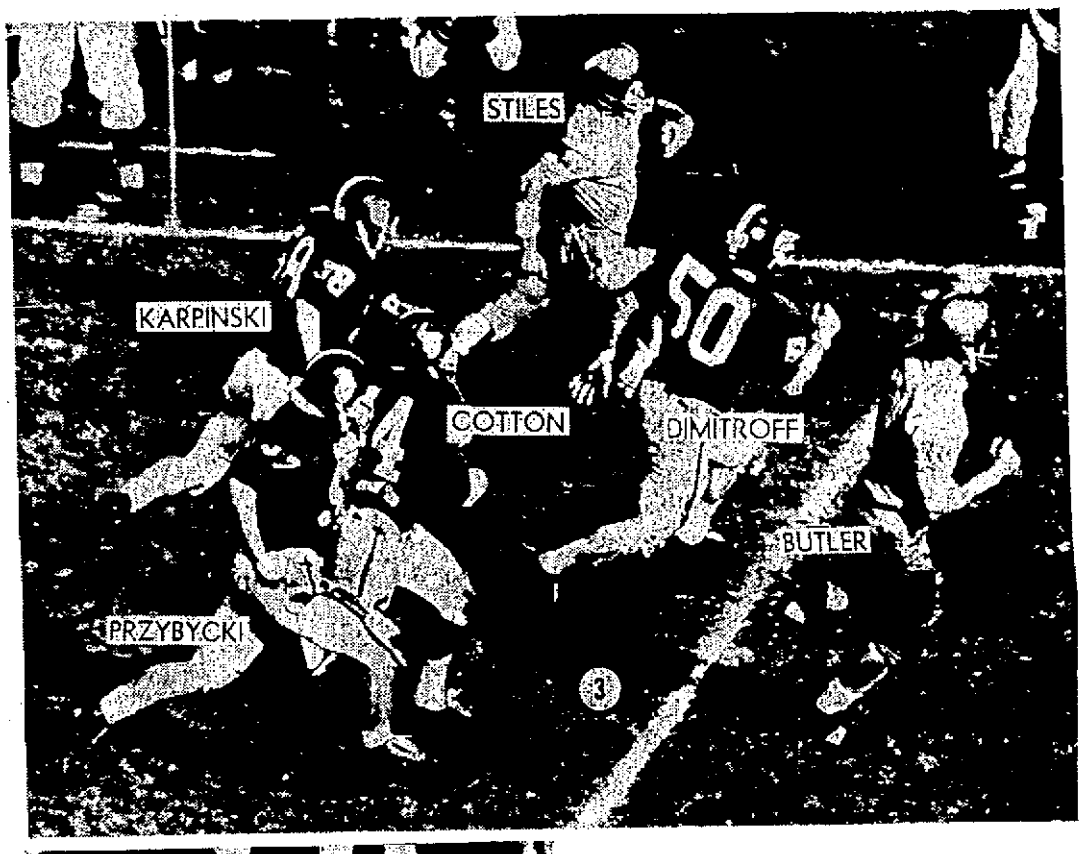

That set the stage for the most devastating play in the sport of football, the on-side kickoff, the play that the Bruins used to shoot down the Trojans in the dramatic

And He Didn't Flip Ball in Stands

Bob Stiles, the ex-Long Beach City College hero who gained national notoriety for tossing a ball into the stands in 1964 Junior Rose Bowl game, restricted his show to the playing field Saturday. And he had quite a day for UCLA. From the moment he returned the opening kickoff 22 yards, Stiles, a defensive specialist, was most offensive, as far as Michigan State was concerned. He was named the game's outstanding player. In sequence (1-4), Stiles intercepts Steve Juday pass and returns 42 yards in first quarter. Below, Stiles was a bit too aggressive. He was called for pass interference on Spartans' Gene Washington in second period.

Stiles 'Feels Wonderful' Following Best Effort

The miracle of Westwood was completed Saturday as the UCLA Bruins, ranked at the start of the campaign to tie with Washington State for last place in the AAWU, bagged the highest collegiate football honor of the season—a Rose Bowl victory.

In the process, the little guys representing UCLA knocked off the No. 1 team in the nation, Michigan State. The margin was only two points, but the win was as great as the distance from Glen Ridge, New Jersey, to Pasadena.

Why Glen Ridge? Well, from that village came a little 170-pounder named Bob Stiles, who gained his polish at Long Beach City College last season. Mr. Stiles, whom USC thought was too tiny to perform in major college circles, was named player-of-the-game Saturday. The UCLA defensive back snagged two enemy passes, smashed Michigan State ball carriers all afternoon and made the big tackle of the day. With his Bruins leading 14-12, Stiles nailed Michigan State fullback Bob Apisa on the two-yard line when the Spartans were attempting a two-point play.

If Stiles hadn't been present, the Big Ten champions would have salvaged a tie.

For his last major effort, the outspoken kid from Carteret High School in N. J., received not only the game ball, but also the outstanding player trophy and a mild concussion.

Stiles, who placed second to Marv Motley in balloting for player-of-the-game in the 1964 Jr. Rose Bowl game in this same stadium—and who achieved more publicity for his act of throwing a football into the stands after intercepting a lateral and running it back for a touchdown—had these comments after receiving Saturday's highest honor:

"I always wanted to play in the Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia when I was in New Jersey. Then, when I got into the Jr. Rose Bowl with Long Beach last year, I thought that was the greatest. But, today was the biggest thrill of all. Heck, the Liberty Bowl had only 5,000 people and didn't have national television like this. I feel wonderful."

On the serious side, after his brief interview, Stiles was escorted to a medical room by UCLA's athletic director, J. D. Morgan, who insisted his star athlete be examined.

Never without a quip, however, Stiles had a parting statement: "The only reason I didn't throw a football into the stands today was because I didn't score a touchdown. I was too busy tackling people."

STILES' COACH, TOMMY PROTHRO, had a rare bit of humor himself. "I called all the on-side kicks and the third-down punts," snickered Prothro. The one on-side UCLA kickoff turned into the Bruins' second and winning touchdown. The reference to third down kicks was to Prothro's reputation of being a conservative coach. UCLA booted the ball only once on third down Saturday and that was from its own end zone.

How could UCLA beat Michigan State in the teams' second meeting after the Spartans bumped the Bruins 13-3 in the first game of the season?

"We learned something from that first game," said Prothro. "And we also improved after that game. One game doesn't determine a season, but we learned. That was the main thing."

No dummy is Prothro, who admitted only one thing about Michigan State—that at halftime he had to adjust his defenses.

"I could see that Washington (Gene) was making yardage rolling away from us, so I just had my defensive men take different positions. The boy could have killed us in the second half, but he didn't because he expected the same defensive alignment. He didn't find it after the bands played."

DUFFY DAUGHERTY, the Michigan State coach who received a handshake from his governor, George Romney, and accepted a breakfast invitation at the same time, was a good loser.

The fighting Irishman had these comments, however.

"I still think Michigan State is No. 1 in the nation. I was apprehensive all week long about this game. There were too many distractions until the last few days. This is no alibi, but all Big Ten teams are governed by certain distractions.

"I don't know why the people who set odds made us a 14-point favorite. Heck, this team beat USC and also lost to us by only 10 points when they were just formulating.

"The Rose Bowl is a special game. It's something you have to prepare for after the season is really over. We had a rough schedule, then had to come back against a team we already had beat. If we beat them once, then they knew we weren't coming back with the same stuff. We didn't know what to expect from them."

What really beat the No. 1 ranked team on Jan. 1, 1966?

"I could look at the films and see a half-million ways of losing," said Daugherty. "But I think the real answer was that UCLA was a far more polished team than when we saw them in September."

In more somber tones, with tears approaching, Daugherty concluded: "We were showered with David and Goliath comments. We were known as Goliath. And if you read the Bible, you know who won. Poor Goliath. . . . or was it David?"

I guess even in modern day, there is a place for little David to slay the giant. The midget Bruins proved that Saturday.

comeback that opened the gates for UCLA to the Rose Bowl.

Just as against USC, it was linebacker Dallas Grider who gobbled up the ball and the Bruins were back in business. It was time for Beban to get a little help, so the UCLA coaches called halfback Mel Farr's number. Farr responded with a 21-yard rip up the middle that might have gone all the way if he hadn't slipped on the soft turf.

That worked so nicely that the next decision was to let Beban try his specialty, so he threw a line-drive pass toward the goal that Altenberg turned into a magnificent reception with a dive and a finger-tip grab at the Spartan one-yard line.

On the next play Beban took it the rest of the way on a head-down plunge through the middle and Zimmerman's right foot made it 14-0 with three minutes and 10 seconds expired in the second quarter.

That was the end of the first-half scoring as the Spartans, scrambling to get back into the game, turned erratic. Everything went sour. The Big Ten champions got a lucky break on a fumble recovery at the Bruin 35 midway through the second period but Juday fumbled the ball right back to the Bruins.

With 26 seconds left in the half the Spartans' kicking specialist, barefooted Hawaiian Dick Kenney, trotted confidently onto the field for what appeared to be a routine three-pointer from the 13-yard line. There was a slight angle and the kick sailed wide by a narrow margin on a windless afternoon. The misfire so upset the decorum of the Big Ten champions that on the next play they had only nine men on the field.

During the scoreless third period reporters from the Midwest were busily pacing the press box trying to figure when the turning point would come and just how the great big brutes from football's breadbelt would turn the game around.

The turning point that saved the Spartans from total embarrassment came in the way the Midwestern sportswriters and midwestern rooters' least expected. It was when Daugherty decided to let his second-string quarterback into the game.

Juday had just passed 42 yards on the first play after a fourth quarter UCLA field goal try from the 34 was short. That put the Spartans on the UCLA 38 with seven minutes remaining.

* * * *

THAT'S WHEN Duffy sent his sub QB into the game. On his first play Raye, from Fayetteville, S.C., took the ball from center and headed for a hole at right tackle but whirled and flipped a pitch-back to fullback Apisa, the man who scored the only touchdown in the September clash between the two schools that ended 13-3. Apisa went all the way in one play.

On the conversion, the Spartans lined up in place-kick formation but the holder, Juday, wheeled around and tried to pass. His throw was deflected by defensive end Jerry Klein and it fell harmlessly on the five.

The green and white pompons that waved furiously at Raye's success kept right on waving as the Spartans held for downs and regained the ball four plays later when Larry Cox's punt was partially deflected.

The Spartans got the ball 51 yards away from a matching touchdown and there were four minutes to get it. Daugherty shuttled his two quarterbacks, but it was again the substitute, Raye, who moved the Big Ten champs.

* * * *

RAYE CONNECTED on a 21-yarder to end Gene Washington, the team's best receiver who caught four for 81 yards in this one. Then Juday hit Washington for nine yards and Raye ran for four and the Spartans were at the 24.

From the 24 it took nine plays to get the touchdown.

The brilliant Bruin defense tightened to force two fourth-and-one situations — at the 15 and at the one-yard line. On the latter crucial play the Bruins allowed only one foot, so the Spartans' second touchdown actually was scored from about one foot out.

That final foot was plunged by Juday with 31 seconds showing on the clock.

For the two-point conversion play trying for the tie the Spartans lined up at the left hash mark, obviously intending for a sweep to their right and obviously on a run by Apisa, their best back even when he is bothered by a knee ailment.

* * * *

THE PITCHOUT on the biggest play of the day went to Apisa and nobody on the UCLA team was fooled. They drifted with him and Stiles charged up from his pass-protection position to meet Apisa at the same time the linebacker, Grider, crashed into the Spartan fullback.

The result was that Apisa went sprawling on the turf at the two-yard line, the green and white pompons stopped waving and the sportswriters from the Midwest began explaining to their readers how Michigan State really was a better team and would have won except for all that sightseeing in glamorous Southern California.

So, if you want to believe that, mark up another victory for Disneyland.

caller said, "We wanted to establish a running game. We did that once anyway when Mel Farr broke through to set up the first touchdown. We wanted to connect on a few short passes and then surprise them with the bomb."

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown and University of California president Clark Kerr were among the first to enter the UCLA dressing room to congratulate Prothro and his players.

Brown told defensive halfback Bob Stiles, "You played a great game, son." Stiles, named the game's outstanding player, looked a little woozy and almost stumbled as he went wearily into the dressing room.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan had the chore of visiting the losing Spartans, and went to the players to congratulate them on their fine season overall.

Daugherty refused to blame any individual or try to single out any factor for the loss although he was obviously downcast and far from his jovial self.

Washington, who dropped his helmet on the ground in disgust on the way to the dressing room, regained his composure after the game. He concurred with Juday that he had slipped on the two-point conversion play because of the unusually slick playing field.

LUCAS SIGNS WITH CARDS

BRUINS DIDN'T KNOW WHEN TO QUIT
Michigan State fullback Bob Apisa finally makes it into Rose Bowl end zone for Spartans' first touchdown in final quarter, but UCLA defender Jerry Klein, who doesn't want to give up, appears to be trying to drag him back across goal line. Apisa caught pass from Jim Raye on 38-yard play.

Bruins Looked Best for All Time That Counted

Michigan State did not look anything like the No. 1 college football team in the nation that it was supposed to be Saturday in the Rose Bowl.

UCLA did for 3½ quarters, and that's why the Bruins came out on top of a wild 14-12 battle that will go down as one of the classic's all-time thrillers.

In fact, the Bruins made monkeys out of the "great apes," as the huge Spartans were tabbed in one facetious article.

But even in defeat, Michigan State did prove two things: (1) Its defensive unite was everything they said it was, and (2) there is no doubt but what the Spartans are a great fourth-quarter team.

MSU, which outscored 10 regular-season opponents 103-7 in the fourth period, came fighting back from a 14-0 deficit with 12 points in the final six minutes and narrowly missed tying it up with 31 seconds left.

Meanwhile, the defense held the Bruins to 65 net yards rushing and 147 passing . . . pretty close to par. The Spartans' season averages were 45.6 and 124.3.

However, the offensive unit provided the Spartans their biggest disappointment.

THE SPARTAN ATTACK was not expected to be stymied by the Bruins as it was for 3½ quarters, especially after UCLA had given up 479 yards to Washington, 424 to USC and 403 to Tennessee and a total of 77 points in the three late-season games.

Michigan State actually wound up with a creditable 314 yards to win the battle of the statistics, but only at times were the Spartans able to move consistently until in the late stages of the fray.

The Spartans' utter frustration can be seen in the fact that they were faced with fourth-and-one situations no less than six times.

They went for the yardage five times and lost the ball on downs three times when they were stopped cold. And on the other occasion, they were intimidated into attempting a field goal when trailing 14-0 in the closing seconds of the first half rather than going for a TD after reaching the six-yard line.

As it turned out, the field goal would have saved the game for MSU, but Dick Kenney's 23-yard barefoot kick was wide to the right.

COACH DUFFY DAUGHERTY admitted that clever Bruin strategy was responsible for the Spartans' failure to sustain their drives. "They kept us off balance from the start and forced us into more mistakes than in any other game we've played.

"Key to UCLA holding us off was the fact we couldn't stop them from stunting on defense because they used so many varieties. They had different men crashing all the time . . . and this was greatly responsible for stopping our bread-and-butter plays, the pitchout off tackle and the dive play. All season long they worked in light situations, but the Bruins stopped us and that's the reason they won.

"Make no mistake about it, they played a truly great game."

Tommy Prothro agreed, saying "my boys played their finest game of the season. The whole team gave it absolutely everything they had, and they were moving mighty quick."

The latter statement was quite significant, for it was the Bruins' greater mobility that offset the Spartans' superior size.

The stunning upset of the No. 1-ranked Michigan State club was achieved in classic style.

THE UNDERDOG BRUINS scored their 14 points during "the blackest six minutes in Michigan State football history."

That period covered the final three minutes of the first quarter and the opening three minutes of the second period.

The Spartans appeared to have gained control of the game late in the first quarter as they gradually worked their way to a first down on the UCLA 28-yard line following three punt exchanges.

That's when the roof began to cave in.

On the next play, the Spartans were penalized back to the 42 for holding. A pass for 11 yards moved the ball to the 31 when, on third down, Steve Juday tried to salvage at least a field goal attempt by fading back to pass.

However, as he was grabbed by a Bruin tackler, Juday committed a cardinal sin of football. He desperately tried to save the play by throwing wildly while off-balance. Former LBCC star Bob Stiles, playing safety for UCLA, was waiting for it on the 15. He picked up blocking as he cut to his left, finally found running room down the sidelines and scampered 42 yards before being tripped up by the last man with a chance to get him on the Michigan State 43.

That was the turning point. Had Michigan State, with its ball control offense scored first, it probably would have been a far different story.

But that's how upsets are made.

The Bruins were thrown back three yards in three plays and forced to punt after Stiles' run. That's when disaster really struck the Spartans.

Despite the fact two Bruin tacklers were bearing down on him hard, safetyman Don Japinga elected to try and field it on the five-yard line even though the punt likely would have bounced into the end zone.

He bobbled it, and center John Erquiaga recovered on the six to set the stage for Gary Beban's touchdown plunge.

Then came more trouble for the Spartans, who were thoroughly shook up by the turn of events.

As they laid back expecting a long kickoff, Kurt Zimmerman and Dallas Grider pulled off a successful onside kick—the same maneuver they recorded against USC that carried the Bruins into the Rose Bowl.

Grider recovered on the Spartan 42 and the Bruins quickly scored the winning points after Mel Farrs' 21-yard run and Beban's 27-yard pass to Kurt Altenberg on the one-yard line set up Beban's second one-yard scoring plunge.

Stiles 'Feels Wonderful' Following Best Effort

The miracle of Westwood was completed Saturday as the UCLA Bruins, ranked at the start of the campaign to tie with Washington State for last place in the AAWU, bagged the highest collegiate football honor of the season—a Rose Bowl victory.

In the process, the little guys representing UCLA knocked off the No. 1 team in the nation, Michigan State. The margin was only two points, but the win was as great as the distance from Glen Ridge, New Jersey, to Pasadena.

Why Glen Ridge? Well, from that village came a little 170-pounder named Bob Stiles, who gained his polish at Long Beach City College last season. Mr. Stiles, whom USC thought was too tiny to perform in major college circles, was named player-of-the-game Saturday. The UCLA defensive back snagged two enemy passes, smashed Michigan State ball carriers all afternoon and made the big tackle of the day. With his Bruins leading 14-12, Stiles nailed Michigan State fullback Bob Apisa on the two-yard line when the Spartans were attempting a two-point play.

If Stiles hadn't been present, the Big Ten champions would have salvaged a tie.

For his last major effort, the outspoken kid from Carteret High School in N. J., received not only the game ball, but also the outstanding player trophy and a mild concussion.

Stiles, who placed second to Marv Motley in balloting for player-of-the-game in the 1964 Jr. Rose Bowl game in this same stadium—and who achieved more publicity for his act of throwing a football into the stands after intercepting a lateral and running it back for a touchdown—had these comments after receiving Saturday's highest honor:

"I always wanted to play in the Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia when I was in New Jersey. Then, when I got into the Jr. Rose Bowl with Long Beach last year, I thought that was the greatest. But, today was the biggest thrill of all. Heck, the Liberty Bowl had only 5,000 people and didn't have national television like this. I feel wonderful."

On the serious side, after his brief interview, Stiles was escorted to a medical room by UCLA's athletic director, J. D. Morgan, who insisted his star athlete be examined.

Never without a quip, however, Stiles had a parting statement: "The only reason I didn't throw a football into the stands today was because I didn't score a touchdown. I was too busy tackling people."

STILES' COACH, TOMMY PROTHRO, had a rare bit of humor himself. "I called all the on-side kicks and the third-down punts," snickered Prothro. The one on-side UCLA kickoff turned into the Bruins' second and winning touchdown. The reference to third down kicks was to Prothro's reputation of being a conservative coach. UCLA booted the ball only once on third down Saturday and that was from its own end zone.

How could UCLA beat Michigan State in the teams' second meeting after the Spartans bumped the Bruins 13-3 in the first game of the season?

"We learned something from that first game," said Prothro. "And we also improved after that game. One game doesn't determine a season, but we learned. That was the main thing."

No dummy is Prothro, who admitted only one thing about Michigan State—that at halftime he had to adjust his defenses.

"I could see that Washington (Gene) was making yardage rolling away from us, so I just had my defensive men take different positions. The boy could have killed us in the second half, but he didn't because he expected the same defensive alignment. He didn't find it after the bands played."

DUFFY DAUGHERTY, the Michigan State coach who received a handshake from his governor, George Romney, and accepted a breakfast invitation at the same time, was a good loser.

The fighting Irishman had these comments, however.

"I still think Michigan State is No. 1 in the nation. I was apprehensive all week long about this game. There were too many distractions until the last few days. This is no alibi, but all Big Ten teams are governed by certain distractions.

"I don't know why the people who set odds made us a 14-point favorite. Heck, this team beat USC and also lost to us by only 10 points when they were just formulating.

"The Rose Bowl is a special game. It's something you have to prepare for after the season is really over. We had a rough schedule, then had to come back against a team we already had beat. If we beat them once, then they knew we weren't coming back with the same stuff. We didn't know what to expect from them."

What really beat the No. 1 ranked team on Jan. 1, 1966?

"I could look at the films and see a half-million ways of losing," said Daugherty. "But I think the real answer was that UCLA was a far more polished team than when we saw them in September."

In more somber tones, with tears approaching, Daugherty concluded: "We were showered with David and Goliath comments. We were known as Goliath. And if you read the Bible, you know who won. Poor Goliath. . . . or was it David?"

I guess even in modern day, there is a place for little David to slay the giant. The midget Bruins proved that Saturday.

comeback that opened the gates for UCLA to the Rose Bowl.

Just as against USC, it was linebacker Dallas Grider who gobbled up the ball and the Bruins were back in business. It was time for Beban to get a little help, so the UCLA coaches called halfback Mel Farr's number. Farr responded with a 21-yard rip up the middle that might have gone all the way if he hadn't slipped on the soft turf.

That worked so nicely that the next decision was to let Beban try his specialty, so he threw a line-drive pass toward the goal that Altenberg turned into a magnificent reception with a dive and a fingertip grab at the Spartan one-yard line.

On the next play Beban took it the rest of the way on a head-down plunge through the middle and Zimmerman's right foot made it 14-0 with three minutes and 10 seconds expired in the second quarter.

That was the end of the first-half scoring as the Spartans, scrambling to get back into the game, turned erratic. Everything went sour. The Big Ten champions got a lucky break on a fumble recovery at the Bruin 35 midway through the second period but Juday fumbled the ball right back to the Bruins.

With 26 seconds left in the half the Spartans' kicking specialist, barefooted Hawaiian Dick Kenney, trotted confidently onto the field for what appeared to be a routine three-pointer from the 13-yard line. There was a slight angle and the kick sailed wide by a narrow margin on a windless afternoon. The misfire so upset the decorum of the Big Ten champions that on the next play they had only nine men on the field.

During the scoreless third period reporters from the Midwest were busily pacing the press box trying to figure when the turning point would come and just how the great big brutes from football's breadbelt would turn the game around.

The turning point that saved the Spartans from total embarrassment came in the way the Midwestern sportswriters and midwestern rooters' least expected. It was when Daugherty decided to let his second-string quarterback into the game.

Juday had just passed 42 yards on the first play after a fourth quarter UCLA field goal try from the 34 was short. That put the Spartans on the UCLA 38 with seven minutes remaining.

* * * *

THAT'S WHEN Duffy sent his sub QB into the game. On his first play Raye, from Fayetteville, S.C., took the ball from center and headed for a hole at right tackle but whirled and flipped a pitchback to fullback Apisa, the man who scored the only touchdown in the September clash between the two schools that ended 13-3.

Apisa went all the way in one play.

On the conversion, the Spartans lined up in placekick formation but the holder, Juday, wheeled around and tried to pass. His throw was deflected by defensive end Jerry Klein and it fell harmlessly on the five.

The green and white pompons that waved furiously at Raye's success kept right on waving as the Spartans held for downs and regained the ball four plays later when Larry Cox's punt was partially deflected.

The Spartans got the ball 51 yards away from a matching touchdown and there were four minutes to get it. Daugherty shuttled his two quarterbacks, but it was again the substitute, Raye, who moved the Big Ten champs.

* * * *

RAYE CONNECTED on a 21-yarder to end Gene Washington, the team's best receiver who caught four for 81 yards in this one. Then Juday hit Washington for nine yards and Raye ran for four and the Spartans were at the 24.

From the 24 it took nine plays to get the touchdown.

The brilliant Bruin defense tightened to force two fourth-and-one situations — at the 15 and at the one-yard line. On the latter crucial play the Bruins allowed only one foot, so the Spartans' second touchdown actually was scored from about one foot out.

That final foot was plunged by Juday with 31 seconds showing on the clock.

For the two-point conversion play trying for the tie the Spartans lined up at the left hash mark, obviously intending for a sweep to their right and obviously on a run by Apisa, their best back even when he is bothered by a knee ailment.

* * * *

THE PITCHOUT on the biggest play of the day went to Apisa and nobody on the UCLA team was fooled. They drifted with him and Stiles charged up from his pass-protection position to meet Apisa at the same time the linebacker, Grider, crashed into the Spartan fullback.

The result was that Apisa went sprawling on the turf at the two-yard line, the green and white pompons stopped waving and the sportswriters from the Midwest began explaining to their readers how Michigan State really was a better team and would have won except for all that sightseeing in glamorous Southern California.

So, if you want to believe that, mark up another victory for Disneyland.

caller said, "We wanted to establish a running game. We did that once anyway when Mel Farr broke through to set up the first touchdown. We wanted to connect on a few short passes and then surprise them with the bomb."

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown and University of California president Clark Kerr were among the first to enter the UCLA dressing room to congratulate Prothro and his players.

Brown told defensive halfback Bob Stiles, "You played a great game, son." Stiles, named the game's outstanding player, looked a little woozy and almost stumbled as he went wearily into the dressing room.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan had the chore of visiting the losing Spartans, and went to the players to congratulate them on their fine season overall.

Daugherty refused to blame any individual or try to single out any factor for the loss although he was obviously downcast and far from his jovial self.

Washington, who dropped his helmet on the ground in disgust on the way to the dressing room, regained his composure after the game. He concurred with Juday that he had slipped on the two-point conversion play because of the unusually slick playing field.

LUCAS SIGNS WITH CARDS

Harold Lucas, massive Michigan State defensive lineman, has agreed to sign to play pro with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League, his attorney announced Saturday night.

BRUINS DIDN'T KNOW WHEN TO QUIT
Michigan State fullback Bob Apisa finally makes it into Rose Bowl end zone for Spartans' first touchdown in final quarter, but UCLA defender Jerry Klein, who doesn't want to give up, appears to be trying to drag him back across goal line. Apisa caught pass from Jim Raye on 38-yard play.

Bruins Looked Best for All Time That Counted

Michigan State did not look anything like the No. 1 college football team in the nation that it was supposed to be Saturday in the Rose Bowl.

UCLA did for 3½ quarters, and that's why the Bruins came out on top of a wild 14-12 battle that will go down as one of the classic's all-time thrillers.

In fact, the Bruins made monkeys out of the "great apes," as the huge Spartans were tabbed in one facetious article.

But even in defeat, Michigan State did prove two things: (1) Its defensive unite was everything they said it was, and (2) there is no doubt but what the Spartans are a great fourth-quarter team.

MSU, which outscored 10 regular-season opponents 103-7 in the fourth period, came fighting back from a 14-0 deficit with 12 points in the final six minutes and narrowly missed tying it up with 31 seconds left.

Meanwhile, the defense held the Bruins to 65 net yards rushing and 147 passing . . . pretty close to par. The Spartans' season averages were 45.6 and 124.3.

However, the offensive unit provided the Spartans their biggest disappointment.

THE SPARTAN ATTACK was not expected to be stymied by the Bruins as it was for 3½ quarters, especially after UCLA had given up 479 yards to Washington, 424 to USC and 403 to Tennessee and a total of 77 points in the three late-season games.

Michigan State actually wound up with a creditable 314 yards to win the battle of the statistics, but only at times were the Spartans able to move consistently until in the late stages of the fray.

The Spartans' utter frustration can be seen in the fact that they were faced with fourth-and-one situations no less than six times.

They went for the yardage five times and lost the ball on downs three times when they were stopped cold. And on the other occasion, they were intimidated into attempting a field goal when trailing 14-0 in the closing seconds of the first half rather than going for a TD after reaching the six-yard line.

As it turned out, the field goal would have saved the game for MSU, but Dick Kenney's 23-yard barefoot kick was wide to the right.

COACH DUFFY DAUGHERTY admitted that clever Bruin strategy was responsible for the Spartans' failure to sustain their drives. "They kept us off balance from the start and forced us into more mistakes than in any other game we've played.

"Key to UCLA holding us off was the fact we couldn't stop them from stunting on defense because they used so many varieties. They had different men crashing all the time . . . and this was greatly responsible for stopping our bread-and-butter plays, the pitchout off tackle and the dive play. All season long they worked in tight situations, but the Bruins stopped us and that's the reason they won.

"Make no mistake about it, they played a truly great game."

Tommy Prothro agreed, saying "my boys played their finest game of the season. The whole team gave it absolutely everything they had, and they were moving mighty quick."

The latter statement was quite significant, for it was the Bruins' greater mobility that offset the Spartans' superior size.

The stunning upset of the No. 1-ranked Michigan State club was achieved in classic style.

THE UNDERDOG BRUINS scored their 14 points during "the blackest six minutes in Michigan State football history."

That period covered the final three minutes of the first quarter and the opening three minutes of the second period.

The Spartans appeared to have gained control of the game late in the first quarter as they gradually worked their way to a first down on the UCLA 28-yard line following three punt exchanges.

That's when the roof began to cave in.

On the next play, the Spartans were penalized back to the 42 for holding. A pass for 11 yards moved the ball to the 31 when, on third down, Steve Juday tried to salvage at least a field goal attempt by fading back to pass.

However, as he was grabbed by a Bruin tackler, Juday committed a cardinal sin of football. He desperately tried to save the play by throwing wildly while off-balance. Former LBCC star Bob Stiles, playing safety for UCLA, was waiting for it on the 15. He picked up blocking as he cut to his left, finally found running room down the sidelines and scampered 42 yards before being tripped up by the last man with a chance to get him on the Michigan State 43.

That was the turning point. Had Michigan State, with its ball control offense scored first, it probably would have been a far different story.

But that's how upsets are made.

The Bruins were thrown back three yards in three plays and forced to punt after Stiles' run. That's when disaster really struck the Spartans.

Despite the fact two Bruin tacklers were bearing down on him hard, safetyman Don Japinga elected to try and field it on the five-yard line even though the punt likely would have bounced into the end zone.

He bobbled it, and center John Erquiaga recovered on the six to set the stage for Gary Beban's touchdown plunge.

Then came more trouble for the Spartans, who were thoroughly shook up by the turn of events.

As they laid back expecting a long kickoff, Kurt Zimmerman and Dallas Grider pulled off a successful onside kick—the same maneuver they recorded against USC that carried the Bruins into the Rose Bowl.

Grider recovered on the Spartan 42 and the Bruins quickly scored the winning points after Mel Farrs' 21-yard run and Beban's 27-yard pass to Kurt Altenberg on the one-yard line set up Beban's second one-yard scoring plunge.

Bengals End Arkansas Win Skein at 22

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

KIDS FOLLOWED INSTRUCTIONS

'Made Them Play Our Type of Game,' McClendon

DALLAS (AP) — "We slowed them down and made them play our type of game," coach Charlie McClendon said Saturady after Louisiana State snapped Arkansas' 22-game winning streak with a 14-7 Cotton Bowl triumph.

"I told you before the game that we couldn't match their speed, and we couldn't," he said. "But we played control ball and came up with the big play. Our kids followed instructions right to the end."

McClendon called the upset his greatest thrill since his playing days with Kentucky and the Wildcats' Sugar Bowl victory over Oklahoma.

That triumph severed a 32-game Oklahoma winning streak.

McClendon said he didn't think his Tigers made one wrong decision and "we didn't have a fumble or a single pass interception."

"There were times when it looked like we should pass," he said. "But we weren't going to put the ball into the air and give them the chance for that interception. They'll kill you."

McClendon had promised that his thrice-beaten Bengals would have a couple of surprises for the second-ranked Razorbacks.

However, this generally was restricted to fluctuating offensive formations and defensive stunting."

* * * *

"I JUST TOLD Pat Screen (LSU quarterback) before the game, 'Let's go after them with everything we've got.' He said, 'Coach I think I'm ready.'"

Arkansas coach Frank Broyles said Jerry Joseph's pass interception was the turning point in Louisiana State's victory.

Broyles said "I thought we had a chance until we got a pass intercepted on first down."

The Razorbacks had moved from their 20 to the Tiger 36 when Joseph swept in front of Arkansas end Bobby Crockett and picked off a Jon Brittenum pass at the LSU 20 with 6:17 left in the game.

"LSU is to be congratulated," Broyles said. "They had a lot of determination and they did a good job. They have a fine football team."

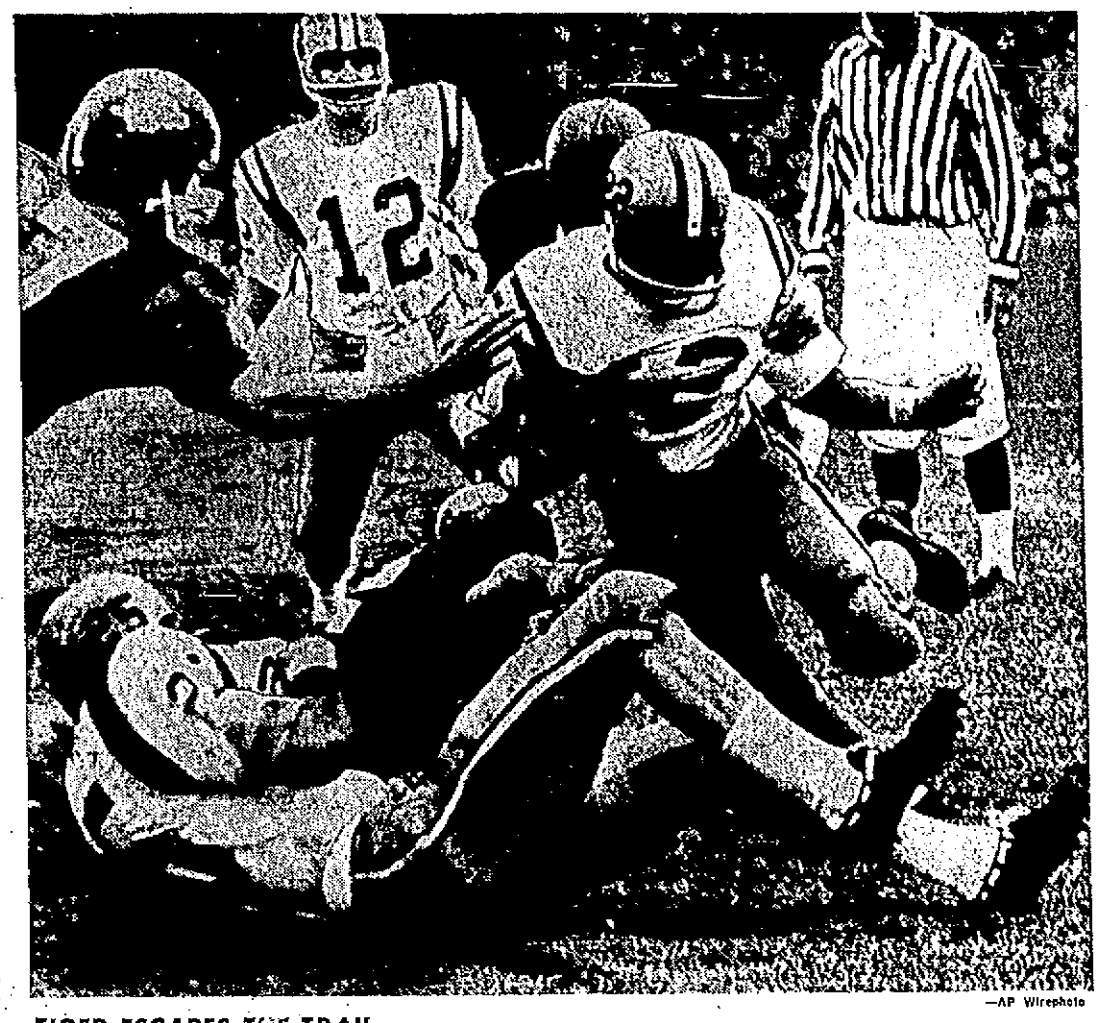

Broyles said he also was proud of the Porkers who had won 22 straight games before this Cotton Bowl battle.

"It had to end sometime," Broyles said.

Brittenum, the Arkansas quarterback who suffered an injured shoulder in the first half but came back and played all the second half, said "I just made a mental mistake on that pass they intercepted. I shouldn't have thrown it."

Harry Jones, the Porker wingback-tailback who led all rushers with 79 yards on 10 carries, said "As far as I'm concerned they are the best we played. I know they hit harder than anyone we met and they were fine sports and a fine football team."

TIGER ESCAPES THE TRAIL

LSU tailback Joe Labruzzo drags trailing Arkansas player across goal line for Tigers' first touchdown in Cotton Bowl. Block by Billy Masters (25) set up Labruzzo's three-yard run.

LSU Defense Gets Tough at End, 14-7

DALLAS (UPI)—Stubby Joe LaBruzzo's prancing feet and a rock-ribbed middle-of-the-line defense anchored on linebacker Bill Bass carried Louisiana State to a 14-7 upset to end a consecutive 22-game win streak by Arkansas in the 30th annual Cotton Bowl football game Saturday.

The 5-9, 170-pound LaBruzzo, from the tiny Louisiana bayou country hamlet of Cut Off, deftly cashed in on tiny openings he continuously found at Arkansas' defensive left tackle and knifed through it for touchdown runs of three and one yards within the final five minutes of the first half.

	Arkansas	LSU
First downs	22	15
Rushing yardage	129	166
Passing yardage	177	100
Passes	15-24	8-11
Passes intercepted by	0	1
Punts	3-34	6-42
Fumbles lost	1	0
Yards penalized	10	62

And, that was the ball game because Bass and his linebacking teammate Mike Vincent kept an effective halter on Arkansas' running attack when Arkansas wasn't hamstringing itself with its own mistakes.

* * * *

THE SOUTHWEST Conference champion Razorbacks, an 8-point favorite, surged 87 yards the second time they got the ball in the first quarter, with John Brittenum hitting end Bobby Crockett with a 19-yard pass for the touchdown, but interceptions, lost fumbles and two missed field goals contributed to their late downfalls.

LaBruzzo picked the Arkansas defenses apart for just 69 yards in 21 carries, but most of his damage was inflicted at the tail ends of the 80 and 34-yard scoring drives the Southeastern Conference Tigers put together in the second quarter.

He gained 21 of the final 24 yards in five crucial plays on the 80-yard LSU surge and carried the ball the last five plays and the final 19 yards of the 34-yard march, slicing through the left tackle niche with just 18 seconds left on the halftime clock.

* * * *

BASS HAD set up this last drive, which was to end college football's longest winning streak at 22 games, when he recovered a fumble by Razorback substitute quarterback Ronny South just two plays after South had been rushed in to replace an injured Brittenum.

Brittenum suffered a pinched nerve on a 15-yard pitchout play to fleet Harry Jones and South, who had played but little all season except to kick extra points and a half dozen field goals, was given emergency duty. Brittenum came back for the second half, but never could mount a consistent attack.

The Razorbacks threatened in the third period with another 19-yard Brittenum-to-Crockett pass giving them a first down on the 15-yard line. But, then on successive plays Jim Lindsey was tripped up for a six-yard loss and Brittenum fell trying to back up in the pocket and lost seven more vital yards.

* * * *

THAT'S WHEN South missed his second field goal attempt from the 36-yard line. He had misfired from the 41-yard line in the second quarter.

LSU's Doug Moreau, who now has scored in 31 of his 33 varsity games, kicked both extra points, but also missed an easy field goal in the late minutes of the game from the nine-yard line.

Florida QB Raps Coach's Crucial Call

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Steve Spurrier said he wished "we would have tried something a little fancier" when Florida failed on a two-point try that ruined a comeback bid against Missouri in the Sugar Bowl Saturday, Missouri won 20-18.

"I didn't call the play," Spurrier said. "But I sure wish it would have worked."

Florida coach Ray Graves said, "It turned out to be a bad decision. It kept the boys from getting the victory they deserved after that tremendous comeback."

Missouri led 20-0, in the fourth quarter before Florida scored and then failed to connect on a pass for two points. That forced the Gators to try for two-point conversions after their next two touchdowns. The Gators missed both times.

* * * *

"IF WE HAD just kicked the three extra points we would have won," Graves said. "We never tried a two-point conversion play all year, but I thought we could make it this time.

"When you are behind that far you need a shot in the arm, and I thought a two-pointer would give us a boost."

Graves called Missouri "the best team we played all year. They were just as tough as we expected, and they shoved the ball down our throats with their running game."

* * * *

THE FLORIDA coach, whose contract was extended Friday night for an additional five years, said he was concerned at the half that the Gators might be embarrased by their Big Eight foes.

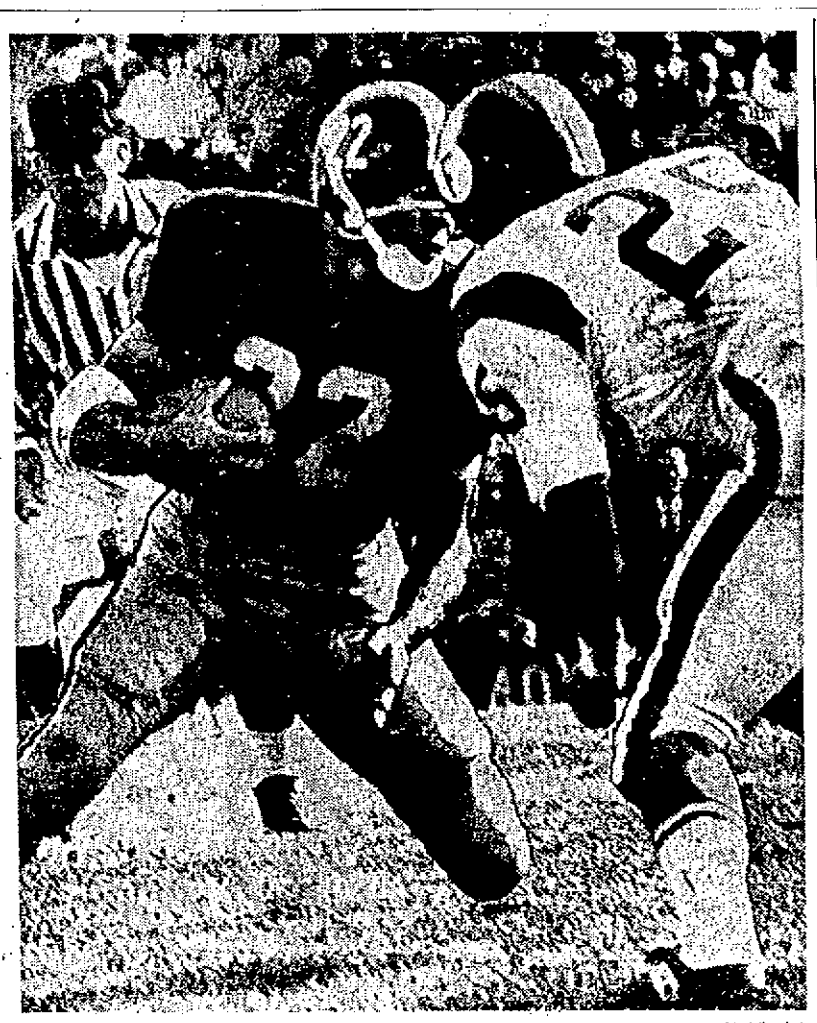

"We were just dead out there in the first half," said Spurrier, named the outstanding player of the game after he shattered Sugar Bowl records by completing 27 of 45 passes for 352 yards.

Spurrier is only a junior and was not available for professional football representatives, who signed Florida's Barry Brown and Allen Trammell.

* * * *

BROWN, 230-pound offensive end who caught nine passes for 88 yards against Missouri, was signed by the Baltimore Colts, who drafted him as a future a year ago on the fifth round.

The National Football League team gave him a no-cut contract reportedly in the neighborhood of $80,000. Brown also was drafted a year ago by the Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Mizzou Rolls, Holds Off Gators Later

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Charlie Brown, a near-sighted halfback, and a stingy defense that dominated the game for three periods let Missouri waltz to a 20-18 victory over a desperate Florida aggregation in the sun drenched Sugar Bowl Saturday.

Brown, who wears contact lenses when he plays, scored Missouri's first touchdown on a twisting 10-yard run, set up a second-period field goal with a 15-yard sweep on his own right end and contributed a futile 45-yard sprint down the sidelines just before the end of the third quarter.

* * * *

HE WAS DUMPED on the 35-yard line and the slumbering Floridians, the greatest passing team in the history of the Southeastern Conference, suddenly came to life in the fourth quarter on the pitching of Steve Spurrier, who set three Sugar Bowl records.

All Florida touchdowns came in the final period with Spurrier's passing responsible for every point.

Spurrier broke the Sugar Bowl record for the number of passes attempted, with 45; the number of times he reached his target with 27; and for the number of yards gained with 352. He was voted the game's outstanding player.

Only 67,421 fans saw the thriller in Tulane's 85,500-seat stadium, and many of them came equipped with radios tuned to the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, where Louisiana State, whose campus is in Baton Rouge, defeated Arkansas.

WITH TIME running out, Missouri punted to Florida and the ball rolled dead on the Gator 19. Spurrier picked up seven yards running on the first play and then attempted 13 passes in a row to make it 20-18.

The score came on a fantastic catch by Charles Casey, all-America end. A pass for the two-point conversion that would have tied the score was broken up.

Alabama Shucks 'Huskers, 39-28

MIAMI (AP) — Alabama's battery of quarterback Steve Sloan and end Ray Perkins hypnotized Nebraska's hulking giants with a record-shattering passing exhibition Saturday night for a 39-28 Orange Bowl football victory that gave the Crimson Tide a strong bid for the national championship.

Inspired by news that the nation's two top - ranking teams, Michigan State and Arkansas, had fallen earlier in the day in bowl upsets, coach Paul Bear Bryant's light, sinewy charges, ranked No. 4 nationally, buried Nebraska's third-ranked team under an avalanche of touchdowns before a crowd of 74,200 under Miami lights.

THE 6-FOOT Sloan erased the Orange Bowl record of his predecessor, Joe Namath, by completing 20 of 29 passes — two more completions than Namath in the losing game against Texas last year. Sloan's 296 passing yards bettered by 20 of the record of 276 set by Frank Broyles of Georgia Tech against Tulsa in 1945.

The slender, deceptive Perkins, catching many of the passes over his shoulder on the dead run, grabbed 10 for 159 yards. The previous reception record was eight by Joe Curtis of Alabama against Syracuse in 1953.

The two aerial masters teamed with hard-running Leslie Kelley and Steve Bowman to give the Crimson Tide more than 512 total yards, close to their own record of 588 in their 61-6 victory over Syracuse in 1943, most one-sided bowl game in history.

The previously unbeaten Cornhuskers, the nation's leading rushing team, joined in the assault on record when sub quarterback Bob Churchich, going in for starter Fred Duda, tied a mark by throwing three touchdown passes.

His first was a 33-yarder to end Tony Jeter in the second period. He hit Ben Gregory with a heave good for 69 yards in the third period and put in a final lick with a fourth period, 14-yard throw to Jeter.

The versatile Churchich scored the fourth Nebraska touchdown in the third period, plunging over after completing a pass to Freeman White to the one.

Namath Praises Sloan

MIAMI (UPI) — Fair-haired pro Joe Namath, a New York dude resplendent in alligator shoes and a bright blue coat, clutched his Alabama understudy, Steve Sloan, in the steaming Orange Bowl dressing room Saturday night.

"I told you last year he was the greatest," shouted Namath, after watching the Crimson Tide's 39-28 victory over Nebraska.

Sloan managed a grin despite badly bruised ribs and made light of his record-breaking quarterbacking that included two touchdown passes.

"They're the best we played all year. My ribs feel like they've been under a cement truck," he said.

Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant, who saw his team win its 11th bowl game in 19 tries, noted that the Tide was heavily outweighed in the line.

"Those little ole skinny things have big hearts," he said. "I don't know what it takes to be No. 1, but I guess with everybody getting beat today we're it."

Coach Bob Devaney of Nebraska agreed.

Bengals End Arkansas Win Skein at 22

KIDS FOLLOWED INSTRUCTIONS

'Made Them Play Our Type of Game,' McClendon

DALLAS (AP) — "We slowed them down and made them play our type of game," coach Charlie McClendon said Saturady after Louisiana State snapped Arkansas' 22-game winning streak with a 14-7 Cotton Bowl triumph.

"I told you before the game that we couldn't match their speed, and we couldn't," he said. "But we played control ball and came up with the big play. Our kids followed instructions right to the end."

McClendon called the upset his greatest thrill since his playing days with Kentucky and the Wildcats' Sugar Bowl victory over Oklahoma.

That triumph severed a 32-game Oklahoma winning streak.

McClendon said he didn't think his Tigers made one wrong decision and "we didn't have a fumble or a single pass interception."

"There were times when it looked like we should pass," he said. "But we weren't going to put the ball into the air and give them the chance for that interception. They'll kill you."

McClendon had promised that his thrice-beaten Bengals would have a couple of surprises for the second-ranked Razorbacks.

However, this generally was restricted to fluctuating offensive formations and defensive stunting."

* * * *

"I JUST TOLD Pat Screen (LSU quarterback) before the game, 'Let's go after them with everything we've got.' He said, 'Coach I think I'm ready.'"

Arkansas coach Frank Broyles said Jerry Joseph's pass interception was the turning point in Louisiana State's victory.

Broyles said "I thought we had a chance until we got a pass intercepted on first down."

The Razorbacks had moved from their 20 to the Tiger 36 when Joseph swept in front of Arkansas end Bobby Crockett and picked off a Jon Brittenum pass at the LSU 20 with 6:17 left in the game.

"LSU is to be congratulated," Broyles said. "They had a lot of determination and they did a good job. They have a fine football team."

Broyles said he also was proud of the Porkers who had won 22 straight games before this Cotton Bowl battle.

"It had to end sometime," Broyles said.

Brittenum, the Arkansas quarterback who suffered an injured shoulder in the first half but came back and played all the second half, said "I just made a mental mistake on that pass they intercepted. I shouldn't have thrown it."

Harry Jones, the Porker wingback-tailback who led all rushers with 79 yards on 10 carries, said "As far as I'm concerned they are the best we played. I know they hit harder than anyone we met and they were fine sports and a fine football team."

LSU Defense Gets Tough at End, 14-7

DALLAS (UPI)—Stubby Joe LaBruzzo's prancing feet and a rock-ribbed middle-of-the-line defense anchored on linebacker Bill Bass carried Louisiana State to a 14-7 upset to end a consecutive 22-game win streak by Arkansas in the 30th annual Cotton Bowl football game Saturday.

The 5-9, 170-pound LaBruzzo, from the tiny Louisiana bayou country hamlet of Cut Off, deftly cashed in on tiny openings he continuously found at Arkansas' defensive left tackle and knifed through it for touchdown runs of three and one yards within the final five minutes of the first half.

And, that was the ball game because Bass and his linebacking teammate Mike Vincent kept an effective halter on Arkansas' running attack when Arkansas wasn't hamstringing itself with its own mistakes.

* * * *

THE SOUTHWEST Conference champion Razorbacks, an 8-point favorite, surged 87 yards the second time they got the ball in the first quarter, with John Brittenum hitting end Bobby Crockett with a 19-yard pass for the touchdown, but interceptions, lost fumbles and two missed field goals contributed to their late downfalls.

LaBruzzo picked the Arkansas defenses apart for just 69 yards in 21 carries, but most of his damage was inflicted at the tail ends of the 80 and 34-yard scoring drives the Southeastern Conference Tigers put together in the second quarter.

He gained 21 of the final 24 yards in five crucial plays on the 80-yard LSU surge and carried the ball the last five plays and the final 19 yards of the 34-yard march, slicing through the left tackle niche with just 18 seconds left on the halftime clock.

* * * *

BASS HAD set up this last drive, which was to end college football's longest winning streak at 22 games, when he recovered a fumble by Razorback substitute quarterback Ronny South just two plays after South had been rushed in to replace an injured Brittenum.

Brittenum suffered a pinched nerve on a 15-yard pitchout play to fleet Harry Jones and South, who had played but little all season except to kick extra points and a half dozen field goals, was given emergency duty. Brittenum came back for the second half, but never could mount a consistent attack.

The Razorbacks threatened in the third period with another 19-yard Brittenum-to-Crockett pass giving them a first down on the 15-yard line. But, then on successive plays Jim Lindsey was tripped up for a six-yard loss and Brittenum fell trying to back up in the pocket and lost seven more vital yards.

* * * *

THAT'S WHEN South missed his second field goal attempt from the 36-yard line. He had misfired from the 41-yard line in the second quarter.

LSU's Doug Moreau, who now has scored in 31 of his 33 varsity games, kicked both extra points, but also missed an easy field goal in the late minutes of the game from the nine-yard line.

Florida QB Raps Coach's Crucial Call

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Steve Spurrier said he wished "we would have tried something a little fancier" when Florida failed on a two-point try that ruined a comeback bid against Missouri in the Sugar Bowl Saturday. Missouri won 20-18.

"I didn't call the play," Spurrier said. "But I sure wish it would have worked."

Florida coach Ray Graves said, "It turned out to be a bad decision. It kept the boys from getting the victory they deserved after that tremendous comeback."

Missouri led 20-0, in the fourth quarter before Florida scored and then failed to connect on a pass for two points. That forced the Gators to try for two-point conversions after their next two touchdowns. The Gators missed both times.

* * * *

"IF WE HAD just kicked the three extra points we would have won," Graves said. "We never tried a two-point conversion play all year, but I thought we could make it this time.

"When you are behind that far you need a shot in the arm, and I thought a two-pointer would give us a boost."

Graves called Missouri "the best team we played all year. They were just as tough as we expected, and they shoved the ball down our throats with their running game."

* * * *

THE FLORIDA coach, whose contract was extended Friday night for an additional five years, said he was concerned at the half that the Gators might be embarrased by their Big Eight foes.

"We were just dead out there in the first half," said Spurrier, named the outstanding player of the game after he shattered Sugar Bowl records by completing 27 of 45 passes for 352 yards.

Spurrier is only a junior and was not available for professional football representatives, who signed Florida's Barry Brown and Allen Trammell.

* * * *

BROWN, 230-pound offensive end who caught nine passes for 88 yards against Missouri, was signed by the Baltimore Colts, who drafted him as a future a year ago on the fifth round.

The National Football League team gave him a no-cut contract reportedly in the neighborhood of $80,000. Brown also was drafted a year ago by the Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Mizzou Rolls, Holds Off Gators Later

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Charlie Brown, a near-sighted halfback, and a stingy defense that dominated the game for three periods let Missouri waltz to a 20-18 victory over a desperate Florida aggregation in the sun drenched Sugar Bowl Saturday.

Brown, who wears contact lenses when he plays, scored Missouri's first touchdown on a twisting 10-yard run, set up a second-period field goal with a 15-yard sweep on his own right end and contributed a futile 45-yard sprint down the sidelines just before the end of the third quarter.

* * * *

HE WAS DUMPED on the 35-yard line and the slumbering Floridians, the greatest passing team in the history of the Southeastern Conference, suddenly came to life in the fourth quarter on the pitching of Steve Spurrier, who set three Sugar Bowl records.

All Florida touchdowns came in the final period with Spurrier's passing responsible for every point.

Spurrier broke the Sugar Bowl record for the number of passes attempted, with 45; the number of times he reached his target with 27; and for the number of yards gained with 352. He was voted the game's outstanding player.

WITH TIME running out, Missouri punted to Florida and the ball rolled dead on the Gator 19. Spurrier picked up seven yards running on the first play and then attempted 13 passes in a row to make it 20-18.

The score came on a fantastic catch by Charles Casey, all-America end. A pass for the two-point conversion that would have tied the score was broken up.

Alabama Shucks 'Huskers, 39-28

MIAMI (AP) — Alabama's battery of quarterback Steve Sloan and end Ray Perkins hypnotized Nebraska's hulking giants with a record-shattering passing exhibition Saturday night for a 39-28 Orange Bowl football victory that gave the Crimson Tide a strong bid for the national championship.

Inspired by news that the nation's two top - ranking teams, Michigan State and Arkansas, had fallen earlier in the day in bowl upsets, coach Paul Bear Bryant's light, sinewy charges, ranked No. 4 nationally, buried Nebraska's third-ranked team under an avalanche of touchdowns before a crowd of 74,200 under Miami lights.

RICH ROBERTS

Ram Coaches, End to End

Bob Ripley once ran a Believe It or Not cartoon noting that if all Chinese were to march four abreast past a given point the parade would never end.

Ripley must have been watching a Rose Parade when he thought that one up, but it does bring to mind the Rams' coaching situation.

Oh, the Rams' turnover in head coaches hasn't really been that bad, unless you throw in the assistants, in which case they might give those Chinamen a battle if they didn't move too fast.

Just about as fast as the Rams have moved over the last few years.

WE'LL GIVE DAN REEVES credit for being a pretty shrewd stockbroker, even if he can't tell a Cinderella coach from a pumpkin. Didn't he dump Harland Svare while the market was high instead of panicking out a window a month earlier when the ticker totaled out?

Now, there's been only one guy on earth who could tell whether Reeves' eight coaches in the last 20 years have been victims of inferior players or whether his players have been victims of inferior coaching, but he was 2,000 years too early to help the Rams.

So the only thing we mortals know is that those eight coaches have been unsatisfactory, not only to Reeves but to all other National Football League clubs.

If all the Rams' coaches were laid end to end . . . well, they have been laid end to end, because the job is a graveyard. Only one of the Rams' outcasts, Joe Stydahar, was able to land a head job with another NFL club.

THE TROUBLE WITH Reeves is that he's had the wrong slant on hiring a coach all along. He has preferred not to go for the big names, the discards floating like so much flotsam on a sea of newsprint every time a big time opening develops.

Okay, that's all right. But Dan has gone to the other extreme, hiring not from football's Who's Who but Who's He.

Obviously, then, he's been overlooking a vast untapped source of talent which is herewith placed at his disposal. We give you Loquacious P. Smugley, sports columnist for the Daily Burp, as the new Ram coach.

A newspaperman? Coaching a pro football team? Well, why not—who's more experienced? We've all been coaching the Rams for years.

We can see it now, Coach Smugley's first press conference, truly an adventure in reporting . . .

COACH SMUGLEY, what does your middle initial stand for?

"The P stands for Prolific, but you boys can call me 'Pro.' I'm still just one of the gang."

Why did you accept the job? I mean, it's not the most secure one in the world.

Is your salary better than with the Burp?

"You catch on fast, pal."

You mean you got a good contract?

"Mr. Reeves was very generous. He even said I didn't have to read it before I signed. But I understand it's a lifetime contract with options to renew."

Do you plan to have close relations with the press?

"Like I said, I'm still one of you. Anytime you boys have any suggestions just let me know."

What about defense?

"Sounds like a good idea. See, you've come up with something already!"

WELL, HOW ABOUT the offense—do you plan to split an end?

"I suppose so. It can't be too different from splitting an infinitive, and you all know I've been doing that for years."

What's your opinion of the National Football League?

"Well, I saw a game once—"

Yes, yes.

"That's all. I saw a game once."

But you're always around the press box.

"Press box?"

That long, thin room on top of the stadium, coach.

"Oh, where they hand out the free lunches? I thought that was the penthouse annex of the Salvation Army."

YOU'RE A CARD, coach. Have you seen the Rams play?

"Only on film."

Well, what's your opinion?

"I can't say until I see the movies. They told me to say that."

But you just said you saw them!

"Now, boys, don't try to confuse me. I'm new at this."

Do you plan any trades?

"Oh, yes, indeed. My ol' Chevy's about on its last legs, but with this new salary . . ."

Never mind. What about the quarterbacks?

"Did you get gypped on that cigaret machine, too? I'll have to speak to Mr. Reeves about that. Like I said, I wanta take care of you boys."

Thanks, coach, you're all heart. Not much brain, but all heart.

NFL TITLE WORTH $7,000 PER MAN

Rested Browns Surprising Underdogs

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Jim Brown and the well-rested Cleveland Browns find themselves in the surprising role of two-point underdogs to the battle-scarred Green Bay Packers for today's National Football League championship game at Lambeau Field.

The Browns, upset winners over Baltimore a year ago, clinched their second successive Eastern Conference title Nov. 28, while Green Bay wound up in a tie and had to beat Baltimore last Sunday in a grueling sudden death overtime playoff. Cleveland has not played since Dec. 19.

As might be expected, the city of Green Bay has gone slightly mad over its Packers and will jam the field to its capacity of 50,852 fans at $12 and $10 a head. The gate receipts, plus $720,000 of the $1.8 million TV receipts, will load the player pool. Each winning team member will get about $7,000 and each loser about $4,600.

If the game is tied at the end of regulation play, as was last Sunday's Green Bay-Baltimore playoff for the Western crown, it will continue on a sudden death overtime basis until one team scores.

The only sudden death NFL title game was played in 1958 between the Baltimore Colts and the New York Giants.

Unless there is an unexpected heavy precipitation this morning the field should be in fine condition.

Blanton Collier's Browns are a fine offensive club with an attack built around the unstoppable Jim Brown, who rolled to 1,544 yards in winning his eighth rushing title in nine years. Oddly enough, this will be the first time Brown has played at Green Bay.

Brown's running makes the Cleveland ground game go. Their passing game has suffered all season by the absence of Paul Warfield, the ace split end who was such an important factor in winning the 1964 title.

Warfield suffered a broken collar bone in the College All-Star game in August. He played briefly Dec. 12 at Los Angeles but is due to make his first start today.

With Warfield available, the Packers will not be able to double-team flanker Gary Collins as most teams have done all season. Collins was the big man for the Browns against the Colts last year, catching three touchdown passes from Frank Ryan.

It is Cleveland's defense that gives pause to wonder about the Browns' chances. They have yielded 43 touchdowns, 12 on runs and 31 on passes. The deep defense on Bernie Parrish, Walter Beach, Ross Fichtner, Larry Benz, can be had by a passer of Bart Starr's ability.

Green Bay's success has been based on defense. They intercept passes at the right time. They pick up the fumble. They put a strong rush on the passer. Only 22 TDs have been scored against them in regular season play.

Starr was racked up by Baltimore on the first play last Sunday and Zeke Bratkowsky, a much traveled old pro, did the job. Although Bart has recovered from the injuries to his side and back it remains to be seen how effective he will be.

Green Bay's ground game, built around Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung, has been disappointing all season.

The game may very well come down to kicking as it did a week ago. Don Chandler, who booted the tying and winning field goals against the Colts, has been a revelation since coming to the Packers from New York.

Chandler has kicked 17 of 26 field goals not counting 2 of 3 in the playoff. Lou Groza, the 41-year-old Cleveland field goal artist who has been playing pro ball since 1946, had made good on 16 of 25 this year.

It's B-r-r-r in Green Bay for Title Go

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Weather Bureau's forecast for today when the Packers meet the Cleveland Browns for the National Football League championship is:

Increasing cloudiness with snow, possibly mixed with freezing rain, beginning late Saturday night, changing to rain today. Low temperature Saturday evening near 18, followed by slowly rising temperatures after midnight. High temperatures today near 34.

TACKLE Dick Schafrath and defensive back Bernie Parrish, two Cleveland Brown stars, did not take part in a tuneup Saturday, but both are expected to play in the game today.

Schafrath and Parrish were on the sidelines as the Browns loosened up for about 25 minutes, running plays, kicking and doing calisthenics.

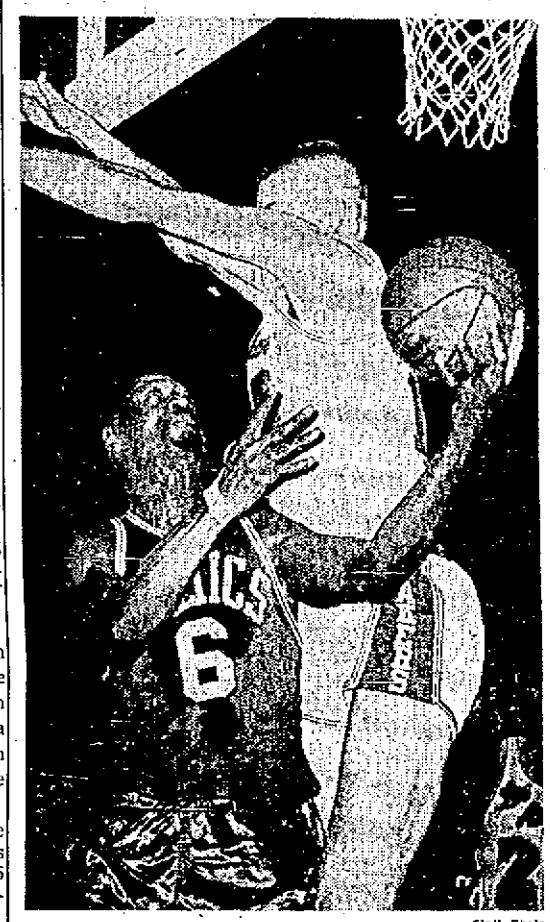

Schafrath has a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg and Parrish has a slight cold.

HE'S BETTER REBOUNDING

Boston's Bill Russell didn't have much chance on this shot, what with Laker center Darrall Imhoff draped over him and being behind the blackboard. But, Russell is paid to rebound. He'll get chance against Lakers tonight.

SCHAUS GLAD '65 OVER

Ready or Not, Lakers Face Incomparable Celts Tonight

By DOUG IVES

Although the Lakers are leading the Western Division, coach Fred Schaus is glad to see the old year end and the new one begin.

With more ups and downs than a roller coaster and enough injuries to fill a hospital wing, 1965 was a headache for Schaus, starting last April when Boston clobbered his club in the playoffs.

The incomparable Celtics come to the L. A. Sports Arena again tonight, and although there must be easier ways to start a year, Schaus is enthused that his team is beginning to jell.

That the Lakers lost to cellar-dwelling Detroit on Thursday doesn't belie this fact, but Schaus is quick to point out that Baylor, Rudy LaRusso, Gene Wiley and Leroy Ellis are on the mend from injuries and men like Walt Hazzard and Gail Goodrich are getting better all the time.

"We aren't quite ready for Boston yet," said Fred, "but we aren't far off either. Baylor, of course, still isn't near full strength, but the others are. When we have a full complement of players, we'll be hard to beat."

* * * *

HAZZARD'S play has been sensational the last two weeks, and his 18.0 average for the past eight games proves this. Goodrich and Jim King are as good as you can find for backcourt subs, and when Baylor is healthy, the Lakers' four front-liners of Elgin, Ellis, LaRusso and Bob Boozer will be hard to stop.

Meanwhile, it'll probably be up to Jerry West to shoulder the load again this evening. Tipoff time is 7 o'clock.

However, with Bill Russell and Sam Jones recovered from injuries, Boston is back in power in the East, and there is every reason to believe the Beantowners will win their eighth consecutive NBA title.

Schaus, for one, is convinced that this still could be the Lakers' year, even though his club is 1-3 against the Celtics and 7-13 against Eastern Division clubs this season.

The Celtics remain for another game in L.A. Wednesday. A crowd of 14,000 is expected for both games.

CALDWELL HERO

Celts Stunned on Last-Second Tally

Compiled from Wire Reports

There wasn't anything happy about Saturday as far as NBA Eastern Division powers Boston and Cincinnati were concerned.

Boston, which meets the Lakers tonight, saw Joe Caldwell sink the winning basket with three seconds remaining to give the host St. Louis Hawks a 100-98 triumph. The Royals caught the New York Knicks on a bad night, falling 147-122.

The Knicks snapped a four-game losing streak by shooting the Royals out of the gym. Dick Barnett and Willis Reed combined for 72 points.

* * * *

IN THE NBA's only other contest, Baltimore, led by Johnny Green, overcame an early Detroit lead to beat the Pistons, 116-112.

The Celtics blew a three-point lead with less than a minute remaining. Bill Bridges sank four free throws to give St. Louis the lead, Len Wilkins made another to make it 98-96 before Sam Jones tied the score with 11 seconds remaining. Then came Caldwell's tally. Sam Jones led all scorers with 37 points.

Oilers Cotton to Tackles --a Million Dollars Worth

By Associated Press

The Houston Oilers, with money to burn after failing to land Donny Anderson in the pro football bidding war, shelled out a reported $1 million Saturday for four tackles, including highly regarded George Rice of Louisiana State and Glen Ray Hines of Arkansas.

Signing with the American Football League club along with Rice and Hines were LSU's Dave McCormick and Arkansas' Jim Williams. It was estimated that Rice and Hines split most of the million-dollar package by drawing about $300,000 each after playing in the Cotton Bowl.

HOUSTON owner Bud Adams, who lost Texas Tech's Anderson to Green Bay of the National League Friday despite what he said was an $887,000 offer, refused to reveal individual figures on the four linemen because "we never give figures out on tackles."

However, he said, "We're talking in excess of a million dollars."

Rice, Houston's third-round pick in the AFL draft, was the No. 1 choice of the Chicago Bears in the NFL draft and represents only the second of 16 first-round selections the National League has lost to the American.

Rice, a 6-3, 255-pounder, was made a technical "free agent" by the Bears' George Halas because he said he didn't want to get into an astronomical bidding war.

Hines was Houston's No. 2 pick in the AFL future draft last year.

Florida defensive back Allen Trammell signed with Houston.

The National League, meanwhile, picked off two second-round selections, with Arkansas halfback Jim Lindsey signed with Minnesota and Missouri tackle Butch Allison signing with Baltimore.

The NFL also got all-America end Charles Casey of Florida, who signed with the new Atlanta club.

Baltimore and Cleveland also made contributions to the NFL haul, the Colts signing Florida end Barry Brown, their No. 5 future last year, and the Browns getting Missouri quarterback Gary Lane, a No. 9 pick as a future.

Chapman Buries L.B. State, 102-88

By DOUG IVES

Chapman College's quick striking Panthers shot 56% and took full advantage of Long Beach State's still-disorganized defense Saturday night to hand the 49ers a 102-88 drubbing at Villa Park High in Orange.

Long Beach State came out with a new starting lineup and never-before-used zone defense, but neither did much to keep the 49ers from suffering their eighth loss in 12 games while yielding more than 100 points for the fourth time.

Chapman (5-7) won the game in the first half, building up a 53-38 advantage with 53% shooting and some unbelievably poor man-to-man defense by LBSC.

* * * *

THE 49ERS looked smooth and comfortable in their zone, but when Chapman shot over it at a 13-for-23 clip, they were forced to revert to man-to-man guarding. The changeover was slow and disjointed it was to prove fatal.

Four times the Panthers scored unmolested lay-ins against the non-thinking visitors, and three times the 49ers were lazy on switching men, allowing six more points.

Offensively, L.B. State never scored two successive baskets in the first half without Chapman countering. With free throws added in, twice they had 4-0 "streaks."

The final 20 minutes was a run-and-gun affair, but the Panthers, passing superbly and maneuvering for good shots, were just too much. They led by a high of 49 and a low of 11.

Joe Cuccinella led a balanced Chapman attack with 26 points, followed by freshman Doug Eckert with 19, Tom Hart with 17 and Joe Knox with 11.

Pat Holmes played brilliantly for the 49ers, coming off the bench to score 10 quick points in the first half and finishing strong for a game total of 19, a season high.

John Chambers, after a weak first half, wound up with 26 points to top Long Beach scorers. He had 20 in the final 20 minutes.

No Penalties as Seals Beat Blades by 3-1; TV Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO — The Seals found a way to stop the Blades' vaunted power play Saturday night — don't draw any penalties.

There wasn't a single penalty called on either team as San Francisco, scoring a goal in each period, took a 3-1 Western Hockey League victory at the Cow Palace.

The Blades lead the league in scoring against shorthanded defenses, but they never got a chance this time and barely averted being shut out for the first time this season when Jake Hendrickson scored with two minutes remaining.

Seal goals were scored by Gerry Brisson, George Swarbrick and Wayne Maxner, and that was all goalie Jack McCartan needed to beat his former teammates.

The Blades play at Portland tonight in a game to be telecast on KTLA (5) at 9.

San Francisco's win gave the Seals a 4-3 season edge over the Blades and reversed their 5-2 loss of the previous night.

After Brisson opened the scoring at 10:43 with his 11th goal of the season, Swarbrick got his fourth and only his first since Dec. 3, when he faked Marcel Pelletier and fired the puck between his legs at 9:22.

Then another Seal ended his drought when Maxner got his initial goal since Nov. 6 to make the score 3-0 at 12:28.

FIRST PERIOD—1, San Francisco, Brisson (Odrowski, Harvey) 10:43. Penalties—None.

SECOND PERIOD—2, San Francisco, Swarbrick (Nicholson, Harvey) 9:22. Penalties—None.

THIRD PERIOD — 3, San Francisco, Maxner (Connelly, Picard). 4, Los Angeles, Hendrickson (Johnson, Labine). Penalties—None.

NFL TITLE WORTH $7,000 PER MAN

Rested Browns Surprising Underdogs

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Jim Brown and the well-rested Cleveland Browns find themselves in the surprising role of two-point underdogs to the battle-scarred Green Bay Packers for today's National Football League championship game at Lambeau Field.

The Browns, upset winners over Baltimore a year ago, clinched their second successive Eastern Conference title Nov. 28, while Green Bay wound up in a tie and had to beat Baltimore last Sunday in a grueling sudden death overtime playoff. Cleveland has not played since Dec. 19.

As might be expected, the city of Green Bay has gone slightly mad over its Packers and will jam the field to its capacity of 50,852 fans at $12 and $10 a head. The gate receipts, plus $720,000 of the $1.8 million TV receipts, will load the player pool. Each winning team member will get about $7,000 and each loser about $4,600.

If the game is tied at the end of regulation play, as was last Sunday's Green Bay-Baltimore playoff for the Western crown, it will continue on a sudden death overtime basis until one team scores.

The only sudden death NFL title game was played in 1958 between the Baltimore Colts and the New York Giants.

Unless there is an unexpected heavy precipitation this morning the field should be in fine condition.

Blanton Collier's Browns are a fine offensive club with an attack built around the unstoppable Jim Brown, who rolled to 1,544 yards in winning his eighth rushing title in nine years. Oddly enough, this will be the first time Brown has played at Green Bay.

Brown's running makes the Cleveland ground game go. Their passing game has suffered all season by the absence of Paul Warfield, the ace split end who was such an important factor in winning the 1964 title.

Warfield suffered a broken collar bone in the College All-Star game in August. He played briefly Dec. 12 at Los Angeles but is due to make his first start today.

With Warfield available, the Packers will not be able to double-team flanker Gary Collins as most teams have done all season. Collins was the big man for the Browns against the Colts last year, catching three touchdown passes from Frank Ryan.

It is Cleveland's defense that gives pause to wonder about the Browns' chances. They have yielded 43 touchdowns, 12 on runs and 31 on passes. The deep defense on Bernie Parrish, Walter Beach, Ross Fichtner, Larry Benz, can be had by a passer of Bart Starr's ability.

Green Bay's success has been based on defense. They intercept passes at the right time. They pick up the fumble. They put a strong rush on the passer. Only 22 TDs have been scored against them in regular season play.

Starr was racked up by Baltimore on the first play last Sunday and Zeke Bratkowsky, a much traveled old pro, did the job. Although Bart has recovered from the injuries to his side and back it remains to be seen how effective he will be.

Green Bay's ground game, built around Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung, has been disappointing all season.

The game may very well come down to kicking as it did a week ago. Don Chandler, who booted the tying and winning field goals against the Colts, has been a revelation since coming to the Packers from New York.

Chandler has kicked 17 of 26 field goals not counting 2 of 3 in the playoff. Lou Groza, the 41-year-old Cleveland field goal artist who has been playing pro ball since 1946, had made good on 16 of 25 this year.

Ram Coaches, End to End

Bob Ripley once ran a Believe It or Not cartoon noting that if all Chinese were to march four abreast past a given point the parade would never end.

Ripley must have been watching a Rose Parade when he thought that one up, but it does bring to mind the Rams' coaching situation.

Oh, the Rams' turnover in head coaches hasn't really been that bad, unless you throw in the assistants, in which case they might give those Chinamen a battle if they didn't move too fast.

Just about as fast as the Rams have moved over the last few years.

WE'LL GIVE DAN REEVES credit for being a pretty shrewd stockbroker, even if he can't tell a Cinderella coach from a pumpkin. Didn't he dump Harland Svare while the market was high instead of panicking out a window a month earlier when the ticker totaled out?

Now, there's been only one guy on earth who could tell whether Reeves' eight coaches in the last 20 years have been victims of inferior players or whether his players have been victims of inferior coaching, but he was 2,000 years too early to help the Rams.

So the only thing we mortals know is that those eight coaches have been unsatisfactory, not only to Reeves but to all other National Football League clubs.

If all the Rams' coaches were laid end to end . . . well, they have been laid end to end, because the job is a graveyard. Only one of the Rams' outcasts, Joe Stydahar, was able to land a head job with another NFL club.

THE TROUBLE WITH Reeves is that he's had the wrong slant on hiring a coach all along. He has preferred not to go for the big names, the discards floating like so much flotsam on a sea of newsprint every time a big time opening develops.

Okay, that's all right. But Dan has gone to the other extreme, hiring not from football's Who's Who but Who's He.

Obviously, then, he's been overlooking a vast untapped source of talent which is herewith placed at his disposal. We give you Loquacious P. Smugley, sports columnist for the Daily Burp, as the new Ram coach.

A newspaperman? Coaching a pro football team? Well, why not—who's more experienced? We've all been coaching the Rams for years.

We can see it now, Coach Smugley's first press conference, truly an adventure in reporting . . .

COACH SMUGLEY, what does your middle initial stand for?

"The P stands for Prolific, but you boys can call me 'Pro.' I'm still just one of the gang."

Why did you accept the job? I mean, it's not the most secure one in the world.

Is your salary better than with the Burp?

"You catch on fast, pal."

You mean you got a good contract?

"Mr. Reeves was very generous. He even said I didn't have to read it before I signed. But I understand it's a lifetime contract with options to renew."

Do you plan to have close relations with the press?

"Like I said, I'm still one of you. Anytime you boys have any suggestions just let me know."

What about defense?

"Sounds like a good idea. See, you've come up with something already!"

WELL, HOW ABOUT the offense—do you plan to split an end?

"I suppose so. It can't be too different from splitting an infinitive, and you all know I've been doing that for years."

What's your opinion of the National Football League?

"Well, I saw a game once—"

Yes, yes.

"That's all. I saw a game once."

But you're always around the press box.

"Press box?"

That long, thin room on top of the stadium, coach.

"Oh, where they hand out the free lunches? I thought that was the penthouse annex of the Salvation Army."

YOU'RE A CARD, coach. Have you seen the Rams play?

"Only on film."

Well, what's your opinion?

"I can't say until I see the movies. They told me to say that."

But you just said you saw them!

"Now, boys, don't try to confuse me. I'm new at this."

Do you plan any trades?

"Oh, yes, indeed. My ol' Chevy's about on its last legs, but with this new salary . . ."

Never mind. What about the quarterbacks?

"Did you get gypped on that cigaret machine, too? I'll have to speak to Mr. Reeves about that. Like I said, I wanta take care of you boys."

Thanks, coach, you're all heart. Not much brain, but all heart.

It's B-r-r-r in Green Bay for Title Go

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Weather Bureau's forecast for today when the Packers meet the Cleveland Browns for the National Football League championship is:

Increasing cloudiness with snow, possibly mixed with freezing rain, beginning late Saturday night, changing to rain today. Low temperature Saturday evening near 18, followed by slowly rising temperatures after midnight. High temperatures today near 34.

* * * *

TACKLE Dick Schafrath and defensive back Bernie Parrish, two Cleveland Brown stars, did not take part in a tuneup Saturday, but both are expected to play in the game today.

Schafrath and Parrish were on the sidelines as the Browns loosened up for about 25 minutes, running plays, kicking and doing calisthenics.

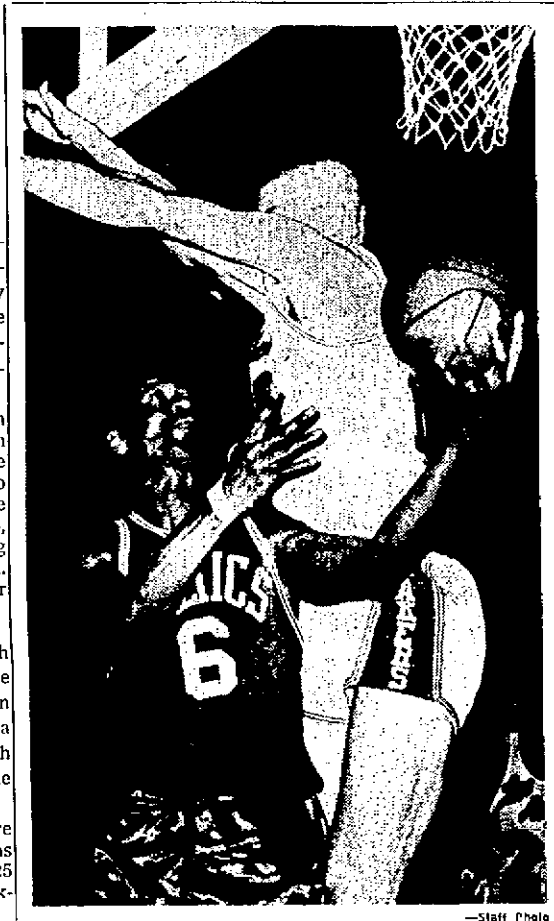

Schafrath has a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg and Parrish has a slight cold.

HE'S BETTER REBOUNDING
Boston's Bill Russell didn't have much chance on this shot, what with Laker center Darrall Imhoff draped over him and being behind the blackboard. But, Russell is paid to rebound. He'll get chance against Lakers tonight.

SCHAUS GLAD '65 OVER

Ready or Not, Lakers Face Incomparable Celts Tonight

By DOUG IVES

Although the Lakers are leading the Western Division, coach Fred Schaus is glad to see the old year end and the new one begin.

With more ups and downs than a roller coaster and enough injuries to fill a hospital wing, 1965 was a headache for Schaus, starting last April when Boston clobbered his club in the playoffs.

The incomparable Celtics come to the L. A. Sports Arena again tonight, and although there must be easier ways to start a year, Schaus is enthused that his team is beginning to jell.

That the Lakers lost to cellar-dwelling Detroit on Thursday doesn't belie this fact, but Schaus is quick to point out that Baylor, Rudy LaRusso, Gene Wiley and Leroy Ellis are on the mend from injuries and men like Walt Hazzard and Gail Goodrich are getting better all the time.

"We aren't quite ready for Boston yet," said Fred, "but we aren't far off either. Baylor, of course, still isn't near full strength, but the others are. When we have a full complement of players, we'll be hard to beat."

* * * *

HAZZARD'S play has been sensational the last two weeks, and his 18.0 average for the past eight games proves this. Goodrich and Jim King are as good as you can find for backcourt subs, and when Baylor is healthy, the Lakers' four front-liners of Elgin, Ellis, LaRusso and Bob Boozer will be hard to stop.

Meanwhile, it'll probably be up to Jerry West to shoulder the load again this evening. Tipoff time is 7 o'clock.

However, with Bill Russell and Sam Jones recovered from injuries, Boston is back in power in the East, and there is every reason to believe the Beantowners will win their eighth consecutive NBA title.

Schaus, for one, is convinced that this still could be the Lakers' year, even though his club is 1-3 against the Celtics and 7-13 against Eastern Division clubs this season.

The Celtics remain for another game in L.A. Wednesday. A crowd of 14,000 is expected for both games.

Oilers Cotton to Tackles --a Million Dollars Worth

By Associated Press

The Houston Oilers, with money to burn after failing to land Donny Anderson in the pro football bidding war, shelled out a reported $1 million Saturday for four tackles, including highly regarded George Rice of Louisiana State and Glen Ray Hines of Arkansas.

Signing with the American Football League club along with Rice and Hines were LSU's Dave McCormick and Arkansas' Jim Williams. It was estimated that Rice and Hines split most of the million-dollar package by drawing about $300,000 each after playing in the Cotton Bowl.

HOUSTON owner Bud Adams, who lost Texas Tech's Anderson to Green Bay of the National League Friday despite what he said was an $887,000 offer, refused to reveal individual figures on the four linemen because "we never give figures out on tackles."

However, he said, "We're talking in excess of a million dollars."

Rice, Houston's third-round pick in the AFL draft, was the No. 1 choice of the Chicago Bears in the NFL draft and represents only the second of 16 first-round selections the National League has lost to the American.

Rice, a 6-3, 255-pounder, was made a technical "free agent" by the Bears' George Halas because he said he didn't want to get into an astronomical bidding war.

Hines was Houston's No. 2 pick in the AFL future draft last year.

Florida defensive back Allen Trammell signed with Houston.

The National League, meanwhile, picked off two second-round selections, with Arkansas halfback Jim Lindsey signed with Minnesota and Missouri tackle Butch Allison signing with Baltimore.

The NFL also got all-America end Charles Casey of Florida, who signed with the new Atlanta club.

Baltimore and Cleveland also made contributions to the NFL haul, the Colts signing Florida end Barry Brown, their No. 5 future last year, and the Browns getting Missouri quarterback Gary Lane, a No. 9 pick as a future.

CALDWELL HERO

Celts Stunned on Last-Second Tally

Compiled from Wire Reports

There wasn't anything happy about Saturday as far as NBA Eastern Division powers Boston and Cincinnati were concerned.

Boston, which meets the Lakers tonight, saw Joe Caldwell sink the winning basket with three seconds remaining to give the host St. Louis St. Louis the lead, Len Wilkins made another to make it 98-96 before Sam Jones tied the score with 11 seconds remaining. Then came Caldwell's tally. Sam Jones led all scorers with 37 points.

Chapman Buries L.B. State, 102-88

By DOUG IVES

Chapman College's quick striking Panthers shot 56% and took full advantage of Long Beach State's still-disorganized defense Saturday night to hand the 49ers a 102-88 drubbing at Villa Park High in Orange.

Long Beach State came out with a new starting lineup and never-before-used zone defense, but neither did much to keep the 49ers from suffering their eighth loss in 12 games while yielding more than 100 points for the fourth time.

Chapman (5-7) won the game in the first half, building up a 53-38 advantage with 53% shooting and some unbelievably poor man-to-man defense by LBSC.

* * * *

THE 49ERS looked smooth and comfortable in their zone, but when Chapman shot over it at a 13-for-23 clip, they were forced to revert to man-to-man guarding. The change-over was slow and disjointed it was to prove fatal.

Four times the Panthers scored unmolested layins against the non-thinking visitors, and three times the 49ers were lazy on switching men, allowing six more points.

Offensively, L.B. State never scored two successive baskets in the first half without Chapman countering. With free throws added in, twice they had 4-0 "streaks."

The final 20 minutes was a run-and-gun affair, but the Panthers, passing superbly and maneuvering for good shots, were just too much. They led by a high of 19 and a low of 11.

Joe Cuccinella led a balanced Chapman attack with 26 points, followed by freshman Doug Eckert with 19, Tom Hart with 17 and Joe Knox with 11.

Pat Holmes played brilliantly for the 49ers, coming off the bench to score 10 quick points in the first half and finishing strong for a game total of 19, a season high.

John Chambers, after a weak first half, wound up with 26 points to top Long Beach scorers. He had 20 in the final 20 minutes.

No Penalties as Seals Beat Blades by 3-1; TV Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO — The Seals found a way to stop the Blades' vaunted power play Saturday night — don't draw any penalties.

There wasn't a single penalty called on either team as San Francisco, scoring a goal in each period, took a 3-1 Western Hockey League victory at the Cow Palace.

The Blades lead the league in scoring against shorthanded defenses, but they never got a chance this time and barely averted being shut out for the first time this season when Jake Hendrickson scored with two minutes remaining.

Seal goals were scored by Gerry Brisson, George Swarbrick and Wayne Maxner, and that was all goalie Jack McCartan needed to beat his former teammates.

The Blades play at Portland tonight in a game to be telecast on KTLA (5) at 9.

San Francisco's win gave the Seals a 4-3 season edge over the Blades and reversed their 5-2 loss of the previous night.

After Brisson opened the scoring at 10:43 with his 11th goal of the season, Swarbrick got his fourth and only his first since Dec. 3, when he faked Marcel Pelletier and fired the puck between his legs at 9:22.

Then another Seal ended his drought when Maxner got his initial goal since Nov. 6 to make the score 3-0 at 12:28.

FIRST PERIOD—1, San Francisco, Brisson (Odrowski, Harvey) 10:43. Penalties—Hone.

SECOND PERIOD—2, San Francisco, Swarbrick (Nicholson, Harvey) 9:22. Penalties—None.

THIRD PERIOD — 3, San Francisco, Maxner (Connelly, Picard). 4, Los Angeles, Hendrickson (Johnson, LaBine). Penalties—None.

Perfect Sky Day for 'Anita Fans

—AP Wirephoto

IT WAS A SECRET FOR A WHILE

Terry's Secret (9), with Alex Maese doing the riding, is just about to get head in front of Hoist Bar en route to Malibu Stakes win at Santa Anita Saturday. Alvaro Pineda, aboard Hoist Bar, claimed foul in the close-quarters race, but it wasn't allowed.

Terry's Secret Snares Malibu

By ERNIE MASON

It was a perfect New Year's Day for some of the 42,139 racing patrons at Santa Anita Saturday as longshot Perfect Sky scored the second major stakes upset of his racing career in the co-featured $25,000-added San Gabriel Handicap at 1⅛ miles over an extremely soft turf course.

Perfect Sky won the California Derby as a 3-year-old last spring at Golden Gate Fields but had done nothing much since until Saturday when he overtook the front runners to pull away in the stretch and win by a length and a half. The time was a slow 1:55 flat.

Jockey Alvaro Pineda won his first Santa Anita stakes in riding Perfect Sky to victory. Foxcatcher Farms is the nom de course for William DuPont, Jr., who died Friday in Wilmington, Dela., at the age of 69.

* * * *

PERFECT SKY, coupled in the wagering with another horse trained by Charles Whittingham, Shady Living, returned $34, $8.40 and $4.80 across the board. Or Et Argent, a French-bred horse and the favorite, finished second and paid $3.60 and $2.80. Cedar Key, another major stakes performer on grass, was third and returned $4.00 to show.

Terry's Secret, the California-bred distance champion as a 3-year-old in 1965, made a rare sprint start in the companion Malibu Stakes and won the seven-furlong test by a short head in 1:23 flat on a fast dirt track.

* * * *

RIDDEN BY his regular pilot, Alex Maese, Terry's Secret gained the lead from the pace-setting Hoist Bar in mid-stretch but appeared to drift in during the final strides.

Jockey Pineda on Hoist Bar lodged a claim of foul but it was disallowed. The stewards reported that films showed Hoist Bar was not bothered until just after crossing the finish.

Royal Gunner, a stablemate of Hoist Bar, also trained by Noble Threewitt, rallied for third place with Bold Bidder fourth. Lucky Debonair, the Kentucky Derby winner making his first start since the Preakness last May, pushed Hoist Bar in the early running but faded to fifth at the wire.

Terry's Secret, owned by the Poltex Stable of L. S. Pollock of Dallas, Texas, paid $12.60, $4.80 and $5.20. The Threewitt entry paid $3.20 to place and $3.40 to show.

250 Will Seek 20 L.A. Open Spots

"Golf Week" in Southern California gets under way Monday when 250 professional and amateur golfers vie over five courses for 20 berths in the Los Angeles Open beginning Thursday at Rancho Park Golf Course.

Qualifying rounds Monday will be held at the Hillcrest, Palos Verdes, Los Coyotes, California and L. A. North courses.

The low four finishers at each of the five courses will join 124 who qualified automatically for the 40th annual Los Angeles Open.

Among the better known pros who must qualify Monday are Al Besselink, Davey Hill, Don Fairfield, Pete Brown and Jerry Steelsmith.

The big golf week continues Wednesday at Rancho with a pro-amateur event and the tournament proper will be staged Thursday through Sunday over the 7131-yard, par-71 Rancho layout.

The L.A. Open, first event of the 1966 PGA tour, will end on Sunday instead of Monday as in the past because of a national TV contract.

Forty-two of the top 50 money winners on the pro circuit the past year will be in the field.

Only important stars missing from the talented field will be Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, who will not join the tour until later.

However, Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema, Billy Casper, Doug Sanders, Gene Littler and Dave Marr, PGA champion and "pro golfer of the year," will be on hand along with Paul Harney, who will be seeking an unprecedented third successive win in the $70,000 event.

Harney won the '64 title by one stroke and coasted home by three last year.

TIME TESTED VICTOR AS HEAVY FAVORITE

MIAMI (AP) — Time Tested and Kilmoray won the two divisions of the New Year's Handicap at Tropical Park Saturday.

Time Tested, the favorite with Braulio Baeza aboard, carried 121 pounds and ran the six furlongs in 1:09 for the second division victory.

Time Tested beat Buz On by 1¾ lengths in the first. Dark King was a neck back in third, while Bay Phantom, high weight at 123 pounds, was seventh and last. Prime Minister was fifth and Tim's Stingray finished sixth.

Time Tested paid $2.80, $2.60 and $2.40. Buz On returned $3.60 and $3 while Dark King was $5.40 to show.

Hobeau Farm's Kilmoray, ridden by Johnny Sellers, came on the inside to win the first division by 1¼ lengths.

Sky Wonder was second and Ornamento was third.

PERFECT SKY, unhurried to the far turn, circled the field into the stretch to win from OR ET ARGENT under strong hand urging. Latter, kept in hand early, moved closer on the far turn after out from behind horses and raced with the pace between stretch calls. CEDAR KEY broke alertly to be in a sustained duel with SWITCHBACK from the half, tiring inside the furlong pole. SWITCHBACK saved ground throughout. WITHOUT FAIL was always in contention. DUEL broke badly to the inside then took up, recovered around the first turn but then weakened.

MIDWEST players on the East team and hailing from Big 10 schools include kicker Jim Bakken (St. Louis Cardinals) of Wisconsin; end Gary Ballman (Pittsburgh Steelers), Michigan State; defensive back Irv Cross (Philadelphia Eagles), Northwestern; linebacker Jim Houston (Cleveland Browns,) Oh

—AP Wirephoto

WAS A SECRET FOR A WHILE
Terry's Secret (9), with Alex Maese doing the riding, is just about to get head in front of Hoist Bar en route to Malibu Stakes win at Santa Anita Saturday. Alvaro Pineda, aboard Hoist Bar, claimed foul in the close-quarters race, but it wasn't allowed.

Terry's Secret Snares Malibu

By ERNIE MASON

It was a perfect New Year's Day for some of the 42,139 racing patrons at Santa Anita Saturday as longshot Perfect Sky scored the second major stakes upset of his racing career in the co-featured $25,000-added San Gabriel Handicap at 1⅛ miles over an extremely soft turf course.

Perfect Sky won the California Derby as a 3-year-old last spring at Golden Gate Fields but had done nothing much since until Saturday when he overtook the front runners to pull away in the stretch and win by a length and a half. The time was a slow 1:55 flat.

Jockey Alvaro Pineda won his first Santa Anita stakes in riding Perfect Sky to victory. Foxcatcher Farms is the nom de course for William DuPont, Jr., who died Friday in Wilmington, Dela., at the age of 69.

* * * *

PERFECT SKY, coupled in the wagering with another horse trained by Charles Whittingham, Shady Living, returned $34, $8.40 and $4.80 across the board. Or Et Argent, a French-bred horse and the favorite, finished second and paid $3.60 and $2.80. Cedar Key, another major stakes performer on grass, was third and returned $4.00 to show.

Terry's Secret, the California-bred distance champion as a 3-year-old in 1965, made a rare sprint start in the companion Malibu Stakes and won the seven-furlong test by a short head in 1:23 flat on a fast dirt track.

* * * *

RIDDEN BY his regular pilot, Alex Maese, Terry's Secret gained the lead from the pace-setting Hoist Bar in mid-stretch but appeared to drift in during the final strides.

Jockey Pineda on Hoist Bar lodged a claim of foul but it was disallowed. The stewards reported that films showed Hoist Bar was not bothered until just after crossing the finish.

Royal Gunner, a stablemate of Hoist Bar, also trained by Noble Threewitt, rallied for third place with Bold Bidder fourth. Lucky Debonair, the Kentucky Derby winner making his first start since the Preakness last May, pushed Hoist Bar in the early running but faded to fifth at the wire.

Terry's Secret, owned by the Poltex Stable of L. S. Pollock of Dallas, Texas, paid $12.60, $4.80 and $5.20. The Threewitt entry paid $3.20 to place and $3.40 to show.

There will be no racing Monday and Tuesday at Santa Anita.

TIME TESTED VICTOR AS HEAVY FAVORITE

MIAMI (AP) — Time Tested and Kilmoray won the two divisions of the New Year's Handicap at Tropical Park Saturday.

Time Tested, the favorite with Braulio Baeza aboard, carried 121 pounds and ran the six furlongs in 1:09 for the second division victory.

Time Tested beat Buz On by 1¾ lengths in the first. Dark King was a neck back in third, while Bay Phantom, high weight at 123 pounds, was seventh and last. Prime Minister was fifth and Tim's Stingray finished sixth.

Time Tested paid $2.80, $2.60 and $2.40. Buz On returned $3.60 and $3 while Dark King was $5.40 to show.

Hobeau Farm's Kilmoray, ridden by Johnny Sellers, came on the inside to win the first division by 1¼ lengths.

Sky Wonder was second and Ornamento was third.

PERFECT SKY, unhurried to the far turn, circled the field into the stretch to win from OR ET ARGENT under strong hand urging. Latter, kept in hand early, moved closer on the far turn after lying behind horses and raced with the pace between stretch calls. CEDAR KEY broke slightly but was a sustained duel with SWITCHBACK from the half, tiring inside the furlong pole. SWITCHBACK saved ground throughout. WITHOUT FAIL was always outrun. DUEL broke badly to the inside then took up, recovered around the first turn but then weakened.

TERRY'S SECRET dropped back from his good break and using the outside rushed up around the turn coming wide into the stretch then while engaging HOIST BAR from midstretch, drifted in on that one. HOIST BAR shook off LUCKY DEBONAIR at the furlong pole and while on the rail raced in close quarters against the winner through to the wire. ROYAL GUNNER, taken in hand early behind a wall of horses, was eased out for room into the stretch and finished with good energy. BOLD BIDDER, when set down for the drive, lacked response. LUCKY DEBONAIR, from between horses, held on well to midstretch but tired after breaking through the gate and unseating his rider prior to the start. ARKSRONI lost ground. The rider of the second horse claimed foul against the winner. However, the stewards ruled there was no interference in the stretch run and it was not allowed.

Midwest, South Lead Pro Talent

By AL LARSON

Judging by personnel of the East and West teams in the 16th annual All-Star Pro Bowl football game at the Coliseum Jan. 16, the nation's top talent is produced in the Midwest with the South runnerup.

A total of 31 players—21 on the East squad and 10 on the West — are products of Midwestern football. Meanwhile, 19 hail from the South, 8 on the East team and 11 on the West.

Conference - wise, the Big 10 leads by a big margin with a total of 14, seven on each side.

* * * *

MIDWEST players on the East team and hailing from Big 10 schools include kicker Jim Bakken (St. Louis Cardinals) of Wisconsin; end Gary Ballman (Pittsburgh Steelers), Michigan State; defensive back Irv Cross (Philadelphia Eagles), Northwestern; linebacker Jim Houston (Cleveland Browns,) Ohio State; defensive back Paul Krause (Washington Redskins), Iowa; defensive tackle Joe Rutgens (Redskins), Illinois; tackle Dick Schafrath (Browns), Ohio State.

On the West the Big Tenners are defensive back Herb Adderley (Green Bay Packers), Michigan State; fullback Bill Brown (Minnesota Vikings), Illinois linebacker Dick Butkus (Chicago Bears), Illinois; defensive tackle Alex Karras (Detroit Lions), Iowa; defensive back Dick LeBeau (Lions), Ohio State; guard Jim Parker (Baltimore Colts), Ohio State; and tackle Bob Vogel (Colts), Ohio State.

PRO-O-RAMA—In addition the East outfit sports other Midwesterners like defensive end George Andrie (Cowboys) from Abernathy; tackle Bob Brown (Eagles), Nebraska; halfback Timmy Brown (Eagles), Ball State; center Bob DeMarco (Cardinals), Dayton; end Pete Retzlaff (Eagles), South Dakota State; and defensive tackle Sam Silas (Cardinals), Southern Illinois. Not to be outdone, the West has tackle Grady Alderman (Vikings) from Detroit; halfback Dan Abramowicz of the year Gale Sayers and rookie of the year Mick Tingelhoff (Vikings), Nebraska.

Southern players on the East are linebacker Maxie Baughan (Eagles) from Georgia Tech; flanker Gary Collins (Browns), Maryland; fullback Tucker Frederickson (New York Giants); Auburn; flanker Bob Hayes (Cowboys), Florida A&M; guard Gene Hickerson (Browns), Mississippi; linebacker Chuck Howley (Cowboys), West Virginia; and Tony Randle (Cardinals), Virginia; and quarterback Norm Snead (Eagles), Wake Forest.

The 11 Southerners on the West are defensive end Doug Atkins (Bears), Tennessee; center Bruce Bosley (San Francisco 49ers), West Virginia; defensive tackle Roger Brown (Lions), Maryland State; defensive end Willie Davis (Packers), Grambling; linebacker Joe Fortunato (Bears), Mississippi State; guard John Gordy (Lions), Tennessee; defensive end David Jones (Rams), South Carolina State; defensive back Eddie Meador (Rams), Arkansas Tech; flanker Jimmy Orr (Colts), Georgia; quarterback Fran Tarkenton (Vikings), Georgia; and tackle Walt Rock (49ers), Maryland.

Far Western players are few and far between, particularly from the AAWU. Oregon's Mel Renfro (Cowboys), defensive back, and Stanford's Paul Wiggin (Browns), defensive end, are on the East. On the West are USC's Willie Wood (Packers), defensive back; Stanford's John Brodie (49ers), quarterback.

Sportsmen Need a United Front

There is one New Year's wish that I have each year, but it never seems to materialize. It is that the sportsmen (outdoorsmen, if you wish to call them that) of California present a united front. If thi scould be done, the image would be startling indeed, and I think that Sacramento would take due notice thereof.

We almost had it made in the closing weeks of December. The California Wildlife Federation, which represents 120,000 members and 12 large councils devoted to conservation and which spearheaded the initiative petition to put control of anchovies and sardines (what sardines?) in the hands of the California Fish and Game Commission, lined up every conservation organization in California.

The Ocean Fish Protective Association, not a member of the CWF, offered its support. However, last Tuesday night, a small group of OFPA officials and delegates met at the Compton Hunting and Fishing Club temporarily withdrew the OFPA backing of the petition.

This was most disappointing and what it means is that it gives the solons at Sacramento the chance to say: "The sportsmen are fighting among themselves again."

Actually, the petition, once supported by all the leading conservatioon groups, was in the attorney general's office for titling.

THE PETITION'S WORDING was the straw that broke the OFPA camel's back, as I understand it. I was not at the Compton meeting and I have not seen the petition, but I have been briefed as to its contents. It seems that the OFPA wanted to put certain limitations on the amounts of anchovies and sardines that could be taken for reduction to fish meal.

It is to be hoped that the OFPA and the CWF will get together quickly and iron out the difficulties that exist. The petition is primarily to keep the legislature from interfering with the FGC. However, the OFPA feels that the FGC might go beyond the bounds that the fishery could stand. As for that matter, who knows how much the anchovy fishery will stand?

Many anglers who don't belong to any club feel that they were sold down the river by the DFG and the FGC at that recent San Diego meeting. We must remember that the public put up such a squawk that the DFG limits were lowered considerably. I feel that the FGC will be a good watch dog on the fishery.

If the initiation petition is brushed aside, you may be sure that the legislature at its next session will name an advisory board to the Fish and Game Commission, and you also may be sure that such a board is not going to be composed of sportfishermen.

Such a petition would need 468,000 signatures to go on the next state election ballot.

AS I HAVE WRITTEN BEFORE, it's going to take a lot of work to get that many signatures, but it can be done. Once on the ballot, it might not pass because there are many non-fishermen who don't even know what an anchovy is, but even if such a plan got a million votes, it would give Sacramento quite a jolt, and that is what is needed to let the solons know that we sportfishermen are "quite a crowd."

It is well to look at what the California Wildlife Federation represents. It is composed of the following organizations:

Southern Council of Conservation Clubs, Associated Sportsmen of California, Inc., California Bowmen and Field Archers Association, California Rifle and Pistol Association, Inland Council of Conservation Clubs, North Coast Conservation Council, San Diego Wildlife Federation, Inc., Siskiyou Consolidated Sportsmen's Council, Sportsmen's Council of Central California, Sportsmen's Council of the Redwood Empire, Sportsmen's Council of Superior California and the California Association of Four-Wheel Drive Clubs. Each of those organizations is composed of many clubs.

Latest to join the fight to put over the petition is the Golden Gate Sportsfishers, Inc., representing the salmon fishing industry of Northern California. It promised both active and financial support.

Financial support is needed. It takes money to hire professional signature takers and that is what is needed for such a petition.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Latest angler to catch a bonefish off Belmont Pier is Ed Guelpa, who lives at 11402 Drysdale Lane, Los Alamitos. The fish weighed 1¾ pounds and was caught on a ghost shrimp bait. As has been pointed out in the very few times that bonefish have been caught on this coast, they are extremely rare and certainly out of habitat.

Trout fishing along the California section of the Colorado River above an dbelow Needles should start this year off at a good pace. The Willow Beach National Fish Hatchery is planting 30,000 eight-inch rainbow trout weighing 6,000 pounds below Davis Dam this week, weather permitting.

Areas above Davis Dam in the vicinity of Katherine Wash, Eldorado, Cottonwood and Willow Beach also will receive plants by the federal hatchery later this month.

Owners of 355,000 boats in California must renew their registrations between Jan. 1 and Feb. 4 of this year, Lachlan M. Richards, chief of the State Division of Small Craft Harbors, said yesterday. The fee is $3 and renews the boat's registration for three years. The renewal has nothing to do with the boat's registration number.

Long Beach boaters may renew their registrations at King-O-Sports, 2708 E. 10th St.; Ralph L. Moore, 5396 Appian Way, and Bahia Marine Hardware, 6200 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., all in Long Beach.

L.B. Fights Poverty With Fitness Program

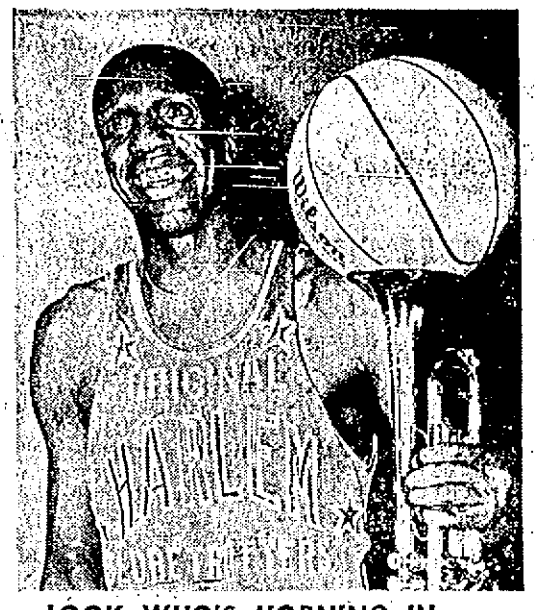

Long Beach athletes have thrown their weight behind the War on Poverty.

Specifically, graduates of Franklin Jr. High, working under the Economic and Youth Opportunities Agency of Greater Los Angeles, have agreed to spearhead a program designed to keep youngsters living in the city's chief poverty pocket off the streets.

Willie Brown, John Rambo, Dee Andrews and Earl McCullouch are among a star-studded group of instructors who will participate in a Physical Fitness Club, titled under Congress' War on Poverty Program and accepted as part of Franklin's extra-curricular activities by the Board of Education.

The first assembly is Tuesday at 10 a.m. when Chuck Coker, former coach of the L.A. Striders, and a world-applauded authority on fitness, will demonstrate portable isometric equipment. The club's fitness program is fashioned after Otto Graham's outline for the U.S. Coast Guard.

Anyone wishing to assist may contact Mr. Daniel at 426-3320.

Globetrotters Due in Arena, Jan. 29

The 40th anniversary edition of the world famed Harlem Globetrotters will make its annual one-night appearance in the Long Beach Arena Saturday, Jan. 29.

As an added attraction, owner-coach Abe Saperstein will present an outstanding halftime show, featuring the Bratislavic Slovakian Folk-dancers, an ensemble of 40 from Czechoslovaki considered among the world's finest troupes of its kind.

Highlight of the evening will be the activities of the court jesters themselves, headed by Meadowlark Lemon, who is in his 11th season as the game's No. 1 funnyman.

Joining forces with Lemon will be another stellar team that includes the great Connie Hawkins, former all-America Hallie Bryant of Indiana University and wonder-dribbler Freddie Neal, a three-year veteran.

Also on hand will be Leroy (Satchel) Paige, baseball's legendary pitcher, to make an appearance as a Trotters traveling executive. He will come out of retirement to take part in one of the Trotters' great comedy routines—their takeoff on baseball.

MORE THAN 50 million people in 87 countries on all six continents have seen these minstrels of basketball record 8,434 victories through the previous 39 seasons against a mere 322 losses. As they began their 40th year of play, they had a continuous victory string of 1,059.

Tickets for this one-night appearance will go on sale Monday at the Arena box office, all Wallichs Music City Stores, Humphreys Music Co. and Kenny's Sporting Goods in Long Beach and Judkins Music Co. in Garden Grove. For information or reservations call HE 7-2255.

$100 BARGAIN KEMP VOTED BEST IN AFL

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jack Kemp, the Buffalo Bills' quarterback who was acquired for the $100 waiver price in 1962, was voted the American Football League's player-of-the-year Saturday by United Press International.

Kemp collected nine of the 24 votes cast by a panel of writers to outdistance runners-up Paul Lowe and Lance Alworth of the San Diego Chargers who received four votes.

Kemp, hampered part of the season by a shoulder injury, finished fourth in the league in passing while leading the Bills to their second consecutive AFL championship.

Sportsmen Need a United Front

There is one New Year's wish that I have each year, but it never seems to materialize. It is that the sportsmen (outdoorsmen, if you wish to call them that) of California present a united front. If thi scould be done, the image would be startling indeed, and I think that Sacramento would take due notice thereof.

We almost had it made in the closing weeks of December. The California Wildlife Federation, which represents 120,000 members and 12 large councils devoted to conservation and which spearheaded the initiative petition to put control of anchovies and sardines (what sardines?) in the hands of the California Fish and Game Commission, lined up every conservation organization in California.

The Ocean Fish Protective Association, not a member of the CWF, offered its support. However, last Tuesday night, a small group of OFPA officials and delegates met at the Compton Hunting and Fishing Club temporarily withdrew the OFPA backing of the petition.

This was most disappointing and what it means is that it gives the solons at Sacramento the chance to say: "The sportsmen are fighting among themselves again."

Actually, the petition, once supported by all the leading conservatioon groups, was in the attorney general's office for titling.

THE PETITION'S WORDING was the straw that broke the OFPA camel's back, as I understand it. I was not at the Compton meeting and I have not seen the petition, but I have been briefed as to its contents. It seems that the OFPA wanted to put certain limitations on the amounts of anchovies and sardines that could be taken for reduction to fish meal.

It is to be hoped that the OFPA and the CWF will get together quickly and iron out the difficulties that exist. The petition is primarily to keep the legislature from interfering with the FGC. However, the OFPA feels that the FGC might go beyond the bounds that the fishery could stand. As for that matter, who knows how much the anchovy fishery will stand?

Many anglers who don't belong to any club feel that they were sold down the river by the DFG and the FGC at that recent San Diego meeting. We must remember that the public put up such a squawk that the DFG limits were lowered considerably. I feel that the FGC will be a good watch dog on the fishery.

If the initiation petition is brushed aside, you may be sure that the legislature at its next session will name an advisory board to the Fish and Game Commission, and you also may be sure that such a board is not going to be composed of sportfishermen.

Such a petition would need 468,000 signatures to go on the next state election ballot.

AS I HAVE WRITTEN BEFORE, it's going to take a lot of work to get that many signatures, but it can be done. Once on the ballot, it might not pass because there are many non-fishermen who don't even know what an anchovy is, but even if such a plan got a million votes, it would give Sacramento quite a jolt, and that is what is needed to let the solons know that we sportfishermen are "quite a crowd."

It is well to look at what the California Wildlife Federation represents. It is composed of the following organizations:

Southern Council of Conservation Clubs, Associated Sportsmen of California, Inc., California Bowmen and Field Archers Association, California Rifle and Pistol Association, Inland Council of Conservation Clubs, North Coast Conservation Council, San Diego Wildlife Federation, Inc., Siskiyou Consolidated Sportsmen's Council, Sportsmen's Council of Central California, Sportsmen's Council of the Redwood Empire, Sportsmen's Council of Superior California and the California Association of Four-Wheel Drive Clubs. Each of those organizations is composed of many clubs.

Latest to join the fight to put over the petition is the Golden Gate Sportsfishers, Inc., representing the salmon fishing industry of Northern California. It promised both active and financial support.

Financial support is needed. It takes money to hire professional signature takers and that is what is needed for such a petition.

Trout fishing along the California section of the Colorado River above an dbelow Needles should start this year off at a good pace. The Willow Beach National Fish Hatchery is planting 30,000 eight-inch rainbow trout weighing 6,000 pounds below Davis Dam this week, weather permitting.

Areas above Davis Dam in the vicinity of Katherine Wash, Eldorado, Cottonwood and Willow Beach also will receive plants by the federal hatchery later this month.

Owners of 355,000 boats in California must renew their registrations between Jan. 1 and Feb. 4 of this year, Lachlan M. Richards, chief of the State Division of Small Craft Harbors, said yesterday. The fee is $3 and renews the boat's registration for three years. The renewal has nothing to do with the boat's registration number.

Long Beach boaters may renew their registrations at King-O-Sports, 2708 E. 10th St.; Ralph L. Moore, 5396 Appian Way, and Bahia Marine Hardware, 6200 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., all in Long Beach.

Meadowlark Lemon Gives a Toot

Globetrotters Due in Arena, Jan. 29

The 40th anniversary edition of the world famed Harlem Globetrotters will make its annual one-night appearance in the Long Beach Arena Saturday, Jan. 29.

As an added attraction, owner-coach Abe Saperstein will present an outstanding halftime show, featuring the Bratislavic Slovakian Folk-dancers, an ensemble of 40 from Czechoslovaki considered among the world's finest troupes of its kind.

Highlight of the evening will be the activities of the court jesters themselves, headed by Meadowlark Lemon, who is in his 11th season as the game's No. 1 funnyman.

Joining forces with Lemon will be another steller team that includes the great Connie Hawkins, former all-America Hallie Bryant of Indiana University and wonder-dribbler Freddie Neal, a three-year veteran.

Also on hand will be Leroy (Satchel) Paige, baseball's legendary pitcher, to make an appearance as a Trotters' traveling executive. He will come out of retirement to take part in one of the Trotters' great comedy routines—their takeoff on baseball.

* * * *

MORE THAN 50 million people in 87 countries on all six continents have seen these minstrels of basketball record 8,434 victories through the previous 39 seasons against a mere 322 losses. As they began their 40th year of play, they had a continuous victory string of 1,059.

Tickets for this one-night appearance will go on sale Monday at the Arena box office, all Wallichs Music City Stores, Humphreys Music Co. and Kenny's Sporting Goods in Long Beach and Judkins Music Co. in Garden Grove. For information or reservations call HE 7-2255.

$100 BARGAIN KEMP VOTED BEST IN AFL

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jack Kemp, the Buffalo Bills' quarterback who was acquired for the $100 waiver price in 1962, was voted the American Football League's player-of-the-year Saturday by United Press International.

Kemp collected nine of the 24 votes cast by a panel of writers to outdistance runners-up Paul Lowe and Lance Alworth of the San Diego Chargers who received four votes.

Kemp, hampered part of the season by a shoulder injury, finished fourth in the league in passing while leading the Bills to their second consecutive AFL championship.

McKenney Farmed

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Red Wings sent former Boston star Don McKenney to the minors Saturday.

MAKE 1966 YOUR 'MEANINGFUL CAREER' YEAR

We, the representatives of an outstanding organization, extend success in 1966 because of our conviction and enthusiasm! We belong to the finest organization in its field in the world! We work hard and realize good income from our efforts. We sell a service that everyone must have, and gain real satisfaction from every sale we make, because we serve a need! We work for Forest Lawn-Cypress and serve the greater So. Los Angeles County (including Long Beach) and Orange County areas. Our company provides the usual company employee benefits (many unusual for salesmen!) — and besides that they have us real good training which taught us how to SERVE by selling.
Our company wants to find some more people like us. If you are a sincere and hard-working person we would like to have you join us. You may not have sales experience. Most of us didn't. Our company provides that experience — quickly and easily.
Why don't you give our boss, Mr. Don West, a call to see how you can make 1966 your "Meaningful Career" year? Do it today!

MAKE 1966 YOUR 'MEANINGFUL CAREER' YEAR

We, the representatives of an outstanding organization, gained success in 1965 because of our conviction and enthusiasm! We belong to the finest organization in its field in the world! We work hard and realize good income from our efforts. We sell service that everyone must have, and gain real satisfaction from every sale we make, because we serve a need! We work for Fed. Lawn-Cypress and serve the greater So. Los Angeles County (including Long Beach) and Orange County areas. Our company provides the usual company employee benefits (many unusual for salesmen!)—and besides that they save us real good training which taught us how to SERVE by selling.
Our company wants to find some more people like us. If you are a sincere and hard-working person we would like to have you join us. You may not have sales experience. Most of us didn't. Our company provides that experience—quickly and easily.
Why don't you give our boss, Mr. Don West, a call to see how you can make 1966 your "Meaningful Career" year? Do it today!

More than self-sustaining cattle ranch in Central Oregon — 78,500 deeded acres of vivid & varied scenery. Sweeping views of colorful buttes, mesas, rock out croppings & spectacular painted hills. Wooded mts. with lush meadows & good stand of 2nd growth timber already considerable value. Miles of river frontage & creek irrigable fields w/tree water. Literally thousands of acres high grass & native feed. Area furs, feathers & antlers for the sportsmen. All elec. home; mild winter climate. All this + 22,500 ac. BLM & private allotment. All properties fenced w/seven wire rods throughout. Terrific potential for land value appreciation. Priced at much less than $25 per deeded acre!

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

Too Much . . . or . . . Too Little

★ There is hardly anything in the world that some men cannot make a little worse, and sell a little cheaper; and the people who consider price ONLY are this man's lawful prey. It is unwise to pay too much, but it's worse to pay too little. When you pay too much, you lose a little money — that is all.
★ When you pay too little you sometimes lose everything, because the item you bought is incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do.
★ The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little, and getting a lot.

— "It Simply Can't Be Done" —
Think It Over

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

Too Much . . . or . . . Too Little

★ There is hardly anything in the world that some men cannot make a little worse, and sell a little cheaper; and the people who consider price ONLY are this man's lawful prey. It is unwise to pay too much, but it's worse to pay too little. When you pay too much, you lose a little money—that is all.
★ When you pay too little you sometimes lose everything, because the item you bought is incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do.
★ The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little, and getting a lot.

—"It Simply Can't Be Done"—
Think It Over

The members of the Used Car Dealers Association listed below will give you full value for the dollars you spend with them. Give them a try, you'll be glad you did!

EVERY INCH HAD MULTIPLE SCRUTINY

By EV HOSKING
I, P-T Sunday Editor

The Southland's biggest "industry" has a 45-billion-dollar stake in the nation's economy—more than the total national debt until World War II.

A good percentage of this stake is centered in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Further, it distributed $1.99 billion during the past year in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area alone for work completed under contract payments.

Actually it isn't an industry, but a military organization that is, peculiarly enough, 90% civilian-manned.

This industry that isn't is the United States Air Force's Contract Management Division—a part of the Air Force's Systems Command.

The unique "behind-the-scenes" organization is the only one of its type in the Air Force and it has three main interests—the taxpayer, the military and industry.

* * * *

THE AIR FORCE, through CMD, is doing everything it can in the administration of contracts—primarily in the booming space business. Their goal is the smooth, efficient and economical management of contracts to insure the taxpayer and the manufacturer are getting an even break and that the government purchaser is receiving optimum benefit.

Specifically the Contract Management Division supervises somewhat more than $45 billion worth of contracts at 24 industrial plants and five test sites.

This massive military management effort has its headquarters in Inglewood, about 15 miles northwest of Long Beach on the San Diego Freeway.

Head of the unusual organization is Brig. Gen. D. E. Riley, a youthful, quick-thinking executive who is not only concerned with getting the most for his government dollars —but also in having healthy, smooth-functioning industries.

By assuring that the government gets a fair return for its dollar, he brings to light methods or practices by which the plants run more efficiently and economically — all of which means more dividends in the pockets of the stockholder.

* * * *

GENERAL RILEY points out that his Contract Management Division disburses between $4 and $5 billion annually on the 6000 or more contracts under its supervision.

These contracts represent a total of more than $45 billion. Gen. Riley stresses that this figure fluctuates because of the completion of some contracts and the awarding of new contracts.

Of the contracts administered by the Contract Management Division, 3551 are for the Air Force, 1300 for the Navy, 159 for the Army and 289 for NASA.

Eighty per cent of the money administered is the Air Force's, and 5% is NASA's.

Contract Management has a fantastic range of contracts from the more sophisticated space projects such as Saturn and MOL to the latest aircraft—the recently-ordered C54 cargo plane and the once-controversial TFX fighter.

Not only is the Contract Management Division composed of experts at paper work and figures—Gen. Riley points out that it has 72 test pilots on its rolls who have final word on the acceptance of aircraft for the government, after the aircraft company has completed and initially test flown the aircraft.

Gen. Riley's command is composed of 4300 people, only 420 of whom are military, the balance being civilians.

* * * *

OF THESE 4300 people, 3219 are located at Air Force Plant Representative Offices. They perform their daily tasks on site at the industrial plants and test facilities to which they are assigned. Usually the head of a plant detachment is either a full colonel in the Air Force or, in some cases, a lieutenant colonel. Members of the unit are both military and civilian.

The Contract Management Division has these detachments in 21 locations serving some of the nation's largest aerospace contractors. The five Test Site Offices are located at Air Force bases where tests of aircraft and other space age equipment are conducted, such as Edwards Air Force Base.

"These men, just as our headquarters men," says Gen. Riley, "are specialists and professionals providing a variety of services that save money for the taxpayer."

Although the Contract Management Division furnishes information and advice to the government prior to the awarding of the contracts, the actual work comes after the contract has been awarded.

* * * *

"AFTER contract award, we insure," says Gen. Riley, "that the product being manufactured will perform as specified, has the quality and reliability required, and is delivered on schedule.

"We try to hold government costs to a minimum and save taxpayer dollars. But we have an equal responsibility to see that an increase is approved for the contractor when necessary and justified.

"We do represent, impartially, the manufacturer, his employes, his stockholders, all the American taxpayers, and of course the military.

"In fact this need for impartiality is one good reason we are a separate division in the Air Force."

Gen. Riley, a native of Flint, Mich., moved to Southern California recently and he and his wife have settled at 254 Via Los Miradores, Redondo Beach.

* * * *

HE WAS commissioned a second lieutenant in the infantry reserve in 1936. He graduated from the University of Detroit in 1940 with a bachelor of science degree in aeronautical engineering and in 1941 earned a pilot's license. The same year he transferred from the Infantry to the Air Corps Reserve.

On active duty prior to World War II, he served during the war at Wright Field in Dayton, Ohio, as aircraft production and engineering officer until 1947. In this capacity he pioneered development and production of military aircraft, helicopters, and the early missiles.

He has had overseas and Pentagon assignments and in 1959 became chief of the Mace Missile Program and later as program director of the Strategic Air Command 465L control system.

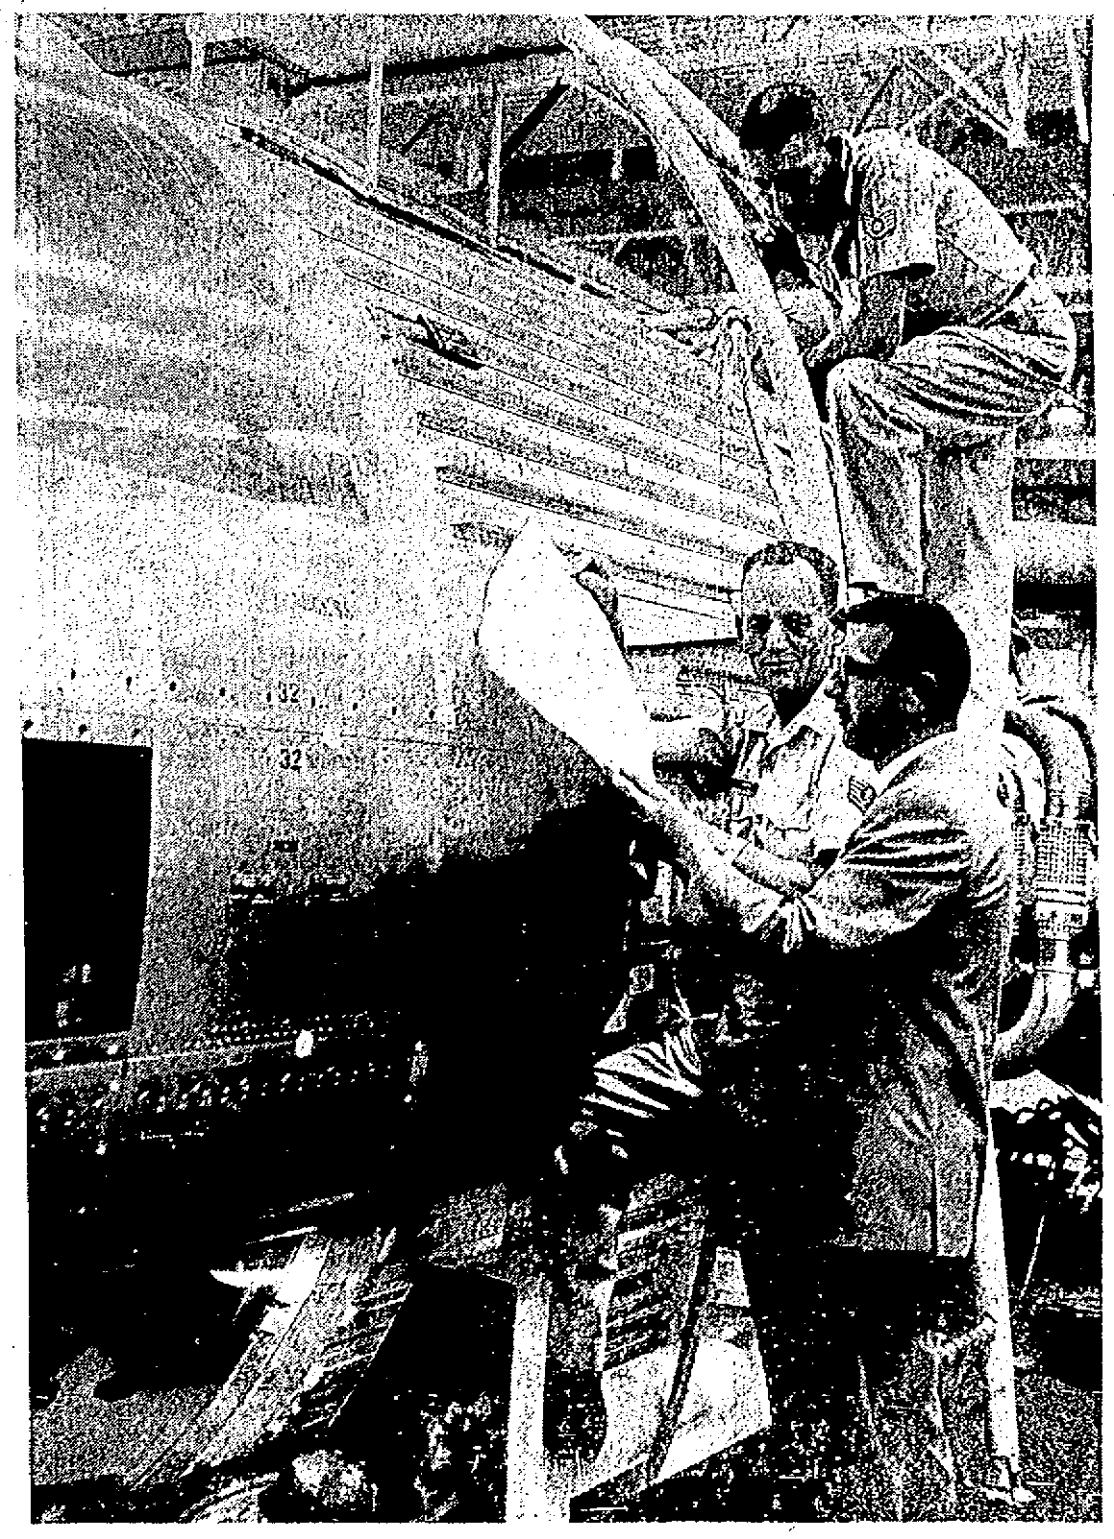

Gen. Riley assumed command of the newly-formed Air Force Contract Management Division on Oct. 1.

TV Cameras Replace Divers in Underwater Oil Drilling

Wellhead equipment has been successfully installed off the California Coast without the aid of divers at a believed record depth of 632 feet, reports Armco Steel Corp.'s National Supply Division. The installation is expected to stimulate the search for new underwater oil reservoirs at even greater depths, said a division spokesman.

The remotely controlled operation, guided by underwater television cameras, took place from a drilling vessel working on a test well for Humble Oil & Refining Co., off Santa Barbara.

* * * *

THE INSTALLATION marks the first placement of a completely automatic subsea wellhead system — required to tap underwater oil deposits — at a depth exceeding 600 feet.

Up to now, the deepest installation was achieved near Oceano, at a depth of 554 feet.

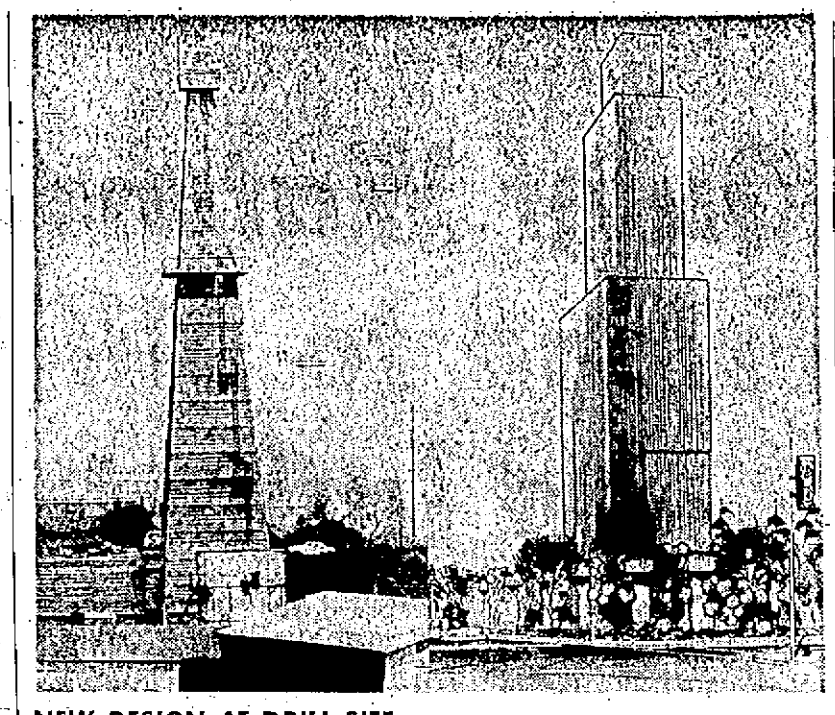

The crews aboard the drilling vessel —CUSS I, owned and operated by Global Marine Inc.—reportedly experienced complete success in all phases of the drilling operation.

The well was "logged" or charted by special electrical test instruments lowered into it, which permitted analysis of formations through which the well was drilled.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, the well casing—a protective steel liner for the hole—was also properly cemented into place to prevent dislocation.

The dramatic achievement culminates nearly 15 years work in the development of National Supply's subsea wellhead system, according to the company. Its first underwater wellhead units were manually installed on gas wells in relatively shallow waters in the Great Lakes in the 1950's.

NEW DESIGN AT DRILL SITE

Occidental Petroleum Corp. is introducing new concept in design of drilling rig by this 161-foot oil-gas derrick (right) at Pico Boulevard and Doheny Drive, Los Angeles, to look like ultramodern high-rise office building when completed. Covered derrick at left has been part of Southland landscape for years.

$74 Million Cut on Utility Cost

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—Californians are now paying $74 million less for state regulated utility services than they were at the start of the 1964-65 fiscal year, the public utilities commission reported.

In its annual report to Gov. Brown, the commission noted the reductions were the largest ever made in a single year.

This marks the third successive year that utility charges have been lowered.

The actual decrease in rates was $78 million, but the commission authorized increases totaling $4 million, making the net savings to customers $74 million.

The report also pointed out the combined revenues of trucks, railroad and water carriers during 1964 surpassed the $1 billion mark for the first time—$1,044,025,774.

Big Ford Payroll in State

Ford Motor Co.'s employment in California reached an all-time high of 12,000 in 1965 with a total annual payroll of $114 million, an increase of about 15% over the previous year.

Figures released by the company showed Ford's continued growth in California with new records in passenger car sales and production as well as employment and payroll.

Ford also reported sharp increases in investment and employment for Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers in the state. California dealers for Ford Motor Co. cars and trucks employed more than 17,000 persons this year in sales and service facilities with a total operating investment of more than $88 million.

* * * *

DEALERS ALSO sold a record number of cars and trucks—an estimated total of 292,000 units. The total included Ford Division's line of trucks and Mustang, Falcon, Fairlane, Ford and Thunderbird passenger cars as well as the Lincoln-Mercury Division's Comet, Mercury, and Lincoln-Continental.

The record sales also were reflected in record production at the company's two California automobile assembly plants. By year's end, they will have assembled a total of 256,300 cars and 58,800 trucks.

The plant in Pico Rivera, set a production record by producing an estimated 118,900 Galaxies and Comets. The plant employs about 2,400.

The plant at Milpitas built about 137,400 Mustangs and 58,800 trucks this year, for an all-time record. The plant's average employment reached 2,350.

* * * *

THE COMPANY'S subsidiary, Philco Corp., contributed strongly to Ford's growth in the state in 1965. Philco's activities in space programs, electronics and weaponry continued to expand during the year.

The Aeronautic Division at Newport Beach averaged 3,400 employes in programs involving tactical weapons systems, re-entry and space systems, advanced reconnaissance photography, engineering and applied research.

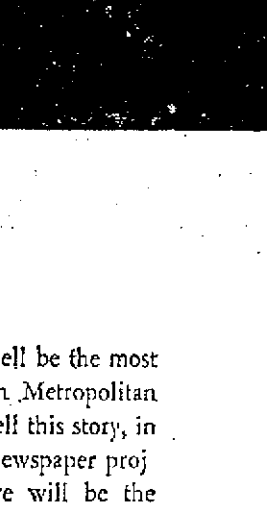

State Leads in Training of Apprentice Carpenters

California is leading the nation in the training of apprentice carpenters with 6,700 young men now enrolled in a statewide contractor-union sponsored program, according to John L. Meek, chairman of the apprentice training committee of the Southern California Chapter of Associated General Contractors.

There are 2,892 in training in the 11 Southern California counties. Of this, 1,800 are in Los Angeles County and 532 are in Orange County.

* * * *

MEEK said there is a continuing need for more skilled building trades craftsmen and the apprenticeship program offers the best solution to the situation. He said the program is especially effective in training carpenters, one of the most important jobs in the construction industry.

NATIONAL BUSINESS

Highlights of Prosperous 1965 Pass in Review

NEW YORK (AP)—Business highlights in prosperous 1965 were many, and in some cases spectacular.

Top events:

Personal income of Americans rose to an annual rate of $535.9 billion. People spent money at a record rate and saved at a record pace. They spent enthusiastically on automobiles, color television sets, appliances and clothing.

The automobile industry enjoyed its fourth consecutive big year. In the 1965 model year, a record 8.85 million passenger cars were assembled, surpassing the old record of 7,892,000 set in 1964.

The steel industry came up against a United Steelworkers Union strike deadline twice before agreement was reached under prodding of President Johnson. The union got a package of 47.3 cents an hour over 35 months.

The aluminum and copper industries raised prices but were forced to rescind the action under pressure from the Johnson administration.

The prices of such goods as overcoats, men's suits, shoes, tin cans, color television sets and aluminum siding went up.

The government eased depreciation rules to allow faster tax writeoffs. This meant a saving of $700 million a year for business.

The Federal Reserve Board increased the discount rate from 4% to 4½%—the interest rate charged to banks for money. The action raised the cost of credit.

November Winner

Just completing her first year in real estate, Esther Hewlett of Sparow Realty walked away with top sales honors for November. While relatively new to real estate, Mrs. Hewlett is not new to the business world and her prior positions have paved the way for her success in real estate.

She is almost a native of Long Beach and resides at 2215 East First with her daughter Bettie, who is a hostess with TWA. Mrs. Hewlett is a member of the Women's Division Chamber of Commerce, California Heights Methodist Church, Volunteer Auxiliary of Memorial Hospital and L. A. Council of World Affairs.

Oliver Sperow, of Sparow Realty, in making the award commended Mrs. Hewlett on the quality of service she provides her clients. "Success in real estate can always be measured in direct proportion to the quantity and quality of service rendered."

Plan Huge J. C. Penney Co. Warehouse in Buena Park

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

Bringing another major industrial complex to this area, the J.C. Penney Co. is planning a massive warehouse and office building in Buena Park.

Although complete details have yet to be announced by Penney officials in New York, it is known land has been acquired and an architect is to submit preliminary building plans to the company by Jan. 15.

The warehouse and offices will be on a big acreage at Orangethorpe Avenue and Valley View Avenues, and when completed will replace much of the facilities now used in Los Angeles. The Buena Park complex will serve Penney stores over a broad area.

Under the preliminary plans drawn up by Albert C. Martin & Associates, Los Angeles architectural firm, the warehouse will be of tilt-up construction and will contain 720,000 square feet.

The office building will be four stories in height and will contain 172,000 square feet.

In addition to the structures, the project will include a large parking area plus ramps and loading platforms.

Cornelius Shea of the Penney Co., New York, is to be project manager while E. Aguilera will be the project architect for the Martin firm.

Construction should get under way in the early spring.

A FOUR-STORY MEDICAL building and garage, costing $2,200,000, is planned adjacent to Daniel Freeman Hospital on Prairie Avenue in Inglewood. Howland Investment Co., is having the plans prepared. There will be 58,000 square feet of office space in the four levels and 90,000 square feet of parking.

Huntington Beach Presbyterian Church is having preliminary plans drafted for a new educational building. The site has not been announced for the structure which it is estimated will cost $110,000.

A $250,000 addition is planned by the Downey Methodist Church, 10801 S. Downey Blvd.

Laguna Hills Methodist Church is calling for bids on a Fellowship hall with an estimated cost of $290,000.

Kroger Co. will build a supermarket and drug store at 8128 California Ave., South Gate, at an estimated cost of $280,000.

Preliminary plans have been completed for a Gladys Morgan Beauty College and office at 5562 Lincoln Ave., Cypress, at an estimated cost of $180,000.

St. John Bosco High School, 13640 S. Bellflower Blvd., Bellflower, has applied for a building permit for a $364,000 addition.

STARTED IN 1902 in a blacksmith sho, Smith Industries International Inc., has returned "home."

The firms corporate offices were moved last week from Compton to new offices at 300 Penn St., Whittier. The move was made, President Donald E. Graham said, because of the rapid growth of the Smith Tool Co. division in Compton needing more space.

The Whittier location will give the firm more central location to serve its various other divisions. These divisions include Dyna-Drill Co., Long Beach; Bufnel Co., manufacturers of industrial grating, Santa Fe Springs, and Caldwell Division makers of tunneling equipment, City of Commerce.

Dyna-Drill manufacturers directional oil drilling tools.

It was in Whittier in 1902 when H.C. Smith began manufacturing well drilling tools in his blacksmith shop. At 80, Smith still is chairman of the board. The company now employs 725 persons and annual sales have grown to $18 million.

ROBERT L. BURR has acquired majority control of Elpac Inc., 15195 S. Morgan St., Westminster, and has been elected chairman of the board and executive officer of the electronics manufacturing concern.

Acquistion by Elpac of Double-E Products, El Segundo, manufacturers of passive filters, also was announced. It will be integrated into operations of Elpac in its Fullerton facility.

Burr revealed that establishment of a new systems divisions in the Elpac Westminster facility will be the first step in a planned program of growth and diversification within the electronics industry.

Ex-CREA Exec Will Address L.B. Realtors

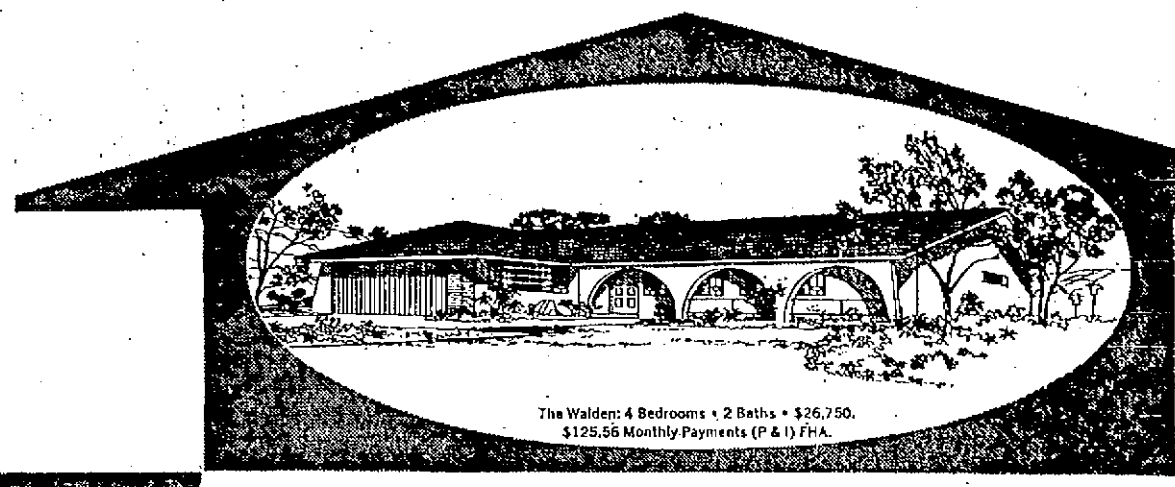

Herbert Hawkins, Pasadena area realtor and past president of the Temple City Chamber of Commerce, will address members of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors at their 7:15 a.m. meeting Tuesday at the Crown Cafeteria.

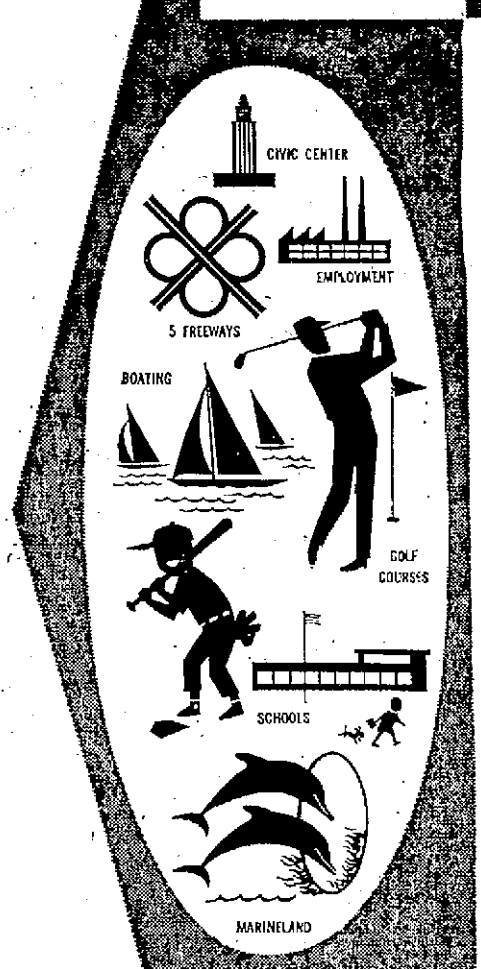

Hawkins, also a past president of the Alhambra District Board of Realtors and regional vice president of the California Real Estate Association, will talk on the topic, "What Makes a Champion," according to program chairman Jack Saxon.

DIRECTOR

Calvin C. Brack, businessman and former mayor of Westminster, has been elected to the board of directors of Founders Life Insurance Co., an Orange County-headquartered firm.

Sherrett joined Bank of America in 1938 as a bookkeeper. The past four years he has been assistant vice president in the loan supervision department at Los Angeles headquarters.

BUILDING NEW FACILITY FOR HANDICAPPED CHILDREN
September of 1966 will mark completion of three buildings of a proposed 18 building project designed for retarded children in Ontario, Calif. Owner is the Salem Christian School for the Handicapped, Bellflower. Andrew Verkade of Bellflower, architect, has planned the project to include seven dormitories, each housing 42 beds, an administration building, infirmary, chapel, central kitchen, sheltered workshop, gymnasium and therapy center, swimming pool, three classroom buildings and a maintenance shop.

BIG ECONOMIC IMPACT

Home Building Needs Use $1 of Every $18

One dollar out of every $18 spent in the United States last year was related directly to home building.

Perry E. Willits, president of the National Association of Home Builders, revealed the economic impact of his industry during recent Congressional hearings on proposed housing legislation.

That figure, Willits explained, includes the $21 billion spent during the year for actual housing construction plus expenditures directly resulting from the construction, such as new schools, community facilities, service industries and durable goods.

* * * *

HE FURTHER STATED that each new home built provides about two man years of employment, half it off the construction site. At that rate, home building provided 3,000,000 jobs in 1964.

"The employment of goods, services, and, wages paid for home building generate additional purchasing power with the resultant stimulation of virtually every sector of the economy," Willits said.

He estimated that goods and services for home use generated $35 billion last year and that an equal amount of economic activity was generated by the resultant purchasing power.

The NAHB Economic Department estimates that each of the 1,000,000 single-family homes built during the year cost an average of $16,000 for direct construction expenditures, or a total of $16 billion.

HOME BUYING HINTS

Don't Go Overboard if Enlarging House

Editor's Note—This is the fifth in a series of articles by Glendale Federal Savings offering money-saving hints to those buying, financing or refinancing a home.

Are you one of the many homeowners who likes everything about his house — the neighbors, the location but find your family needs have expanded? If so, you are probably in the market for an addition.

The first step is to reconcile improvements you would like to make what you can afford to pay. You must establish costs then tailor your desires to your budget.

When the cost has been established, be sure it does not increase the value of your property beyond what the neighborhood will warrant.

* * * *

IT IS NOT WISE to invest $25,000 in a home surrounded by other houses which only have a value of $15,000. If the time should come when you want to sell your property, it is unlikely you can receive full value for your improvements if it increases the total cost of your home out of line with neighboring structures.

The financal institution from whom you seek a home improvement loan will assist you in helping evaluate the potential value of your home. Real estate brokers in your area also might be consulted concerning whether you will be able to recover your investment upon resale.

* * * *

THERE ARE TWO basic methods of financing your home improvement: Refinancing your existing real estate loan to obtain the additional funds needed or by obtaining a separate Home Improvement Loan.

Most lending concerns have an open-end trust deed. After repaying part of your loan, you may borrow extra money quickly to finance the improvements.

If you do not have this kind of loan, you should investigate with yours or some lending institution, the possibility of refinancing your entire loan.

If you find it is not feasible to extend your present loan or refinance the entire house, then you may seek a straight Home Improvement Loan. These are short term loans, generally running from 3 to 5 years, which are for financing the addition only. They generally take the form of a secondary lien against your property.

THE COMPANY'S latest projects are Fairway Park, a $40 million 1,200-home community in Cypress where 3,600 already reside, and Stardust Park, a new $52 million 1,600-home community.

At Stardust Park—for which the firm was presented an award for "excellence of land development" by the City of La Palma—some 270 homes were sold in the first 26 weeks of the opening of the community. A special feature of the development—first residential project in La Palma—is its underground utilities.

At the helm of the Grant organization is a 45-year-old native New Englander and former Navy lieutenant commander.

ROBERT H. GRANT began his career as a builder-developer in 1953.

"Our first concern is building quality homes," said Grant, whose firm utilizes oak floors on raised concrete pillar foundations, a hallmark of the organization.

"But emphasis is placed not merely on building homes," he said. "We believe that today's sophisticated buyer is as much interested in the neighborhood in which his children will grow up as in the beauty and quality of the home itself."

* * * *

AMONG THE FIRM'S commercial developments are two major hospitals, two office buildings, 18 service stations and an 11-unit chain of neighborhood shopping centers.

Included in awards conferred upon the organization is the Certified Medallion Award from Southern California Edison Company.

"Our philosophy is to try and aid the new homebuyer and the community in as many ways as possible," said Grant.

Big Private Patios Featured in Homes

Free-form concrete patios offer a secluded area for entertaining at the $5 million 200-unit condominium community of Sunshine Village Homes—Stanton, reports Sandy Mullen, community manager for builder-developer S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, Inc. The private patios have up to 1,200 square feet.

"In addition, homeowners can also entertain guests at the recreation facilities which include a swimming pool, wading pool, clubhouse, badminton and shuffleboard courts, barbecue pits, children's play area and a putting green," Mullen said.

Clustered in groups of four to seven around the recreation facilities, the one and two-story homes are available in 17 exterior stylings and six floor plans.

* * * *

PRICED FROM $19,995 on conventional terms, homes have three and four bedrooms, two baths and two-car garages. Total move-in costs range from $595 and include down payment, escrow charges and closing costs.

Additional features include wall-to-wall carpeting, traverse draperies, automatic clothes washer-dryer combination, dishwasher, built-in range and oven, front yard landscaping, underground sprinkler system and rear yard fencing.

Furnished models may be reached via Beach Boulevard (Hwy. 39) offramp from the Santa Ana Freeway, south to Katella Avenue and west to Western Avenue and the project.

FOR ENTERTAINING

Lake Park Sales Given Big Boost

Maurice Stanton, sales manager for Lake Park, reports that last weekend's sunshine helped push home sales at Larwin Co.'s new Orange County community to a new high for the year.

"Sales were strong for all of our models," Stanton stated, "but our two-story 'Berkshire' and one-story 'Walden' proved particularly popular, because of their spacious floor plans which offer natural fireplaces, extra-large family rooms, separate dining rooms and four bedrooms with two and three baths."

* * * *

HOMES IN Lake Park's new "Ravenswood" section start at $22,350 and may be purchased under FHA, VA, Cal-Vet or a new "Lo-Down" conventional financing program with only 10% down, 30-year financing, with no second trust deed or balloon payments.

Among their distinctive features are oversize two-car garages, family-height snack bars, built-in kitchen appliances, abundant wood-grained paneling and sliding glass patio doors.

* * * *

LAKE PARK is minutes from schools, shopping centers, recreational facilities and churches. To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach-Lakewood area, drive east on Carson Street to the model homes east of Moody.

From the San Diego Freeway, take the Los Alamitos turnoff north to Lincoln and east to Moody. From the Santa Ana Freeway, take the Valley View turn-off to Lincoln and east on Moody.

156 Deluxe Apartment Units Started in Huntington Beach

Following ground-breaking ceremonies, work is getting under way on a $2½ million apartment development at Warner Avenue and Springdale Street in Huntington Beach.

To be known as the Beachwood Apartments, the development will have 39 buildings with a total of 156 apartments.

Officials of the H. B. Development Co., Occidental Savings and Loan, Coldwell, Banker & Co., and Don Kavanough, Orange County builder participated in the groundbreaking.

Each of the 39 building units will be a four-plex with one three-bedroom, two two-bedroom, and one one-bedroom apartments. All apartments will be equipped with spacious cabinets and closets, built-in ranges, dishwashers, wall-to-wall carpeting, decorator drapes, custom-crafted lighting fixtures, and sound-proofing insulation.

* * * *

ADDITIONALLY, the Beachwood apartments will provide private patios, a large recreation area complete with pool and separate children's playground, as well as closed-door garages. All landscaping will be professionally planned and maintained.

So that each building of the Balanced Power development will achieve private-estate appearance, exteriors will feature three distinctively different architectural concepts—Bermuda, Spanish, and Colonial. Exterior eye-appeal also will be enhanced by underground installation of utilities.

Because these apartments will be in close proximity to shopping centers presently under construction in Huntington Beach, occupancy reservations are being accepted now by the H. B. Development Co., in Anaheim, and at the development's on-site administrative office.

California Federal Savings to Occupy New Quarters

California Federal Savings' new $1 million three-story office building at 5505 Carson St. will be open Monday.

The 30,000-square-foot facility is of contemporary styling and features a large community room for public use, according to assistant vice president-manager Fred Jensen.

The new quarters replace the original offices at 4248 Woodruff Ave., occupied since 1956.

* * * *

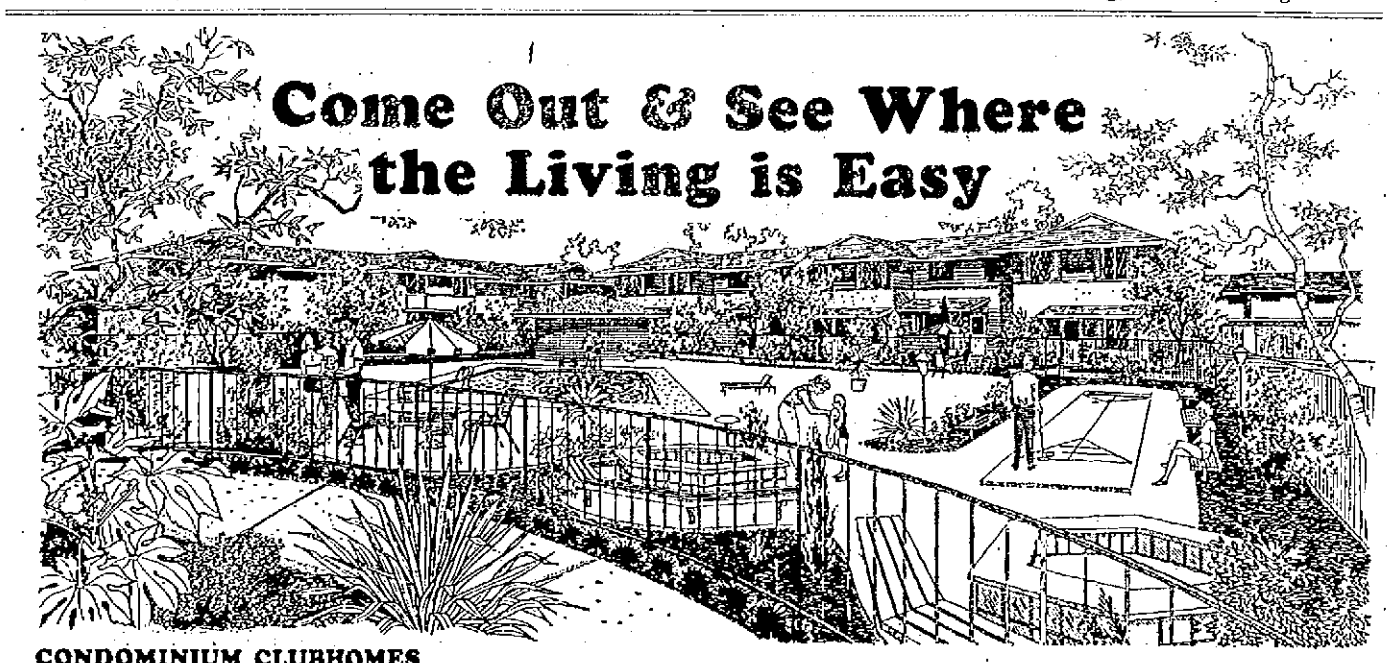

FEATURES OF the new building include glass sides of the upper stories, heat-reducing bronze glass set in bronze-colored aluminum frames, Pennsylvania-quarried marble and reddish-brown building face tile.

"This is in keeping with our policy of creating attractive, substantial buildings in communities where we have branch offices," said Howard Edgerton, board chairman and chief executive officer.

SPANISH STYLE STRUCTURE FOR LOS ALAMITOS

Latest David Perrin-Robert Wendt development in the Long Beach-Orange County area will be this 22-suite office building, of Spanish style decor, at 11110 Los Alamitos Blvd., Los Alamitos. First-floor suites will feature store fronts, and second-floor offices will feature carpeting, drapes and central lobby. All suites will have individual heating, air conditioning units.

25,000 in Orange County Living in Grant Homes

Some 25,000 persons are now living in Orange County homes built and developed by one organization.

Since its inception in 1954, the building-development firm of Robert H. Grant & Co. has built 7,000 homes in Orange County which now house these 25,000 persons, reports W. Dean Hanson, vice-president of sales and marketing for the firm.

Grant homes dot the county from Anaheim, Westminster and Garden Grove in the north to Fountain Valley and Huntington Beach in the southern section, said Hanson.

COSTLY WASTE NO LONGER

Briquets Solve Big Peach Pit Problem

SANTA CLARA — What would you do with 120 million pounds of peach pits?

Until a fellow named Robert T. Collier came along with an idea, California canners did everything to get rid of the pits except to shoot them into space.

They buried them. They loaded them on barges and dumped them into the ocean. They tried feeding them to animals. They pulverized them, and flushed them into the sewage systems.

Collier, a Santa Clara manufacturer, pondered the problem. Why not convert the pits into charcoal briquets? he asked. After experimenting for some time, he built a plant in Santa Clara. Today, it converts more than 500 tons of pits per day into charcoal briquets for thousands of outdoor chefs.

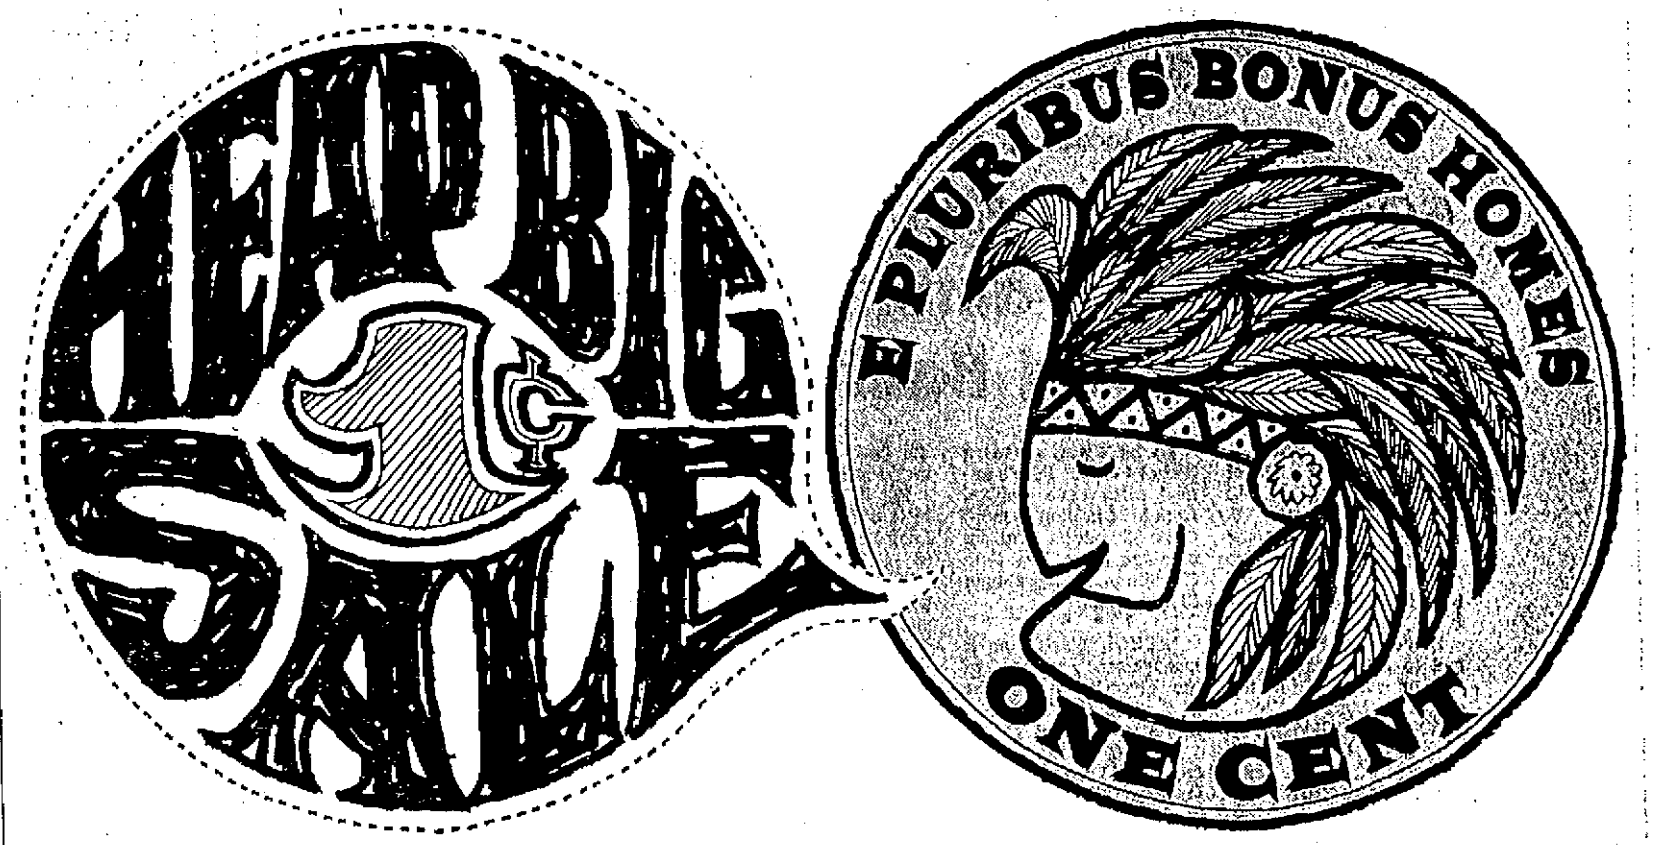

* * * *

THIS IS ANOTHER example, says the Council of California Growers, of how modern business enterprise is teaming with agriculture to produce new products and new jobs.

This new production plant created 40 additional jobs in Santa Clara.

Thousands of other jobs have been created in California as the result of finding new uses for by-products of agriculture, the Council points out. Grower-supported research has come up with many new uses for cotton and cotton by-products. Citrus growers, likewise, have conducted research to create new uses for citrus by-products—products that once were thrown away. Whole new industries have risen as a result.

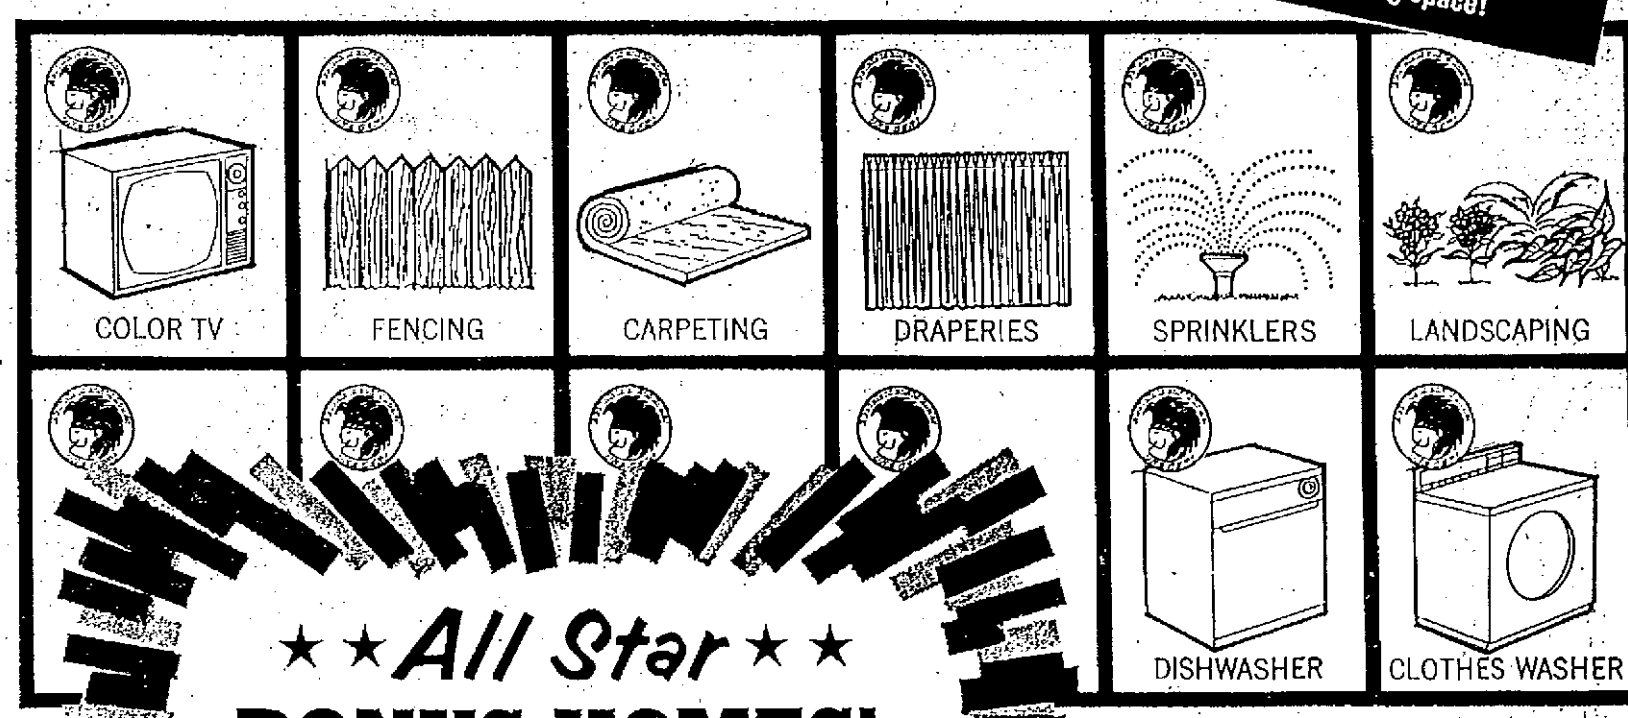

"The concept of agriculture as a major base of our industrial society is seldom realized," says O. W. Fillerup, executive vice president of the Council. "The making of charcoal briquets out of peach pits offers just one more proof."

Briquets Solve Big Peach Pit Problem

SANTA CLARA — What would you do with 120 million pounds of peach pits?

Until a fellow named Robert T. Collier came along with an idea, California canners did everything to get rid of the pits except to shoot them into space.

They buried them. They loaded them on barges and dumped them into the ocean. They tried feeding them to animals. They pulverized them, and flushed them into the sewage systems.

Collier, a Santa Clara manufacturer, pondered the problem. Why not convert the pits into charcoal briquets? he asked. After experimenting for some time, he built a plant in Santa Clara. Today, it converts more than 500 tons of pits per day into charcoal briquets for thousands of outdoor chefs.

* * * *

THIS IS ANOTHER example, says the Council of California Growers, of how modern business enterprise is teaming with agriculture to produce new products and new jobs.

This new production plant created 40 additional jobs in Santa Clara.

Thousands of other jobs have been created in California as the result of finding new uses for by-products of agriculture, the Council points out. Grower-supported research has come up with many new uses for cotton and cotton by-products. Citrus growers, likewise, have conducted research to create new uses for citrus by-products—products that once were thrown away. Whole new industries have risen as a result.

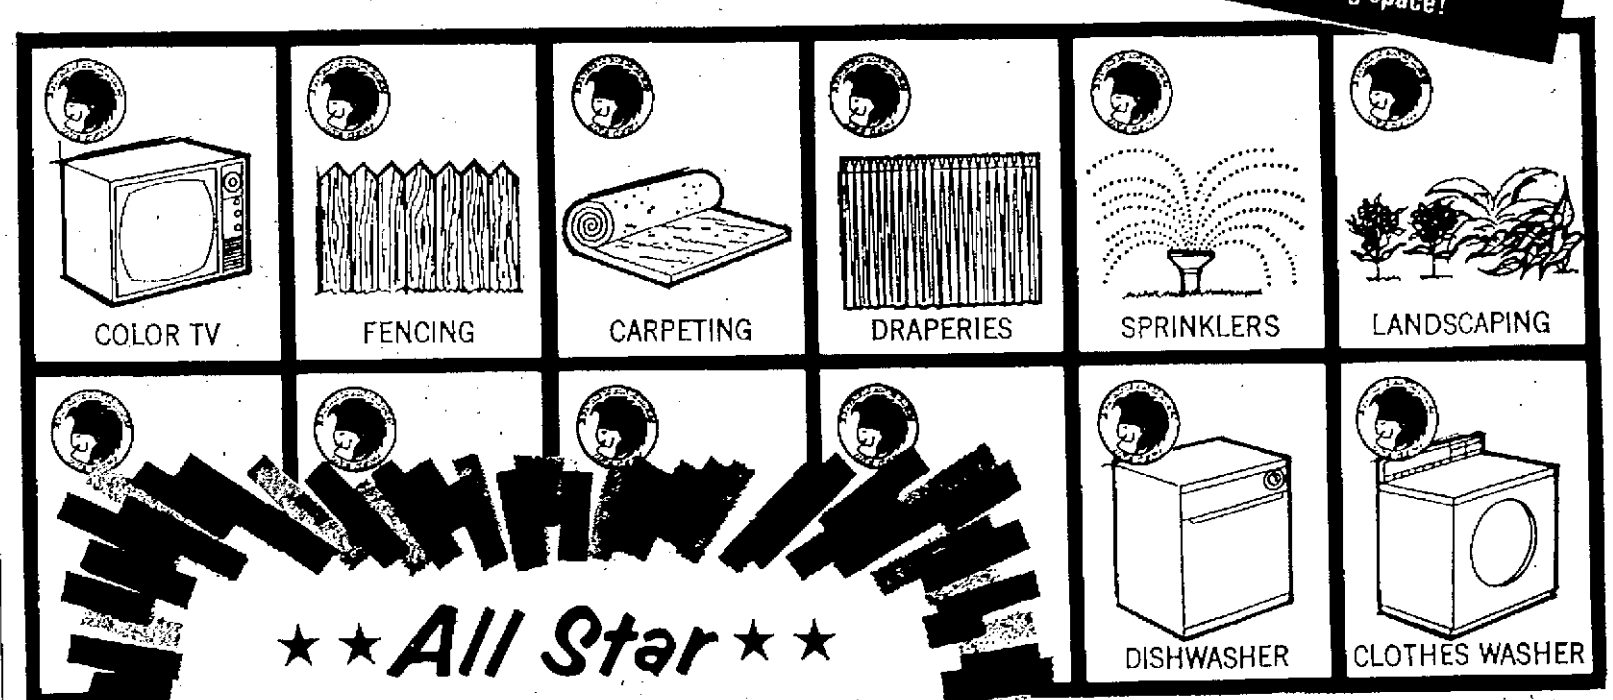

"The concept of agriculture as a major base of our industrial society is seldom realized," says O. W. Fillerup, executive vice president of the Council. "The making of charcoal briquets out of peach pits offers just one more proof."

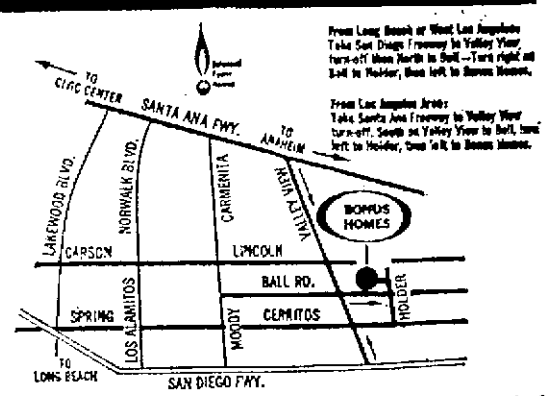

This is the best deal since the Indians sold Manhattan for a bag of beads. New Model Bonus Homes are now available for immediate occupancy. The values are greater, the rooms are bigger, the built-in kitchens are dreamier. P&G'S PAUL A. NICHOL . . . Developed 11 Executives in Long Beach

GOES INTO RETIREMENT

Procter & Gamble Manager Takes Proud Backward Look

By LARRY LYNCH

When Paul A. Nichol retired last week after 42 years with Procter & Gamble Co. his career had spanned but half the reign of the company's best known product—Ivory soap.

Nichol has written the end to a business career full of changes for his company, however.

When the still-vigorous 60-year-old executive, manager of P&G's Long Beach facility since 1942, went to work for the company in 1924, its sales were only "several million dollars a year," he recalls.

To be exact, during Nichol's career P&G's annual sales have climbed from $121 million to more than $2 billion and its earnings from less than $9 million to more than $133 million.

* * * *

NICHOL started as a management trainee in the glycerin department at the company's Cincinnati headquarters.

In 1930, at the age of 25, Nichol became the youngest plant manager in P&G's 129-year history.

Soon after Nichol became a plant manager, research work started on the development of synthetic soaps—detergents.

But it was not until he took over an 11-year-old Long Beach plant in 1942 (a facility that makes P&G's products for the 11 western states) that manufacture of detergents began in earnest.

Since 1942 production at the Long Beach plant has doubled in number of brands and quadrupled in production units.

Nichol says he has obtained his "biggest satisfaction in business from bringing along the management of the future. Since I came to Long Beach, 11 plant or division managers have been hired or developed here."

* * * *

IN ADDITION to his business activities, Nichol has played a large role in Long Beach civic affairs—from the War Bond drives through the anti-subsidence effort (which overlapped with his business interests, to be sure, as the P&G plant at one time was sinking into the ocean at a rate of three to five inches a year. His present activities: trustee of Memorial Hospital and chairman of the board of Belmont Heights Methodist Church.

Long Beach Promotion, Inc., Becker Recognized

Long Beach Promotion, Inc., the city's promotion and publicity agency, and the Max W. Becker Advertising Agency have been named recipients of three major awards for outstanding achievement in advertising the city.

The new awards make a total of eight the city won in 1965.

Two of the newest awards came from the Los Angeles Art Directors' Club and were based on design and original art work. Both awards were Silver Merit Certificates.

The third — a Gold Letter Award — was from the S. D. Warren Paper Co., honoring both Long Beach Promotion and the Becker Agency.

* * * *

THE LATEST citations, presented to LBPI President Robert Graham, were awarded for LBPI's latest brochure designed in the shape of a suitcase and carrying the theme: "Pack for Long Beach."

The brochure was created for use by the Long Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau.

WINS POST

Ralph E. Manns, of 5705 Corso Di Napoli, Long Beach, has been elected president of the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Contractors Association of Southern California. Manns' firm is located in Wilmington.

Previous 1965 awards to Long Beach Promotion included the Golden Eagle trophy, presented by the Council on International Non-Theatrical Events for the Long Beach color film, "Le Petit Marinier" which was chosen to represent the United States in seven foreign film festivals.

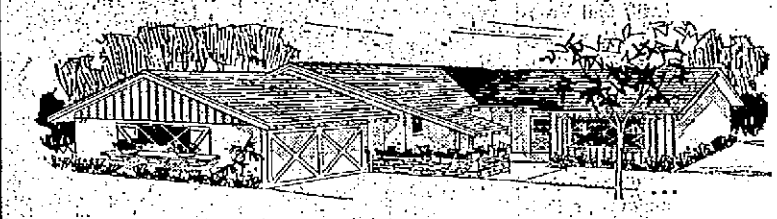

* * * *

WORK BY LBPI also was cited by the National League of Cities of Washington, D.C., for best overall public relations.

The American Industrial Development Council gave a best-of-class award for LBPI's "Power" brochure, depicting Long Beach's industrial assets.

Advertising Association of the West recognized LBPI for its "complete campaigns" and Vern Baker, LBPI's general manager, won the American Federation of Advertising silver medal for outstanding contributions to advertising.

Planning a dance? A convention?

First step after setting a tentative date is to give Community Volunteer Office a jingle (GA 6-7171) to make sure another group hasn't calendared a gala the same day.

Your call will bring an immediate look at Long Beach Calendar of Events maintained by CVO (a United Way Agency, 3515 Linden Ave.) so conflicting civic, cultural and social dates can be avoided.

Started four years ago as a community service, the calendar now is used by more than 300 organizations, and could be used by 300 more.

According to Jess "Bud" Holton, CVO president, and Mrs. Leon Wiltse, calendar chairman, "the calendar is a great service and an important part of community planning."

Sponsors include Junior League, Assistance League, Auxiliary to Southern California Symphony Association, Lawyers' Wives, Harbor District Dental Auxiliary and Symphony Guild.

REPRESENTATIVE of far-sighted groups who already have circled their 1966 dates on CVO's calendar (shown on this page) are Junior League Puppeteers (entranced audience of one is Teresa Clay), who will perform Jan. 25 at Burbank School Child Care Center; St. Mary's Guild annual Day at the Races on May 4 at Los Alamitos; Starlight Concert by Long Beach Symphony on July 26, Lauris Jones conducting; United Crusade drive throughout September; Beta Sigma Phi Council fashion show, Oct. 29 at Lafayette Hotel; Rick Racker holiday ball, Dec. 3, and Assistance League Dance on Dec. 10, both at Petroleum Club.

What's on your group's agenda? CVO would like to know!

WILD WAVES SAY

Holidays in retrospect—jolly, jolly, jolly

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Society Editor

WELL "ARMED" against whatever that nutty weather man could dream up for us next were John and Audrey Downing for their sprightly holiday open house, a cocktails and supper party Thursday night from 6 p.m. on.

Their covered terrace was given added protection with gala tenting. John purchased one of the new variety outdoor heaters to install so guests could enjoy ersatz July weather in end-of-December comfort. Wednesday's wild, wild weather pushed final preparations up to deadline. But who cares about cold, wind, rain or whatever when the party is warm affair, the potables heady (see accompanying photo) and the food divine.

A few in the crowd of 60 present to toast the year about to drift into history were Bob and Helen Crow, Ollie and Gen Flood, Jack and Cory Dameron, Jurgen and Marian Meinberg, Jim and Jane Bonar. The Cruchleys were there en-force, with Ted and Sue and their sons and daughters-in-law, Ed and Bev, Al and Kay.

Add Curt and Phyllis Wingett, Arnie and Florence Peyton to those feasting on beef stroganoff, wild rice, other gourmet items fit for a king.

INVITED TO get high—I mean GO high—in the sky New Year's Eve were about 80 friends of recent-weds Tom and Beth Newton. The Newtons had a wait-and-watch-it-go open house in their spacious penthouse at 600 E. Ocean Blvd.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres from 9 p.m. and on 'n on were enjoyed by such townspeople as Clem and Helene Fromlath, George and Bea Moseley, Jack and Pat Vander Lans and Leo and Nadine Vander Lans.

Others in night to remember mood were Ted Sten and Marge Demler, Les and Marge Craig, Ed and Virginia Alfred, Harry and Betty Yawtik. Lots of additional merrymakers—Jim and Mildred Hammond, Oscar and Trudy Ullery, Al and Gladee Jewett and Harold and Dorothy Montgomery.

WHEN Cleo and Earl Beauchamp got word that their daughter, Judy, and her Navy husband, Lt. (j.g.) Dave McEachen, could make it up here they quickly coopered up a get together of neighborhood friends so they could say "ti ya" to the kids. In February Dave will go to Portland for two months, then on to Honolulu for two years duty. Judy will stay put, continuing studies at San Diego State and, after June graduation, will join Dave in Hawaii.

ON A limited basis but extremely happy one—George Taubman is up and around again after very serious, very successful surgery. He's been home from the hospital about a month and can now see a few friends. Far as George is concerned the more company the merrier—but it can't be that way just yet. Betsy has put her wifely foot down—and firmly—so better call before you drop by because he's still on a strict routine of rest.

HAVE JUST about worn out words like gay, merry, bright, fun, jolly, delightful, scintillating and their ilk but then I've had a lot of marvelous parties to describe. Parties like the one given by Bill and Shirley Gillis. Please refer to all the aforementioned adjectives in respect to it, they all apply.

If you doubt my words check this out with such partymates present as Al and Carrie Vignolo, Bob and Del Eskérige, Glenn and Janet Mitchell, Doug and Winnie Doran and Bob and Pat Berriger.

Most surrounded by others all evening were Don and Vivian Baldwin, member of the same firm host Bill is connected with and ditto many of the guests, here from Ponce, Puerto Rico.

Al Vignolo brought his jaunty little cruiser over and parked it at the Gillises' dock to take guests on cruises through Naples' canals for those feeling nautical. Big joke of night was Shirley's Christmas tree, which isn't funny at all, it's beautiful. Here's the gimmick: They accused her of having the same one up from last year.

Her last year's tree was so pretty she left it up and redecorated it in keeping for each subsequent holiday or party and didn't take it down until October. That's the truth.

MUSIC POURED out of Bill and Ruth Cozart's home faster than the year ebbed away New Year's Eve. Ruth and her equally talented sister, Betty Dansby (there with husband, Bud), sparked the rest of the crowd of real or pseudo musicians on to mighty, merry efforts, I tell thee true.

Ruth has an electrical accordion with an amplifier into which four other electrical instruments can be plugged for authoritative sound. She also has a Hammond organ and piano for change of pace.

Those participating or listening were Harry and Joyce Christensen, Ann Huffman, Ronnie Nelmes, June Dilday, Barney and Louise Vigs and a gala gang of others, wielding maracas, castanets, bongos and other assorted instruments on hand.

FAREWELL PARTY, not just to the holidays but to their friends, was given by Mark and Rita Maidel in their home, 10 Mustang Road, Rolling Hills, which they'll soon depart. Rita and Mark bought this home a year ago October after return from his post in Jakarta, Indonesia. Now he has been sent to Hong Kong by his company. He went over in October to line duties up and will return very shortly. Soon as Rita winds up affairs here and leases their home, she'll join him in HK.

ONLY COMPLAINT Dorothy Thompson has about her new mink coat, which husband Mac gave her for Christmas, is that she gets a little too warm sleeping in it. Just fine, though, to wear whilst watching her new color TV set, also Christmas gift from Mac. Dorothy's rewards are for being so cheerful about being in wheelchair with casts on both legs—

LITTLE RAIN (little?) DIDN'T STOP 'EM
. . . Audrey, John Downing (left) brave elements, test new outdoor heater.

QUIET MOMENT BEFORE JOLLY 'STORM' OF PARTY BROKE
. . . Paula Irwin adjusts fur headpiece for daughter, Robin, 3 ,as Grandad Burton Chace (of all his titles that's his favorite); Skippy, 6, and Dad Ralph Irwin watch.

one for a broken knee cap and other for nasty, very complete break.

Wheelchair, casts or no, the Thompsons entertained at a New Year's Eve cocktail party with her mother, Maud Taylor and husband, Jim, at the Taylors for about 100, prior to going on to big party at Petroleum Club. There to admire Dorothy, in her mink of course, were Stan and Geneva Weiss, Chuck and Naomi Chandler, Ven and Edna Fahrney, Joe and Helen Kellogg, Harold and Katie Parks, Bob and Irene Zicbarth and Bob and Pat Willis.

Among co-hosts Maud and Jim's guests were the Sid Bacons, Laurence and Carol Leggett and Mac and Edna Houser.

SOUND OF music and people being happy filled Marshall and Cece Jullan's home on Harvey Way in Lakewood NY's Eve. About 70 turned the night into a good old fashioned amateur night musical festival —singing, dancing, playing musical instruments, including amplified guitars and drums, two sets!

Mostly the party centered in the huge playroom (650 square feet big). In between musical bursts guests enjoyed cocktails prior to midnight buffet.

Musicians and listeners included such friends of hosts as Don and Jeane Wiest, Tom and Phil Comiskey, Jan and Gil Heath, Fran and Ollie Connor, "Woody" and Nedra Smith, Ted and Evelyn Sullivan, Bob and Coleen Adams and Bill and Elma Palmer.

NO GUESTS at any holiday function were more charmingly greeted than those entertained by Paula and Ralph Irwin at home of Paula's parents, Burton and Polly Chace. (See photo this page).

Official greeters were Irwins' son, Skippy, 6, and dainty daughter, Robin, 3. Members of the younger set, joyfully involved in assisting the hosts, were Don and Mary Jo Holloway, Don and Marilyn Wells, Bill and Sue Coker (Sue is Ralph's sister), Bud and Coni Townsend (Coni is Paula's sister), Cliff and Madeline Coons, Pat and Kay Seaton, Del and "Chai" Milburn and Mel and Judy Rowan. Friendly chatter and banter over punch cups was followed by buffet supper.

Not satisfied with her already gorgeous decorations for the holidays, Polly added pungent fresh wreaths and garlands of greenery that give their big home that special loved and lived in warmth.

Name change announced for benefit association

Change of the name Woman's Benefit Association to North American Benefit Association became effective Jan. 1, according to national president Dorothy H. Needham.

The name change, fourth since the group was organized in1892, was made since many men have become members of the association. The name change in no way affects the present insurance certificates held by members, said Mrs. Needham, nor will there be any change in the fraternal work or character of the group.

ENGAGEMENTS

Wedding plans are revealed

Denton-St. Onge

Darlene E. Denton and Jerry P. St. Onge will marry in February, according to her parents, Mrs. Dorothea Wakefield, Lakewood, and Kelsey Denton, Long Beach. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. David Saunders, Lakewood.

Miss Denton was graduated from Jordan High School and attends Los Angeles College of Medical and Dental Assistants. Her fiance is an alumnus of Poly High.

Fischman-Parker

At a New Year's dinner in their home, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Fischman of Long Beach announced the engagement of their daughter, Karen Sue, to James Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Parker, Redmond, Ore.

Miss Fischman, a graduate of Millikan High School and Long Beach City College, is employed in San Francisco.

Her fiance is now serving in the U. S. Navy.

The couple plans a spring wedding.

Hurlock-Besley

The engagement of Marsha L. Hurlock and Thomas F. Besley has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hurlock, Long Beach. The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mrs. Katherine Besley, also of Long Beach.

Miss Hurlock, a graduate of Millikan High, attended San Jose State College and is continuing her education at Long Beach State. She is a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Her fiance is a graduate of Wilson High. He attended Uppsula University in Sweden and is now completing his education at LBSC where he is affiliated with Tau Kappa Epsilon. The wedding date has not been set.

Lutz-McCabe

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Lutz of Long Beach chose the holidays to announce engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Sue, to Bernard James McCabe, son of Mrs. Mary M. Pringle, Long Beach. The bridegroom-elect is currently serving with the U.S. Marine Corps and is stationed in San Diego. A fall wedding is planned.

Manasco-Alvarez

Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. Cook of Long Beach announce engagement of their daughter, Linda L. Manasco, to Richard G. Alvarez, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Alvarez of Pasadena.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Jordan High, is now attending Long Beach State College. Her fiance will graduate from Pasadena College this year. The wedding will take place in September.

Olson-Gizewski

Mr. and Mrs. Garland H. Olson of Long Beach announced the engagement of their daughter, Garlynn, to Theodore Melvin Joseph Steven Gizewski at a holiday party.

Miss Olson was graduated from Millikan High School and is now attending Long Beach City College. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gizewski of Long Beach and Winnipeg, Canada, is an alumnus of Poly High School. He is also attending LBCC.

A summer wedding is being planned.

This is first of five articles on America's debt-ridden consumer society in which a specialist on family finance spotlights the most prevalent types of financial problems that affect U.S. families, and gives hints on how they can be solved. The author has written two books on the subject---'The Consumer's Guide to Better Buying,' and 'Solving Family Money Problems.'

THE AFFLUENT POOR-I

Money problems—what causes them

By SIDNEY MARGOLIUS
By Sidney Margolius
North American Newspaper Alliance

"My husband is a skilled worker and earns a good income," a worried wife wrote me. "We were in debt when we got married. After 12 years we are even more deeply in debt. We live in plentiful poverty, one paycheck removed from bankruptcy. What are we doing wrong?"

This is a frequent experience today. In an era of relatively high incomes, and often even two wage-earners in a family, many families are engaged in a ceaseless race with expenses, and when a crisis, or even a foreseeable need such as children's education or retirement time arrives, they lack the necessary resources.

Some are heavily in debt. In the past decade, installment debts have doubled, reaching an all-time high not only in dollars but percentage of income for which families have gone into hock.

Some even reach the point where they can no longer cope with their money problems. There actually are more wage-earner bankruptcies currently than in the Great Depression of the 1930's, and the number of mortgage foreclosures has quadrupled in the ten years from 1955 to 1965.

Most families, of course, are neither bankrupt nor in danger of losing their homes. But the upward trend in bankruptcies and the thin reserves with which many families operate, has worried businessmen, lenders and community agencies, to the extent that they themselves are seeking ways to help solve the debt problems and apparent inability of many families to control their money.

Moreover, even among families who have enough income to satisfy their basic needs and even some luxuries, conflict over money is on the increase, family counseling experts report.

ALL INCOME AREAS AFFECTED

It is by no means just the low wage-earners who have money problems today. Low-income families have very realistic problems, suffer real deprivation and often need actual financial assistance. But a nationwide survey by this reporter, of 300 family agencies, credit-union and labor-union counselors, credit bureaus, banks, extension home economists and church leaders, finds that most of the families currently seeking financial counseling, have incomes of from $5,000 to $8,000 a year; about one-fourth under $5,000, and one-fourth over $8,000.

Family Service of New Haven, Conn., for one, reported that from $9,000 to $11,000 families are those most often asking counseling. "They are making an amount which a few years ago seemed a great deal; yet find they have trouble managing, which bewilders them," reports Ruth Janowicz, Casework Director.

Nor is it unusual for families in the $12,000 and up bracket to be deeply in debt, reports John W. Reid, Executive Director of Kalamazoo, Mich., Family Service Center.

"Most of our families have enough money to meet basic needs; the problem is in the management," observes Carol Weaverling, of Family Consultation Service of Wichita. "Even high-income families have this difficulty and develop a truly stylish degree of indebtedness and financial difficulty."

In fact, despite the increase in family incomes, debts have increased even faster. The average family's income has jumped about 40% in the past decade. But total installment debts rose almost 100% in that time.

One-third of the families with incomes between $5,000 and $7,500, and almost a fourth of those with incomes of $7,500 to $10,000 have no savings at all, the University of Michigan Survey Research center reported in its 1964 Survey of Consumer Finances.

WHERE MONEY PROBLEMS START

A major reason for the prevalence of money problems in a relatively affluent era, or at least what seem to be problems, is that today's families are earnings-minded rather than money-management-minded. Modern husbands are highly schooled as machinists, doctors, pilots, builders, but not in how to read an installment contract, buy insurance or be connoisseurs of taxmanship.

Even more significantly, girls today are trained to be shorthand demons, X-ray technicians, and even atomic scientists, but not in how to run a budget or often even in how to select the best buys in family nutrition.

"Few of the couples who come to us for counseling have any knowledge of a budget, much less how to handle one, and most live from paycheck to paycheck, having no family financial goals," observes Ruth Epperson, of Family and Children's Service of Tulsa.

Not only are couples often untrained in handling money but many have little chance to get any experience before they are plunged into financial responsibilities. Over 40% of brides today are still in their teens, and more first babies are born to girls of 19 than any other age.

The new family heads are similarly young and financially unsophisticated. The "fatherhood rate" now is highest among men in their twenties, with the greatest increase among men 20 to 24. The trend not only is to have babies sooner but to concentrate births (and money problems) over fewer years, the Institute Life Insurance points out.

TIED TO AFFLUENCE

In fact, many of today's money problems stem from our present affluence. As one example, few families of the previous generation had to consider which of hundreds of health-insurance policies was the best choice. They had no health insurance.

Nor, apparently, do some families yet realize the need for skill in handling money as well as in earning it. Often you hear people say it's simpler to buy on "budget" installment plans, or it doesn't pay to spend too much time shopping; "you spend more on gas than you save."

Actually, the average woman spends money in a supermarket at the rate of $18 an hour while her husband earns $2.60—the current average industrial rate.

The truth is, having more money requires more management, not less. Marian Emery, Casework Director of Family and Children's Agency of Louisville, Ky., points out that while low-income families have the problem of insufficient funds, they are accustomed to pay-as-you-go.

The $5,000 to $8,000 families are more likely to be on a monthly or twice-monthly pay schedule, do more credit buying, have to plan differently.

EMOTIONS ROOTED

But not all of today's money problems stem from inexperience. Many of the most serious are rooted in emotions. People become more emotional about money as income rises, or at least emotional attitudes become more apparent, observes Mrs. D. D. Specht of Family Service of Morris County, N. J.

"Families do make money one of the battlegrounds of marriage, and often this is a symptom of a more deep-seated problem," advises Florence G. McDaniel, of Family Service Association of Indianapolis.

The most-frequent money problems related to emotions reported by family agencies, are:

The use of money to control, as when a husband or wife uses it to dominate a family.

The punitive use of money (one of the most dangerous situations, advises Thomas K. Thompson, Director of the Stewardship Department of the National Council of the Churches of Christ).

The golden umbilical cord, as Oscar Stromberg, of Jewish Family Service of Buffalo, describes the use of money to win children's affection, and continue to control them when they are grown up.

Husbands' recreational activities, which sometimes create a surprisingly large drain on family finances.

Two jobs in the family, which often create new problems, both in the case of moonlighting husbands, and working wives.

Unrealistic values, which often lead families into large-scale buying before they have the actual income to support these purchases.

The instant gratification of young couples, who sometimes expect to have immediately a standard of living which took their parents years to reach.

AT LEISURE WORLD

Accessory sale to aid Medal of Honor Grove

"Bring a Hat, Buy a Hat," will be theme when Womans Club of Leisure World, Seal Beach, holds a philanthropy day tea at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in Northwood Clubhouse.

Handbags and jewelry also will be accepted for sale.

In celebration of the diamond jubilee of the club's parent affiliation, General Federation of Women's Clubs, the entire proceeds from the day will go to the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge for use in establishing a Congressional Medal of Honor Grove.

The grove, sponsored entirely by the federation, will contain 52 acres — one for each state plus Washington, D.C., and Puerto Rico — where living trees will be planted and marked with the name of each of the thousands of medal recipitets.

The day's speaker will be Dr. Fred Judson, inspirational lecturer.

Classes offer variety

Registration for a variety of new classes will be held Monday at the YWCA, 550 Pacific Ave. Classes to be offered follow:

A program entitled "Holiday From Arrow Strings" will be offered each Wednesday beginning Jan. 12.

The day begins at 9:30 a.m. with a charm class including posture, poise, wardrobe colors and coordination, fashions and hairstyling.

At 11:30 a.m., classes recess for potluck luncheon and speakers on various topics.

Classes resume at 1 p.m. in beginning I bridge, or guitar. Some may want to play bridge for enjoyment with "Grand Slammers."

To top off the day, free swimming and volleyball are available. Child care is available for children of all program participants.

For those unable to attend classes during the day, charm and guitar are offered each Wednesday night, and, on Thursday nights, a class is offered in bridge (beginning I).

Other new classes are:

Self Defense: Tuesday and Thursday, 6 to 7 p.m., for children 9-14 years of age and adults. Ken Charadio, black belt instructor, will teach self-protection without weapons.

Gymnastics: Elementary boys and girls will receive beginning instruction in skills and safety on mats on Saturday.

Playschool Activity: Monday or Saturday morning for pre-school child. Guidance in painting and rhythms, story hour and free play.

Swim Instruction: Novice class for children 3-5 years of age; pre-school swim, where mother goes in water to assist instructor; paddlers' level, for pre-school child who can swim 10 feet but needs to learn new strokes, breath control and endurance. Creative dance is also offered where child can express himself and learn basic ballet steps and dances.

All levels of Red Cross swimming are available for adult women plus the Stroke Improvement class. For boys and girls, 14-18 years of age, who have earned their life-saving cards, they can take Water Safety instruction and assist in teaching swimming.

Dancing class: Ballet is offered for elementary school girls, Grade I and II. Girls 7-11 years have a special Saturday class from 9-12:30 p.m. in swimming, dancing, baton, crafts and glee club. Hawaiian and ballroom dancing is also offered.

Exercise programs: "Trim Teen" is exercise and diet discussion program for teenage girls. For women, slim and trim, glamour yoga, weight reduction or dancenastics is offered. Wednesday and Thursday morning dancenastics combines rhythmic exercise with ballet and dance steps.

Scramble Nite: for working gals, Wednesday night offering a variety of classes.

Spice Day: Each Thursday for housewife and mother. Classes include tennis, crafts, exercise, swim, dance, art appreciation and first aid plus a planned noon program. Child care is available.

Childbirth Education: Available for expectant mothers on Friday mornings. Helps prepare mothers for experience in childbirth through pre-natal education.

Set card party

St. Cyprian Parish will sponsor a public card party with refreshments and prizes at 8 p.m. Thursday at the church, 4716 Clark Ave.

Debs take a bow

EACH GIRL WORE a golden pendant . . . Karen Cole (right) fastens chain for Diane Donaldson.

DEBUTANTES MAKING OFFICIAL DEBUT WERE NANCY NEIBLING (L) CHRISTINE NEWELL, CATHERINE GRADY, NANCY JACKSON, CATHERINE ROGGEVEEN, KAREN COLE, DIANE DONALDSON CATHERINE McGOWEN AND MARY ELIZABETH SIRAGUSA.

...nice young women bow to society at Junior League's glittering ball

With dash and sophistication, Junior League of Long Beach presented nine young women at its 1965 Debutante Ball Wednesday evening in Pacific Coast Club.

Beautifully attired debutantes entered the ballroom escorted by their fathers or presentors. As names were announced by master of ceremonies Donald Clare Wallace Jr., the young women made deep graceful court bows.

All wore white ball gowns and gold pendants (the latter gifts of the league) and all carried Italian lace fans ornamented with white orchids.

Following the formal presentation, the debs danced the traditional first waltz with their fathers, then were claimed by escorts for an evening of dining and dancing.

The two ballrooms were decorated in brilliant Christmas red; walls and chandeliers were draped with garlands of crimson paper flowers intertwined with fragrant greenery.

GUESTS WERE seated at round supper tables covered with red cloths and centered with bouquets of ruby-hued carnations and glowing red votive candles.

As in the past, the ball was coordinated by Thomas Whitman Ingersoll.

Joe Moshay and his orchestra played for the presentation and afterwards for dancing.

Guests were received in the Renaissance Room, setting for pre-dinner cocktails, by league president Mrs. Jay C. Moorhead and Dr. Moorhead and ball chairman Mrs. William F. Wagner and Dr. Wagner.

This is the sixth year Junior League has sponsored the Debutante Ball, which benefits the league's Community Trust Fund. One of an international association of 209 leagues, Junior League of Long Beach works to foster interest in the social, economic, educational, cultural and civic climate of the community.

Each prospective member is required to complete a training course on volunteer service and on various aspects of her community before active membership is approved. Continuing volunteer service is a requirement for membership.

Projects supported by the league, with both money and volunteer hours, include Homemaker Service, Children's Dental Health Center, South Bay-Harbor Volunteer Bureau, Junior Programs, Symphony Previews, Puppets, Rancho Los Cerritos School Tour Docents and Geriatric Service Committee.

DEBUTANTES, their parents and escorts follow:

Misses Karen Sue Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edgar Cole, Richard Edwin Drews; Diane Louise Donaldson, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Dean Donaldson, Duane Robert Marshall; Catherine Luise Grady, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Christopher Westmyer, Donald Jeffrey Davis; Nancy Lee Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Edward Jackson, John Ezell.

Also Catherine McGowen, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Ramsey McGowen, Robert Steuber; Christine Lindsay Newell, Mr. and Mrs. Walter William Ralphs Jr., Gary Phillip Jones; Nancy Jeanne Neibling, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Alden Neibling, Robert Jack Atkinson; Catherine Helen Roggeveen, Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Roggeveen, Daniel Philip O'Connell; Mary Elizabeth Siragusa, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Louis Siragusa, David Martin Findley.

Among the stags were Kenneth Fred Becker, James E. Brennan Jr., Charles W. Campbell Jr., Reed Clarke, John Frank Delaplane, Thomas Miller Delaplane, William Dunlap, Christopher Justice Dysart, Vincent Anthony Esposito, Ronald Marvin Kelly, Daniel Edward Lungren, William Ralphs Jr., Steven Roger Rensch, Michael Peter Rushing, Richard Schaeffer, Alan Weiss, Walter Frederick Welton Jr., Kelley M. S. Wilson.

FIRST THERE WAS the traditional waltz, then came dinner and an evening of dancing. Gathered at punch bowl during ball at Pacific Coast Club are debs Christine Newell (left), Catherine McGowen and Mary Elizabeth Siragusa.

"DON'T MENTION PARADE TO ME!"

"I'VE GOT GOOSE BUMPS—ALL OVER!"

"NOW I KNOW WHO'S SANTA—ME!"

By MARGARET McKEAN
I, P-T Staff Writer

"Now NEXT year, I'm going to . ."

If you've already filled in the blank, you're not alone.

Millions make New Year's resolutions each year—it's that tantalizing dream of starting over, afresh, anew, say psychologists.

Planning to mend one's ways or see that others mend their's is a popular, timely BUT short-lived pastime. Most often the goals are too high.

IF RESOLUTIONS were to stick, there'd be some changes made, all right. For example, this is what would happen hereabouts:

NEXT New Year's, not even his mother-in-law from Michigan will coerce Jack into going to the Rose Parade;

NEXT Christmas, Ed, beset with holiday bills, is going to insist that his wife crochet their presents.

Gloria, the go-go girl who dresses topless, is going to yell louder, "turn OFF the air-conditioning."

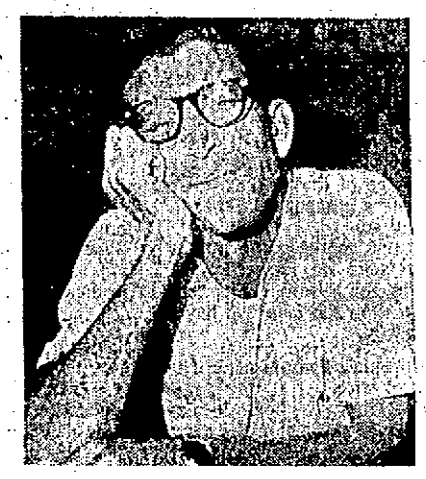

NEXT Yule Charlie's going to mail all of Grace's Christmas cards BEFORE Christmas; Julie's gonna quit sucking her fingers, especially if some teeth grow in those empty gums; Mrs. D. is going to drop her membership in La Leche League and support Planned Parenthood; Mrs. S. is going to send mother to camp and let the kids stay home.

Today the pensiveness of a loving grandmother hides only briefly the determination that "this year I'll spoil heck out of my grandkids—what makes their parents think THEY have any say?"

This is the day when the effervescent blond in your office says, "to the devil with all resolutions!"; this is the day when her deskmate takes an opposite view — "make lots and lots of plans — some culture's bound to rub off if you at least put it on the list."

Betrothed pair sets June date

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Van Dyke of Long Beach announced the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne, to Andrew John Meyer, son of Mrs. Henrietta Meyer, also of Long Beach at a buffet supper in their home Sunday.

Miniature scrolls tied with red ribbons told guests of the June 12 wedding date.

Miss Van Dyke attended Poly High School, Long Beach State College, Uppsala University in Sweden and will graduate from UCLA in June.

Her fiance, who attended Wilson High School, Long Beach City College and California Lutheran College, is serving in the U.S. Air Force.

"Now NEXT year, I'm going to . ."

If you've already filled in the blank, you're not alone.

Millions make New Year's resolutions each year—it's that tantalizing dream of starting over, afresh, anew, say psychologists.

Planning to mend one's ways or see that others mend their's is a popular, timely BUT short-lived pastime. Most often the goals are too high.

IF RESOLUTIONS were to stick, there'd be some changes made, all right. For example, this is what would happen hereabouts:

NEXT New Year's, not even his mother-in-law from Michigan will coerce Jack into going to the Rose Parade;

NEXT Christmas, Ed, beset with holiday bills, is going to insist that his wife crochet their presents.

Gloria, the go-go girl who dresses topless, is going to yell louder, "turn OUT the air-conditioning."

NEXT Yule Charlie's going to mail all of Grace's Christmas cards BEFORE Christmas; Julie's gonna quit sucking her fingers, especially if some teeth grow in those empty gums; Mrs. D. is going to drop her membership in La Leche League and support Planned Parenthood; Mrs. S. is going to send mother to camp and let the kids stay home.

Today the pensiveness of a loving grandmother hides only briefly the determination that "this year I'll spoil heck out of my grandkids—what makes their parents think THEY have any say?"

'APPLES TELL ME WHAT THEY WANT TO BE'

Under the peeling, personalities wait to be discovered

FIRST STEP: MRS. KENNEDY PEELS APPLE

By ELISE EMERY

Eve once found an apple in the garden and things haven't been the same since.

Apples also intrigue Mrs. Ruth Kennedy, a merry, blue-eyed blonde who lives at 13131 Shawnee Lane, Apt. 268 A, Seal Beach.

When she peels an apple, she never knows whom she'll meet next. When she shops for apples, she selects them for their head shrinking qualities.

One of her many interests is creating apple dolls, an old folk art form. "I don't like to call them dolls," she smiles. "I call them apple people. They're collectors' items, not toys."

Her apartment is peopled with such personalities as a parson, a jaunty fiddler, a farm woman feeding her chickens, a grandmother rocking in her chair as she embroiders—a tiny thimble on her finger. There's a maid on her day off, all dressed up in her best silk dress, umbrella over her arm, taking a gift of flowers to a friend in the hospital; a nurse in white uniform carrying a tray to a patient; a politician with diamond stickpin, plaid vest and cigar.

THE GROUP keeps changing as collectors discover Mrs. Kennedy's talent. But more apple people usually are in the process of being created.

Heads and hands of the 12-inch dolls are made of apples.

"I prefer Golden Delicious or Roman Beauties for their texture and drying qualities," says Mrs. Kennedy, who retired two years ago after 18 years as director of arts and skills for the Red Cross in Portland, Ore.

To make an apple people, nimble-fingered Mrs. Kennedy begins by peeling an apple. She cuts a slit for a mouth, two slits for eyes, carves out an area under each eye to leave a nose protuberance.

Sides of the cheeks are carved to leave rather generous protuberances for the ears, and the lower part of the apple is gently shaped for the neck.

Don't core the apple, but with a large darning needle or an embroidery hook pull a loop of string through the center from the neck to the top of the head. A button, wad of paper or piece of cardboard at the bottom of the loop keeps the string from pulling through. Leave several inches of loop at the top to hang the apple.

HANDS are a quarter of a peeled apple, cored. The cored side is the palm, and the back of the hand is carved to shape, with a cut to separate the thumb.

Then the hands, tied in a piece of nylon net, and the head are put in a warm place to dry for a week to 10 days.

"They need constant, even warmth," the apple people maker explains. "The oven isn't a good place for them."

The cabinet that houses her hot water heater in the kitchen would bring tears of envy to head shrinkers along the Amazon. Heads in every stage of drying dangle from hooks. Hands are beginning to curve into shape. Skin tones range from apple white to warm suntan.

"During the drying, pinch and gently shape the face occasionally. It will begin to take on expression and personality. I can't take orders for specified characters because I don't know what expression the face will have—could be a rogue or an elegant lady."

ARMATURE for the apple people's body is made from six strand twisted galvanized steel wire.

When the head has finished drying—about 10 days after it was carved—it will be a warm skin color, the mouth will have opened slightly and the nose and ears will be distinct.

The string is pulled out of the center and a little nylon net is pushed in loosely to prevent further shrinking. Mrs. Kennedy pours in white glue and inserts the head on the armature. Eyes—shiny black beads—are forced in the eye slits; no glue is needed to keep them in place.

Hair is made from 6-inch strands of four-ply wool yarn, carded with a stiff toothbrush.

THE NEXT step is wrapping the armature. Wadded nylon hose or tissue paper gives shape to the torso and the entire armature is then wrapped with strips of material several inches wide. Gauze, old T-shirts or strips of any soft cloth will do.

"Don't wrap the ends of the arms much—the hands will be attached to them," advises Mrs. Kennedy. "During the drying process—at the end of about a week when the hands are dry but pliable—cut lengthwise through the ends for fingers, but don't cut out any apple—the fingers will separate if the apple just is slit. With small scissors trim the ends of the fingers to proper length."

To attach the hands to the arms, open them at the wrist, pour white glue in the opening and force the hands on the armature.

When the body is completed, Mrs. Kennedy sews on underwear and stockings made from ribbed cotton sox. Shoes—anything from cowboy boots to dancing slippers—are made from light weight cowhide or, perhaps, an old leather glove.

"BY NOW the apple has told me what it wants to be. Sometimes a face will have a mean expression and then I won't make a people of it."

Final stage, after the figure is dressed, is a very sparing application of dry rouge to the cheeks and of red water color paint in a fine line just inside the mouth.

Once dried, the apple heads last indefinitely. Of course, all the figures must be old people, their faces crinkled with character lines.

"That's just fine!" exclaims Mrs. Kennedy. "Many people have to support their old folks. My old folks will keep me!"

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Trouble piled on trouble

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I divorced my children's father three years ago. I have supported the seven children and myself since then with very little help from their father.

My dad and stepmother took four of the kids for a month and stored my furniture for me when I was out of work. Then I remarried and took them back to live with me. (My stepmother had threatened to put them in a home, but friends stepped in and took them until I could support them again.)

Now comes the catch. I asked Dad for my furniture that he had stored for me and he said I would have to go through court to get it. I didn't think parents could do a thing like this to their children! The furniture doesn't amount to much but it would cost a great deal to replace it.

My new husband is a good man and is willing to help support my children but I thought I had furniture for our home. Now we are faced with buying furniture because my father refuses to let me have mine.

How can he be so heartless? He knows I've had a rough time of it and he just makes things worse!—HURT

DEAR HURT:

It's unbelievable! I think I'd talk to a lawyer and see about forcing your father to release your furniture. They say every family has its demon and it looks like your father is it.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

One of the fellows I work with takes me home every night. Naturally, we became quite close and one night he told me he loved me. I replied that I liked him and enjoyed his company but did not love him. This didn't change anything and we continued seeing each other.

Now I find he is engaged and has been all this time. When I asked him about it, he said "yes" that he was engaged and expected to marry the girl some day. He also said he wasn't sure he loved her but he thought he did.

What kind of a guy is this? Just what is he doing? I think if a guy will cheat on the girl he's engaged to, he will cheat on her after they are married, don't you?—SURPRISED

DEAR SURPRISED:

He's the kind of guy NOT to be engaged to! He has one gal tied and waiting while he shops around for something maybe a little bit better.

Play bad, so is distribution

Our old friend "Hard Luck Joe" ruffed the second spade and promptly laid down his ace of clubs. Then he entered dummy with a diamond and finessed successfully against East's queen of clubs. Unfortunately for Joe, West showed out and Joe had to go down one trick.

"My usual hard luck," groaned Joe. "I play perfectly and still can't win a rubber."

If you readers remember our old friend, he does have plenty of hard luck but invariably he is responsible for it.

Joe should have made the hand by the simple expedient of going to dummy at trick two and leading the eight of clubs for a first-round finesse. This play would have cost him the contract if West held the singleton queen but it was still the correct play.

Joe's play would have succeeded against the singleton queen in the West hand and the correct play would have lost. On the other hand, Joe's play failed against the singleton five-spot in the West hand and would also have failed against the singleton seven, four or deuce while the correct play would succeed in each of these four situations.

* * * *

IF DUMMY had happened to hold a third club and Joe only five, the play of the ace on the first round would have been correct. The reason for this is that Joe would still have been able to handle four trumps to the queen in the East hand because he would have still had two trumps in dummy, but with the actual six-two holding he could not afford to try for that singleton queen.

Joe should have made the hand by the simple expedient of going to dummy at trick two and leading the eight of clubs for a first-round finesse. This play would have cost him the contract if West held the singleton queen but it was still the correct play.

Do you see why?

Joe's play would have succeeded against the singleton queen in the West hand and the correct play would have lost. On the other hand, Joe's play failed against the singleton five-spot in the West hand and would also have failed against the singleton seven, four or deuce while the correct play would succeed in each of these four situations.

* * * *

IF DUMMY had happened to hold a third club and Joe only five, the play of the ace on the first round would have been correct. The reason for this is that Joe would still have been able to handle four trumps to the queen in the East hand because he would have still had two trumps in dummy, but with the actual six-two holding he could not afford to try for that singleton queen.

O. L. DILLINGHAM PRESENTS PAINTING TO MUSEUM HEAD JASON WONG

Painting is gift of artist

Artist Orval L. Dillingham believes that Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. should receive strong local support.

To prove his point the painter, who exhibited at the museum in November, offered museum director Jason Wong a choice of any painting in his show for the museum's permanent collection.

Wong chose an oil, "Beach Houses," painted from pencil drawings Dillingham made at Newport Beach last summer.

"I am delighted," said Wong as he accepted the work this week. "This is the first time an artist has made such a contribution to the museum."

The 42 by 48 inch landscape is in the traditional style which Dillingham has preferred for the past six years.

• • • •

"AFTER World War II there was a strong drive to depart from naturalism into abstraction. But several years ago abstraction became repetitive for me—it cut me off from personal reactions," explained Dillingham, a professor of painting and drawing at Long Beach State College.

"There is excellent rapport between the college and the museum. I frequently send my students to see exhibits at the museum and I want to see it grow in importance. I recognize the difficulties that exist in acquiring a permanent collection and was glad to offer one of my paintings — IF it was wanted. But I was careful to include that 'if.' Gifts can be a problem to a museum if they don't fit in with the planned program."

"This one does!" said Wong emphatically.

1965 was active year for art in L.B. area

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Even a cursory review of 1965 art activity within a one-hour driving radius of Long Beach marks the year as extraordinary.

First, of course, was the opening in March of the new Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 5905 Wilshire Blvd. By any standards, this was a spectacular event. The three-building complex with its sculpture plazas, pools, and gardens is a gorgeous sight. Inside, the permanent collection samples all periods of world art history. The traveling shows like the Iranian, the Japanese, and works of leading contemporary artists, have been second to none.

In nearby Pasadena, a series of brilliant shows were offered one fast on the heels of the other. Among these were the fascinating "Design West" the one-man Larry Rivers painting show, and "The Responsive Eye," works of optic magic from 15 counties. Here, a group of citizens is well underway with plans for a new museum house not only its many large shows, but its numerous classes and lectures as well.

• • • •

THE PAVILION Gallery in Balboa, sponsored and manned with devotion by a dynamic group of women, has grown to national stature with major shows like the ones this year of Rico LeBrun and Jack Zajac.

A chapter could be written on the excellence of the offerings in campus galleries at Otis, and the surrounding city and state colleges and universities. UCLA has just acquired a definitive collection of primitive art; it's new Dickson Art Center will open Wednesday.

• • • •

LONG BEACH is well within the mainstream of this Southern California upsurge. In June, the Museum Association presented a work of sculpture, Claire Falkenstein's "Point as a Set No. 16" for the museum garden. During the summer, leading sculptors from the United States, Canada, Europe and Israel came to the Long Beach State College for the first International Sculpture Symposium in this country in which the artists worked with modern industry.

Art, like music, is an intangible. It is one of the joyful and creative activities of human beings. Like other activities, the satisfaction derived is in direct ratio to commitment. The accomplishments of 1965 reflect a commitment that is deep and wide.

Dr. Samuel W. Heavenrich at University of Cincinnati

Dr. Samuel W. Heavenrich, director of Long Beach Museum of Art from 1952 to 1956, has been named professor of art at the University of Cincinnati.

At the Long Beach museum he arranged national exhibitions for the Smithsonian Institution, the American Federation of Arts and the Western Association of Art Museums.

Heavenrich has been professor of art at Orange State College, chairman of the art department at Palomar College and lecturer on art history at USC and UCLA. He also taught from 1962 to 1965 at the State University of New York, Buffalo, and while there developed an art history major and taught a summer seminar in Europe.

• • • •

DURING World War II, Heavenrich was an intelligence officer in the North African theater of operations and was a control officer for the Armed Forces Radio Service.

He directed a pilot run of the course in contemporary art for discussion group use under auspices of the Ford Foundation and the Chicago Art Institute.

Heavenrich and his wife live in the University of Cincinnati's Scioto Residence Hall.

LBSC band in Concert

Long Beach State College will give its first formal band concert of the year next Sunday, Jan. 9, at 4 p.m. The performance will take place in Long Beach City College Auditorium, at Clark Street and Harvey Way, under direction of LBSC director of bands Robert Reynolds.

Reynolds is active in the College Band Directors National Association and the Southern California School Band and Orchestra Association. He was conductor of the All-Southern California High School Honor Band which toured Central California in November.

Luboff Choir

The Norman Luboff Choir will appear for one performance only at The Music Center, Los Angeles, Sunday, Jan. 16 at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the box office and all agencies.

Recital Tuesday

Richard Jennings, Long Beach State College senior, will give a free alto saxophone and clarinet recital Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Music Building, Room 127.

Long Beach Art Association has undertaken its first joint venture with a business firm awards for the annual winter Membership Juried Show have been donated by the Empire Savings and Loan Association, 454 Pacific Ave.

Works by the three cash awards winners and 14 other artists will hang in the Empire office through Jan. 31 and on Friday the company will give a reception for the artists from 7 to 9 p.m.

Fifty other show entries will hang in the LBAA gallery during the same period. The exhibit opens today and may be seen daily except Monday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Vernon E. Dornback Jr., chairman of the art department at Redlands University, judged Grace Dimmick's oil, "From Parnassus to Itea" best of show and gave it the $175 purchase prize. Joy Elliott won a $50 award for her college, "Shibui No. 3," and a $25 prize went to Marie Bucher for her watercolor, "What Now, Cow?"

Other artists whose work will be shown at the Empire office include husband and wife team Jerome and Trish Schwartz, and Elaine Sagerhorn, Eugene Wallin, Kathleen Neal, Christi Vivirito, Dorothy A. de Araujo, Anna Hayes, Loyce Carhart, M. Hale Clark, Evelyn Caselli, Robert Adams, Marion Abrams and Robert Oxenfeld.

LONG BEACH Museum of Art begins the New Year with "Three Painters: Akawie, Fredericksen, Maffei" in the upstairs gallery and "American Art Nouveau Posters" in the downstairs galleries. A public reception from 2 to 4 p.m. today opens the exhibits, which will hang through Jan. 30.

Although each of the three painters is young—Thomas Akawie, 30, Burton Fredericksen, 31, and Joan Maffei, 38,— each has an enviable professional record of education, honors and gallery exhibits.

Akawie, currently a member of the faculty at California State College, Los Angeles, is represented by the Comara Gallery in Los Angeles. Burton Fredericksen, curator of the J. Paul Getty Museum in Malibu, and Mrs. Maffei, exhibit through the Ceeje Gallery, Los Angeles.

The poster show is on special loan from the Smithsonian Institution. Among artists represented are Edward Penfield, John Sloan, Frank Hazenplug, Bertram C. Goodhue, Will H. Bradley, Jules Cheret, Aubrey Beardsley, Alfons Mucha and Eugene Grasset.

• • • •

FOLLOWING the "Three Painters" and poster show at the museum will be the fourth annual Southern California Exhibition. Entries will be accepted Jan. 14 through Jan. 22. The exhibition is open to painters and sculptors residing in Southern California— from Point Conception south to the Mexican border.

Each artist may submit one painting or free-standing sculpture with no entry fee. Each must be accompanied by an official entry form included in the prospectus which may be obtained by sending name, address and five-cent stamp to the museum or by a phoned request.

Exhibit dates are March 6 through 27.

HELEN E. WILSON, 156 Granada Ave., and Ralph Tarzian will have displays in the Studio Room of Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St., for seven weeks beginning Jan. 7.

Mrs. Wilson, a Long Beach resident for 30 years, has been painting for 15 years in various media and has had 15 one-woman shows in Southern California as well as out-of-state exhibits. She is a member of Long Beach Art Association and of Artists League of Seal Beach.

Tarzian, instructor of sculpture at Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa, has permanent collections in several Southern California museums and has exhibited in Long Beach Museum of Art.

The exhibits may be seen daily except Sunday from 2 to 9 p.m. and between acts and after the shows on Thursday, Fridays and Saturdays when "The Man Who Came to Dinner" will be playing.

The artists will give a reception Jan. 23 from 2 to 5 p.m.

A MAJOR EXHIBIT of works by Alberto Giacometti, 64-year-old Swiss artist, will be on display in the Lytton Gallery of Los Angeles County Museum of Art from Jan. 14 through Feb. 20. The 72 sculptures, 33 paintings and 43 drawings range from his surrealist sculpture of the 1920s and '30s to the development of his charactistic style after World War II. Giacometti was given the Guggenheim International Award for painting last year.

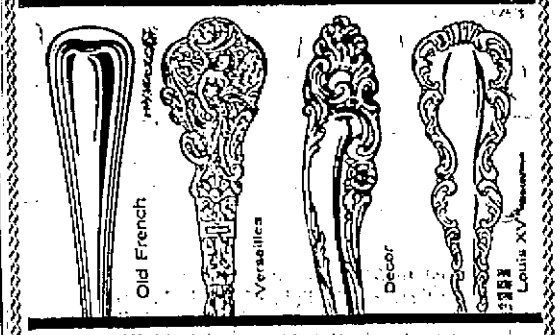

There will be an admission fee of $1 for adults and 25 cents for children. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays, closed Mondays.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

His menu: always keep busy

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I.-P-T Food Editor

His schedule of activities—both past and present—reads like the Congressional Record, yet he gives no evidence of even owning a date book.

Today's Chef of the Week, Newton L. McLaughlin, is manager of the Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association, a position he has held since 1951.

Here are a few of his off-hours accomplishments: He has served as president or chairman of the Long Beach Safety Council, Volunteers of America, American Cancer Society and Civic League.

McLaughlin has been either an officer or board member of A.I.D., Boy Scouts of America, Community Chest, Community Welfare Council, International Beauty Congress, and of Long Beach Promotion, Inc. He was area chairman last year of United Way.

To concentrate a bit on his interest in safety, he was an advisor at the President's and Governor's Highway Safety Conference, served on former Mayor Vermillion's juvenile and safety committee, spent 10 years on the street and highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce. McLaughlin is also a member of the chamber's 10-Plus Club, and presently is secretary-treasurer of California Citizens for Highway Safety.

For his interest in civic affairs, McLaughlin has been justly rewarded. In 1955 he was given the National Public Relations Award, at which time his scrap book was placed in the Library of Congress. In 1956 he received the Long Beach Safety Award, the Silver Beaver Award, Boy Scouts of America in 1963, and in November of '65, the Sunset Club-Volunteers of America dedicated a room to him in the new clubhouse.

A 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason, McLaughlin is a past commander, Military Order of World War, is a member of the Navy League, the Retired Officers Association, and Second Air Division Association.

McLaughlin also played his part in the erection of a library in Norwich, England, which stands as a memorial to 6,200 men lost in action.

First seeing the light of day in Watertown, S.D., he received his schooling in Sioux Falls. He had served with the U.S. Navy in World War I, before coming to California in 1921. In 1923 he came to Long Beach as resident manager of Pacific Finance, remaining with them for seven years, until accepting the same position with Commercial Discount Co.

With the advent of World War II, McLaughlin enlisted as a private in the Air Force and spent two years in the European Theater. He retired as a major, a position which he holds with the Reserves.

The six years following the war he divided evenly between two automobile companies as sales manager, before accepting his present position.

McLaughlin and his wife share the same hobby—art and landscaping. Mrs. Mc (Vera) is a professional artist, working principally in oils, and he is her most severe critic. In fact, HE takes so much pride in her works that they mustn't be sold. Together, they have re-done and landscaped several homes so effectively that they have appeared on covers of several national magazines.

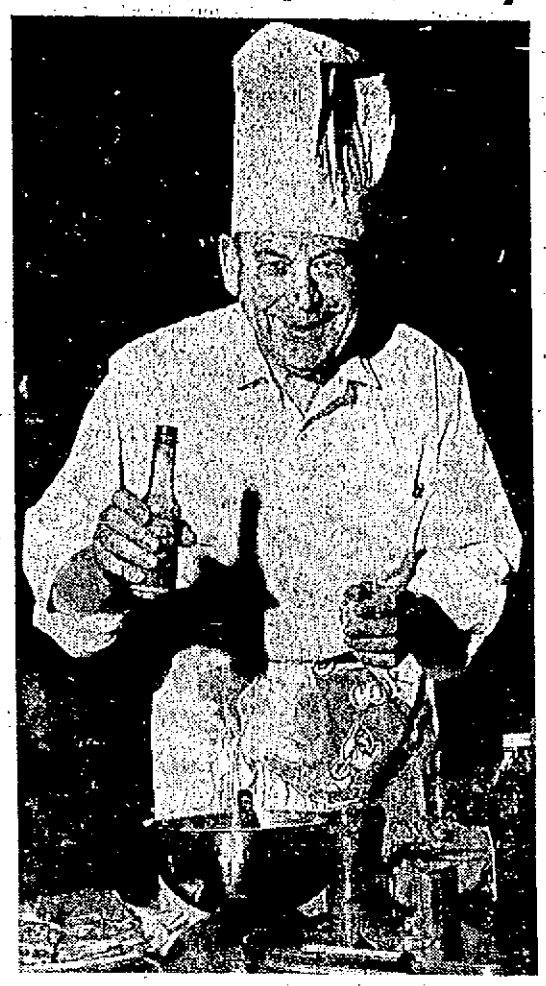

He's a gardener who knows the botanical names of what he's gardening. But probably one of his most satisfying experiences is the rapport he shares with a Siamese cat, 19 years of age. He has taught her the virtues of eating cottage cheese, melon and even corn on the cob.

Today he's barbecuing short ribs in the oven.

OVEN BARBECUED SHORT RIBS

3 tblsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 onion, chopped fine
¼ cup vinegar
2 tblsp. vinegar
1 cup catsup
½ cup water
3 tblsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. prepared mustard
½ cup celery, chopped fine
2 tsp. salt

Brown short ribs slowly in a heavy skillet, turning frequently. Pour off excess fat as it accumulates. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over the short ribs in the skillet. Cover and cook slowly 1½ to 2 hours, or until tender. Can be baked in a moderate oven 325 degrees. Serves 4.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

His menu: always keep busy

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I.-P-T Food Editor

His schedule of activities—both past and present—reads like the Congressional Record, yet he gives no evidence of even owning a date book.

Today's Chef of the Week, Newton L. McLaughlin, is manager of the Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association, a position he has held since 1951.

Here are a few of his off-hours accomplishments: He has served as president or chairman of the Long Beach Safety Council, Volunteers of America, American Cancer Society and Civic League.

TRUE 'DOWN UNDER' MAGNIFICENCE

New Zealand's South Island an unspoiled land of marvels

(Daniel H. Ridder, co-publisher of the Long Beach Independent, Press - Telegram, was invited to go along when Air New Zeland and Douglas Aircraft recently inaugurated DC-8 service from Los Angeles to the new International Airport at Auckland, N. Z. Here he tells about the trip.)

By Daniel H. Ridder

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. — This bustling little city, itself picture-pretty, is the jumping-off place for a wonderland of some of the most varied and magnificent scenic attractions of any spot of comparative size on earth.

All of New Zealand is as yet unspoiled by the influx of travelers — particularly Americans — as many European countries have been spoiled, and this is especially true of South Island on which Christchurch rose a little more than a century ago. New Zealanders welcome tourists and are friendly, and polite.

It was on South Island (New Zealand is composed principally of two islands, North and South) that cataclysms transformed an area smaller than New England into lofty, forest-clad mountains, swift-running rivers, giant glaciers that drip their melting ice into fern forests of a lush coastline of the Tasman Sea, spectacular fjords, and mountain meadows where brilliant flowers nod in an almost ethereal beauty.

* * * *

THE ENGLISH who colonized New Zealand made the most of this abundance of nature, building wisely not only to retain what they had inherited but complementing it with picturesque villages and towns typically British, neat ranches and farms, and good highways that lead to various scenic attractions. Airports also link many of the areas and the alert, government-owned Tourist Hotel Corp. already has built more than a dozen sizable lodges at strategic locations where visitors may put up in comfort and at prices surprisingly low.

(For instance, modern single rooms, neat and clean and with every convenience often cost less than $9; delicious dinners less than $3. Drinks of an ounce and a half of Scotch, bourbon or gin come to only about 25 cents.)

TROUT FISHING in New Zealand's sparkling lakes and streams is great sport. Here, an angler adds another fine one to his morning catch.

* * * *

CHRISTCHURCH was planned and built around the handsome Canterbury Cathedral whose 210-foot spire dominates all. The view of this modern yet quaint city from the balcony on the cathedral tower is not one soon forgotten. On the pleasant streets are such noteworthy attractions as the old Provincial Council Chambers, Canterbury University College, art galleries, botanical gardens, and more than 1,000 acres of parklands. The little Avon River, fringed with willows and bordered with sloping, grassy banks, winds its way through the heart of town.

It is little wonder that Christchurch is known as the "Garden City of New Zealand."

Christchurch figures big in Antarctica operations. At the busy airport is the only arrival and departure counter for Antarctica in the world. Its port is the staging base for the United States Navy's "Deep Freeze" operations, and is used by other countries — notably Great Britain — as a point of take-off into the Polar regions.

The Southern Alps, a mountain range whose tallest peak, Mount Cook, towers 12,349 feet, contain a galaxy of nature's wonders. In the heart of this region, near the foot of Mount Cook, is the Hermitage, a Tourist Hotel Corp. all-season hotel from which visitors may take leisurely walks in the forests, join rugged mountaineering expeditions, ski or fish.

* * * *

A MEMORABLE sidetrip is to Ball Hut on the Tasman Glacier, one of the largest in the world outside the Himalayas and the Polar regions. Another singular sight is the mighty Hochstetter Icefall, a tributary glacier that descends 4,000 feet in a glittering cascade almost three-quarters of a mile wide.

Queenstown, still farther south, is the center of the southern lakes region, Lake Wakatipu, upon which Queenstown is situated, is known as "the lake that breathes" because the water level rises and falls three inches every 15 minutes.

Also much photographed are the Remarkables, a range of jagged mountains rising 7,500 feet along the eastern shore of the lake. Launch cruises are popular, and most travelers also visit Skippers Canyon, where gold was discovered in the 1860s.

West and north of Queenstown, on the shores of the Tasman Sea, is Milford Sound. Here is a virgin country clothed in forests of subtropical growth that climbs almost to snowline. Milford Sound is the grandest of the inlets of Fjordland National Park where sheer mountain walls rise almost perpendicular from water's edge to 5,560-foot Mitre Peak. In this general area are some of the most breathtaking fjords in the world. The nearby town of Milford is accessible by road or air, and has all modern tourist facilities.

* * * *

AIR NEW ZEALAND, inaugurating twice - a - week service from Los Angeles International Airport, flew our party to Auckland and its brand-new International Airport via Hawaii and Fiji. (It is possible to stop over at the lush, tropical island of Fiji for a few days and stay at a hotel where the rooms are individual thatched huts. To get away from civilization and still live in comfort, Fiji is one of the ideal places.) We were in the air 14½ hours aboard one of ANZ's fleet of satin-smooth Long Beach - made fan-jet DC-8s. Douglas Aircraft also got into the act by hosting us at various functions in New Zealand.

(The round-trip economy fare from Los Angeles to Auckland via ANZ is $934.10).

It was from Auckland that we flew to South Island, and later back to North Island and New Zealand's capital, Wellington. Later, we went to Rotorua, a spa on a forest-bordered lake, and included in most tourist itineraries because of its thermal activity. These steaming geysers, boiling pools and bubbling mud-volcanoes are considered the most spectacular anywhere. Here also are the Maori villages, and lakes stocked with giant rainbow trout. (One of our group caught a 10-pound brown trout.)

More and more Americans will be flying ANZ's DC-8s to New Zealand. They, too, will find it a land of wonders where friendliness borders on a feeling of kinship.

Pity the poor mariachi, his is a rough life

Pity the poor mariachis, Mexico's traditional troubadors, whose nostalgic songs often provoke violent reactions among their listeners.

Like the group engaged to serenade the sweetheart of a Mexico City suitor, so enraptured he was oblivious to the fact that love songs sometimes fall on unsympathetic ears at 4 a.m.

The musicale was interrupted by the girl's father, who suddenly appeared in his nightshirt, firing an ancient pistol.

As the bullets flew the minstrels ran, with the boy friend—unencumbered by a musical instrument—leading the flight to safety.

* * * *

LIKE A policeman's, a mariachi's lot is not a happy one. They work impossible hours, anywhere from 3 p.m. to 8 a.m.

Mariachis are members of a union, organized in the 1930s. Their minimum pay is $1.60 per hour. Competition among them is fierce, because there are 3,000 in Mexico City alone, according to Mexicana Airlines (CMA).

Cabaret customers can order songs at 80 cents each. Hiring mariachis for a private party costs from $14 to $16 an hour. For public events and weddings, the fee is upped to $24 to $40 an hour, plus transportation.

The bands usually consist of two trumpets, three violins, two guitars, an overfed bass guitar called a "vihuela" and a three-string "tololoche." The traditional costume is a modified charro outfit, an elaborately-decorated variation of the attire worn by the Moors in medieval Spain.

Mariachis acquired their name from the French term for marriage, originating around 1824 when the strolling musicians played at weddings in French-influenced Guadalajara.

* * * *

IF YOU have a passion for this type of song, go to Mexico City's Garibaldi Plaza where mariachis can be hired by the carload. The plaza was once a peaceful place. Concho Andrade changed all that in the 1920s when he arrived from Guadalajara and formed a small mariachi band to play in the plaza as a sort of neighborhood entertainment.

The chain-reaction popularity of the music brought so many musicians to the plaza it became known as Mariachi Mall. If you're addicted to quiet introspection, stay away from it.

Traveling with Stan Delaplane

The new Pago Pago Intercontinental Hotel opened last week. It's a bid for the booming South Pacific tourist trade. Opens a remote group of warm Polynesian islands.

Economy fare from the West Coast is $496 round trip. But there's a better Pan Am 23-day circle trip — West Coast, Honolulu, Pago Pago, Tahiti and home for $557.30.

* * * *

"The weather in Mexico in February? What kind of clothing? Health problems? How to protect things left in our car?"

DAYTIME weather should be mild, about 70 degrees. Nights you need a top coat. People in Mexico City dress just like we do in our major cities. Sports clothes are for sightseeing trips outside the capital.

Mexico City is at 7,400 feet. You don't notice the altitude dramatically. But I find I feel tired after a couple of days. Take afternoon naps. If it bothers you much, go down one hour to Cuernavaca at 5,000 feet.

Everywhere you go, you'll find someone offering to watch your car. Usually a man with a badge on his cap. Sometimes just a boy. Lock your car anyway. Tip a peso (8 cents U.S.). In many times in Mexico, I only lost one thing—a typewriter. That was checking out of a de luxe hotel. It could be it was an accident. (But I think the bell hop clipped it. He was a sharp operator.)

* * * *

"We are taking a cruise on a major shipping line line (Caribbean) for two weeks. The question — who and how much to tip?"

I'D TIP for two people: $1 a day to the room steward. Same to the table steward. About $5 to the wine steward if you use him every day. Bar stewards by the day—25 to 50 cents per service session. Bellboys by the service, 25 cents.

I should tell you that most travel writers don't agree with me. I came home on the new Italian Line "Michelangelo." Seven days, $700 per person. Eight travel editors for major newspapers insisted the correct tip is 10%. That's $140 for two people, split among the help. An amount I think is ridiculous.

Because it was a first class maiden voyage, I made it $2 a day. But I'm advising you $1. Officials on British lines have told me they think 75 cents a day is quite fair.

* * * *

"Can you advise me where in Acapulco it is safe to drink the water and eat the salads?"

THIS WEST COAST resort is Mexican extension of New York. I eat the salads and drink the water in all major hotels and restaurants —they're careful of that expensive tourist trade. Not water out of the tap. Drink the water in the bottle that your maid refills each day. (You hope.)

* * * *

"What clothes to wear in New Orleans in February?"

IN FEBRUARY, New Orleans people dress as people do in all major cities in the country. In hot days of summer, men go without coats on downtown streets. Should be mild in February but not hot.

* * * *

"Because of my husband's business we must go to Europe in February. We will be there until next October, but where to go? We don't like cold weather."

THEN YOU'D better enter at Lisbon and head for the Portuguese south—the Algarve. Or the Spanish south —the Costa del Sol. Everything north is cold until late April. In April move north slowly—I froze to death in mid-May in the Normandy coast of France. Save England, Ireland and Scandinavaian countries for July and August.

September is the time for France, Switzerland, Italy. The tourists are going home. You can get into hotels and restaurants again. And the weather is delightful.

Desert rodeo dates set

Members of Palm Springs Mounted Police are making preparatons for the 26th Palm Springs Rodeo, one of the biggest annual winter events to be held in the California desert.

The rodeo will be held Jan. 29-30 and will include a parade and top rodeo events.

In past years, movie and television personalities serving as queen and grand marshal have included Janet Leigh, Tony Curtis, Natalie Wood, Bob Wagner, Anita Eckberg, Piper Laurie and Kirk Douglas.

VACATION IN WONDERFUL WINTERLAND

All points of the compass have much to offer the winter vacationer. Winterland can be the most pleasing, the most exciting, the most relaxing place on earth for your vacation because it has such varied attractions . . . from ski resorts here and abroad to tropical islands . . . from North America to South America (where it's summer) . . . to hundreds of places throughout the world where winter traveling is fun.

Why not take a winter vacation? Or plan part of your vacation in winter for a break in your living and working routine. And you can take advantage of usually lower winter rates in many places, too.

TRUE 'DOWN UNDER' MAGNIFICENCE

New Zealand's South Island an unspoiled land of marvels

(Daniel H. Ridder, co-publisher of the Long Beach Independent, Press - Telegram, was invited to go along when Air New Zeland and Douglas Aircraft recently inaugurated DC-8 service from Los Angeles to the new International Airport at Auckland, N. Z. Here he tells about the trip.)

By Daniel H. Ridder

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. — This bustling little city, itself picture-pretty, is the jumping-off place for a wonderland of some of the most varied and magnificent scenic attractions of any spot of comparative size on earth.

All of New Zealand is as yet unspoiled by the influx of travelers — particularly Americans — as many European countries have been spoiled, and this is especially true of South Island on which Christchurch rose a little more than a century ago. New Zealanders welcome tourists and are friendly and polite.

It was on South Island (New Zealand is composed principally of two islands, North and South) that cataclysms transformed an area smaller than New England into lofty, forest-clad mountains, swift-running rivers, giant glaciers that drip their melting ice into fern forests of a lush coastline of the Tasman Sea, spectacular fjords, and mountain meadows where brilliant flowers nod in an almost ethereal beauty.

* * * *

THE ENGLISH who colonized New Zealand made the most of this abundance of nature, building wisely not only to retain what they had inherited but complementing it with picturesque villages and towns typically British, neat ranches and farms, and good highways that lead to various scenic attractions. Airports also link many of the areas and the alert, government-owned Tourist Hotel Corp. already has built more than a dozen sizable lodges at strategic locations where visitors may put up in comfort and at prices surprisingly low.

(For instance, modern single rooms, neat and clean and with every convenience often cost less than $9; delicious dinners less than $3. Drinks of an ounce and a half of Scotch, bourbon or gin come to only about 25 cents.)

TROUT FISHING in New Zealand's sparkling lakes and streams is great sport. Here, an angler adds another fine one to his morning catch.

* * * *

CHRISTCHURCH was planned and built around the handsome Canterbury Cathedral whose 210-foot spire dominates all. The view of this modern yet quaint city from the balcony on the cathedral tower is not one soon forgotten. On the pleasant streets are such noteworthy attractions as the old Provincial Council Chambers, Canterbury University College, art galleries, botanical gardens, and more than 1,000 acres of parklands. The little Avon River, fringed with willows and bordered with sloping, grassy banks, winds its way through the heart of town.

It is little wonder that Christchurch is known as the "Garden City of New Zealand."

Christchurch figures big in Antarctica operations. At the busy airport is the only arrival and departure counter for Antarctica in the world. Its port is the staging base for the United States Navy's "Deep Freeze" operations, and is used by other countries — notably Great Britain — as a point of take-off into the Polar regions.

The Southern Alps, a mountain range whose tallest peak, Mount Cook, towers 12,349 feet, contain a galaxy of nature's wonders. In the heart of this region, near the foot of Mount Cook, is the Hermitage, a Tourist Hotel Corp. all-season hotel from which visitors may take leisurely walks in the forests, join rugged mountaineering expeditions, ski or fish.

* * * *

A MEMORABLE sidetrip is to Ball Hut on the Tasman Glacier, one of the largest in the world outside the Himalayas and the Polar regions. Another singular sight is the mighty Hochstetter Icefall, a tributary glacier that descends 4,000 feet in a glittering cascade almost three-quarters of a mile wide.

Queenstown, still farther south, is the center of the southern lakes region. Lake Wakatipu, upon which Queenstown is situated, is known as "the lake that breathes" because the water level rises and falls three inches every 15 minutes.

Also much photographed are the Remarkables, a range of jagged mountains rising 7,500 feet along the eastern shore of the lake. Launch cruises are popular, and most travelers also visit Skippers Canyon, where gold was discovered in the 1860s.

West and north of Queenstown, on the shores of the Tasman Sea, is Milford Sound. Here is a virgin country clothed in forests of subtropical growth that climbs almost to snowline. Milford Sound is the grandest of the inlets of Fjordland National Park where sheer mountain walls rise almost perpendicular from water's edge to 5,560-foot Mitre Peak. In this general area are some of the most breathtaking fjords in the world. The nearby town of Milford is accessible by road or air, and has all modern tourist facilities.

AIR NEW ZEALAND, inaugurating twice - a - week service from Los Angeles International Airport, flew our party to Auckland and its brand-new International Airport via Hawaii and Fiji. (It is possible to stop over at the lush, tropical island of Fiji for a few days and stay at a hotel where the rooms are individual thatched huts. To get away from civilization and still live in comfort, Fiji is one of the ideal places.) We were in the air 14½ hours aboard one of ANZ's fleet of satin-smooth Long Beach - made fan-jet DC-8s. Douglas Aircraft also got into the act by hosting us at various functions in New Zealand.

(The round-trip economy fare from Los Angeles to Auckland via ANZ is $934.10).

It was from Auckland that we flew to South Island, and later back to North Island and New Zealand's capital, Wellington. Later, we went to Rotorua, a spa on a forest-bordered lake, and included in most tourist itineraries because of its thermal activity. These steaming geysers, boiling pools and bubbling mud-volcanoes are considered the most spectacular anywhere. Here also are the Maori villages, and lakes stocked with giant rainbow trout. (One of our group caught a 10-pound brown trout.)

More and more Americans will be flying ANZ's DC-8s to New Zealand. They, too, will find it a land of wonders where friendliness borders on a feeling of kinship.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

Pity the poor mariachi, his is a rough life

Pity the poor mariachis, Mexico's traditional troubadors, whose nostalgic songs often provoke violent reactions among their listeners.

Like the group engaged to serenade the sweetheart of a Mexico City suitor, so enraptured he was oblivious to the fact that love songs sometimes fall on unsympathetic ears at 4 a.m.

The musicale was interrupted by the girl's father, who suddenly appeared in his nightshirt, firing an ancient pistol.

As the bullets flew the minstrels ran, with the boy friend—unencumbered by a musical instrument—leading the flight to safety.

* * * *

LIKE A policeman's, a mariachi's lot is not a happy one. They work impossible hours, anywhere from 3 p.m. to 8 a.m.

Mariachis are members of a union, organized in the 1930s. Their minimum pay is $1.60 per hour. Competition among them is fierce, because there are 3,000 in Mexico City alone, according to Mexicana Airlines (CMA).

Cabaret customers can order songs at 80 cents each. Hiring mariachis for a private party costs from $14 to $16 an hour. For public events and weddings, the fee is upped to $24 to $40 an hour, plus transportation.

The bands usually consist of two trumpets, three violins, two guitars, an overfed bass guitar called a "vihuela" and a three-string "tololoche." The traditional costume is a modified charro outfit, an elaborately-decorated variation of the attire worn by the Moors in medieval Spain.

Mariachis acquired their name from the French term for marriage, originating around 1824 when the strolling musicians played at weddings in French-influenced Guadalajara.

* * * *

IF YOU have a passion for this type of song, go to Mexico City's Garibaldi Plaza where mariachis can be hired by the carload. The plaza was once a peaceful place. Concho Andrade changed all that in the 1920s when he arrived from Guadalajara and formed a small mariachi band to play in the plaza as a sort of neighborhood entertainment.

The chain-reaction popularity of the music brought so many musicians to the plaza it became known as Mariachi Mall. If you're addicted to quiet introspection, stay away from it.

VACATION IN WONDERFUL WINTERLAND
All points of the compass have much to offer the winter vacationer. Winterland can be the most pleasing, the most exciting, the most relaxing place on earth for your vacation because it has such varied attractions . . . from ski resorts here and abroad to tropical islands . . . from North America to South America (where it's summer) . . . to hundreds of places throughout the world where winter traveling is fun.
Why not take a winter vacation? Or plan part of your vacation in winter for a break in your living and working routine. And you can get more for your money, too. Take advantage of usually lower winter rates in many places, too.

Traveling with Stan Delaplane

The new Pago Pago Intercontinental Hotel opened last week. It's a bid for the booming South Pacific tourist trade. Opens a remote group of warm Polynesian islands.

Economy fare from the West Coast is $496 round trip. But there's a better Pan Am 23-day circle trip — West Coast, Honolulu, Pago Pago, Tahiti and home for $557.30.

"The weather in Mexico in February? What kind of clothing? Health problems? How to protect things left in our car?"

DAYTIME weather should be mild, about 70 degrees. Nights you need a top coat. People in Mexico City dress just like we do in our major cities. Sports clothes are for sightseeing trips outside the capital.

Mexico City is at 7,400 feet. You don't notice the altitude dramatically. But I find I feel tired after a couple of days. Take afternoon naps. If it bothers you much, go down one hour to Cuernavaca at 5,000 feet.

Everywhere you go, you'll find someone offering to watch your car. Usually a man with a badge on his cap. Sometimes just a boy. Lock your car anyway. Tip a peso (8 cents U.S.). In many times in Mexico, I only lost one thing—a typewriter. That was checking out of a de luxe hotel. It could be it was an accident. (But I think the bell hop clipped it. He was a sharp operator.)

* * * *

"We are taking a cruise on a major shipping line line (Caribbean) for two weeks. The question — who and how much to tip?"

I'D TIP for two people: $1 a day to the room steward. Same to the table steward. About $5 to the wine steward if you use him every day. Bar stewards by the day—25 to 50 cents per service session. Bellboys by the service, 25 cents.

I should tell you that most travel writers don't agree with me. I came home on the new Italian Line "Michelangelo." Seven days, $700 per person. Eight travel editors for major newspapers insisted the correct tip is 10%. That's $140 for two people, split among the help. An amount I think is ridiculous.

Because it was a first class maiden voyage, I made it $2 a day. But I'm advising you $1. Officials on British lines have told me they think 75 cents a day is quite fair.

* * * *

"Can you advise me where in Acapulco it is safe to drink the water and eat the salads?"

THIS WEST COAST resort is Mexican extension of New York. I eat the salads and drink the water in all major hotels and restaurants —they're careful of that expensive tourist trade. Not water out of the tap. Drink the water in the bottle that your maid refills each day. (You hope.)

* * * *

"What clothes to wear in New Orleans in February?"

IN FEBRUARY, New Orleans people dress as people do in all major cities in the country. In hot days of summer, men go without coats on downtown streets. Should be mild in February but not hot.

* * * *

"Because of my husband's business we must go to Europe in February. We will be there until next October, but where to go? We don't like cold weather."

THEN YOU'D better enter at Lisbon and head for the Portuguese south — the Algarve. Or the Spanish south —the Costa del Sol. Everything north is cold until late April. In April move north slowly—I froze to death in mid-May in the Normandy coast of France. Save England, Ireland and Scandinavaian countries for July and August.

September is the time for France, Switzerland, Italy. The tourists are going home. You can get into hotels and restaurants again. And the weather is delightful.

Desert rodeo dates set

Members of Palm Springs Mounted Police are making preparatons for the 26th Palm Springs Rodeo, one of the biggest annual winter events to be held in the California desert.

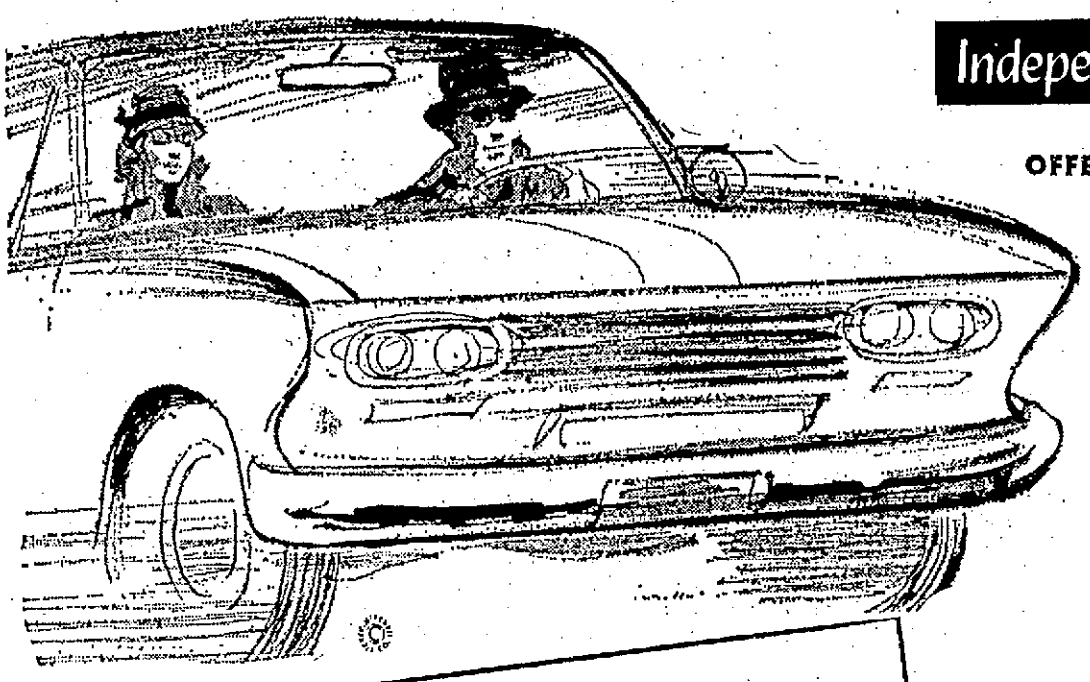

The rodeo will be held Jan. 29-30 and will include a parade and top rodeo events.

In past years, movie and television personalities serving as queen and grand marshal have included Janet Leigh, Tony Curtis, Natalie Wood, Bob Wagner, Anita Eckberg, Piper Laurie and Kirk Douglas.

DEAR ABBY

You'd better believe it

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Would you please tell me the difference between a maid and a housewife? My husband says there is no difference. Thank you.

WACO HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: If you have a maid, you'd better keep your eye on your husband.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a working housewife. I get up every morning at 5 and cook my husband a good breakfast. I don't consider it a chore, Abby. I love to do it. But I am not very talkative in the morning.

In all my 41 years of life, I have never liked to talk to anyone right after I get up. It takes me a couple of hours before I feel like talking. This has caused a lot of arguments with my husband. He says if I don't feel like being sociable in the morning I should stay in bed.

But I like to get up and cook him a nice breakfast as a wife should. I don't care if anyone talks to me or not in the morning, so why should he be so stubborn on this one point?—A GOOD WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No matter how good the breakfast is, it's apparently not as important to your husband as the "sociability" he's missing. Not all husbands are alike. Some would rather have less gab and more grub.

But yours is the one you have to live with; so either make an effort to be more cheerful and communicative in the morning or stay in the sack.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I would like a little advice on how to handle a situation that concerns my daughter and myself. She is 16, and has a rather steady boyfriend. Because I am a divorcee and have to work, I cannot be home until 6 in the evening. I have made a rule that she should not have her boy friend come into our apartment until I get home. She says she should be able to invite him in after school, even though I am not there.

I might add that her younger sister and brother (ages 8 and 11) are usually home. Also my daughter's word is good, I trust her, the boy is a nice boy, but I don't want her talked about, and we live in an apartment with many nosey gossips.

WORKING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you have made an ironclad "rule" with only your nosey, gossipy neighbors in mind, you are being unfair to your daughter. Tell her she may let her beau come in after school for no more than an hour, occasionally, but not every evening. Give her a chance to use her own judgment, expect the best of her and I'll bet she won't let you down.

End Dry Skin

Wrinkles form in the colder weather because the skin contracts, making it hard for the little oil ducts to feed and protect the surface skin. Those of you with dry skins should take a little extra care at this time of the year by smoothing oil of Olay over the face and neck daily before you make-up. This hygroscopic (moisture attracting) oil will give the complexion a healthy, peaches-and-cream appearance, even in winter and is the finest protection against wrinkle dryness. It is also excellent for night-time skin beautifying.

DEAR ABBY

You'd better believe it

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Would you please tell me the difference between a maid and a housewife? My husband says there is no difference. Thank you.

WACO HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: If you have a maid, you'd better keep your eye on your husband.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a working housewife. I get up every morning at 5 and cook my husband a good breakfast. I don't consider it a chore, Abby. I love to do it. But I am not very talkative in the morning.

In all my 41 years of life, I have never liked to talk to anyone right after I get up. It takes me a couple of hours before I feel like talking. This has caused a lot of arguments with my husband. He says if I don't feel like being sociable in the morning I should stay in bed.

But I like to get up and cook him a nice breakfast as a wife should. I don't care if anyone talks to me or not in the morning, so why should he be so stubborn on this one point?—A GOOD WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No matter how good the breakfast is, it's apparently not as important to your husband as the "sociability" he's missing. Not all husbands are alike. Some would rather have less gab and more grub.

But yours is the one you have to live with; so either make an effort to be more cheerful and communicative in the morning or stay in the sack.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I would like a little advice on how to handle a situation that concerns my daughter and myself. She is 16, and has a rather steady boyfriend. Because I am a divorcee and have to work, I cannot be home until 6 in the evening. I have made a rule that she should not have her boy friend come into our apartment until I get home. She says she should be able to invite him in after school, even though I am not there.

I might add that her younger sister and brother (ages 8 and 11) are usually home. Also my daughter's word is good, I trust her, the boy is a nice boy, but I don't want her talked about, and we live in an apartment with many nosey gossips.

WORKING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you have made an ironclad "rule" with only your nosey, gossipy neighbors in mind, you are being unfair to your daughter. Tell her she may let her beau come in after school for no more than an hour, occasionally, but not every evening. Give her a chance to use her own judgment, expect the best of her and I'll bet she won't let you down.

Cover

Even with binoculars, you are unlikely to get as close a view of a hummingbird in action as the one on Southland's cover today. This one was snapped by Herb Shannon of San Pedro on Ectachrome X color film as it swooped in for a snack of honey and water at a local patio feeder. The camera was a 35-mm. Pentax single-lens reflex fitted with a 200-mm. telephoto lens on an extension tube to shorten its focal distance to four feet. A transistorized stroboscopic flash was used to fill in shadow detail and balance available light from the sky. The exposure was F4 at 1/50th of a second. Sunshine on flowering acacia foliage provided a colorful background. See Page 9 for further details on this fascinating form of birdwatching.

Next Week

It certainly takes more than a badge, a gun and a uniform to become an efficient police officer. Health, dedication, judgment—still much more. Next week, in Southland, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram police reporter Bill Hazlett tells what it takes, plus long and arduous training, to become "a good cop" for the Long Beach Police Department.

Make a Card for any Mood

IN THESE DAYS of the zany greeting cards, senders of such items are always wishing and searching for an original — and usually elusive — special card. The answer can be in "How to be your own greeting card company!"

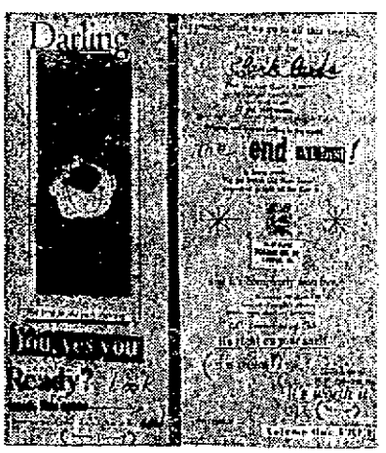

With a pot of library paste, scissors, some typing or heavy construction paper and an assortment of newspapers, magazines, travel folders and similar publications, you can have fun making up a personal card, such as illustrated with this article.

The method: Keeping a desired theme — birthday, holidays, vacation, travel, etc., etc.—first do your clipping, then the layout of the clipped items, then the pasting. By careful selection of clippings, plus a bit of writing-in, cards can be made up for any occasion. Laying out the items first in mock up avoids overcrowding and permits elimination of all but the desired lines.

For the cover page, find a suitable illustration. For all pages clip a bottom line that reminds the reader to turn the page. After selecting the cover illustration, it is a good idea to do the back page first, choosing some of the zaniest items to be affixed there.

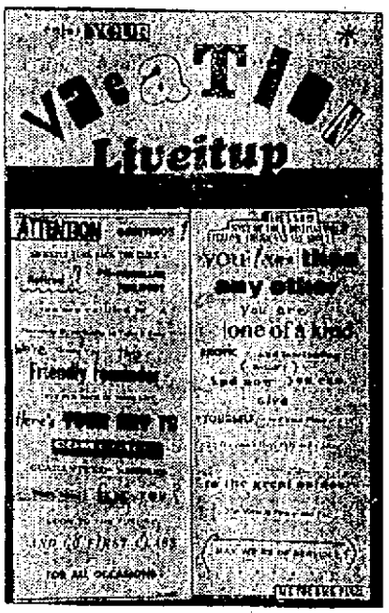

The accompanying illustrations give some idea of how to go about making up a card. Imagination will do the rest. Happy clipping!... And don't forget to leave a place for your sign-off with best wishes!

Sports Today

NFL ALL-STAR Team, 10:30 a.m., ch. 2, introduces the 22-man selection by NEA and CBS Sports, with film clips of each player, plus presentation of the Jim Thorpe award to league's most valuable player.

NFL CHAMPIONSHIP, 11 a.m. in color, ch. 2, has Ken Coleman and Ray Scott at Lambeau Field as the western champions, the Green Bay Packers, clash with the defending Cleveland Browns, winners of the eastern conference crown.

NBA BASKETBALL, 1 p.m., ch. 7, goes to Philadelphia's Convention Hall where the 76ers play host to the New York Knickerbockers in the first of 17 NBA games to air live, with Chris Schenkel and Bob Cousy mikeside. (Subsequent telecasts, extending through April 24, will be aired at 2 p.m.)

SPORTS '65, 4 p.m., ch. 2, recaps the top sports highlights of the year, with Gil Stratton narrating films of Gary Player, Sandy Koufax, Ron Clarke, Jim Brown, Mike Garrett, Jimmy Clarke, Cassius Clay and others in action in specially-prepared film highlights.

WHL HOCKEY, 9 p.m., ch. 5, finds Dick Enberg mikeside at Portland's Memorial Coliseum as the Buckaroos battle it out with the L.A. Blades.

SPECIAL

THE INHERITANCE—Filmed at ancient sites in Iran, Iraq, Egypt, Jordan and Israel, a "Southern Baptist Hour" reprise re-creates Biblical history, surveying the remains of great civilizations of antiquity in the Middle East. Alexander Scourby narrates, at 10:30 a.m., in color, ch. 4, recounting history through Abraham, Moses, David, Solomon and the Prophets.

CHRISTMAS in Viet Nam—A CBS News Special Report films war-torn South Vietnam on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day to report how American fighting men spent the holiday, with Charles Kuralt interviewing men about their feelings at Christmastime and their expectations for the future. Spotlighted is Army Sgt. Ralph Bosalet, a 15-year veteran in South Vietnam, and his wife and five children at their Seaside (Calif.) home. Seen elsewhere on the network last Tuesday, color show screen locally at 3:30 p.m., ch. 2.

RETROSPECT '65—The Southland's tumultuous year just concluded is reviewed by Baxter Ward and Jim Healy during an hour at 4 p.m., ch. 7. Scenes include the Watts riots, the Tom Neal murder case, Lt. Tom O'Neil, mayoralty elections, November rains, protest marches, the McCone report, Sandy Koufax, Mike Garrett and UCLA's Cinderella grid team.

TELEPHONE HOUR--The hour goes West—musically—as Hugh O'Brian is host for an all-Western music show at 6:30 p.m., ch. 4, in color. Featuring country and folk tunes and songs from Western-themed Broadway musicals, hour spotlights Dolores Gray, Eddy Arnold, Peter Nero, Jack Haskell, dancer-choreographer Matt Mattox and the Tucson (Ariz.) Boys' Chorus.

HAMLET AT ELSINORE--Christopher Plummer is magnificently cast in the title role of this BBC dramatization of Shakespeare's classic, filmed on location in the historical setting of the play, the Castle of Kronborg at Elsinore in Denmark, and repeated at 7 p.m., ch. 11, with Maurice Evans as host. Featured during the 3-and-a-half-hour screening are Robert Shaw as Claudius, Alec Clunes as Polonius, Michael Caine as Horatio, June Tobin as Queen Gertrude and Joe Maxwell Muller as Ophelia.

Love--With Mayonnaise

Catherine Spaak uses a "mayonnaise kiss" in attempt to wean Marcello Mastroianni from odd hobby in "The Man With Five Balloons."

By Georgia Coleman

IN ROME — and stuck on each other: In "The Man with the Five Balloons," the first segment of Joseph E. Levine's "Paranoia," Marcello Mastroianni and Catherine Spaak spice up their love life with a "mayonnaise kiss." Passionate young Catherine invents such romantic varieties to distract Marcello from his new hobby, balloon-blowing. As a hapless candy manufacturer, the Latin Casanova becomes a sort of modern Hamlet, isolated from friends and loved ones by his seemingly ridiculous obsession with balloons. Catherine tries to make Marcello put away childish things, as she tempts him into boudoir and bubble bath, but Marcello always insists on bringing along his balloons. Their kooky contest is director Marco Ferreri's way of satirizing Europe's thrill-seeking youth while making a comical comment on the modern mentality.

IN THE OTHER episodes of "Paranoia" Marcello gets involved in equally bizarre situations. In the second story, "The Blond Wife", he is a money-crazy bank clerk who tries to sell his light-headed spouse into the golden harem of a blond-crazy Arabian sheik. Pamela Tiffin, in the title role, turns the satirical tables on her greedy husband when she peddles him into the harem of an oddball potentate. Luciano Salce directed the satire on modern marriage in Rome, with location filming in Spain's Alhambra Palace. The famous 14th-century monument doubled as the office of the Emir, a playboy potentate with an all-blonde harem. At the lavish banquet scene in the Court of the Lions, Pamela dances a wild "Arabian Frug." She is Mastroianni's first American co-star.

In the final episode of "Paranoia," "The Right Moment," Marcello is a nervous professor seeking rest at the home of a friend (played by director Salce). Virna Lisi plays Salce's modern, slightly over-emancipated wife. In order to keep her under control, he shoots a pistol around the house. Marcello gets caught in the household crossfire when volatile Virna uses his bed as a refuge from "the happiness bullet." This pistol-packing battle of the sexes is directed by Eduardo de Filippo, best known to U.S. audiences as the author of "Marriage — Italian Style."

"Paranoia" is being produced by Carlo Ponti for spring release through Embassy Pictures. Joseph E. Levine is executive producer of the color, wide-screen comedy.

Pan and Fan Mail

Would you please be so kind as to settle a four-month-long running argument?

The point in question is the identity of the actor who appears in a television commercial for Anacin.

To wit: Husband comes home and no sooner gets into the door whereupon sweet wife reminds him to "Hurry and get ready as we have to attend a P-TA meeting tonight"

Husband replies, "Don't rush me, Helen. I just got home." He says this in a very anguished voice.

As may be surmised, Anacin comes to the rescue and all ends well.

I contend the actor playing the husband is John Lupton while my friend is equally convinced he is Marshall Thompson.

Frank W. Chermak, Long Beach

John Lupton, formerly of "Broken Arrow" and currently of "Never Too Young," is the man with the anguished voice. Marshall Thompson, incidentally, will be seen in the "Daktari" series premiering Jan. 11 on channel 2.

* * * *

I would like to know if the program Gidget will still be on in the week of Jan. 9 and following.

Kathi Herfkens, Long Beach

Yes, but not on the usual day. Starting Jan. 13, "Gidget" will air 8 p.m. on Thursday.

* * * *

Why is it that two secret agent shows have to be shown at the same time? I'm referring to "Secret Agent" and "Get Smart" on Saturday nights.

Mrs. Margaret M. Merrill, Costa Mesa

CBS-TV doesn't think it was a dumb move. Determined to outwit "Get Smart" in the ratings, it inserted "Secret Agent," a proven viewer favorite during the summer season.

* * * *

After watching most of the new season's programs, I'm convinced that commercials are better than ever.

If the programs get much worse, I think I'd rather tune in to a half-hour of straight commercials. Most of them are much more imaginative and funny than the so-called situation comedies.

Jack R. Rusch, Garden Grove

Each man to his own poison.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Would you give the background on MORRIS.—J.M., W.M., Long Beach.

MORRIS is a famous English surname derived from "Marisc" meaning "dwellers at the marshy place." In addition, the French-English baptismal name Maurice, meaning "dark complexion" was Anglicized as Morris in Britain. William de Moreys was a 13th century progenitor in Suffolk, England. The Morris armorial shield is black, decorated with a silver "X"-shaped cross. The Irish Gaelic clan name Mirgheas, poetically characterizing an ancestor as "charmed by the sea" was altered to Morris in the 1500s. John Morris of England was among the founders of Hartford, Conn., in 1635. Both Robert Morris and Lewis Morris were signers of our Declaration of Independence.

MISS RULE: Please give the origin of ARGO.—W.C., Orange; T.A., Long Beach; J.W., Wilmington.

ARGO from Italy had as its primary source the archaic Greek-Italian word "Argo," a definition of the ancestor as "Swift one." Argo was also a dialect form of the Italian word "Orgogliosi," characterizing the forefather as "haughty, proud one."

MISS RULE: Would like data on STUHT.—B.S., Lakewood.

STUHT is a north German name that deciphers as "baker of white bread," a very unusual occupation in ancient times when dark flour was almost universally used for baking.

MISS RULE: Would like the genealogy on CORREA.—V.C., Long Beach.

CORREA of Spain dignified the ancestor as a maker of "leather belts, straps and thongs." Descendants of this hard-working forefather achieved a coat-of-arms in Castile. Their shield is gold, decorated with a black eagle surrounded by three red belts in the form of a star.

MISS RULE: Would like data on LA VICTORIE, LA VICTOIRE.—V.P., L.R., Long Beach.

LA VICTORIE and LA VICTOIRE are French, and originally honored Saint Victoria, a 3rd century Christian martyr. Victoria and the French derivatives all described "victorious lady."

MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on TEGETHOFF.—C.T., Long Beach.

TEGETHOFF began as the ancestor's home village name, a place in Westphalia, Germany. In dialect medieval German "Teget-Hoff" designated "tenth farm," a part of a large estate that had been divided into smaller areas. The Tegethoff armorial shield from Austria is silver, crossed by a red stripe lying between three green clover leaves. On the stripe are the silver letters "M.T."

MISS RULE: Please analyze RIZZO.—G.R., Long Beach.

RIZZO and RIZZI of Italy described the ancestor as "curly haired." The Rizzi shield is silver, emblazoned with an arm in armor holding three gold rice-stalks.

MISS RULE: Would like to know about FILKIN, FILKEN.—S.S., Garden Grove; D.R. Long Beach.

FILKIN and FILKEN, ancient English names, were formed from the old Saxon "Filu-kin" deciphered as "descendant of the great one."

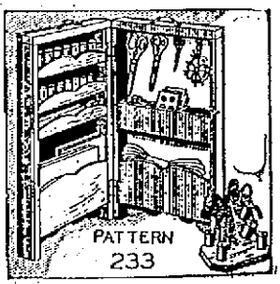

MISS RULE: Please explain BAYARD.—C.H., Long Beach.

BAYARD of France honors Knight Bayard, 1476-1524, noted for his bravery. "Bay-Hard," later Bayard, referred to "Brave, red-haired one." The Bayard shield from Picardy is blue, crossed by a gold chevron between three gold seashells.

You Make It

Two items to make for the home are shown here. The hinged sewing case holds everything for major jobs. The little donkey carries essentials for mending. He is an appealing novelty if you make things to sell. Pattern 233, which gives full-size cutting guides and directions, costs 35 cents. It is also one of four patterns in Gifts to Make from Wood Packet No. 68 — all for $1. Send orders to: Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, Bedford Hills, N.Y.

SPECIAL

EYE GUESS — Premiere. Bob Stewart, creator of "Price Is Right," "Password" and "To Tell the Truth," comes up with a new game show. Hosted by Bill Cullen daily at 9 a.m., in color, ch. 4 (replacing Fractured Phrases), this one's a board game show in which two contestants compete in a test of their powers of observation in a 5-second peek at 8 spaces.

11-13 CHANGES—With a harried Hobo Kelly relinquishing her daily afternoon show (she's still on at 7:30 a.m.), ch. 11 fills in the 3:30 p.m. void with "Superman," "Cisco Kid," moving both Billy Barty and Winchell-Mahoney a half hour earlier. Ch. 13 brings back "Bozo the Clown" at 4:30 p.m., to lead off a 90-min. block of color cartoons (following another 90 min. of the same), illogically moving Lloyd Thaxton's rock music show smack opposite Sam Riddle's counterpart on at 6 p.m. Latter station also drops "Hollywood Discotheque" at 8:30 p.m., in favor of "Arrest & Trial"

HULLABALOO —The Beatles are back, in a segment taped in England, singing both sides of their new "top pop" record, "We Can Work It Out" and "Day Tripper." Roger Smith doffs his "Mr. Roberts" uniform to host the 7:30 p.m., ch. 4 color show, welcoming Lesley Gore, Jonathan King and the Ramsey Lewis Trio. Smith sings the Oscar-winning "Chim Chim Cheree," and the "top pop" medley features the tunes of '65.

34 Comicos y Canciones

2 (Clr)-Lucy Show, Lucille Ball, Gale Gordon, Willard Waterman. Lucy and Mr. Mooney are captured by Indians who think Lucy's a rain goddess who must produce showers—or else.
4 (Color) Dr. Kildare I, Richard Chamberlain, Jack Hawkins, Diane Baker, Bradford Dillman (1st of 6 parts). When the heart of outspoken atheist stops, and is restarted, a famed evangelist publicly suggests the attack is "divine punishment."
7 Legend of Jesse James, Chris Jones, Allen Case, Miriam Colon, Nehemiah Persoff. Frank and Jesse ride into a carnival-decorated Mexican town, completely deserted except for a strange girl and a ruthless bandit.
9 (Color) Movie: "The Brave One," Michel Ray, Rodolfo Hoyos ('56). Mexican-filmed story of a boy and the bull he has raised from birth—which must be sacrificed to the bull ring.
13 Arrest & Trial, Ben Gazzara, Chuck Connors, Richard Conte, Diane McBain (return repeat premiere). Two are contracted to eliminate retired gangland leader, but one has a change of heart.

Winter's Witchery

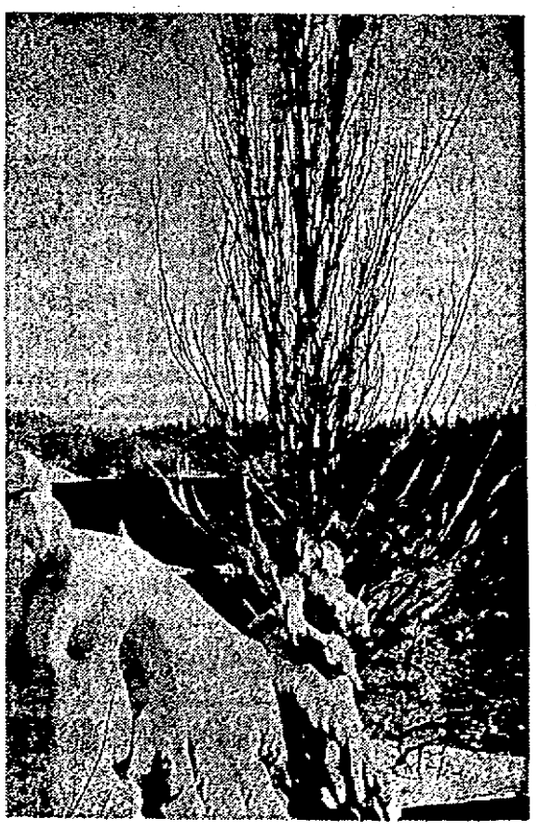

The mountains and higher reaches of the West yield to the witchery of winter as storms leave a snowy panoply at every turn, transforming all into a regal fantasyland. Top left, along California's Yuba River; above, Yosemite and its great Half Dome; left, Washoe Valley in Nevada; lower left, road to Mt. Baldy; below, ghost at Lake Arrowhead.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

THAT HIGH-FASHION MODEL in the ultra-slick women's magazines may not be all toothpick.

There very likely could be, according to Lynn Borden, much more than meets the eye.

What meets the eye when one looks at Lynn is an attractive, green-eyed blonde who had enough curves in the right places to have earned her fifth-place in the 1958 Miss America contest.

They're curves which currently are not hampering her performance as a typical American housewife in CBS-TV's (channel 2's) Monday night "Hazel" series.

They're curves which could have impeded her one-time career as a high-fashion model.

But she had a smart agent.

BEFORE SHE WENT out on her first high-fashion job interview, he advised her to tie a scarf around the front of herself beneath her outer clothing.

"Most of the high-fashion girls you think are so flat-chested really aren't," said Lynn.

Her agent also advised her:

"Look like you're angry with everyone. Look mean." Later, Lynn learned a few things on her own.

A certain dark powder applied under the cheekbones would give a Marlene Dietrich look.

The way you wore your hair was important. Long switches and wiglets helped.

And always walk straight, sit straight and think straight.

LYNN MUCH PREFERRED being a junior "all-American type" model.

"Then you could smile," she said. "I liked that."

There is still more than what meets the eye in Lynn's case, and much of it is upstairs in the gray-matter department.

At the University of Arizona, from where she graduated, she majored in psychology as well as drama.

What she learned in those psychology courses was that psychoanalysis for very sick people is very good.

If you're not very sick, then you should skip the analyst, according to Lynn.

"You can go overboard with analysis," she said. "You start thinking about every move you make. Why do you feel this way now? What's your motivation? That sort of thing.

"Everybody has problems. But if you're like most people, you're better off taking a nice vacation than going to see an analyst."

Old Cards, New Uses

By Ruth C. Ikerman

THAT big box of old Christmas cards can provide much holiday pleasure for the children, in getting ready for the new season. Provide some blunt scissors, a bottle of paste, and some scraps of ribbon along with old pieces of cardboard from the back of writing tablets or cut from packing boxes.

Pick out the largest heaviest cards, preferably with brilliant designs of contrasting colors. Paste each card against a piece of cardboard to make it stronger. Then cut the card into several pieces to make a jigsaw puzzle. Put each card into a separate white envelope and you have a gift for a shut-in, or something easy to send to a sick child at home or hospital.

SAVE SEVERAL of the puzzles to use at a children's party, passing each envelope of parts to another child when it has been used by the first group. Grandparents enjoy these mystery cards particularly when they know they have been made by a small grandson or granddaughter.

Old cards can be cut into new tags, by taking an oval cut around Santa Claus, or making a square cutting near the Christmas tree or the angel. It is fun to see how many trees can be found in the box assortment, and how may stars. Let each child look for one particular item, and there is special interest similar to a contest.

Cut the cards in large circles, and poke a hole at the top of the design, inserting a piece of ribbon to hang the picture card on the Christmas tree. A variation of this activity is to make the circles much smaller so that the picture can be used as a tag on a new package.

CHOOSE the thinner cards on lighter paper to cut out designs to paste against heavy brown wrapping paper to be used in covering large gift items. Sometimes bulky items need dressing up in this fashion, when large sheets of ready prepared paper are not available.

Use six cards at random as a source of cut-outs to tell a Christmas story. It is surprising what young imaginations can devise from a cut out squirrel, a picture of a Christmas ornament or a little house in a snow scene. The picture story can be pasted in a little booklet made of folded typing paper and put in the stocking of a younger member of the family.

★ SPECIAL

RONALD REAGAN — With the snow levels down to 3000 feet in the Sierras, an actor's hat is expected to be tossed into the gubernatorial ring when Ronald Reagan goes on state-wide television in a filmed address to be seen locally at 5:30 p.m., ch. 2. The actor will examine the issues as he sees them, focusing on education, crime and the rising costs of state government. (Reagan also gets a paid plug later at 8 p.m., ch. 9, and a free network airing on next week's "Meet the Press."

THE VOLGA — Marvin Kalb is writer and reporter for a view inside the Russia that Americans know little about — the villages and cities along the banks of her greatest river, the 2,300-mile Volga. The "CBS Reports" trip, two months in the filming, was made with permission of the Soviet government, and includes Volgograd (formerly Stalingrad), the town of Ulyanovsk, the Tatar provincial capital of Kazan and remote villages typical of the farming communities where 52% of the Russian people live. The never - before - filmed scenes of Russia's heartland are screened in color at 10 p.m., ch. 2. (Hour next week, also in color, retraces the legendary journey of Ulysses through the Mediterranean, James Mason hosting, with the following two weeks going to a 2-part "National Health Test.")

Bird watching takes on a new and exciting dimension for the hobbyist with suitable camera equipment and a bit of patience. The kind of luck the photographer has varies like that of the fisherman but the big ones are real joys, as illustrated above and elsewhere on this page. At right, the author ready for quarry.

The Hummer Is a Ham!

By HERB SHANNON

TAKING closeup photos of hummingbirds on the wing is a lot like fishing. You need bait, a certain amount of equipment, a bit of patience and a little luck.

There's the same kind of thrill and satisfaction in the action, too. First comes the telltale whirr of delicate wings, and then the excitement of a strike as the bird darts into view, magnified larger than life if you use a telephoto finder.

Click! You've bagged another trophy.

You also have made another fine-feathered friend. Southland hummingbirds seem to enjoy performing for the camera. Some thrive on attention, hogging the lens and chasing competitors off the set. Real ham actors!

YOU DON'T NEED a lot of expensive gear. The lure is a feeder tube with a few ounces of honeywater hung up in a convenient place. A telephoto lens and a reflex-type camera are helpful, but any camera with a bellows extension or portrait attachment for focusing up close will do the job.

With the camera on a tripod and focused on the tip of the feeder, you're ready for action. You'll be in business as soon as the birds discover you're not only dispensing honey but also taking pictures. You won't be able to fight them off with a badminton racquet.

Fast shutter speed is not too important. Hummingbirds are virtually motionless while feeding, enabling you to capture details such as body feathers and feet at 100th of a second or slower settings. Don't try to freeze the motion of the wings. This action is much too fast for any shutter speed.

IT'S POSSIBLE TO CATCH the wing-stroke in the extended position about once in 200 exposures with a high-speed stroboscopic flash, but it is hardly worth the effort. The result is a stuffed-animal look. The blur of moving wings adds life to the picture.

The strobe accessory or an ordinary flash is useful for filling in shadow detail on extreme closeups. If you're shooting in direct sunlight, you can accomplish the same purpose by using a mirror or foil reflectors under the feeder. None of these extraneous objects will disturb the birds except to excite their curiosity.

The real fascination in this back-yard birdwatching is in shooting color slides for big blowups. Details of plumage, eyes, bills and even the threadlike tongue are revealed amazingly when a creature not much larger than a bumblebee flashes on the screen the size of an eagle.

CATCHING BRILLIANT flashes of color from the bird's ruffs is almost a hobby in itself. These irridescent patches of red, green, blue and other hues vary with the intensity and direction of reflected light. The explanation for this effect was discovered only recently. The microscopic filaments of a hummingbird's throat feathers have no real color of their own, but refract light rays like tiny prisms to produce an occasional neon-like glow.

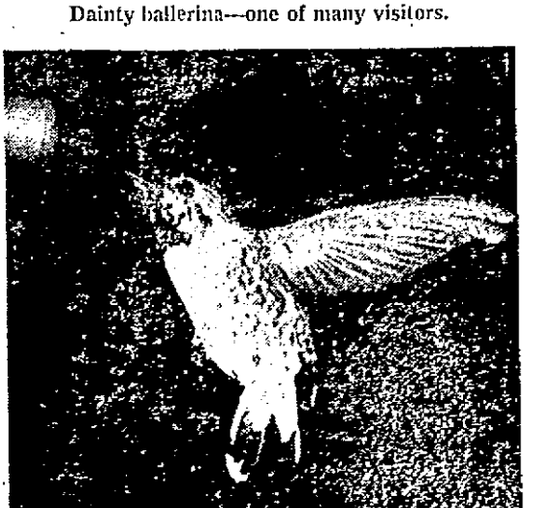

These observations come easily to the hummingbird photographer. Soon you recognize familiar cries and the sound of wing-beats. You can identify visitors by personality—the acrobat, the clown, the ham actor, the proprietor, the furtive burglar.

Fishing fans will find a number of advantages in the sport. There's no season, no limit, no early rising and no risk of seasickness.

And best of all, no mess to clean up after the catch.

Dainty ballerina—one of many visitors.

Freeze shot—once in 200 exposures.

ANTHONY QUINN, playing a washed-up prize fighter, demonstrates a punch to Julie Harris during the 1962 movie, "Requiem for a Heavyweight," at 9 p. m. Thursday, channel 2.

LOVE THAT ENDED IN TRAGEDY

The Day of the Dual Hanging

By RETTA E. EWERS

THE year was 1836. Action took place in and near the old San Gabriel Mission around which the town was settled. It ended in the Plaza jail in Los Angeles.

A young woman, Dona Maria del Rosario Ville de Feliz, committed an unforgivable act, not against the public, but in violation of the sanctity of her marriage vows, and was unrepentant.

Father Jose Bernardo was Mission priest. When the battle of Cahuenga Pass occurred in 1831, San Gabriel became the receiving hospital.

Dona Maria was then unmarried, a girl still in her teens. She helped nurse the wounded. Her smile and cheerful disposition helped more than medicine to restore men to health.

SENORITA MARIA was betrothed to Don Domingo Feliz, owner of an 8,000 acre ranch just outside town. The wedding date was set, since her father and Don Domingo had made all the plans.

After the wedding festivities were ended, Don Domingo took his bride to his rancho and showered her with all the luxuries provided in that day, plus fine jewels from afar.

For all his money and gifts, he could not buy the one thing he most wanted—the heart of his young bride. She admired her beautiful home, exclaimed over the wide acres of grapes, olives, corn and wheat; laughed at the antics of the young lambs and growing cattle, but within her was a longing for the gay life she had left behind.

She insisted on attending all the festive occasions the town offered, and thus became acquainted with the dashing and handsome young Spaniard, Don Gervasio Alipas, lately from San Diego.

DON GERVASIO was a splendid horseman, rode better than an Indian, and could handle a lariat, or riata. No one could surpass him in the dance. His guitar playing and singing was sought for every occasion. Many a senorita's heart beat faster when Don Gervasio's glance fell upon her.

But after he met and danced with Dona Maria Feliz, Gervasio knew that he had found the one woman in all the world for him.

As for Dona Maria, she sought every occasion to meet him. Their love and affection grew exceedingly full and glorious in their hearts and minds. Nothing else mattered.

No one had ever been in the difficult situation in which they were involved! No husband was ever more despised and hated than the "good Don Domingo."

Horsewoman herself, Dona Maria would leave home early in the morning and remain away all day. She refused to explain where she had been and what she had been doing.

Riding along the foothills and small canyons that lie adjacent to the town, she and Gervasio lived in a mad world of wild devotion. Gervasio offered Dona Maria not only his heart, but the wild excitement that she craved.

THE AFFAIR soon became known to all, even to people living on the Plaza in Los Angeles. All knew of Dona Maria's affection for the young Gervasio. The Sepulvedas, Olveras, Carillos, Lugos, Avias, and the Pico families from Mexico and Spain, who first settled Los Angeles.

Easy going, good natured, and forgiving, Don Domingo, upon learning of his wife's derelictions, told her that he would forgive her if she would renounce her romance with Gervasio and return to his hearth and home.

Confronted with the truth, and knowing that whatever she did now would be watched, she promised to stay at home and be a good wife.

In a short time, Dona Maria bribed an Indian servant with a piece of jewelry, escaped her prison and her doting husband, and fled on horseback to San Gabriel and her lover, Gervasio, who waited, hoping that in time she would come to him.

The Padre urged her to return to her husband and repent. This she resented. She had made her choice and meant to stick to it.

A MESSENGER was sent to Don Domingo urging him to come and collect his errant wife and take her home.

Neal Adair Studio of Photography

In costume of the 1830s, Cerito Lopez poses as a dancer in the days of Dona Maria Feliz.

When Don Domingo arrived, the administrator received him in the Mission. He assured them that he meant her no harm.

"I shall take her home and place her under restraint. She will run away no more."

"We have her in custody and waited your coming. She is an unrepentant sinner, my son."

Upon entering the room where the Don awaited, Dona Maria sought to escape, but was held by two guards, then placed in the arms of her husband, who soon subdued her frantic efforts.

"I hate you!" she screamed, beating at him with her fists. He only laughed.

SHE WAS TAKEN outside, placed upon her husband's horse, her hands tied to the saddle horn. He got up behind her. The crowd watched as they rode out of town, some laughing, solemn or crying.

All but Gervasio! He mounted his animal and rode off, unnoticed. He knew the arroyo they would cross before reaching the hacienda. He hid his horse, keeping the riata in his hands as he awaited their arrival.

When Don Domingo and Maria rode down into the canyon, Don Gervasio's riata snaked outward and caught Don Domingo about the throat. In an instant he was on the ground. Gervasio's stiletto flashed in the bright sunlight, into Domingo's heart.

Maria had halted the horse. "Cut me loose," she said. "We must bury him, or he will soon be found."

CONNIE FRANCIS JOINS Andy Williams in a musical visit to Mexico during "The Andy Williams Show" at 9 p. m. Monday, channel 4, in COLOR.

'Hamlet at Elsinore'

To film the "To Be or Not to Be" soliloquy in "Hamlet at Elsinore," Christopher Plummer worked continuously for 12 hours as the action was recorded in 24 separate scenes.

The 3½-hour television production, filmed at Kronborg Castle in Denmark, will be repeated at 7 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 11. Plummer has the title role.

In previous Shakespearian appearances, Plummer has starred in "Julius Caesar," "The Tempest," "Henry V," "Twelfth Night," "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Richard III."

He currently has a featured role in the movie "Sound of Music."

Try Eggplants for Baby Chicks

Youngsters on "Art Linkletter's House Party" on the CBS Television Network have recently come up with these gems of misinformation:

"Eggplants are where baby chicks think they come from."

"A prune is a plum that didn't take care of itself."

"Plants live on the carbon dioxide we breath out. If you want to kill weeds, don't breathe in their direction."

'Have Songs'

Jack Jones will star in an hour-long COLOR special, "Have Songs, Will Travel," for ABC-TV in April. His guests will include Tony Bennett, Milton Berle, Molly Bee, Joanie Sommers and Shani Wallace.

$114 Million California Project

Scientists Build a Giant House for the Tiny Atom

By Lou Jobst

A GIANT house is being built to investigate the tiny universe of the atom.

Two miles long, this fantastic structure slashes across the verdant, tree-dotted hill country near Menlo Park in northern California, an awesome reminder of the direction of science in the 20th Century.

Nearing completion, the $114 million facility is in reality a machine called a linear accelerator.

Accelerators, sometimes called "atom smashers," are devices which accelerate particles—usually protons or electrons—to extremely high speeds and energies. The particles are shot at various kinds of atomic nuclear targets where the "hits" are observed by scientists who are studying the physical world and its tiniest components.

ACCELERATORS that whip their particles in circles are called cyclotrons; those that go in a straight line are linear accelerators.

Operated by Stanford University and manned by a staff of 800 to 900 persons, the California machine will be the biggest in the world, dwarfing Stanford's Mark III, at 310 feet the longest in the U.S., and a 1,500-foot machine being built in Russia.

The Stanford Linear Accelerator Center (SLAC) will accelerate electrons to nearly the speed of light (186,324 miles per second). The electrons will have an energy, at the target point, of 15 billion electron volts and will have increased their mass 40,000 times.

The Stanford machine will have more than double the energy of any existing electron accelerator.

How is this done?

ELECTRONS ARE gathered at a conventional source, such as a hot wire or cathode arrangement, not unlike the one found in the neck of a TV tube. They are then injected into a four-inch diameter copper pipe which is about two miles, or 10,000 feet, long.

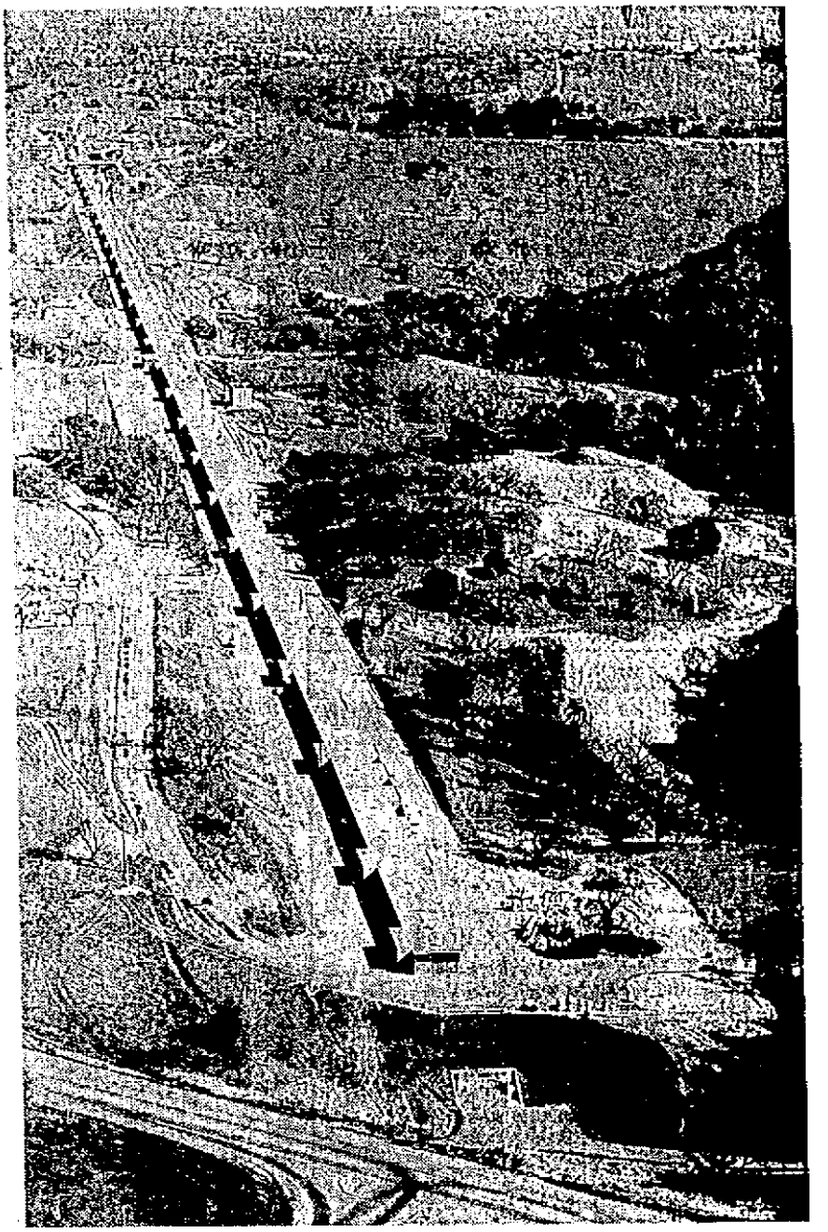

In the pipe, the electrons ride a powerful radio wave, which is reinforced (given an additional thrust) at 10-foot intervals by klystron tubes. At each tube intersection six million watts of radio energy is fired into the system.

The copper tubing is buried in a concrete accelerator housing 25 feet beneath the surface, the klystron gallery is in the visible surface structure.

SLAC, which has 17 other buildings including an auditorium, administration center, laboratories and cafeteria, will be used for both educational and research projects.

AUTHORIZED BY Congress in September 1961, the accelerator building was scheduled for completion in December, 1965. The beam is to be turned on in April and the accelerators will be ready for full-scale research in April 1967.

SLAC, built under contract with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, will operate around-the-clock, 7 days a week at a cost of about $20 million a year.

Stretching toward the horizon is the housing of Stanford University's 2-mile long linear accelerator, biggest "atom smasher" in the world. Left, an interior view of the underground accelerator tube. Concrete walls are 2-feet thick.

It will require as much electric power as the city of Palo Alto, a community of 52,280 persons.

The site, only minutes from the Stanford campus, is a strip of land roughly three miles long and 1,000 feet wide. The accelerator covers 480 acres.

BASIC RESEARCH work will be by a group of some 30 scientists, of whom about one-half will be visitors from other laboratories, and 50 junior scientists or graduate students and postdoctoral physicists.

Five principal areas of research will be considered. These are studies of basic electron-proton interactions, study of particle structure, experiments with secondary beams of mesons, photons, antiprotons, etc., tests of basic electromagnetic theory and search for new particles.

In earthquake-conscious California, the builders have taken special precautions against seismic disturbances.

The underground structure will be one of the strongest earthquake proof structures ever built. It sits on compact land and is constructed of 100,000 cubic yards of concrete and 10,000 tons of reinforcing steel bar. The walls are two feet thick.

SHOULD EARTH movement throw the accelerator out of line, it can be realigned through corrections made to the accelerator pipe. Each 40-foot section of the pipe is connected by a flexible bellows like arrangement.

As to the future import of high energy physics and the accelerator, Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the AEC, says:

"High energy physics is one of the leading intellectual developments of our age. It is not only very exciting but experimenting in this field will probably lead to some of the most theoretic and perhaps most practical developments of our age."

Andy Griffith 'Hippest Country Boy in the World'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Andy Griffith, who has been called "country hip" and referred to further as "the hippest country boy in the world," often meditates these nights as he sits around among his money just how much longer he can continue his cornshucking profitably on TV . . . and what he'll do after that.

"How long we hang around the top has got to figure in it because if we don't hang around the top, they'll drop us," Andy drawled here the other afternoon.

"Hasn't your Southern accent gotten more Southern the longer you've been on TV?" we asked Andy.

"No sir, I had always had a Southern accent but I just put on a little more. That's what Gomer Pyle does, too," said Andy, "which makes Gomer Pyle a special sort of person.

ANDY GRIFFITH

"In playing this part over the last five years, something the reverse has happened. Along about the second year a woman wrote in saying she liked the show. 'But does he have to use so much incorrect grammar?'

"I said out loud 'Yes I do!' But I started to thinking about it and then we started correcting the grammar, and along with the grammar we started correcting the speech, too.

* * *

"I WILL always be Southern and will always have that small rural attitude. I don't want to lose it. But within the realm of that we have tried to use a little sophistication."

Q: Do you ever have a feeling that you ought to quit while you're ahead?

A: I would not want to stay on so long that I would not enjoy it. If it started to be an uphill struggle, the show would not be enjoyable to the audience either. I think we would be able to stay on for 8 years or 9 years, maybe. But I don't think that's what we should do for ourselves or the people who watch.

Q: If you give up this series, would you do another one immediately?

A: I would not go directly back into television. I'd work clubs and fairs and a motion picture or two and I'd try to act a little . . . not on Broadway . . . I'm just not ready to move my family back to New York . . . Sam's in the second grade and Dixie's in the first. I don't want to move 'em.

Q: You have your own production company?

A: I, like everybody else, have an idea for another show that could come off of our show.

"Guys are so busy trying to stay ahead of just the regular show," he elaborated, "that it's tough to get anything done. Aaron Reuben and I sat in his office for weeks saying 'We ought to do something with Jim Nabors.'

"ONE DAY Aaron said 'I see some very slick machine and you put this man in that machine and he goofs it up.' He was talking to his wife that night, and she said, 'Why don't you put him in the Marines?' and within six weeks we did the pilot."

And so some part of the Andy Griffith show or somebody on it or who's been a guest on it — Andy won't tell — is probably going to be Andy's next project after the present series ends.

But that may be two, three or four years distant.

Here's what makes Good DENTAL PLATES

You'll Never, NEVER pay any Interest or Carrying Charge when you use my Liberal CREDIT PLAN

DR. H. LEO ROWAN
Dentist

The professional training and skill of your dentist — together with the development of more adaptable denture materials — have resulted in important improvements in Modern Dental Plates. Today, this progress of Dental Science makes it possible for your dentist to fit you with dentures that overcome many of the disadvantages of old-fashioned false teeth. Consult your dentist now about any plate problems you may have.

NO CASH DOWN

There's an important difference in credit plans — a difference of dollars. My credit plan is yours absolutely without cost . . . there's not one penny charged for interest, finance charge, carrying charge, or any other credit charge. You don't need any credit card . . . you don't deal with any bank or finance company. On approval of credit, you can get your plates promptly . . . spread the small monthly payments over any reasonable length of time.

UNION DENTAL PROGRAMS

We will be glad to fill out your forms and provide dentures or other dental work under your Union or California Dental Service Plan.

Come in and learn in advance at the Dr. Rowan Dental Office how easily you can afford modern dentures. All dental plates are made in Dr. Rowan's own dental laboratory in his office . . . an efficient service to save you both time and money, and to assure close professional supervision.

HOMES

The Wise Decision of a Coin

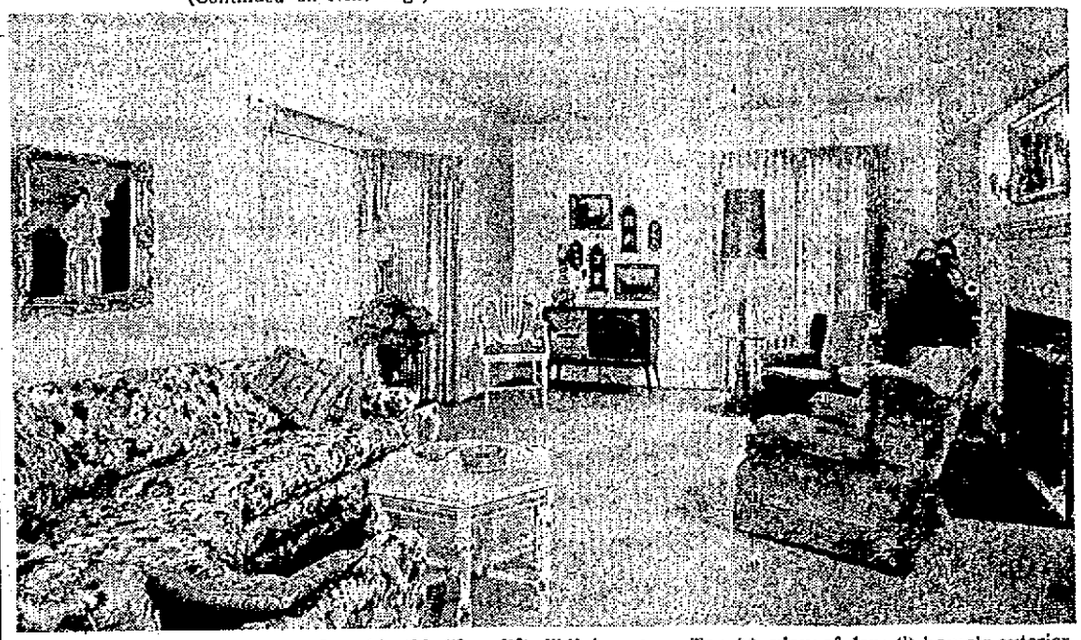

By Stella George

MRS. MILDRED HUNTER has always enjoyed her home at 3949 Rose Ave. However, in recent months she decided that the home needed a beauty treatment, perhaps a face lift in the hands of an expert. On the other hand, Mrs. Hunter had long thought about taking a trip to Europe. A decision had to be made: should she hop on a plane for far away places or should she hire the services of a skilled interior designer and, in effect, give herself a new home? There was a toss of a coin, and interior designer, Doris Austin, won. Mrs. Hunter is so delighted with her "new" home that she thinks it's the wisest decision a coin ever made.

Blue and violet are dominant colors in the living room. The YOUNG PEOPLE'S Concert—For his third of this season's four concerts, Leonard Bernstein offers a 60th birthday greeting to the Russian composer Dmitri Shostakovich, leading the New York Philharmonic in his entire Ninth Symphnoy in salute at 7:30 p.m., ch. 2. Describing the symphony's five movements as "all humorous, every minute," pointing out that it's like a comedy in the theatre, "where you're treated to one joke after another — puns, wisecracks, sight gags, punch lines, surprises and twisteroos." (Final concert, Feb. 22, is the 7th annual show featuring young performers.)

WONDERFUL WORLD of Women — Becoming almost as omnipresent as Bill Welsh, Bill Burrud today launches another series, talking each week with women of five different countries, and decidedly different views and opinions. Opener, at 8:30 p.m., in color, ch. 13, asks questions about love, careers, children, sex and divorce of women from India, Israel, Russia, Japan and Scandinavia.

Simplicity is the dining room keynote. Furniture is done in antique white.

curved sofa is done in a quilted polished cotton with a floral pattern of blues and violets. Two club chairs are upholstered in iridescent blue and violet, and flank a fireplace. Traditional pieces such as the Governor Winthrop secretary, a hand-carved chair, and a child's rocker are lacquered antique white. Accessories are classical, an oil copy of Gruegi's "Girl with Broken Pitcher", and a gold and silver lavabo with plants of violet and green, are examples.

CARPETING is neutral sand, and is used throughout except in the master bedroom. Draperies in the living and dining rooms are antique satin in a shade of mint blue and violet. Those in the den and bedroom are of the same fabric in a linen shade. Walls in the living room, dining room, entry and hall are in mint blue; other walls are in linen white.

The bay window is given important treatment with a blue and violet flower arrangement in a large urn. Above this are two hanging lamps, one violet, one blue; good colors to live with. They have a cool and comfortable effect the year around, as well as being constantly pleasing to the eye.

A television console with the wall decor above is the focal point of the room. The wall decor includes two lithographs, heads of medieval women mounted on blue velvet, and plaques of Roman coins.

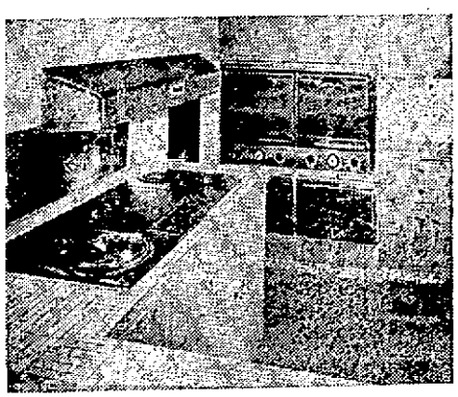

Mantle treatment consists of an antique mirror and wall scones.

THE DINING ROOM is also done in shades of blue and violet. Traditional furniture is laquered in antique white, with the exception of the tea cart which is done in Ming blue and gold. Chair seats are upholstered in a teal blue fabric. The custom designed chandelier is brass with teal blue prisms. Family silver and cut glass are used as accessories.

Avocado and royal blue set the color scheme for the den. Miscellaneous types of furniture pieces are wedded by the astute use of color. The spread on the bed-sofa is a Spanish motif of avocado and blue; the corner sofa is done in royal blue; desk and tables are lacquered in avocado. Interesting accessories include such items as Spanish keys mounted on avocado burlap in a gold leaf frame; a wall painting of wild oak leaves; a pen and ink copy of a Roman building, and a crest of arms. Hanging over a corner table is a wrought iron Spanish type lamp with blue and green cathedral glass inserts. The room serves as a TV room or guest bedroom. It is also the favorite leisure room for Duchess, a dignified beagle that reluctantly agrees not to sleep on the new chairs in the living room.

BLUE and green are color accents in the smart kitchen. Three walls are neutral tile to the ceiling. A handy dinette adjoins the kichen. Neutral shutters are placed on the lower half of the window with blue and green valances above.

The bedroom decor centers around a handsome rug. Color accents are unusual and delightful: two shades of hot orange and true charcoal. Walls, draperies and furniture are antique white, lending a neutral background. The orange and charcoal are used dramatically in lamps, pillows, mountings, chair and vanity bench upholstery, and floral arrangements.

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Programs

Program: "Astronauts' Press Conference," aired 8 a.m. Thursday on channel 7.

It is no wonder America's space program is so successful.

When one marvels at the poise of such astronauts as Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. on television —a foreign medium to them—it is not surprising to understand how completely undisturbed they would be during a mere 14 days of space travel.

The major trouble during the record-breaking space flight was a balky fuel cell. The principal difficulty during the televised press conference was a button controlling the switching of slides.

The astronauts handled both situations with aplomb.

Program: "Trials of O'Brien," aired Fridays on channel 2.

Isn't it about time television got around to a good rousing situation comedy series about a divorced couple?

I mean, if you're looking for a vast, untapped audience that wants contemporary realism, there it is.

CBS-TV's new "Trials of O'Brien" series has come pretty close to the target.

The best thing about the weekly show is the relationship of the flamboyant lawyer anti-hero (Peter Falk) and his ex-wife (Joanna Barnes).

The trouble is that "Trials of O'Brien" is so full of hokey, pretentious New Yorkese, scenery-chewing actors and plots that get in the way that the charming divorce relationship is diluted in its effect.

"Trials of O'Brien" probably isn't long for television anyway, what with its very low ratings, but it seems to me that some genius at CBS-TV might pull off a coup by junking the doomed format as it now stands, and keeping Falk and Miss Barnes in their same roles in a brand new situation comedy about divorce.

I'm sure I'm right about all this. People are getting tired of secret-agent spoofs and happy families. They want modern reality. Divorce.

To keep the teen-age televiewing audience happy too, there could be a teen-aged divorced couple outsmarting their divorced elders.

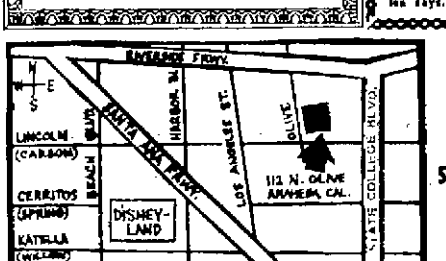

There are a million ways this whole new trend could be handled. You couldn't use the old Jackie Gleason-Audrey Meadows "Honeymooners" love-hate relationship of man and wife because it was much too unfriendly for divorce, although just right for marriage.

A much better idea, for instance, would simply be to take the Dick Van Dyke series and make a few adjustments. As you know, or maybe you don't if you only read the important news in the papers, the Van Dyke series is ending this season.

What I would do is simply take the fictional married couple of Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore, have them get a divorce and bring them back in a new (or continuing) series. There's no reason they couldn't be happy and civilized about the whole thing. It would be a smash.

COIN ROUNDUP

Coinage Profit

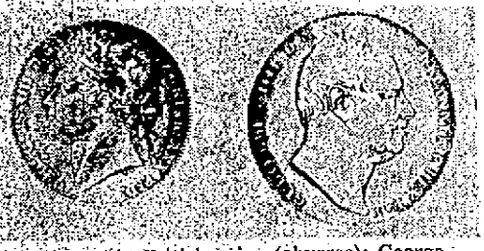

By Maurice M. Gould

THE United States Government is expected to make hundreds of thousands of dollars profit annually from the minting of our new clad or "sandwich" coinage. The first of these—quarters with a copper center surrounded by two cupro-nickel jackets—are already beginning to turn up in pocket change or when checks are cashed at the bank.

Many governments in the past—as well as some right now — have received large amounts into their treasuries by this seigniorage. Seigniorage is the profit which results from the difference between the cost of the bullion and manufacturing a coin and its actual face or monetary value.

THE NEW COINS should be extremely difficult to counterfeit. All coins which are suspected of being counterfeit should be sent to the Treasury Department in Washington, where they are checked thoroughly.

Counterfeit coins are easily detected: they actually feel different, can usually be cut with a knife, and images are not as sharp as authentic coinage.

Counterfeit bills can usually be distinguished by their poor engraving job and inferior papers and inks. All genuine bills should have seals and serial numbers of the proper color: Silver Certificates, blue; United States notes, red; Federal Reserve notes, green.

All Federal Reserve notes have a small circle at the side of the portrait, with the name of one of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks and its identifying letter in the center. They are: A-Boston; B-New York; C-Philadelphia; D-Cleveland; E-Richmond; F-Atlanta; G-Chicago; H-St. Louis; I-Minneapolis; J-Kansas City; K-Dallas; L-San Francisco.

THE CURRENT American interest in collecting the coins of Great Britain was matched only by the British craze for old American coins during the 1880s.

A. M. Mason, of Philadelphia, one of this country's best-known numismatists during the late 19th century, would visit England every summer.

On returning from one of his yearly trips, the famous dealer and numismatic writer observed: "There is a perfect craze in England for old American coins, but the English are great collectors anyhow. Why, in Wardner Street in London, there are nearly 100 old coin stores next to one another. I collect sample sets of American coins from the time of the Revolution and I always find plenty of customers in England, principally in Liverpool, London, Sheffield and Manchester."

Mason also mentioned that he could easily obtain 100% more for the same coin in England than he could here in the United States. A 1794 Silver Dollar purchased by the British Museum brought him $1,000, a tremendous sum of money for such a purchase during this period.

MASON MENTIONED that three of the then five known 1804 Silver Dollars were in England during this time. All of these are now back in this country in the hands of museums or collectors. There are two types of 1804 Silver Dollars: type 1, called originals, of which eight specimens are now known to exist; and type 2, the restrikes, of which seven are now known to exist.

Mint records show that 19,750 silver dollars were coined in 1804, but they were not necessarily dated 1804. These were probably dated 1803, since the usual practice was to use the dies for as long as possible.

SPECIAL

LONG, HOT SUMMER — Plagued by poor ratings, no color, production hassles and the walk-out of its star, Edmond O'Brien, series begins anew at 10 p.m., ch. 7. This week, a new star, as the Ireland-born, Abbey Theater veteran Dan O'Herlihy (late of "Jaimie McPheeters") bows in the Will Varney role. Next week, a distinguished guest, as Geraldine Page makes her filmed TV debut as one of those disturbed Southern belles for which she is famous. And the next week, a new time, as series moves into the vacated "Amos Burke" hour to make room here for the British-filmed "The Baron." Tonight's segment, introducing O'Herlihy, guestars Celeste Holm as a widow whose husband was slain, with Varner suspecting Ben Quick's father of being responsible for the man's death.

WOMEN OFTEN SUFFER
BLADDER & KIDNEY IRRITATION
Resulting in Secondary Backache, Nerve Tension & Loss of Sleep

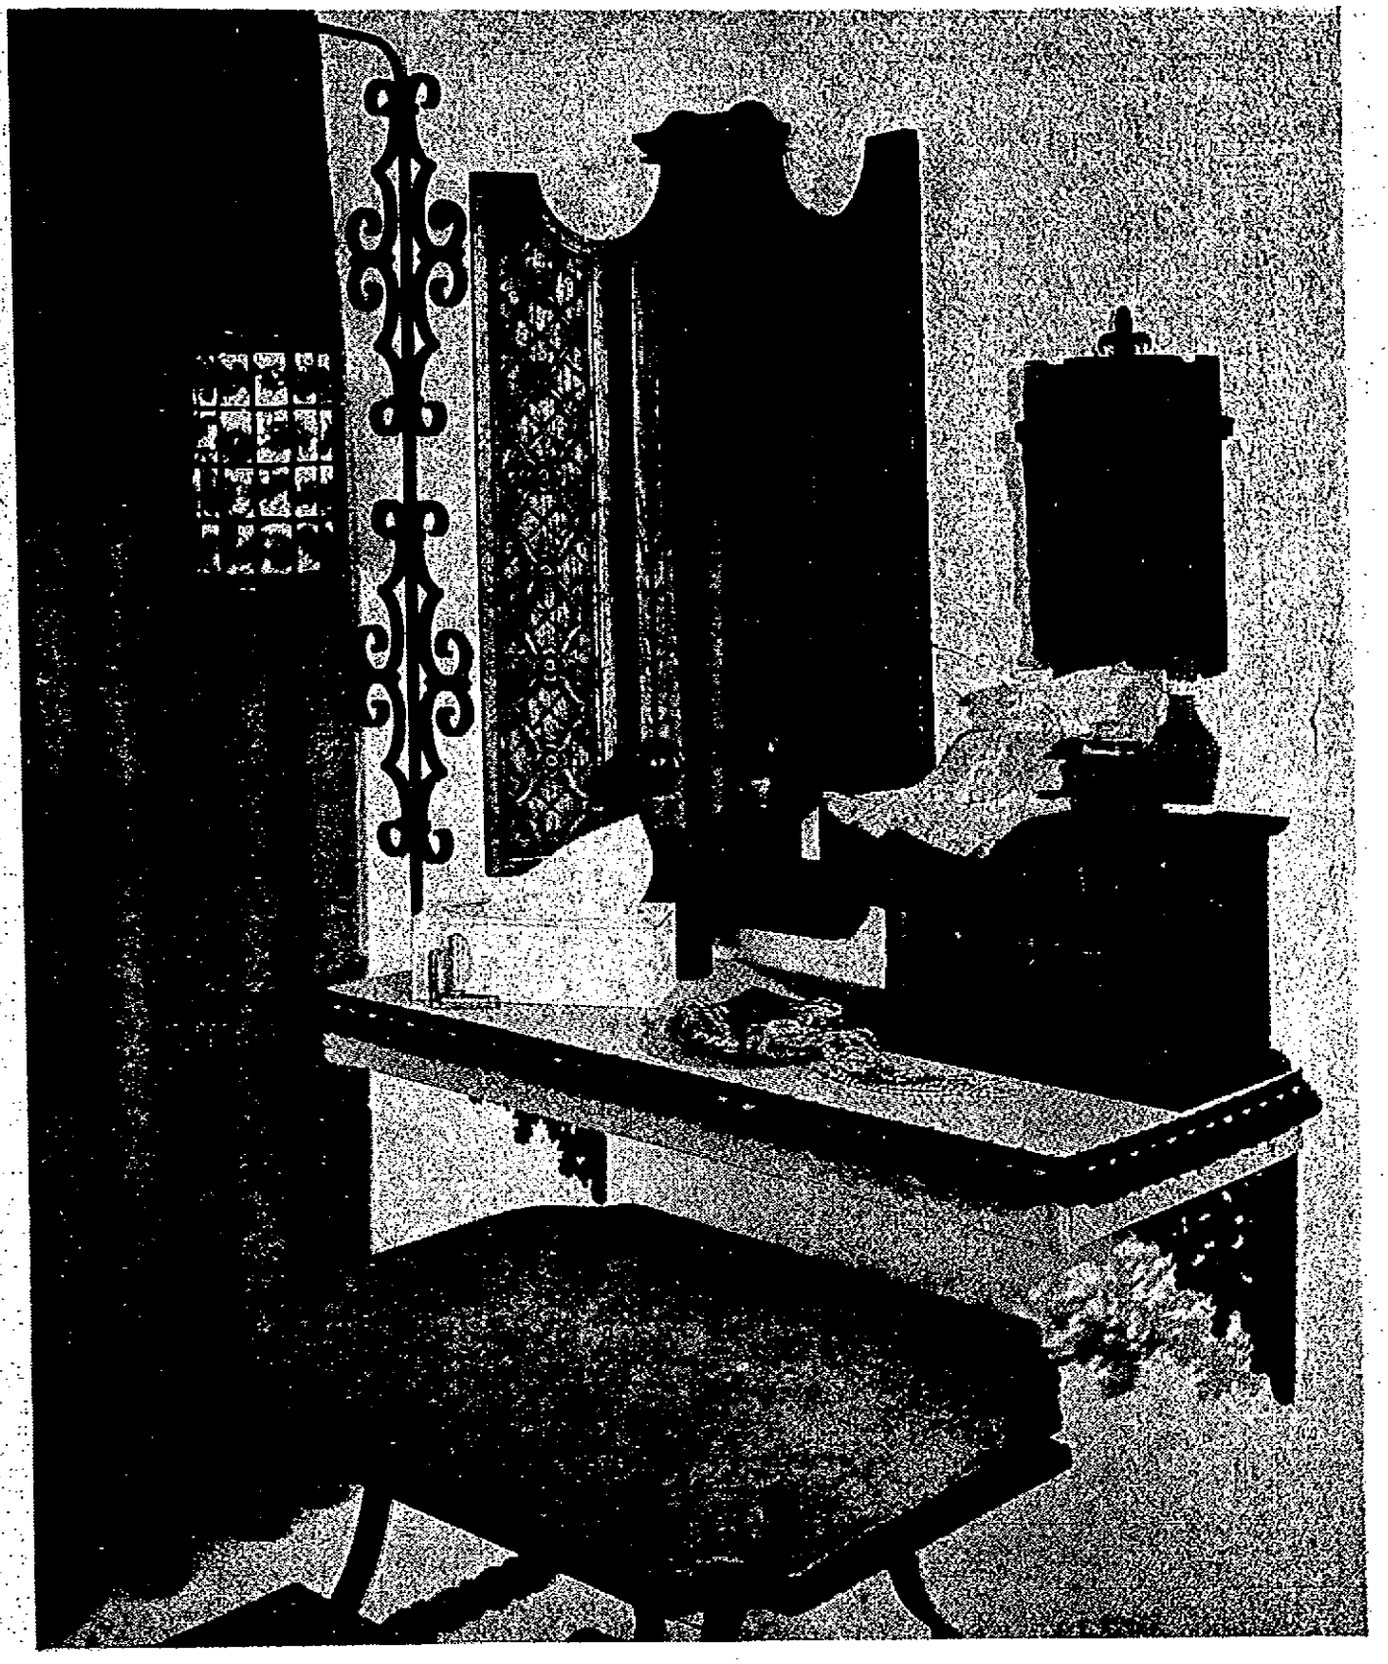

After 21, twice as many women as men suffer from feeling old, tired, worn out and depressed by losing sleep and worrying about getting up nights, due to common irritation of the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages. This condition, often due to a germ called the colon bacillus, and non-specific germs resulting from colds, bad teeth and minor infections, may cause frequent, urgent and painful urination. These irritations may also cause strong, cloudy urine and sometimes result in secondary backache, headache and nervous tension. Then you should heed the warning from your nerves and try CYSTEX for quick help

HOW CYSTEX HELPS

New Improved CYSTEX releases a gentle, soothing bacteriostat in acid urine to combat germs which may be causing irritation. This is like a gentle, mildly antiseptic, soothing bath for the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages. CYSTEX also contains two of the very best known analgesics for soothing, gentle relaxing relief of discomforting pains due to common Kidney and Bladder Irritations.

WORLD WIDE SUCCESS

Formulated by American scientists, CYSTEX has been helping people (in 72 countries) for 40 years to combat the foregoing irritations and thus feel cleansed and refreshed—and because of less nerve tension able to sleep better and feel more vigorous and cheerful. Get CYSTEX from druggist today. See how fast it can help you

With a flair for the dramatic, this striking dressing room is in the colors of Moorish Spain. Beauty abounds in lacy wrought iron brackets and carved wood frame of mirror. A touch of gold that costs only pesos is gold print Lady Scott issues.

In the Manner of the Moors

THE 1960s may well go down in decorating history as the decade of the bath. Just as kitchens bloomed in the 50s, the bath is currently the focal point of decorators of both the professional and do-it-yourself variety .

Elegance is in. But elegance needn't conjure up visions of thousands of dollars spent on new fixtures and tile. It is possible for anyone with a flair for the dramatic to put color and style to work to create a sense of elegance on a small budget.

The popular decorating scheme pictured here represents the Spanish Look, which can be easily achieved without resorting to expensive structural changes.

Modern materials for covering floor and walls are available in everyone's price range and are simple to install. Towels come in myriad colors, designs and textures to complement or contrast with

Tangerines Get the Bird

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

NEVER let it be said that your family has committed to memory those various stages through which the holiday bird goes in its period of departure.

Here's an ideal way to dress up leftover turkey: Tangerine-Turkey Salad. To juicy tangerine sections and pieces of tender cold turkey, add crisp celery, fresh grapes and green pepper. Enhance the mayonnaise dressing with bits of grated tangerine peel.

Tangerine-Turkey Salad

3 cups cooked diced turkey
3 California tangerines, peeled, sectioned, seeded
1½ cup celery, sliced on bias
¼ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup sliced ripe olives
½ cup seedless grapes or sliced seeded grapes
1 teaspoon grated tangerine peel
Dash salt
¾ cup mayonnaise
Salad greens

In large salad bowl combine diced turkey, sections from 2 tangerines cut into pieces, celery, green pepper, olives and grapes. Blend tangerine peel, salt and mayonnaise; stir through salad ingredients. Chill for one hour or longer. Serve on crisp salad greens. Garnish with remaining tangerine sections. 6 servings.

Tangerine Waldorf Salad

3 California tangerines, peeled, sectioned, seeded
1 apple, unpeeled, cored, diced
1 stalk celery, diced (½ cup)
¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts
¼ cup quartered, ripe olives
¼ to ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg or curry
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup mayonnaise
Salad greens

Reserve sections from 1 tangerine; cut remaining into pieces. In small bowl combine cut tangerine pieces, apple, celery, nuts and ripe olives. Combine nutmeg or curry, salt and mayonnaise, blending well. Add to salad ingredients; toss lightly. Serve on salad greens. Garnish with reserved tangerine sections. 4 to 6 servings.

Tangerine Macaroni Salad

4 California tangerines, peeled, sectioned
2 cups cooked, drained, macaroni
1 cup sliced celery
½ cup sliced radishes
2 to 3 tablespoons sliced green onions,
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ cup mayonnaise
Salad greens

Reserve sections from 1 tangerine for garnish; cut remaining sections in half. Combine macaroni, celery, radishes, green onion, parsley and cut tangerine sections in salad bowl. Combine salt, paprika and mayonnaise; stir through salad ingredients, tossing lightly. Serve on salad greens. Garnish with reserved tangerine sections. 6 servings.

Delectable California tangerines combine with leftover turkey to make an interesting dish.

Recipe of the Week

TASTY DISH with a Mediterranean flavor wins this week's $5 best recipe prize. The recipe, submitted by Mrs. M. Wolf, 1758 Pine Ave., Apt. 4, Long Beach 90813, follows:

Cannelloni alla Palumbo

1½ cups sifted flour
½ tsp. salt
2 eggs, beaten
¼ lb. butter
1 small onion, minced
3 (8 oz. cans tomato sauce)
Chunk of butter
2 tblsp. flour
½ cup instant coffee cream
1 cup boiling water
Salt and pepper
1½ cups minced cooked chicken
1½ cups dry cottage cheese
2 cups cubed parmesan cheese

Combine flour, salt and eggs, mixing well. Knead on a lightly floured board until smooth. Roll out very thin and cut into twelve 5-inch squares. Cook in boiling salted water for 10 minutes. Drain, rinse and set aside.

In a heavy-bottomed saucepan, melt chunk butter over low heat until frothy. Blend in flour with a wire whip, then cook and stir one minute without browning. Add instant coffee cream, then boiling water all at once and beat with wire whip to blend. Increase heat to moderately high, then cook and stir until sauce comes to a boil and thickens. Remove from heat and stir in seasonings, chicken and cottage cheese.

Place ¼ cup filling on each pasta square and roll. Pour 1 cup tomato sauce in bottom of 2 quart shallow casserole. Top with remaining tomato sauce and cubed parmesan cheese. Bake in 400 degree oven for 25 to 35 minutes or until bubbly and browned.

Makes 12 Cannelloni.

SPECIAL

HOLLYWOOD BACKSTAGE—Return premiere. Host John Willis chats with stars at work and at play in a weekly color series at 7:30 p.m., ch. 9. Elke Sommer tells of problems in her on-screen bubble bath, Tony Bennett opens in Las Vegas, and Ross Hunter conducts a talent search at Whisk a Go. Go.

SAILBOAT SHOW—Dick Sinclair and Skip Cregar go to the Long Beach Arena at 8 p.m., ch. 5, to look at the first all-sailboat show, and describe the displays. (An all-speedboat show is slated for telecast Jan. 19.)

SAMMY DAVIS JR. SHOW—Sammy opens his new musical variety hour with a whale of a guest list—Elizabeth Taylor, in her TV singing debut, with hubby Richard Burton, plus Nancy Wilson, the dance team of Augie and Margo, and a reunion of the Will Mastin Trio (Sammy, his father and his uncle). Hour, at 8:30 p.m., ch. 4, in color, replaces "Convoy." But after the opener, it will be without its title star until after the Feb. 1 airing of a previously-taped, exclusive contracted ABC special, "Sammy and His Friends." Sammy's NBC friends, Johnny Carson, Sean Connery and Jerry Lewis, will serve as interim hosts.

DEB STAR BALL—Hollywood's 12 most promising young actresses movies and TV are introduced during a 10 p.m., ch. 7 color hour from the Palladium, hosted by Steve Allen and Jayne Meadows. Film clips show such past Deb Stars as Kim Novak, Tuesday Weld, Anita Ekberg and Patty McCormack, while presenters include Troy Donahue, Jerry Van Dyke, Ryan O'Neal, Jackie Cooper, Buddy Ebsen, Ben Gazzara, Ray Walston, Roger Smith.

Liz Taylor Makes TV Singing Debut

SAMMY DAVIS JR., LIZ TAYLOR AND RICHARD BURTON

ELIZABETH TAYLOR is going to make her singing debut on television for a $320 fee.

Her husband, Richard Burton, will present a solo number from "Camelot" and then join his lovely wife in warbling "What Are the Common Folk doing?"

The pair, who could probably gross a half-million dollars for their act, are each doing it for the $320 scale figure and friendship.

They'll appear with Sammy Davis to help him start his new variety series at 8:30 p.m. Friday on channel 4 in COLOR.

As for Liz' singing, hubby Richard comments: "She has a great voice for cooling soup."

WITH LIZ TAYLOR and Richard Burton on the opener, what can Sammy possibly do for an encore the following week?

"I've got Sean Connery," said Sammy. "Also Frank Sinatra."

Filmdom's James Bond and the Thin Singer also will gross the $320 scale sum each.

Sammy has been trying for years to get his own television show.

"Finally," he said, "someone at NBC-TV was big enough to realize that people will watch me as long as I entertain them—no matter what my color.

"I'll give the show all Sammy Davis has."

Leg Expert

What does long-stemmed Juliet Prowse think of the new shorter skirts? Not much. "A lot of men have nice legs," says the star of NBC-TV's "Mona McCluskey" series, "but few women do."

$300,000 Fellowship

Establishment of the Edward R. Murrow Fellowship for American Foreign Correspondents has been announced by the Council on Foreign Relations.

The fellowship was made possible by a $300,000 grant from the CBS Foundation, affiliated with CBS radio and television networks.

Murrow, during World War II, was a CBS radio reporter in war-torn London. Murrow, who died on April 27 last year, also served as director for the U. S. Information Agency.

The fellowship will be granted annually to an American foreign correspondent. The purpose is to enable the annual winner to study events abroad without concern about daily deadlines.

Science for You

By Bob Brown

PROBLEM: The rising bubble.

NEEDED: Soap solution and a glass funnel.

DO THIS: Dip the funnel into the soap solution and withdraw it, so that a film of soapy water is lifted with it. The film will be at the large end of the funnel, but will crawl slowly up to the little end of the funnel if held as shown. (The funnel must be clean and wet with soapy water for this to work successfully.)

HERE'S WHY: The film has two surfaces, both of which act like stretched rubber sheets (surface tension is the term for this). They tend to shrink to the smallest surface area, and their force due to surface tension is great enough to lift the film upward against the pull of gravity. Dirt tends to reduce the adhesive forces due to surface tension.

The Science for You experiments are in two books: "Science Circus" and "Science Circus No. 2." They are in bookstores and libraries.

The Miracle of the Days

By Virginia M. Crill

Calendars in many forms help moderns keep tab on the days, but 'twas not always thus, Somebody always wants to make changes, too.

"VERY WELL," a man says quickly into the telephone while glancing at the calendar, "I'll see you at 10 a.m. on the 16th." A precise appointment which will be kept at an exact time is one of the miracles of today. A miracle not only of clocks but of calendars as well. This was not always the way.

In ancient Egypt you would have planned with your companion to "meet at midmorning on the day the shadow of the pyramid first covers a half-day's travel on the trail to Cairo." And then hope that you both agree on what a half-day's travel amounts to.

If you had wanted to celebrate New Year's Day together there you would have met on the day the Nile overflowed its banks. This occurrence marked not only the beginning of each new year for the Egyptians but also the origin of one of the first known calendars. For it was as long ago as approximately 4000 B.C. that the Egyptians began to count days and noted that the River Nile overflowed approximately every 365 days. For this reason they began each of their new years with its overflow in the spring around the middle of the month we now call June.

THE BABYLONIANS also several thousand years before Christ, began their new year in the spring. But they did not have an overflowing River Nile so they gaged it by the new life in the trees and plants.

Even the Romans who later prepared the record of days which was eventually perfected into our present day calendar, originally preferred March with its signs of new fresh life as the start of the new year. This preference is still apparent in the names of several of our months, for September, October, November and December, while being actually the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th months of our present calendar year are names which derived from the old Latin words meaning seventh (September), eighth (October), ninth (November) and 10th (December).

One of the first recorded calendars known to us today was believed to have been originated by Numa Pompilius in the seventh century B.C. It usually contained 304 days and therefore continually fell behind the solar year. So the priests simply added an extra month when it seemed to be needed. This was a convenient method of handling the situation but what happened to the birthdays of those born in the extra month?

THIS CALENDAR was amended 400 years later by Cnaeus Flavius and improved somewhat but in Cicero's time it was inaccurate by six weeks and in Julius Caesar's time by two months.

And Caesar liked things to be exact. In 46 B.C., he asked an Alexandrian scientist, Sosigenes to aid him in straightening out this record of days. Sosigenes was no mean mathematician. He explained the difference between the lunar year and the solar year. Caesar then decreed that the year on his new calendar should be divided into twelve solar months which would total 365 days and that every fourth year should have an added day.

When Julius Caesar began his calendar reforms there were then only 355 days in each year, which was why it had gradually fallen behind the sun. So he added the needed 10 days, two to January, August and December, and one to April, June, July and September. He also added two months extra to that year, 46 B.C., to bring it up to date with the sun, making it the longest year on record — 445 days.

THEN HE discovered another problem. August which had been named for Augustus Caesar, was one day shorter and therefore inferior to July which had been named for himself, Julius Caesar. This would never do. So he took a day from already short February, added it to August and set up the calendar accordingly.

This calendar which Julius Caesar made was so nearly accurate that except for a minor change made by Pope Gregory, it is still used today.

The one inaccuracy was that Julius Caesar's calendar was gaged to 365¼ days per year while the solar year actually contains a few minutes less—365 days, 5 hours and 48 minutes and 46 seconds to be exact.

It was many centuries before this inaccuracy became apparent.

By 1582 when Pope Gregory XIII decided to make the calendar more accurate it had lost between 10 and 11 days. So he just dropped the ten days. This was accepted in Rome. In Great Britain however, various important people didn't believe his claims and refused to adjust their calendar until 1752, at which time 11 days had to be dropped. They dropped the 3rd through the 13th of September that year.

TO CORRECT this minute inaccuracy for future years, it was decided that the years divisable by 100 would not be leap years unless they were also divisable by 400. Thus the year 2000 will be a leap year but 1900 was not.

The Gregorian calender is now used throughout most of the civilized world except for church holidays which are still often figured according to various ancient calendars.

However in recent years, rumblings of discontent with our present calendar are being heard. Some want a world calendar of 13 months each containing 28 days, leaving the 365th day at the end of each year to be "Year Day." They want a "Leap Day" to be observed between June and Sol. Sol is the name these calendar enthusiasts have decided would be ideal for the extra month to be placed between June and July.

Another proposed calendar change suggested 12 months divided into equal three-month quarters with the first month of each quarter containing 31 days and the remaining two months 30 days each. This calendar would also have a year end day, and a Leap Day between June and July each Leap Year. This calendar presupposes that the first day of each quarter would be Sunday, thus arranging Christmas and the New Year always on a weekend. It was argued that this calendar would make business statistics more easily figured.

But old habits, customs and calendars do not die easily. So check your new calendar for the proper day to celebrate and on New Year's Eve, consider doing as the English did long ago —open the doors of all the houses at midnight so that the spirit of the Old Year may depart with your troubles and the spirit of the New Year may come in from the cold and warm himself at your hearth.

Versatile Plant

Perhaps it isn't fair to fuchsias that their name is synonymous with the word for a particular shade of red. Purplish-red can be a lovely color in a garden, but don't feel, if you want to grow fuchsias, that you're confined to that. If a dainty pink and white is your ideal, you can get spectacular fuchsia blooms in double or single flowers in that combination.

There are blue and white beauties, spectacular oranges ("Orange Drops" is a fine one), pure whites or pinks and other pastel or vivid shades. In fact, one of the most delightful things about this exotic plant is its ability to produce new colors and combinations every year.

Fuchsias are dependable and enthusiastic growers. Fuchsias may look like something from a tropical paradise, but they demand no special diet or unusual care. Yet, they are almost instantly responsive to any attention you give them—especially regular watering and feeding. They're pest resistant, easy to train, and available in varieties that will either grow in bush form, scramble upward against a wall or lattice, or cascade their lush foliage and blooms downward from hanging baskets.

A Literary Critic's Thinking

WILLIE SNOW ETHRIDGE is the author of a hilarious new book, "YOU CAN'T HARDLY GET THERE FROM HERE" (Vanguard, $4.50.)

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

LITERARY critic extraordinaire Edmund Wilson brings together some 44 essays, reviews, interviews and articles in "THE BIT BETWEEN MY TEETH" (Farrar, Straus, $7.50). They represent Wilson's work between 1950 and 1965. They strengthen Wilson's reputation as America's leading literary critic and one of its keenest social observers.

He writes on the Marquis de Sade, and he writes of mushrooms. Of the marquis he says: "We have never been able to shake him off, because we know that he is not wholly mad, not wholly out of touch with reality—that nauseous and 'hipped' though he is, he is harping on an impulse which he has in common with many other human beings who seem to be sane. But let us hope his moment is passing." He has wise words to say of mycophilia, the love of mushrooms, in a lengthy review of a historical work on the subject.

He can write of Swinburne's letters and novels by first pointing out that "the poetry of Swinburne is now so out of fashion that it seems to have become very difficult to interest people in him at all," but proceed to hold your interest and bait your breath (if that is what a fascinating writer does with your breath) for 31 pages and make the poet as interesting as a space flight.

Then he can turn to the bees and the wasps, reviewing a German scientist's book on the vision, chemical senses and language of bees, which, "though not intended primarily for a popular audience," provides Edmund Wilson with a honey of an essay and the reader with another delightful five minutes' reading.

And that, sirs and madames, is why Edmund Wilson is the reigning prince of the American literary essay.

BUFFALO BILL Cody, Kit Carson and Jim Bridger are famous as mountain men, guides and Indian fighters because of enthusiastic biographers (who would be called press agents today) but they didn't win the West by themselves. Certainly other less known western heroes contributed.

In New Mexico, Arizona and Utah many natural landmarks—creek, fork, wash, spring, mountain pass, prairie and a formation in the Painted Desert—are named Leroux, for an explorer probably as effective as any, although not well publicized.

"THE BLAZED TRAIL OF ANTOINE LEROUX" (Westernlore, $7.50) is the biography by Forbes Parkhill of the young adventurer of French-Spanish descent who migrated from his native St. Louis to Taos, New Mexico territory, land of his Spanish ancestors, to become a trapper and, eventually, guide for exploratory expeditions and punitive missions against marauding Indians.

Unlike most mountain men, Leroux, born in 1801, was literate, a solid citizen who served on governmental bodies and, prior to his death in 1861, the prosperous owner of the large rancho known as the Antoine Leroux grant.

AT THE TIME of World War II, anthropologist Margaret Mead, after living with Samoans and New Guineans and finding out what makes them tick, turned to Americans and sought to find out why they behave as they do in a time of crisis (and who can remember when there hasn't been such a time?) "AND KEEP YOUR POWDER DRY" (Morrow, $5) was written in 1942, and is now reissued in a greatly expanded edition, taking in the years 1943-65.

She discusses what makes this a "middle-class" country. She tells us we tend to see ourselves through European eyes, and why we do it. We have, like all peoples, strengths and weaknesses, and Margaret Mead sums them up, as they are caught by a trained anthropologist's eyes and ears. It is a different way of looking at "the American way of life," and is full of new insights.

SIR HERBERT READ'S major new work, "THE ORIGINS OF FORM IN ART" (Horizon, $6.50) explores the relationship between art and life. He discusses the insights of Tolstoy, Eliot, Malraux, Jung, Freud, Plato and Coleridge, among others, brings together the perceptions of the creative artist, psychoanalyst and philosopher and works out an esthetic theory that celebrates the human psyche.

"CHURCHILL'S HISTORY of the English-Speaking Peoples" arranged in one volume by Henry Steele Commager (Dodd, Mead, $7.95) pulses with the vigor of Churchill's own words as he set them down in the original presentation of his great chronicle.

The gallery of historical portraits is retained—Alfred the Great, Richard the Lion-Hearted, Joan of Arc, Henry VIII, Elizabeth I, Washington, Lincoln, Lee and Victoria. The stirring battle scenes also are here—Hastings, Agincourt, the Spanish Armada, Quebec, Yorktown, Trafalgar, Waterloo and Gettysburg. Other great events are presented in Churchill's grand manner, from the martyrdom of Becket and the signing of the Magna Carta through the Great Plague and the Fire of London to the American Declaration of Independence and the birth of the Constitution of the United States.

SUKARNO'S reasons for resenting the United States and United Nations are important because they probably explain also the position of all Southeast Asia and the emerging Afro-Asian nonaligned bloc. And, as the strongman who has awakened and rallied the world's fifth largest population into a seething, nationalistic force, he commands notice.

"SUKARNO: An Autobiography" as told to Cindy Adams (Bobbs-Merrill, $6) is his account of his imprisonments as a fiery rebel by Dutch colonial rulers and Indonesia's struggle under his leadership for freedom from the Dutch, and also the Japanese, with whom he had collaborated.

An egotist, proud of his feats, he denies he was a puppet of Japan, or could ever be dominated by communism, because he loves himself too much, and is a devout Moslem. China and Russia have been friendly and helpful but Sukarno insists he's his own man.

His admiration of beautiful women explains why he chose Cindy Adams to help write his book. A newspaperwoman, she was in Djakarta in 1961 with her husband, comedian Joey Adams, who headed President Kennedy's Cultural Exchange Troupe to Southeast Asia, and she interviewed Sukarno then. After U. S. Ambassador Howard Jones persuaded Sukarno to tell his story, Sukarno invited chic, attractive Mrs. Adams to write it.

REAL TRADERS such as Alexander Mackenzie and Peter Skene Ogden move across the pages of "THE FUR TRADER AND THE INDIAN" by Lewis O. Saum, assistant history professor at the University of Washington (University of Washington Press, $7.50. Saum has done a good research job, digging into records set down by the traders themselves about their difficult existence on the edge of civilization.

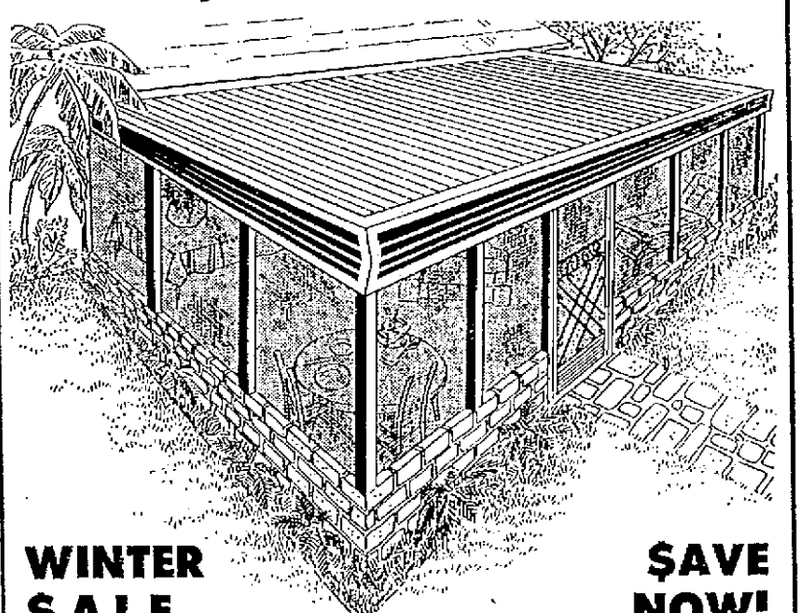

THE EXOTIC Oriental dancer, Mata Hari, burst on luxury-loving Paris in 1905. She became the rage as an entertainer and a voluptuous courtesan. Twelve years later she died at dawn before a French firing squad in the fortress of Vincennes, condemned as a German spy. Was she a spy or a too generous victim of circumstances? Sam Waagenaar probes the mystery in "MATA HARI" (Appleton-Century, $5.95).

CHARLES R. WALKER, industrial consultant, author, translator and inveterate student of Greek tragedy has added a new work to his credit—a translation of two Oedipus plays: "SOPHOCLES' OEDIPUS THE KING AND OEDIPUS AT COLONUS" (paperback Anchor Original, $1.25).

The Royal Tahitian in Ontario claims to be the world's largest Polynesian restaurant.

Tahitian in the Royal Mood

By Aubrey B. Haines

LAST SUMMER, at the Royal Tahitian Restaurant in Ontario, Duke Ellington and his band appeared in outdoor concert while Rex Stewart played dinner music in one room and Earl Bostic played dance music in another. This summer bigger entertainment plus exotic food is offered.

The newly expanded Royal Tahitian Concert Gardens offer big-name entertainers in an outdoor setting of fire pits, palm trees and lagoons. Japanese lanterns furnish various hues of light as they cover the entire 1,000-seat outdoor theater, which is provided with radiant heat for comfort of patrons. No seat is situated further than 55 feet from the stage.

Having been operating for five years, the Royal Tahitian attracts more than half its luau business from Orange County, the San Bernardino-Riverside area and Los Angeles County. About 45% of its business comes from the immediate Ontario-Pomona-West Covina area.

"THE COMMUNITIES have responded with overwhelming patronage," says Walt Boldig, co-owner of the restaurant. "Each year we try to add something new. Last year we hired Alfredo Reserva, a man of 35 years' experience who had been with the Hotel Del Coronado. Under his direction we've expanded our Sunday buffet to include such foods as Baron of Beef, Lobster Cantonese, eight to ten salads, various fish dishes.

"He bakes all our bread, rolls and pastries, prepares hot and cold vegetables. The man is adept at the culinary art.

"Regarding our entertainment, my partner, Jay Rodriguez, thought of having an outdoor theater. Within a year we offered six concerts, all of which were sold out. Jay believes that entertainers ought to be offered as much for their artistic abilities as for their popularity. Louis Armstrong, whom we're offering late this summer — now in his 50th year in show business — is the jewel of our attractions."

SITUATED at 2525 E. Riverside Dr. in Ontario, on the Whispering Lake Golf Course, The Royal Tahitian is south of the Ontario International Airport and east of Chino. This places it minutes away from the Southland's population centers of Los Angeles-Long Beach, Orange County and San Bernardino-Riverside.

There are two performances nightly in the Concert Gardens beginning at 8 o'clock and at 10:30. Beverages may be bought during concerts. Reservations for inside dining and dancing before and after the concerts may be arranged. Entertainers this fall will include Phyllis Diller, Arthur Lyman, Rusty Warren and Pat Collins.

With so many preparations constantly on the agenda the management has little time to contemplate what is happening next. Nevertheless, they have recently opened two other restaurants: The Casa de Mayo and the Barrister. "The Casa de Mayo is situated in Cucamonga, perhaps more remotely than the Royal Tahitian," Boldig says. "However, it's already won two awards in dining. Our strolling Mariachis and exotic decor make trying to locate us more an adventure than a problem.

"AFTER WE became fascinated with the exotic and spaciousness in restaurant construction, we turned toward creating a distinctive restaurant in the Continental sense: the 45-seat Barrister in the Pomona Civic Center. It has a French maitre d'hotel, captain service and all men waiters. Booths are made of the same underlying upholstery material used in the new Rolls-Royce."

Wherever one sits by a window at the Royal Tahitian, he may look out over a scenic view of landscaped grounds and gardens, which include the spacious golf course. The Royal Tahitian claims to be the world's largest Polynesian restaurant set amid 250 acres of tropical plants and lagoons. It features dining, dancing, entertainment, Polynesian shows, fashion luncheons, Sunday buffet, banquets and luaus.

Each Saturday night the restaurant offers an outdoor luau beside the luau lagoon. Here Polynesian dinner music is performed by the Royal Samoans, or patrons may dance to two American bands. A Polynesian floor show presents famous vocalists and comedians, Tahitian, Hawaiian and Samoan dancers, knife and fire dances, slap dances and a hula contest with Hawaiian Abe.

THE LUAU FEAST includes Lomi Lomi salmon and poi, barbecued ribs a la Hawaiian suckling pig (baked in the restaurant's underground fire pits), honied yams and fried rice, tossed green salad, fresh fruit salad and homemade date nut bread. A five-hour evening of dinner, dancing, and entertainment may be had for about $6.50 a person.

Regularly the restaurant menu includes appetizers such as Tahitian skewers (tender strips of beef marinated and broiled, served on bamboo spear) for $1.50, drinks such as mai tai for $1.90, and meals consisting of such Polynesian specialties as Lobster Cantonese (tender chunks of lobster sauted with Chinese vegetables in a savory sauce) for $4.25 or a Tahitian Mixed Grill (a combination of top sirloin, lobster tail and grilled tomato) for $5.50.

In conjunction with the Royal Tahitian Restaurant in Ontario, an outdoor concert garden has won high favor. Above, Duke Ellington and his band.

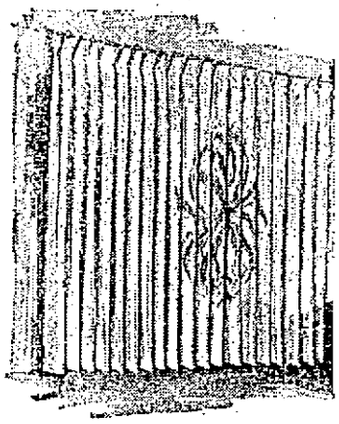

Exotic foods served by waitresses in foreign costumes are a feature of the Royal Tahitian.

Tray of joy

Room service waiters at Jamaica's Plantation Inn, along the Ocho Rios shore, take guests seriously when they order fruit for breakfast. The tray usually includes a half melon, a half sliced pineapple served in the shell, papaya, grapefruit and a big beaker of orange juice, according to Pan Am travel writers.

MEDICINE AND YOU

He'll Bet Smoking Causes Cancer

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

A NEW YORK doctor is so convinced that one type of lung cancer is invariably a result of cigarette smoking that he is willing to bet on it.

Dr. David Spain, a pathologist, says he and his associates will pay $50 to anyone who shows that a victim of squamous-cell lung cancer has not been a heavy cigarette smoker.

This type of lung cancer is marked by flat, scaly cells. About 45% of all lung cancer in men is of this type. There are four possible cell types in lung cancer.

Dr. Spain, clinical professor of pathology at the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center, says he has never seen squamous-cell lung cancer in a nonsmoker.

He says the bet was made some time ago.

"We have had no takers," he told the American Geriatrics Society.

A STUDY conducted in San Diego shows that Navy cooks and bakers suffer from far more tooth decay than do men with other naval ratings.

The study, conducted at the U. S. Naval Training Station there, shows that the cooks and bakers develop 46% more decayed tooth surfaces than do other naval ratings. In addition, they have 35% more tooth surfaces restored and 50% more teeth extracted during service.

The reasons are not clear, according to a report in the U. S. Navy Medical News Letter.

A LOS ANGELES medical specialist says he thinks he has found the ideal dosage concentration for a one-shot-a-month contraceptive drug.

Dr. Edward T. Tyler says the "most promising" combination of ingredients is 150 milligrams of Deladroxone and 10 mg. of estradiol enanthate. Both are hormonal preparations.

Only one cubic centimeter of the combination is required. The injection is given between the seventh and 10th days of the woman's menstrual cycle.

Twenty-five highly fertile women have been given the once-a-month injections, with consistent inhibition of ovulation. Ovulation, of course, must occur before conception is possible.

The report is in Postgraduate Medicine.

INVOLUNTARY bladder control among women patients can sometimes be controlled by a new nonsurgical technique: injection of Teflon particles into the urethra, the channel leading from the bladdder.

Two Florida doctors report that the technique has resulted in normal or near-normal urinary control in four of five female patients.

So far the technique has not been successful for male patients suffering from urinary incontinence.

The new technique was reported to a meeting of the Southern Medical Association.

IF A BABY does a lot of kicking and squirming while still in the womb, he'll develop physical skills faster after birth, research shows.

The more active the baby during the last few months of pregnancy, the higher he scores in physical tests at age 3, 6 and 9 months, according to Dr. C. Etta Awalters at Florida State University's Institute of Human Development.

Convert a Closet to Cedar

By Eleanor Price

WHEN you started wearing your winter woolens and furs and brought out woolen blankets, you may have found tell-tale marks left by moths—a hole here, a hole there. If so, don't put off until another summer the creation of a place for these seasonal articles.

Look over the closets. Can you spare one? It should be a closet that need not be opened and closed constantly, and that, of course, eliminates the children's closets and probably the guest closet at the entrance. It also should be roomy, not tiny. When you have decided, convert the area now, not later, into a cedar closet with shelves as well as a rod. Keep it closed as much as possible, for the complete moth repellent effect of the aromatic red cedar which you use is lost if the door is repeatedly opened and closed or thoughtlessly left ajar.

WHEN COLD weather has gone, and go it will, store woolen blankets on the shelves and hang wool clothes of all family members on the rods. Some you may want to fold and put on the shelves. The consolidation of articles needing protection from the ravages of moths makes their keeping simpler on the housewife.

And if you build a house, try to create a large cedar closet as close to the center of the house as possible. This is the place recommended by interior designers.

Busy is the housewife with the hundred-and-one tasks of the day—breakfast, kids off to school, lunches, laundry, shopping, club, P-T.A., you name it. So it's welcome assistance with menu planning that Southland Magazine offers a weekly recipe for the family menu. Watch for Mildred K. Flanary's cooking column each Sunday in Southland.

'People-Dog'

By Eleanor Avery Price

ONE OF the Weimaraner's most beautiful qualities is a sleek, shining appearance. Although this breed has no screens to hide show faults, the dog can parade in beauty until he is old. The handsome Weimaraner pictured today is Ch. Rec-B's Cati von Met, owned by Jack and Helen Houle of Garden Grove, and shown with her breeder, Richard Byrd.

The Weimaraner, one of Germany's fine sporting breeds, is not happy when relegated to a kennel. He is a "people-dog," and wants to be inside with the rest of the family. He learns to conduct himself well so he will be welcome as a member.

Any dog, with rare exceptions such as the Weimaraner, kept indoors needs more brushing than an outdoor dog, for his jacket is more or less always shedding. Perhaps not enough to notice, but quite consistently. A smooth-coated dog makes a better indoor dog than a long-coated unless you don't mind obvious hairs on the rugs and chairs.

A FEMALE dog may shed more than a male, for she often starts dropping hair about 12 to 14 weeks after the onset of each season whether she has been bred or not. She will get a new coat just as quickly with good care as she will if given expensive medicines. The good care consists of correct diet with adequate fat, considerate housing, plenty of exercise, and a lot of brushing and hand massaging. The brushing and massaging will eliminate loosened hair better than anything else. If the dog scratches profusely because the shedding itches, there may be some irritation. This can usually be soothed with camomile or a bit of bactine spray.

It may alarm you to note that, during heavy shedding, the dog's entire body may be influenced. The flesh may lose tone, and the pet may not be his usual gay self. This will pass when the coat starts to return.

PERHAPS nothing is so pleasing to a dog as the hand massage. It calms his nerves and makes him feel loved. Hand oil also helps make him gleam. You can also use a silk cloth, chamois, or a soft cloth slightly dampened with water.

Natural oils in a dog's coat are removed by baths, so do not bathe often. If your pet gets muddy, wipe him off quickly. If a bath is necessary, use a bath tub, if you don't mind chancing a crick in your back, or use a laundry tub. In sunny weather, snub the dog outside, attach a garden hose to an indoor faucet, and make the water comfortably warm. Plug the dog's ears with cotton and put a drop of mineral oil in each eye. Shampoo, then rinse well. Remove ear plugs and gently swab the ears with clean cotton. Towel dry, then use your hair dryer. It may make his coat stand up for a few hours, but that's better than getting him chilled in winter.

ENTRIES are being taken for Orange Empire Dog Club's show and obedience trial Jan. 30 at National Orange Show Grounds, San Bernardino. Superintendent is Jack Bradshaw, 727 Venice Blvd., Los Angeles.

Sled dog races are scheduled by the California Sled Dog Club at the summit of Palm Springs Aerial Tramway on Jan. 15-16; Jan. 22-23; Jan. 29-30. Races start at 11 a.m.

Weimaraners, like this beauty shown by breeder, enjoy people, and like to be with their families.

WORKSHOP

Special for a Little Doll

Susie France finds this revolving doll house is great for playtime hours.

By Steve Ellingson

EDUCATORS tell us that the early years, from infancy to eight, are the most important years for a child's will to learn. They also say that when we give youngsters a challenging environment during these early years that they reach a higher adult level of intellectual capacity. Consequently the things we give children to play with has a great bearing on their future.

Doll houses are highly recommended for little girls. To be able to arrange and re-arrange the rooms, the people and the fixtures call for just the right amount of creativity and imagination. The doll house pictured with Susie France (see photo) revolves much like a motion picture stage. The easy access permits the little homemaker to move things about as her play requires. Also, more than one child can play with this house at one time without being in each other's way.

STANDARD plastic doll house furniture, found in all dime stores, is the correct size for this house. The rooms surround an outdoor patio, which also may be decorated. The entire house, including the base, is made from one sheet of ¼ inch plywood. Construction is easy with the full size pattern. You need only trace the pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and put them together. Complete directions and illustrations are included to help the most inexperienced amateur turn out a professional looking job.

To obtain the circular doll house pattern No. 329 send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

BULLETIN: FIRST 10 MONTHS OF 1965 IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA*

Anthony builds more pools than the next fifteen single pool builders combined!

WHY ANTHONY?

We believe that much of the overwhelming preference for Anthony results from the recommendation of satisfied pool owners. Here are some of the reasons:

DEPENDABLE ACCESSORIES. At our 15 acre facility we manufacture our own top-quality line of pool parts and accessories. Our reputation for the dependability of our filters, heaters, water purifier, and pool cleaner—plus the assurance of service on all equipment from one source—is one of the big reasons many people recommend Anthony Pools.

FINANCIAL BACK-UP. The warranties of a builder or manufacturer depend on his ability to back them up. Ask any builder for his financial statement. Here is Anthony's current financial back-up: Cash, $1,265,567; Total net worth, $3,050,832.

IT'S EASY TO JOIN THE POOL OWNER SET. On ten-year financing, a complete pool can be yours for very low monthly payments. For example, a loan balance of $2000 runs only $26.67 a month. Is it any wonder so many young families are adding an Anthony pool to their way of life?

*Per most recent building permits reported by independent reporting service, Anthony also built more pools than all franchised pool builders combined!

Southland

On the Cover

Even with binoculars, you are unlikely to get as close a view of a hummingbird in action as the one on Southland's cover today. This one was snapped by Herb Shannon of San Pedro on Ectachrome X color film as it swooped in for a snack of honey and water at a local patio feeder. The camera was a 35-mm. Pentax single-lens reflex fitted with a 200-mm. telephoto lens on an extension tube to shorten its focal distance to four feet. A transistorized stroboscopic flash was used to fill in shadow detail and balance available light from the sky. The exposure was F4 at 1/50th of a second. Sunshine on flowering acacia foliage provided a colorful background. See Page 9 for further details on this fascinating form of birdwatching.

Next Week

It certainly takes more than a badge, a gun and a uniform to become an efficient police officer. Health, dedication, judgment—still much more. Next week, in Southland, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram police reporter Bill Hazlett tells what it takes, plus long and arduous training, to become "a good cop" for the Long Beach Police Department.

Daffodils herald spring for both gardeners and poets and now is the time to plant them.

YOUR GARDEN

Daffodils: The Poet's Choice

By Edward Gottlieb

DAFFODILS, the trumpets of spring, have long stirred poets to create memorable lines. These flowers which once grew wild around the Mediterranean Sea have become the "love star" and "daffydowndillies" of some of the world's greatest poets. To Shakespeare, daffodils "came before the swallow dared," and through Wordsworth, readers have envisioned "a host of golden daffodils."

For gardeners, as well as poets, daffodils herald spring. Unlike poets, few gardeners are satisfied with writing lyrics about these lovely spring flowers. For the fall planter, "a host of golden daffodils" means the more than 10,000 registered named varieties from which his spring selection will be made.

The choice could be bewildering, but the Dutch bulb growers, who supply most of the daffodil bulbs, suggest that gardeners become familiar with the major classes or divisions to simplify selection. Individual varieties come and go and many one-time favorites are now obsolete. Some of the newest daffodils to catch the fancy of hybridists and specialists have begun to prove themselves as garden subjects. The major classes of daffodils are well established, and provide the home gardener with a sound basis for selection.

Daffodils are classified by the form of the flowers. Here is an outline of the major classes:

TRUMPET DAFFODILS—These are the familiar large flowers with the long cup, and are basic in every spring garden. They may be yellow ("King Alfred," "Unsurpassable") or white (Mount Hood," "Beersheba"). They are valued for their size and clarity of form.

LARGE-CUPPED DAFFODILS—Although the cup is shorter than in the Trumpet daffodils, it is still long in relation to the petals. Both cup and petals may be colored ("Fortune"), or only the cup is colored and the petals are white ("Flower Record"). A daffodil is said to be "colored" when any part is some color other than white. For example, the slender long cup of "Mrs. R. O. Backhouse," a popular daffodil in this group, is a pale apricot while the petals are ivory-white.

SMALL-CUPPED DAFFODILS—As their name signifies, the cup is small—less than one-third the length of the petals. The petals may be the same color as the cup ("Edward Buxton"), or the cup may be colored and set off against white petals ("Verger"). Both cup and petals may be white in other daffodils in this group ("Chinese White").

DOUBLE DAFFODILS—Although there may be only a single flower to a stem, the flower is double—that is, the petals have multiplied to produce a resemblance to a full-blown rose. These sumptuous daffodils may be all yellow ("Inglescombe"), yellow-petaled with an orange center ("Texas"), or will have a colored cup against white petals ("Mary Copeland").

TRIANDRUS HYBRIDS—These daffodils are always white. They produce up to six flowers on one stem, and are available in both small-cupped and long-cupped varieties. The petals are usually sharply reflexed, or bent backwards. "Thalia" is a well-known variety in this group.

CYCLAMINEUS HYBRIDS—They are charming dwarf daffodils with drooping orange-yellow cups, bent sharply backwards, and lemon-yellow petals. "Baby Doll" and "February Gold" are two well-known examples.

JONQUILLA HYBRIDS—The jonquils are familiar flowers, much appreciated for their fragrance. They are characterized by rush-like foliage, and usually have several flowers on one stem. They are often a pale buttercup yellow ("Trevithian").

TAZETTA—Also known as "poetaz" daffodils, this group includes many doubles and produces clusters of flowers on one stem. Its color range is large: yellow cup against white petals ("Laurens Koster," "Cheerfulness"), orange cup and yellow petals ("Scarlet Gem"), or all yellow ("Yellow Cheerfulness").

POETICUS—Flowers have white petals with shallow, saucer-like yellow cups edged orange or red ("Actea"). They are usually well-defined daffodils which add a bright luminous note to the spring garden.

There are other divisions of daffodils, including many wild and hybrid forms. Some varieties bloom very early—others, like those in the Tazetta or Poeticus groups, are in bloom at the same time as late-flowering tulips. Some varieties multiply faster than others.

When making bulb selections for fall planting, Dutch bulb growers suggest that gardeners plant a few varieties of early and late-blossoming daffodils. They can be planted in small clumps of 12 to 25, in natural settings or to complement tulips and other spring-flowering bulbs—or planted "en masse" where they will be seen to their best advantage as a "host of golden daffodils."

Convert Bare Slopes to Beauty

Bare slopes can be made into areas of beauty, according to the California Association of Nurserymen. Success depends upon two things, primarily: good local advice on the varieties to use and careful planting.

The plant material used should be adapted to your climate and require a minimum of maintenance. Here are some popular ground covers for California slopes:

Algerian ivy has glossy, heart-shaped foliage in medium green or green with cream variegation and is a favorite where conditions approach the impossible. Where there is little soil and mostly rock, rooted cuttings are planted in straw held down with chicken wire.

There are also three excellent creeping manzanitas.

Make a Card for any Mood

IN THESE DAYS of the zany greeting cards, senders of such items are always wishing and searching for an original — and usually elusive — special card. The answer can be in "How to be your own greeting card company!"

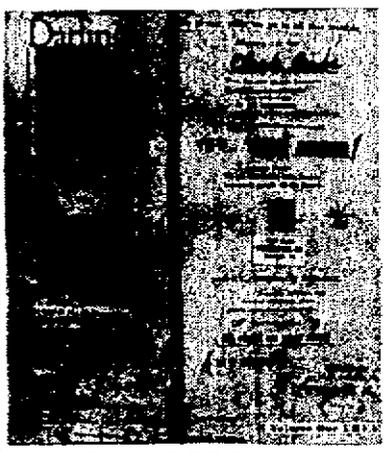

With a pot of library paste, scissors, some typing or heavy construction paper and an assortment of newspapers, magazines, travel folders and similar publications, you can have fun making up a personal card, such as illustrated with this article.

The method: Keeping a desired theme — birthday, holidays, vacation, travel, etc., etc.—first do your clipping, then the layout of the clipped items, then the pasting. By careful selection of clippings, plus a bit of writing-in, cards can be made up for any occasion. Laying out the items first in mock up avoids overcrowding and permits elimination of all but the desired lines.

For the cover page, find a suitable illustration. For all pages clip a bottom line that reminds the reader to turn the page. After selecting the cover illustration, it is a good idea to do the back page first, choosing some of the zaniest items to be affixed there.

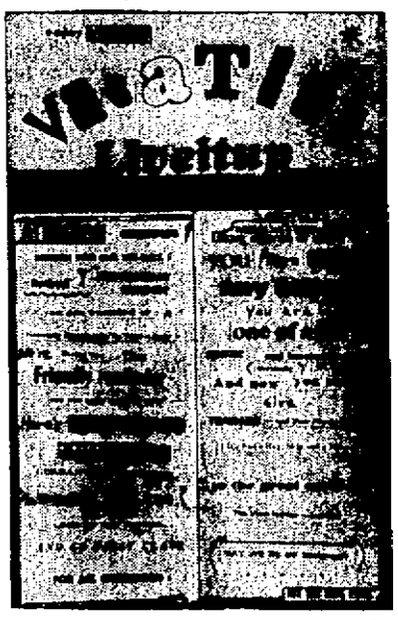

The accompanying illustrations give some idea of how to go about making up a card. Imagination will do the rest. Happy clipping!... And don't forget to leave a place for your sign-off with best wishes!

How to Prune Fruit Trees

By Joe Littlefield

All-America Selections Photos

Home-grown vegetables are best by all tests, and of these, award winners like Gold Nugget squash and Butter King lettuce, are "tops."

FRUIT trees — peaches, nectariness, plums, and apricots—are pruned during the dormant winter season when the trees are leafless. Best place to study and observe how deciduous fruit trees are pruned, is to observe them in a commercial orchard after they have been pruned. If your neighbor harvests good crops from his fruit trees, study his trees after they have been pruned, then do likewise to your trees.

The first pruning principle to keep in mind is to cut close to just above a leaf, a bud (node), a side branch, or close to the trunk if you are cutting off a large branch, as the case may be.

Next cut off dead branches and dead twigs, branches that cross and rub on good nearby branches, then cut out branches that bore fruit last summer.

Now, you are ready to do the critical pruning for good fruit production.

MOST OF the fruit on apricots is borne on year-old wood. This means, if the apricot variety has fruit buds near tips of long, year-old branches, don't trim them back. If branches are thickly clustered trim some out to allow more light. Branches with fruit buds in the middle section should be cut back one-third their length. Branches with fruit buds in lowest area should be cut one-half to two-thirds their total length.

Peaches may need more drastic pruning than any of the others. The fruit grows on twigs and branches of last summer growth. Thin out closely set branches, then cut remainder back one-third of their length to shape the tree. The remainder twigs (short growths on branches) will bear most of the fruit.

Nectarines are closely related to the peaches and set best fruit in the central third section of year-old branches.

PLUMS produce fruit on short stubby growths for some years. The main pruning done is to cut back the long whip-like growths about two-thirds of their length growth, also trim out thickly set branches.

The pruning recommendations discussed are for normal size deciduous fruit trees, not the dwarf fruit trees. Don't prune flowering peaches, plums, cherries, or crab apples, till they finish flowering.

Spray dormant fruit trees for leaf curl after they've been pruned. The fruit trees are sprayed with fungus type spray just before the buds begin to swell.

Roses are sprayed with a combination spray consisting of an oil emulsion spray and fungus spray.

There are several such dormant sprays available at nurseries. Gardeners may mix the two separate sprays to combine as one spray.

BROWN ROT is a fungus that attacks fruiting twigs and sometimes flowers and fruit of the stone fruits. The infested fruit rots on the tree, shrivels and dries and sometimes hangs on throughout the season. Trim out such twigs and remove any of the shriveled fruit. Spray with fungus spray when flower buds start to show color, again when final petals are falling off.

Home Grown Best

By W. Ray Hastings

FRESH garden vegetables, as everyone knows, are far superior to any that are shipped or processed. Such as peas and sweet corn lose nearly half of their sugar content in 24 hours from picking; two-thirds of their sugar sweetness turns to tasteless starch in 48 hours.

The only way to enjoy garden fresh vegetables is to grow them at home for gathering just in time to prepare the meal. Or, have a kindly neighbor with a garden. Local market gardeners used to help but not many are left to visit or deliver to our doors.

Especially, the tender and salad vegetables must be grown at home for good eating. Peas and sweet corn, also snap and lima beans, beets, carrots, radishes, turnips, broccoli. Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, collards, cucumbers, squash, cantaloupes, and especially lettuce, tomatoes and herbs.

ANOTHER VERY important consideration is that the great bulk of vegetable varieties today are not bred for home and local market garden use. For shipping, commercial canning and freezing, with labor scarcity and high costs of harvesting, packing and shipping, suitable varieties are bred to withstand machine picking, cleaning, grading, packing, shipping or processing.

Some vegetables, like beans, okra and summer squash, should be picked and cooked when young and tender. Carrots and beets are better when small. Loose leaf lettuce is allowed to mature as outer leaves are discarded, but the blanched inner leaves should have small refined midribs, all edible.

Late or winter squash is usually allowed to mature completely. It develops a hard shell-like skin and holds well in storage for winter baking uses. Bush Acorn or Table Queen and the new Gold Nugget are compact bush varieties for home garden use.

AWARD VARIETIES, All-America Selections, are chosen for superior quality, primarily for home garden use, as well as for uniformity and yield, disease resistance and weather tolerance.

Seed packets and seed catalog listings showing the All-America award emblem or notice may be depended upon for the best of their types and for their home garden quality. Order always by variety name.

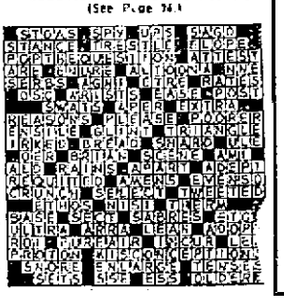

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Check the camellias in bloom now at your nursery and see if they're the ones you've been looking for. Remember that camellias bloom when they're dormant, so you can move or plant them in full bloom safely for instant color.

To keep a poinsettia plant flowering for several weeks, place it in your sunniest window and keep it out of drafts. Water it whenever the soil begins to feel dry to the touch. To increase humidity, place the pot on a saucer filled with pebbles to which water has been added.

The All America Rose Selections for 1966, Matterhorn, (white hybrid tea) American Heritage, (ivory-yellow and scarlet hybrid tea) and Apricot Nectar (apricot floribunda) are arriving at your C.A.N. nursery now. Make your selection early to avoid disappointment. If you're too busy to plant them now, heel them into the ground until after the holidays.

Love--With Mayonnaise

Catherine Spaak uses a "mayonnaise kiss" in attempt to wean Marcello Mastroianni from odd hobby in "The Man With Five Balloons."

By Georgia Coleman

IN ROME—and stuck on each other: In "The Man with the Five Balloons," the first segment of Joseph E. Levine's "Paranoia," Marcello Mastroianni and Catherine Spaak spice up their love life with a "mayonnaise kiss." Passionate young Catherine invents such romantic varieties to distract Marcello from his new hobby, balloon-blowing. As a hapless candy manufacturer, the Latin Casanova becomes a sort of modern Hamlet, isolated from friends and loved ones by his seemingly ridiculous obsession with balloons. Catherine tries to make Marcello put away childish things, as she tempts him into boudoir and bubble bath, but Marcello always insists on bringing along his balloons. Their kooky contest is director Marco Ferreri's way of satirizing Europe's thrill-seeking youth while making a comical comment on the modern mentality.

IN THE OTHER episodes of "Paranoia" Marcello gets involved in equally bizarre situations. In the second story, "The Blond Wife", he is a money-crazy bank clerk who tries to sell his light-headed spouse into the golden harem of a blond-crazy Arabian sheik. Pamela Tiffin, in the title role, turns the satirical tables on her greedy husband when she peddles him into the harem of an oddball potentate. Luciano Salce directed the satire on modern marriage in Rome, with location filming in Spain's Alhambra Palace. The famous 14th-century monument doubled as the office of the Emir, a playboy potentate with an all-blonde harem. At the lavish banquet scene in the Court of the Lions, Pamela dances a wild "Arabian Frug." She is Mastroianni's first American co-star.

In the final episode of "Paranoia," "The Right Moment," Marcello is a nervous professor seeking rest at the home of a friend (played by director Salce). Virna Lisi plays Salce's modern, slightly over-emancipated wife. In order to keep her under control, he shoots a pistol around the house. Marcello gets caught in the household crossfire when volatile Virna uses his bed as a refuge from "the happiness bullet." This pistol-packing battle of the sexes is directed by Eduardo de Filippo, best known to U.S. audiences as the author of "Marriage — Italian Style."

"Paranoia" is being produced by Carlo Ponti for spring release through Embassy Pictures. Joseph E. Levine is executive producer of the color, wide-screen comedy.

SHUT IN BY bad weather, a youngster is soon filled with boredom. The plaint is "What can I do now?" when the usual routine of indoor games is played out. Here's a look-see that may help.—HI SIBLEY.

any desired color scheme. Apothecary jars can be obtained in many sizes and are most attractive when filled with tiny colored soaps or bath crystals. Bathroom and facial tissues, too, can lend an inexpensive touch of elegance to the bath. Lady Scott tissues in gold, green, pink or blue, mix or match with other accessories to create the Total Look that is so important in bath decor these days.

THOSE WHO feel that an oversized old-fashioned bath is a decorator's nightmare and might best be ignored, might consider partitioning this room to create a separate dressing area. If floor-to-ceiling partitions don't seem practical, an imaginative room divider might be the answer. Once its dimensions have been determined, this little room can take on a highly individualized decorating scheme — Spanish, Art Noveau, Greek Revival —whatever appeals to the individual who is going to use it.

Scouting second-hand furniture stores is a pleasant way to discover treasures for the dressing room. Because it is a small area and one that is not in constant use, one can safely wield a free hand in selecting dressing table, mirror and frame. An antique Spanish chest might hold jewelry or cosmetics, while a giant ceramic ashtray provides a home for small clutter. This is the one spot in the house where one can let imagination take over.

The Day of the Dual Hanging

GERVASIO withdrew the knife, wiped it in the sand, and cut the bonds that fastened his love.

"He will stand between us no more," Gervasio told her.

Together they dragged his body behind some bushes and covered it with rocks and brush. Mounting the two horses, they fled into Los Angeles.

Investigation later showed the footprints of a man and woman, and everyone knew who had committed the crime, which was discovered by two Indian boys.

There was but one place they could go, and that was the Plaza. A small posse soon located them.

Holy Week festivities were in progress. No one had paid attention to the two fugitives as they rode into town.

Dona Maria and Gervasio later were taken into custody and placed in separate jail cells; he was chained.

AN ANGRY crowd gathered and demanded their release so that they could hang them. The guards refused to deliver the prisoners, but were overpowered. The rebels would have been taken had not the priests intervened.

Monday, after the celebration ended, the crowd gathered and demanded the release of Gervasio so that he could be executed.

The prisoners were granted no absolution, nor the opportunity to confess. When they went to get Gervasio he had almost succeeded in filing through his chains. No one knew whence came the file; it was surmised that it had been thrown through an open window.

Hesitating no longer, the guards took Gervasio outside, placed him against a wall and asked if he had any last request before execution.

"Viva! Cara Mia, Maria!" he shouted.

Maria knew what had happened. Would they come for her next? She soon found out.

She walked beside those who led her across the Plaza.

"Cowards!" she taunted. "Miscreants! Goats! I do not wish to live without Gervasio, the only man I ever loved. We shall be together. Bury me beside him."

Her wish was fulfilled.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Would you give the background on MORRIS.—J.M., W.M., Long Beach.

MORRIS is a famous English surname derived from "Marisc" meaning "dwellers at the marshy place." In addition, the French-English baptismal name Maurice, meaning "dark complexion" was Anglicized as Morris in Britain. William de Moreys was a 13th century progenitor in Suffolk, England. The Morris armorial shield is black, decorated with a silver "X"-shaped cross. The Irish Gaelic clan name Mirgheas, poetically characterizing an ancestor as "charmed by the sea" was altered to Morris in the 1500s. John Morris of England was among the founders of Hartford, Conn., in 1635. Both Robert Morris and Lewis Morris were signers of our Declaration of Independence.

MISS RULE: Please give the origin of ARGO.—W.C., Orange; T.A., Long Beach; J.W., Wilmington.

ARGO from Italy had as its primary source the archaic Greek-Italian word "Argo," a definition of the ancestor as "Swift one." Argo was also a dialect form of the Italian word "Orgogliosi," characterizing the forefather as "haughty, proud one."

MISS RULE: Would like data on STUHT.—B.S., Lakewood.

STUHT is a north German name that deciphers as "baker of white bread," a very unusual occupation in ancient times when dark flour was almost universally used for baking.

MISS RULE: Would like the genealogy on CORREA.—V.C., Long Beach.

CORREA of Spain dignified the ancestor as a maker of "leather belts, straps and thongs." Descendants of this hard-working forefather achieved a coat-of-arms in Castile. Their shield is gold, decorated with a black eagle surrounded by three red belts in the form of a star.

MISS RULE: Would like data on LA VICTORIE, LA VICTOIRE.—V.P., L.R., Long Beach.

LA VICTORIE and LA VICTOIRE are French, and originally honored Saint Victoria, a 3rd century Christian martyr. Victoria and the French derivatives all described "victorious lady."

MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on TEGETHOFF.—C.T., Long Beach.

TEGETHOFF began as the ancestor's home village name, a place in Westphalia, Germany. In dialect medieval German "Teget-Hoff" designated "tenth farm," a part of a large estate that had been divided into smaller areas. The Tegethoff armorial shield from Austria is silver, crossed by a red stripe lying between three green clover leaves. On the stripe are the silver letters "M.T."

MISS RULE: Please analyze RIZZO.—G.R., Long Beach.

RIZZO and RIZZI of Italy described the ancestor as "curly haired." The Rizzi shield is silver, emblazoned with an arm in armor holding three gold rice-stalks.

MISS RULE: Would like to know about FILKIN, FILKEN.—S.S., Garden Grove; D.R. Long Beach.

FILKIN and FILKEN, ancient English names, were formed from the old Saxon "Filu-kin" deciphered as "descendant of the great one."

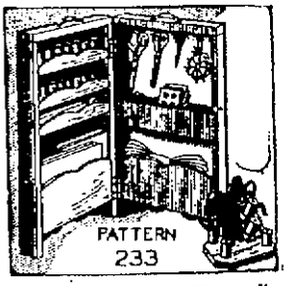

MISS RULE: Please explain BAYARD.—C.H., Long Beach.

BAYARD of France honors Knight Bayard, 1476-1524, noted for his bravery. "Bay-Hard," later Bayard, referred to "Brave, red-haired one." The Bayard shield from Picardy is blue, crossed by a gold chevron between three gold seashells.

You Make It

Two items to make for the home are shown here. The hinged sewing case holds everything for major jobs. The little donkey carries essentials for mending. He is an appealing novelty if you make things to sell. Pattern 233, which gives full-size cutting guides and directions, costs 35 cents. It is also one of four patterns in Gifts to Make from Wood Packet No. 68 — all for $1. Send orders to: Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, Bedford Hills, N.Y.

MANY TIMES a week, the following friendly exchange occurs between Rex Welch and guests at his large, fashionable restaurant, Welch's, 4401 Atlantic Ave. at San Antonio Drive in Long Beach.

GUEST (VERY HAPPILY): "My, that was a wonderful dinner! But there's something my husband and I just can't understand. How can you charge such low prices and still stay in business?"

WELCH (JOKINGLY): "Well, we're not interested in making money. We're just trying to make people happy and have a little fun while we're doing it!"

The guest and her husband depart laughing, aware that in his jushing way Welch has told them only part of the story. Welch's, now in its 18th year of operation, has always been one of Southern California's most successful restaurants, thanks to superb food, excellent service, refreshing atmosphere and proper management. During 1965 the restaurant eclipsed all its previous successes by attaining a 20% increase in dinner volume.

Its stepped-up volume explains why Welch's can charge laughably low prices and still operate at a profit. Since the introduction of its $1.95 prime rib au jus dinner, the restaurant has enjoyed a fabulous popularity. That dinner, including soup du jour or fine salad; whipped potatoes or baked potato, fresh rolls and beverage, would cost considerably more in other quality restaurants (and wouldn't necessarily be as good). Because it maintains high standards of service and quality, despite its low tabs,

Making People Happy

Welch's continually attracts new patrons who in turn tell their friends about their discoveries.

Other popularly priced dinner entrees at Welch's include grilled swordfish, $1.75; mahi-mahi fish Tahitian, $1.75; deviled northern crab, $1.50, and a juicy New York cut steak with mushrooms, $3.50. All are consistently outstanding.

SUNDAY TREAT—Exceptional beef Stroganoff, rich and flavorful, is often hard to find. However, there's one place in Long Beach which always does a superlative preparation job on this delicacy, employing sour cream, wine and herbs. At Francois Manhattan, 1909 E. 4th St. (one of America's best restaurants), it's $3.95, with continental appetizers, soup served in a tureen, tossed salad, beverage and dessert.

Old Cards, New Uses

By Ruth C. Ikerman

THAT big box of old Christmas cards can provide much holiday pleasure for the children, in getting ready for the new season. Provide some blunt scissors, a bottle of paste, and some scraps of ribbon along with old pieces of cardboard from the back of writing tablets or cut from packing boxes.

Pick out the largest heaviest cards, preferably with brilliant designs of contrasting colors. Paste each card against a piece of cardboard to make it stronger. Then cut the card into several pieces to make a jigsaw puzzle. Put each card into a separate white envelope and you have a gift for a shut-in, or something easy to send to a sick child at home or hospital.

SAVE SEVERAL of the puzzles to use at a children's party, passing each envelope of parts to another child when it has been used by the first group. Grandparents enjoy these mystery cards particularly when they know they have been made by a small grandson or granddaughter.

Old cards can be cut into new tags, by taking an oval cut around Santa Claus, or making a square cutting near the Christmas tree or the angel. It is fun to see how many trees can be found in the box assortment, and how may stars. Let each child look for one particular item, and there is special interest similar to a contest.

Cut the cards in large circles, and poke a hole at the top of the design, inserting a piece of ribbon to hang the picture card on the Christmas tree. A variation of this activity is to make the circles much smaller so that the picture can be used as a tag on a new package.

CHOOSE the thinner cards on lighter paper to cut out designs to paste against heavy brown wrapping paper to be used in covering large gift items. Sometimes bulky items need dressing up in this fashion, when large sheets of ready prepared paper are not available.

Use six cards at random as a source of cut-outs to tell a Christmas story. It is surprising what young imaginations can devise from a cut out squirrel, a picture of a Christmas ornament or a little house in a snow scene. The picture story can be pasted in a little booklet made of folded typing paper and put in the stocking of a younger member of the family.

LYNN BORDEN OF 'HAZEL'—(See 'Bert's Eye View,' Page 7)

—Photos by the Author

Bird watching takes on a new and exciting dimension for the hobbyist with suitable camera equipment and a bit of patience. The kind of luck the photographer has varies like that of the fisherman but the big ones are real joys, as illustrated above and elsewhere on this page. At right, the author ready for quarry.

The Hummer Is a Ham!

By HERB SHANNON

Dainty ballerina—one of many visitors.

TAKING closeup photos of hummingbirds on the wing is a lot like fishing. You need bait, a certain amount of equipment, a bit of patience and a little luck.

There's the same kind of thrill and satisfaction in the action, too. First comes the telltale whirr of delicate wings, and then the excitement of a strike as the bird darts into view, magnified larger than life if you use a telephoto finder.

Click! You've bagged another trophy.

You also have made another fine-feathered friend. Southland hummingbirds seem to enjoy performing for the camera. Some thrive on attention, hogging the lens and chasing competitors off the set. Real ham actors!

YOU DON'T NEED a lot of expensive gear. The lure is a feeder tube with a few ounces of honeywater hung up in a convenient place. A telephoto lens and a reflex-type camera are helpful, but any camera with a bellows extension or portrait attachment for focusing up close will do the job.

With the camera on a tripod and focused on the tip of the feeder, you're ready for action. You'll be in business as soon as the birds discover you're not only dispensing honey but also taking pictures. You won't be able to fight them off with a badminton racquet.

Fast shutter speed is not too important. Hummingbirds are virtually motionless while feeding, enabling you to capture details such as body feathers and feet at 100th of a second or slower settings. Don't try to freeze the motion of the wings. This action is much too fast for any shutter speed.

IT'S POSSIBLE TO CATCH the wing-stroke in the extended position about once in 200 exposures with a high-speed stroboscopic flash, but it is hardly worth the effort. The result is a stuffed-animal look. The blur of moving wings adds life to the picture.

The strobe accessory or an ordinary flash is useful for filling in shadow detail on extreme closeups. If you're shooting in direct sunlight, you can accomplish the same purpose by using a mirror or foil reflectors under the feeder. None of these extraneous objects will disturb the birds except to excite their curiosity.

The real fascination in this back-yard birdwatching is in shooting color slides for big blowups. Details of plumage, eyes, bills and even the threadlike tongue are revealed amazingly when a creature not much larger than a bumblebee flashes on the screen the size of an eagle.

CATCHING BRILLIANT flashes of color from the bird's ruffs is almost a hobby in itself. These irridescent patches of red, green, blue and other hues vary with the intensity and direction of reflected light. The explanation for this effect was discovered only recently. The microscopic filaments of a hummingbird's throat feathers have no real color of their own, but refract light rays like tiny prisms to produce an occasional neon-like glow.

These observations come easily to the hummingbird photographer. Soon you recognize familiar cries and the sound of wing-beats. You can identify visitors by personality—the acrobat, the clown, the ham actor, the proprietor, the furtive burglar.

Fishing fans will find a number of advantages in the sport. There's no season, no limit, no early rising and no risk of seasickness.

And best of all, no mess to clean up after the catch.

Freeze shot—once in 200 exposures.

LOVE THAT ENDED IN TRAGEDY

The Day of the Dual Hanging

By RETTA E. EWERS

THE year was 1836. Action took place in and near the old San Gabriel Mission around which the town was settled. It ended in the Plaza jail in Los Angeles.

A young woman, Dona Maria del Rosario Ville de Feliz, committed an unforgivable act, not against the public, but in violation of the sanctity of her marriage vows, and was unrepentant.

Father Jose Bernardo was Mission priest. When the battle of Cahuenga Pass occurred in 1831, San Gabriel became the receiving hospital.

Dona Maria was then unmarried, a girl still in her teens. She helped nurse the wounded. Her smile and cheerful disposition helped more than medicine to restore men to health.

SENORITA MARIA was betrothed to Don Domingo Feliz, owner of an 8,000 acre ranch just outside town. The wedding date was set, since her father and Don Domingo had made all the plans.

After the wedding festivities were ended, Don Domingo took his bride to his rancho and showered her with all the luxuries provided in that day, plus fine jewels from afar.

For all his money and gifts, he could not buy the one thing he most wanted —the heart of his young bride. She admired her beautiful home, exclaimed over the wide acres of grapes, olives, corn and wheat; laughed at the antics of the young lambs and growing cattle, but within her was a longing for the gay life she had left behind.

She insisted on attending all the festive occasions the town offered, and thus became acquainted with the dashing and handsome young Spaniard, Don Gervasio Alipas, lately from San Diego.

DON GERVASIO was a splendid horseman, rode better than an Indian, and could handle a lariat, or riata. No one could surpass him in the dance. His guitar playing and singing was sought for every occasion. Many a senorita's heart beat faster when Don Gervasio's glance fell upon her.

But after he met and danced with Dona Maria Feliz, Gervasio knew that he had found the one woman in all the world for him.

As for Dona Maria, she sought every occasion to meet him. Their love and affection grew exceedingly full and glorious in their hearts and minds. Nothing else mattered.

No one had ever been in the difficult situation in which they were involved! No husband was ever more despised and hated than the "good Don Domingo."

Horsewoman herself, Dona Maria would leave home early in the morning and remain away all day. She refused to explain where she had been and what she had been doing.

Riding along the foothills and small canyons that lie adjacent to the town, she and Gervasio lived in a mad world of wild devotion. Gervasio offered Dona Maria not only his heart, but the wild excitement that she craved.

THE AFFAIR soon became known to all, even to people living on the Plaza in Los Angeles. All knew of Dona Maria's affection for the young Gervasio. The Sepulvedas, Olveras, Carillos, Lugos, Avias, and the Pico families from Mexico and Spain, who first settled Los Angeles.

Easy going, good natured, and forgiving, Don Domingo, upon learning of his wife's derelictions, told her that he would forgive her if she would renounce her romance with Gervasio and return to his hearth and home.

Confronted with the truth, and knowing that whatever she did now would be watched, she promised to stay at home and be a good wife.

In a short time, Dona Maria bribed an Indian servant with a piece of jewelry, escaped her prison and her doting husband, and fled on horseback to San Gabriel and her lover, Gervasio, who waited, hoping that in time she would come to him.

The Padre urged her to return to her husband and repent. This she resented. She had made her choice and meant to stick to it.

A MESSENGER was sent to Don Domingo urging him to come and collect his errant wife and take her home.

When Don Domingo arrived, the administrator received him in the Mission. He assured them that he meant her no harm.

"I shall take her home and place her under restraint. She will run away no more."

"We have her in custody and waited your coming. She is an unrepentant sinner, my son."

Upon entering the room where the Don awaited, Dona Maria sought to escape, but was held by two guards, then placed in the arms of her husband, who soon subdued her frantic efforts.

"I hate you!" she screamed, beating at him with her fists. He only laughed.

SHE WAS TAKEN outside, placed upon her husband's horse, her hands tied to the saddle horn. He got up behind her. The crowd watched as they rode out of town, some laughing, solemn or crying.

All but Gervasio! He mounted his animal and rode off, unnoticed. He knew the arroyo they would cross before reaching the hacienda. He hid his horse, keeping the riata in his hands as he awaited their arrival.

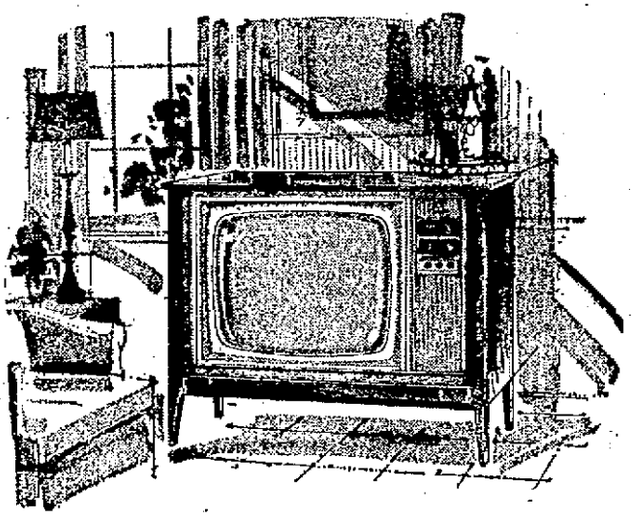

When Don Domingo and Maria rode down into the canyon, Don Gervasio's riata snaked outward and caught Don Domingo about the throat. In an instant he was on the ground. Gervasio's stiletto flashed in the bright sunlight, into Domingo's heart.

Maria had halted the horse. "Cut me loose," she said. "We must bury him, or he will soon be found."

$114 Million California Project

Scientists Build a Giant House for the Tiny Atom

By Lou Jobst

A GIANT house is being built to investigate the tiny universe of the atom.

Two miles long, this fantastic structure slashes across the verdant, tree-dotted hill country near Menlo Park in northern California, an awesome reminder of the direction of science in the 20th Century.

Nearing completion, the $114 million facility is in reality a machine called a linear accelerator.

Accelerators, sometimes called "atom smashers," are devices which accelerate particles—usually protons or electrons—to extremely high speeds and energies. The particles are shot at various kinds of atomic nuclear targets where the "hits" are observed by scientists who are studying the physical world and its tiniest components.

ACCELERATORS that whip their particles in circles are called cyclotrons; those that go in a straight line are linear accelerators.

Operated by Stanford University and manned by a staff of 800 to 900 persons, the California machine will be the biggest in the world, dwarfing Stanford's Mark III, at 310 feet the longest in the U.S., and a 1,500-foot machine being built in Russia.

The Stanford Linear Accelerator Center (SLAC) will accelerate electrons to nearly the speed of light (186,324 miles per second). The electrons will have an energy, at the target point, of 15 billion electron volts and will have increased their mass 40,000 times.

The Stanford machine will have more than double the energy of any existing electron accelerator.

How is this done?

ELECTRONS ARE gathered at a conventional source, such as a hot wire or cathode arrangement, not unlike the one found in the neck of a TV tube. They are then injected into a four-inch diameter copper pipe which is about two miles, or 10,000 feet, long.

In the pipe, the electrons ride a powerful radio wave, which is reinforced (given an additional thrust) at 10-foot intervals by klystron tubes. At each tube intersection six million watts of radio energy is fired into the system.

The copper tubing is buried in a concrete accelerator housing 25 feet beneath the surface, the klystron gallery is in the visible surface structure.

SLAC, which has 17 other buildings including an auditorium, administration center, laboratories and cafeteria, will be used for both educational and research projects.

AUTHORIZED BY Congress in September 1961, the accelerator building was scheduled for completion in December, 1965. The beam is to be turned on in April and the accelerators will be ready for full-scale research in April 1967.

SLAC, built under contract with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, will operate around-the-clock, 7 days a week at a cost of about $20 million a year.

Stretching toward the horizon is the housing of Stanford University's 2-mile long linear accelerator, biggest "atom smasher" in the world. Left, an interior view of the underground accelerator tube. Concrete walls are 2-feet thick.

It will require as much electric power as the city of Palo Alto, a community of 52,280 persons.

The site, only minutes from the Stanford campus, is a strip of land roughly three miles long and 1,000 feet wide. The accelerator covers 480 acres.

BASIC RESEARCH work will be by a group of some 30 scientists, of whom about one-half will be visitors from other laboratories, and 50 junior scientists or graduate students and postdoctoral physicists.

Five principal areas of research will be considered. These are studies of basic electron-proton interactions, study of particle structure, experiments with secondary beams of mesons, photons, antiprotons, etc., tests of basic electromagnetic theory and search for new particles.

In earthquake-conscious California, the builders have taken special precautions against seismic disturbances.

The underground structure will be one of the strongest earthquake proof structures ever built. It sits on compact land and is constructed of 100,000 cubic yards of concrete and 10,000 tons of reinforcing steel bar. The walls are two feet thick.

SHOULD EARTH movement throw the accelerator out of line, it can be realigned through corrections made to the accelerator pipe. Each 40-foot section of the pipe is connected by a flexible bellows like arrangement.

As to the future import of high energy physics and the accelerator, Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the AEC, says:

"High energy physics is one of the leading intellectual developments of our age. It is not only very exciting but experimenting in this field will probably lead to some of the most theoretic and perhaps most practical developments of our age."

SPECIAL

THE INHERITANCE—Filmed at ancient sites in Iran, Iraq, Egypt, Jordan and Israel, a "Southern Baptist Hour" reprise re-creates Biblical history, surveying the remains of great civilizations of antiquity in the Middle East. Alexander Scourby narrates, at 10:30 a.m., in color, ch. 4, recounting history through Abraham, Moses, David, Solomon and the Prophets.

CHRISTMAS in Viet Nam—A CBS News Special Report films war-torn South Vietnam on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day to report how American fighting men spent the holiday, with Charles Kuralt interviewing men about their feelings at Christmastime and their expectations for the future. Spotlighted is Army Sgt. Ralph Bosalet, a 15-year veteran in South Vietnam, and his wife and five children at their Seaside (Calif.) home. Seen elsewhere on the network last Tuesday, color show screen locally at 3:30 p.m., ch. 2.

RETROSPECT '65—The Southland's tumultuous year just concluded is reviewed by Baxter Ward and Jim Healy during an hour at 4 p.m., ch. 7. Scenes include the Watts riots, the Tom Neal murder case, Lt. Tom O'Neil, mayoralty elections, November rains, protest marches, the McCone report, Sandy Koufax, Mike Garrett and UCLA's Cinderella grid team.

TELEPHONE HOUR—The hour goes West—musically—as Hugh O'Brian is host for an all-Western music show at 6:30 p.m., ch. 4, in color. Featuring country and folk tunes and songs from Western-themed Broadway musicals, hour spotlights Dolores Gray, Eddy Arnold, Peter Nero, Jack Haskell, dancer-choreographer Matt Mattox and the Tucson (Ariz.) Boys' Chorus.

HAMLET AT ELSINORE—Christopher Plummer is magnificently cast in the title role of this BBC dramatization of Shakespeare's classic, filmed on location in the historical setting of the play, the Castle of Kronborg at Elsinore in Denmark, and repeated at 7 p.m., ch. 11, with Maurice Evans as host. Featured during the 3-and-a-half-hour screening are Robert Shaw as Claudius, Alec Clunes as Polonius, Michael Caine as Horatio, June Tobin as Queen Gertrude, and Joe Maxwell Muller as Ophelia.

HOMES

The Wise Decision of a Coin

By Stella George

MRS. MILDRED HUNTER has always enjoyed her home at 3949 Rose Ave. However, in recent months she decided that the home needed a beauty treatment, perhaps a face lift in the hands of an expert. On the other hand, Mrs. Hunter had long thought about taking a trip to Europe. A decision had to be made: should she hop on a plane for far away places or should she hire the services of a skilled interior designer and, in effect, give herself a new home? There was a toss of a coin, and interior designer, Doris Austin, won. Mrs. Hunter is so delighted with her "new" home that she thinks it's the wisest decision a coin ever made.

Blue and violet are dominant colors in the living room. The

Would you please be so kind as to settle a four-month-long running argument?

The point in question is the identity of the actor who appears in a televisinn commercial for Anacin.

To wit: Husband comes home and no sooner gets into the door whereupon sweet wife reminds him to "Hurry and get ready as we have to attend a P-TA meeting tonight"

Husband replies, "Don't rush me, Helen. I just got home." He says this in a very anguished voice.

As may be surmised, Anacin comes to the rescue and all ends well.

I contend the actor playing the husband is John Lupton while my friend is equally convinced he is Marshall Thompson.

Frank W. Chermak, Long Beach

John Lupton, formerly of "Broken Arrow" and currently of "Never Too Young," is the man with the anguished voice. Marshall Thompson, incidentally, will be seen in the "Daktari" series premiering Jan. 11 on channel 2.

I would like to know if the program Gidget will still be on in the week of Jan. 9 and following.

Kathi Herfkens, Long Beach

Yes, but not on the usual day. Starting Jan. 13, "Gidget" will air 8 p.m. on Thursday.

* * * *

Why is it that two secret agent shows have to be shown at the same time? I'm referring to "Secret Agent" and "Get Smart" on Saturday nights.

Mrs. Margaret M. Merrill, Costa Mesa

CBS-TV doesn't think it was a dumb move. Determined to outwit "Get Smart" in the ratings, it inserted "Secret Agent," a proven viewer favorite during the summer season.

* * * *

After watching most of the new season's programs, I'm convinced that commercials are better than ever.

If the programs get much worse, I think I'd rather tune in to a half-hour of straight commercials. Most of them are much more imaginative and funny than the so-called situation comedies.

Jack R. Rusch, Garden Grove

Each man to his own poison.

Compact and handy, a dinette (left) adjoins the kitchen. The chandelier provides a touch of elegance.

important treatment with a blue and violet flower arrangement in a large urn. Above this are two hanging lamps, one violet, one blue; good colors to live with. They have a cool and comfortable effect the year around, as well as being constantly pleasing to the eye.

A television console with the wall decor above is the focal point of the room. The wall decor includes two lithographs, heads of medieval women mounted on blue velvet, and plaques of Roman coins.

Mantle treatment consists of an antique mirror and wall scones.

THE DINING ROOM is also done in shades of blue and violet. Traditional furniture is laquered in antique white, with the exception of the tea cart which is done in Ming blue and gold. Chair seats are upholstered in a teal blue fabric. The custom designed chandelier is brass with teal blue prisms. Family silver and cut glass are used as accessories.

Avocado and royal blue set the color scheme for the den. Miscellaneous types of furniture pieces are wedded by the astute use of color. The spread on the bed-sofa is a Spanish motif of avocado and blue; the corner sofa is done in royal blue; desk and tables are lacquered in avocado. Interesting accessories include such items as Spanish keys mounted on avocado burlap in a gold leaf frame; a wall painting of wild oak leaves; a pen and ink copy of a Roman building, and a crest of arms. Hanging over a corner table is a wrought iron Spanish type lamp with blue and green cathedral glass inserts. The room serves as a TV room or guest bedroom. It is also the favorite leisure room for Duchess, a dignified beagle that reluctantly agrees not to sleep on the new chairs in the living room.

BLUE and green are color accents in the smart kitchen. Three walls are neutral tile to the ceiling. A handy dinette adjoins the kichen. Neutral shutters are placed on the lower half of the window with blue and green valances above.

The bedroom decor centers around a handsome rug. Color accents are unusual and delightful: two shades of hot orange and true charcoal. Walls, draperies and furniture are antique white, lending a neutral background. The orange and charcoal are used dramatically in lamps, pillows, mountings, chair and vanity bench upholstery, and floral arrangements.

Photos by JOE RISINGER

Simplicity is the dining room keynote. Furniture is done in antique white.

curved sofa is done in a quilted polished cotton with a floral pattern of blues and violets. Two club chairs are upholstered in iridescent blue and violet, and flank a fireplace. Traditional pieces such as the Governor Winthrop secretary, a hand-carved chair, and a child's rocker are lacquered antique white. Accessories are classical, an oil copy of Gruegl's "Girl with Broken Pitcher", and a gold and silver lavabo with plants of violet and green, are examples.

CARPETING is neutral sand, and is used throughout except in the master bedroom. Draperies in the living and dining rooms are antique satin in a shade of mint blue and violet. Those in the den and bedroom are of the same fabric in a linen shade. Walls in the living room, dining room, entry and hall are in mint blue; other walls are in linen white.

EYE GUESS — Premiere. Bob Stewart, creator of "Price Is Right," "Password" and "To Tell the Truth," comes up with a new game show. Hosted by Bill Cullen daily at 9 a.m., in color, ch. 4 (replacing Fractured Phrases), this one's a board game show in which two contestants compete in a test of their powers of observation in a 5-second peek at 8 spaces.

11-13 CHANGES—With a harried Hobo Kelly relinquishing her daily afternoon show (she's still on at 7:30 a.m.), ch. 11 fills in the 3:30 p.m. void with "Superman." "Cisco Kid," moving both Billy Barty and Winchell-Mahoney a half hour earlier. Ch. 13 brings back "Bozo the Clown" at 4:30 p.m., to lead off a 90-min. block of color cartoons (following another 90 min. of the same), illogically moving Lloyd Thaxton's rock music show smack opposite Sam Riddle's counterpart on at 6 p.m. Latter station also drops "Hollywood Discotheque" at 8:30 p.m., in favor of "Arrest & Trial"

HULLABALOO —The Beatles are back, in a segment taped in England, singing both sides of their new "top pop" record, "We Can Work It Out" and "Day Tripper." Roger Smith doffs his "Mr. Roberts" uniform to host the 7:30 p.m., ch. 4 color show, welcoming Lesley Gore, Jonathan King and the Ramsey Lewis Trio. Smith sings the Oscar-winning "Chim Chim Cheree," and the "top pop" medley features the tunes of '66.

COIN ROUNDUP

Coinage Profit

By Maurice M. Gould

THE United States Government is expected to make hundreds of thousands of dollars profit annually from the minting of our new clad or "sandwich" coinage. The first of these—quarters with a copper center surrounded by two cupro-nickel jackets—are already beginning to turn up in pocket change or when checks are cashed at the bank.

Many governments in the past—as well as some right now—have received large amounts into their treasuries by this seigniorage. Seigniorage is the profit which results from the difference between the cost of the bullion and manufacturing a coin and its actual face or monetary value.

THE NEW COINS should be extremely difficult to counterfeit. All coins which are suspected of being counterfeit should be sent to the Treasury Department in Washington, where they are checked thoroughly.

Counterfeit coins are easily detected: they actually feel different, can usually be cut with a knife, and images are not as sharp as authentic coinage.

Two early British coins (obverse): George IV, 1820-1830, and William IV, 1830-1837.

Counterfeit bills can usually be distinguished by their poor engraving job and inferior papers and inks. All genuine bills should have seals and serial numbers of the proper color: Silver Certificates, blue; United States notes, red; Federal Reserve notes, green.

All Federal Reserve notes have a small circle at the side of the portrait, with the name of one of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks and its identifying letter in the center. They are: A-Boston; B-New York; C-Philadelphia; D-Cleveland; E-Richmond; F-Atlanta; G-Chicago; H-St. Louis; I-Minneapolis; J-Kansas City; K-Dallas; L-San Francisco.

THE CURRENT American interest in collecting the coins of Great Britain was matched only by the British craze for old American coins during the 1880s.

A Mr. Mason, of Philadelphia, one of this country's best-known numismatists during the late 19th century, would visit England every summer.

On returning from one of his yearly trips, the famous dealer and numismatic writer observed: "There is a perfect craze in England for old American coins, but the English are great collectors anyhow. Why, in Wardner Street in London, there are nearly 100 old coin stores next to one another. I collect sample sets of American coins from the time of the Revolution and I always find plenty of customers in England, principally in Liverpool, London, Sheffield and Manchester."

Mason also mentioned that he could easily obtain 100% more for the same coin in England than he could here in the United States. A 1794 Silver Dollar purchased by the British Museum brought him $1,000, a tremendous sum of money for such a purchase during this period.

MASON MENTIONED that three of the then five known 1804 Silver Dollars were in England during this time. All of these are now back in this country in the hands of museums or collectors. There are two types of 1804 Silver Dollars: type 1, called originals, of which eight specimens are now known to exist; and type 2, the restrikes, of which seven are now known to exist.

Mint records show that 19,750 silver dollars were coined in 1804, but they were not necessarily dated 1804. These were probably dated 1803, since the usual practice was to use the dies for as long as possible.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

THAT HIGH-FASHION MODEL in the ultra-slick women's magazines may not be all toothpick.

There very likely could be, according to Lynn Borden, much more than meets the eye.

What meets the eye when one looks at Lynn is an attractive, green-eyed blonde who had enough curves in the right places to have earned her fifth-place in the 1958 Miss America contest.

They're curves which currently are not hampering her performance as a typical American housewife in CBS-TV's (channel 2's) Monday night "Hazel" series.

They're curves which could have impeded her one-time career as a high-fashion model.

But she had a smart agent.

BEFORE SHE WENT out on her first high-fashion job interview, he advised her to tie a scarf around the front of herself beneath her outer clothing.

"Most of the high-fashion girls you think are so flat-chested really aren't," said Lynn.

Her agent also advised her:

"Look like you're angry with everyone. Look mean." Later, Lynn learned a few things on her own.

A certain dark powder applied under the cheekbones would give a Marlene Dietrich look.

The way you wore your hair was important. Long switches and wiglets helped.

And always walk straight, sit straight and think straight.

LYNN MUCH PREFERRED being a junior "all-American type" model.

"Then you could smile," she said. "I liked that."

There is still more than what meets the eye in Lynn's case, and much of it is upstairs in the gray-matter department.

At the University of Arizona, from where she graduated, she majored in psychology as well as drama.

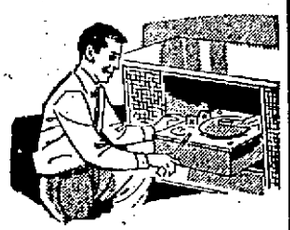

What she learned in those psychology courses was that psychoanalysis for very sick people is very good.

If you're not very sick, then you should skip the analyst, according to Lynn.

"You can go overboard with analysis," she said. "You start thinking about every move you make. Why do you feel this way now? What's your motivation? That sort of thing.

"Everybody has problems. But if you're like most people, you're better off taking a nice vacation than going to see an analyst."

With a flair for the dramatic, this striking dressing room is in the colors of Moorish Spain. Beauty abounds in lacy wrought iron brackets and carved wood frame of mirror. A touch of gold that costs only pesos is gold print Lady Scott issues.

In the Manner of the Moors

THE 1960s may well go down in decorating history as the decade of the bath. Just as kitchens bloomed in the 50s, the bath is currently the focal point of decorators of both the professional and do-it-yourself variety .

Elegance is in. But elegance needn't conjure up visions of thousands of dollars spent on new fixtures and tile. It is possible for anyone with a flair for the dramatic to put color and style to work to create a sense of elegance on a small budget.

The popular decorating scheme pictured here represents the Spanish Look, which can be easily achieved without resorting to expensive structural changes.

Modern materials for covering floor and walls are available in everyone's price range and are simple to install. Towels come in myriad colors, designs and textures to complement or contrast with

SPECIAL

RONALD REAGAN — With the snow levels down to 3000 feet in the Sierras, an actor's hat is expected to be tossed into the gubernatorial ring when Ronald Reagan goes on state-wide television in a filmed address to be seen locally at 5:30 p.m., ch. 2. The actor will examine the issues as he sees them, focusing on education, crime and the rising costs of state government. (Reagan also gets a paid plug later at 8 p.m., ch. 9, and a free network airing on next week's "Meet the Press."

THE VOLGA — Marvin Kalb is writer and reporter for a view inside the Russia that Americans know little about — the villages and cities along the banks of her greatest river, the 2,300-mile Volga. The "CBS Reports" trip, two months in the filming, was made with permission of the Soviet government, and includes Volgograd (formerly Stalingrad), the town of Ulyanovsk, the Tatar provincial capital of Kazan and remote villages typical of the farming communities where 52% of the Russian people live. The never - before - filmed scenes of Russia's heartland are screened in color at 10 p.m., ch. 2. (Hour next week, also in color, retraces the legendary journey of Ulysses through the Mediterranean, James Mason hosting, with the following two weeks going to a 2-part "National Health Test.")

Tangerines Get the Bird

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

NEVER let it be said that your family has committed to memory those various stages through which the holiday bird goes in its period of departure...

Here's an ideal way to dress up leftover turkey: Tangerine-Turkey Salad. To juicy tangerine sections and pieces of tender cold turkey, add crisp celery, fresh grapes and green pepper. Enhance the mayonnaise dressing with bits of grated tangerine peel.

Delectable California tangerines combine with leftover turkey to make an interesting dish.

Tangerine-Turkey Salad

3 cups cooked diced turkey
3 California tangerines, peeled, sectioned, seeded
1½ cup celery, sliced on bias
¼ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup sliced ripe olives
½ cup seedless grapes or sliced seeded grapes
1 teaspoon grated tangerine peel
Dash salt
¾ cup mayonnaise
Salad greens

In large salad bowl combine diced turkey, sections from 2 tangerines cut into pieces, celery, green pepper, olives and grapes. Blend tangerine peel, salt and mayonnaise; stir through salad ingredients. Chill for one hour or longer. Serve on crisp salad greens. Garnish with remaining tangerine sections. 6 servings.

Tangerine Waldorf Salad

3 California tangerines, peeled, sectioned, seeded
1 apple, unpeeled, cored, diced
1 stalk celery, diced (½ cup)
¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts
¼ cup quartered, ripe olives
¼ to ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg or curry
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup mayonnaise
Salad greens

Reserve sections from 1 tangerine; cut remaining into pieces. In small bowl combine cut tangerine pieces, apple, celery, nuts and ripe olives. Combine nutmeg or curry, salt and mayonnaise, blending well. Add to salad ingredients; toss lightly. Serve on salad greens. Garnish with reserved tangerine sections. 4 to 6 servings.

Tangerine Macaroni Salad

4 California tangerines, peeled, sectioned
2 cups cooked, drained, macaroni
1 cup sliced celery
½ cup sliced radishes
2 to 3 tablespoons sliced green onions
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ cup mayonnaise
Salad greens

Reserve sections from 1 tangerine for garnish; cut remaining sections in half. Combine macaroni, celery, radishes, green onion, parsley and cut tangerine sections in salad bowl. Combine salt, paprika and mayonnaise; stir through salad ingredients, tossing lightly. Serve on salad greens. Garnish with reserved tangerine sections. 6 servings.

Recipe of the Week

TASTY DISH with a Mediterranean flavor wins this week's $5 best recipe prize. The recipe, submitted by Mrs. M. Wolf, 1758 Pine Ave., Apt. 4, Long Beach 90813, follows:

Cannelloni alla Palumbo

1½ cups sifted flour
½ tsp. salt
2 eggs, beaten
¼ lb. butter
1 small onion, minced
3 (8 oz. cans tomato sauce)
Chunk of butter
2 tblsp. flour
½ cup instant coffee cream
1 cup boiling water
Salt and pepper
1½ cups minced cooked chicken
1½ cups dry cottage cheese
2 cups cubed parmesan cheese

Combine flour, salt and eggs, mixing well. Knead on a lightly floured board until smooth. Roll out very thin and cut into twelve 5-inch squares. Cook in boiling salted water for 10 minutes. Drain, rinse and set aside.

In a heavy-bottomed saucepan, melt chunk butter over low heat until frothy. Blend in flour with a wire whip, then cook and stir one minute without browning. Add instant coffee cream, then boiling water all at once and beat with wire whip to blend. Increase heat to moderately high, then cook and stir until sauce comes to a boil and thickens. Remove from heat and stir in seasonings, chicken and cottage cheese.

Place ¼ cup filling on each pasta square and roll. Pour 1 cup tomato sauce in bottom of 2 quart shallow casserole. Top with remaining tomato sauce and cubed parmesan cheese. Bake in 400 degree oven for 25 to 35 minutes or until bubbly and browned.

Makes 12 Cannelloni.

'Hamlet at Elsinore'

To film the "To Be or Not to Be" soliloquy in "Hamlet at Elsinore," Christopher Plummer worked continuously for 12 hours as the action was recorded in 24 separate scenes.

The 3½-hour television production, filmed at Kronborg Castle in Denmark, will be repeated at 7 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 11. Plummer has the title role.

In previous Shakespearian appearances, Plummer has starred in "Julius Caesar," "The Tempest," "Henry V," "Twelfth Night," "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Richard III."

He currently has a featured role in the movie "Sound of Music."

Try Eggplants for Baby Chicks

Youngsters on "Art Linkletter's House Party" on the CBS Television Network have recently come up with these gems of misinformation:

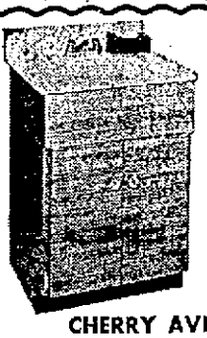

"Eggplants are where baby chicks think they come from."

"A prune is a plum that didn't take care of itself."

"Plants live on the carbon dioxide we breath out. If you want to kill weeds, don't breathe in their direction."

'Have Songs'

Jack Jones will star in an hour-long COLOR special, "Have Songs, Will Travel," for ABC-TV in April. His guests will include Tony Bennett, Milton Berle, Molly Bee, Joanie Sommers and Shani Wallace.

Science for You

By Bob Brown

PROBLEM: The rising bubble.

NEEDED: Soap solution and a glass funnel.

DO THIS: Dip the funnel into the soap solution and withdraw it, so that a film of soapy water is lifted with it. The film will be at the large end of the funnel, but will crawl slowly up to the little end of the funnel if held as shown. (The funnel must be clean and wet with soapy water for this to work successfully.)

HERE'S WHY: The film has two surfaces, both of which act like stretched rubber sheets (surface tension is the term for this). They tend to shrink to the smallest surface area, and their force due to surface tension is great enough to lift the film upward against the pull of gravity. Dirt tends to reduce the adhesive forces due to surface tension.

The Science for You experiments are in two books: "Science Circus" and "Science Circus No. 2." They are in bookstores and libraries.

The Miracle of the Days

By Virginia M. Crill

"VERY WELL," a man says quickly into the telephone while glancing at the calendar, "I'll see you at 10 a.m. on the 16th." A precise appointment which will be kept at an exact time is one of the miracles of today. A miracle not only of clocks but of calendars as well. This was not always the way.

In ancient Egypt you would have planned with your companion to "meet at midmorning on the day the shadow of the pyramid first covers a half-day's travel on the trail to Cairo." And then hope that you both agree on what a half-day's travel amounts to.

If you had wanted to celebrate New Year's Day together there you would have met on the day the Nile overflowed its banks. This occurrence marked not only the beginning of each new year for the Egyptians but also the origin of one of the first known calendars. For it was as long ago as approximately 4000 B.C. that the Egyptians began to count days and noted that the River Nile overflowed approximately every 365 days. For this reason they began each of their new years with its overflow in the spring around the middle of the month we now call June.

THE BABYLONIANS also several thousand years before Christ, began their new year in the spring. But they did not have an overflowing River Nile so they gaged it by the new life in the trees and plants.

Even the Romans who later prepared the record of days which was eventually perfected into our present day calendar, originally preferred March with its signs of new fresh life as the start of the new year. This preference is still apparent in the names of several of our months, for September, October, November and December, while being actually the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th months of our present calendar year are names which derived from the old Latin words meaning seventh (September), eighth (October), ninth (November) and 10th (December).

One of the first recorded calendars known to us today was believed to have been originated by Numa Pompilius in the seventh century B.C. It usually contained 304 days and therefore continually fell behind the solar year. So the priests simply added an extra month when it seemed to be needed. This was a convenient method of handling the situation but what happened to the birthdays of those born in the extra month?

THIS CALENDAR was amended 400 years later by Cnaeus Flavius and improved somewhat but in Cicero's time it was inaccurate by six weeks and in Julius Caesar's time by two months.

And Caesar liked things to be exact. In 46 B.C., he asked an Alexandrian scientist, Sosigenes to aid him in straightening out this record of days. Sosigenes was no mean mathematician. He explained the difference between the lunar year and the solar year. Caesar then decreed that the year on his new calendar should be divided into twelve solar months which would total 365 days and that every fourth year should have an added day.

When Julius Caesar began his calendar reforms there were then only 355 days in each year, which was why it had gradually fallen behind the sun. So he added the needed 10 days, two to January, August and December, and one to April, June, July and September. He also added two months extra to that year, 46 B.C., to bring it up to date with the sun, making it the longest year on record — 445 days.

THEN HE discovered another problem. August which had been named for Augustus Caesar, was one day shorter and therefore inferior to July which had been named for himself, Julius Caesar. This would never do. So he took a day from already short February, added it to August and set up the calendar accordingly.

This calendar which Julius Caesar made was so nearly accurate that except for a minor change made by Pope Gregory, it is still used today.

The one inaccuracy was that Julius Caesar's calendar was gaged to 365¼ days per year while the solar year actually contains a few minutes less—365 days, 5 hours and 48 minutes and 46 seconds to be exact.

It was many centuries before this inaccuracy became apparent.

By 1582 when Pope Gregory XIII decided to make the calendar more accurate it had lost between 10 and 11 days. So he just dropped the ten days. This was accepted in Rome. In Great Britain however, various important people didn't believe his claims and refused to adjust their calendar until 1752, at which time 11 days had to be dropped. They dropped the 3rd through the 13th of September that year.

Calendars in many forms help moderns keep tab on the days, but 'twas not always thus, Somebody always wants to make changes, too.

TO CORRECT this minute inaccuracy for future years, it was decided that the years divisable by 100 would not be leap years unless they were also divisable by 400. Thus the year 2000 will be a leap year but 1900 was not.

The Gregorian calender is now used throughout most of the civilized world except for church holidays which are still often figured according to various ancient calendars.

However in recent years, rumblings of discontent with our present calendar are being heard. Some want a world calendar of 13 months each containing 28 days, leaving the 365th day at the end of each year to be "Year Day." They want a "Leap Day" to be observed between June and Sol. Sol is the name these calendar enthusiasts have decided would be ideal for the extra month to be placed between June and July.

Another proposed calendar change suggested 12 months divided into equal three-month quarters with the first month of each quarter containing 31 days and the remaining two months 30 days each. This calendar would also have a year end day, and a Leap Day between June and July each Leap Year. This calendar presupposes that the first day of each quarter would be Sunday, thus arranging Christmas and the New Year always on a weekend. It was argued that this calendar would make business statistics more easily figured.

But old habits, customs and calendars do not die easily. So check your new calendar for the proper day to celebrate and on New Year's Eve, consider doing as the English did long ago —open the doors of all the houses at midnight so that the spirit of the Old Year may depart with your troubles and the spirit of the New Year may come in from the cold and warm himself at your hearth.

Versatile Plant

Perhaps it isn't fair to fuchsias that their name is synonymous with the word for a particular shade of red. Purplish-red can be a lovely color in a garden, but don't feel, if you want to grow fuchsias, that you're confined to that. If a dainty pink and white is your ideal, you can get spectacular fuchsia blooms in double or single flowers in that combination.

There are blue and white beauties, spectacular oranges ("Orange Drops" is a fine one), pure whites or pinks and other pastel or vivid shades. In fact, one of the most delightful things about this exotic plant is its ability to produce new colors and combinations every year.

Fuchsias are dependable and enthusiastic growers. Fuchsias may look like something from a tropical paradise, but they demand no special diet or unusual care. Yet, they are almost instantly responsive to any attention you give them—especially regular watering and feeding. They're pest resistant, easy to train, and available in varieties that will either grow in bush form, scramble upward against a wall or lattice, or cascade their lush foliage and blooms downward from hanging baskets.

Andy Griffith 'Hippest Country Boy in the World'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Andy Griffith, who has been called "country hip" and referred to further as "the hippest country boy in the world," often meditates these nights as he sits around among his money just how much longer he can continue his corn-shucking profitably on TV . . . and what he'll do after that.

"How long we hang around the top has got to figure in it because if we don't hang around the top, they'll drop us," Andy drawled here the other afternoon.

"Hasn't your Southern accent gotten more Southern the longer you've been on TV?" we asked Andy.

"No sir, I had always had a Southern accent but I just put on a little more. That's what Gomer Pyle does, too," said Andy, "which makes Gomer Pyle a special sort of person.

ANDY GRIFFITH

"In playing this part over the last five years, something the reverse has happened. Along about the second year a woman wrote in saying she liked the show. 'But does he have to use so much incorrect grammar?'

"I said out loud 'Yes I do!' But I started to thinking about it and then we started correcting the grammar, and along with the grammar we started correcting the speech, too.

* * *

"I WILL always be Southern and will always have that small rural attitude. I don't want to lose it. But within the realm of that we have tried to use a little sophistication."

Q: Do you ever have a feeling that you ought to quit while you're ahead?

A: I would not want to stay on so long that I would not enjoy it. If it started to be an uphill struggle, the show would not be enjoyable to the audience either. I think we would be able to stay on for 8 years or 9 years, maybe. But I don't think that's what we should do for ourselves or the people who watch.

Q: If you give up this series, would you do another one immediately?

A: I would not go directly back into television. I'd work clubs and fairs and a motion picture or two and I'd try to act a little . . . not on Broadway . . . I'm just not ready to move my family back to New York . . . Sam's in the second grade and Dixie's in the first. I don't want to move 'em.

Q: You have your own production company?

A: I, like everybody else, have an idea for another show that could come off of our show.

"Guys are so busy trying to stay ahead of just the regular show," he elaborated, "that it's tough to get anything done. Aaron Reuben and I sat in his office for weeks saying 'We ought to do something with Jim Nabors.'

* * *

"ONE DAY Aaron said 'I see some very slick machine and you put this man in that machine and he goofs it up.' He was talking to his wife that night, and she said, 'Why don't you put him in the Marines?' and within six weeks we did the pilot."

And so some part of the Andy Griffith show or somebody on it or who's been a guest on it — Andy won't tell — is probably going to be Andy's next project after the present series ends.

But that may be two, three or four years distant.

BOOK REVIEWS

A Literary Critic's Thinking

WILLIE SNOW ETHRIDGE is the author of a hilarious new book, "YOU CAN'T HARDLY GET THERE FROM HERE" (Vanguard, $4.50.)

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

LITERARY critic extraordinaire Edmund Wilson brings together some 44 essays, reviews, interviews and articles in "THE BIT BETWEEN MY TEETH" (Farrar, Straus, $7.50). They represent Wilson's work between 1950 and 1965. They strengthen Wilson's reputation as America's leading literary critic and one of its keenest social observers.

He writes on the Marquis de Sade, and he writes of mushrooms. Of the marquis he says: "We have never been able to shake him off, because we know that he is not wholly mad, not wholly out of touch with reality—that nauseous and 'hipped' though he is, he is harping on an impulse which he has in common with many other human beings who seem to be sane. But let us hope his moment is passing." He has wise words to say of mycophilia, the love of mushrooms, in a lengthy review of a historical work on the subject.

He can write of Swinburne's letters and novels by first pointing out that "the poetry of Swinburne is now so out of fashion that it seems to have become very difficult to interest people in him at all," but proceed to hold your interest and bait your breath (if that is what a fascinating writer does with your breath) for 31 pages and make the poet as interesting as a space flight.

Then he can turn to the bees and the wasps, reviewing a German scientist's book on the vision, chemical senses and language of bees, which, "though not intended primarily for a popular audience," provides Edmund Wilson with a honey of an essay and the reader with another delightful five minutes' reading.

And that, sirs and madames, is why Edmund Wilson is the reigning prince of the American literary essay.

BUFFALO BILL Cody, Kit Carson and Jim Bridger are famous as mountain men, guides and Indian fighters because of enthusiastic biographers (who would be called press agents today) but they didn't win the West by themselves. Certainly other less known western heroes contributed.

In New Mexico, Arizona and Utah many natural landmarks—creek, fork, wash, spring, mountain pass, prairie and a formation in the Painted Desert—are named Leroux, for an explorer probably as effective as any, although not well publicized.

"THE BLAZED TRAIL OF ANTOINE LEROUX" (Westernlore, $7.50) is the biography by Forbes Parkhill of the young adventurer of French-Spanish descent who migrated from his native St. Louis to Taos, New Mexico territory, land of his Spanish ancestors, to become a trapper and, eventually, guide for exploratory expeditions and punitive missions against marauding Indians.

Unlike most mountain men, Leroux, born in 1801, was literate, a solid citizen who served on governmental bodies and, prior to his death in 1861, the prosperous owner of the large rancho known as the Antoine Leroux grant.

AT THE TIME of World War II, anthropologist Margaret Mead, after living with Samoans and New Guineans and finding out what makes them tick, turned to Americans and sought to find out why they behave as they do in a time of crisis (and who can remember when there hasn't been such a time?) "AND KEEP YOUR POWDER DRY" (Morrow, $5) was written in 1942, and is now reissued in a greatly expanded edition, taking in the years 1943-65.

She discusses what makes this a "middle-class" country. She tells us we tend to see ourselves through European eyes, and why we do it. We have, like all peoples, strengths and weaknesses, and Margaret Mead sums them up, as they are caught by a trained anthropologist's eyes and ears. It is a different way of looking at "the American way of life," and is full of new insights.

SIR HERBERT READ'S major new work, "THE ORIGINS OF FORM IN ART" (Horizon, $6.50) explores the relationship between art and life. He discusses the insights of Tolstoy, Eliot, Malraux, Jung, Freud, Plato and Coleridge, among others; brings together the perceptions of the creative artist, psychoanalyst and philosopher and works out an esthetic theory that celebrates the human psyche.

"CHURCHILL'S HISTORY of the English-Speaking Peoples" arranged in one volume by Henry Steele Commager (Dodd, Mead, $7.95) pulses with the vigor of Churchill's own words as he set them down in the original presentation of his great chronicle.

The gallery of historical portraits is retained—Alfred the Great, Richard the Lion-Hearted, Joan of Arc, Henry VIII, Elizabeth I, Washington, Lincoln, Lee and Victoria. The stirring battle scenes also are here—Hastings, Agincourt, the Spanish Armada, Quebec, Yorktown, Trafalgar, Waterloo and Gettysburg. Other great events are presented in Churchill's grand manner, from the martyrdom of Becket and the signing of the Magna Carta through the Great Plague and the Fire of London to the American Declaration of Independence and the birth of the Constitution of the United States.

SUKARNO'S reasons for resenting the United States and United Nations are important because they probably explain also the position of all Southeast Asia and the emerging Afro-Asian nonaligned bloc. And, as the strongman who has awakened and rallied the world's fifth largest population into a seething, nationalistic force, he commands notice.

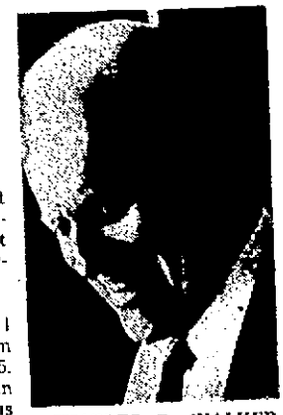

"SUKARNO: An Autobiography" as told to Cindy Adams (Bobbs-Merrill, $6) is his account of his imprisonments as a fiery rebel by Dutch colonial rulers and Indonesia's struggle under his leadership for freedom from the Dutch, and also the Japanese, with whom he had collaborated.

An egotist, proud of his feats, he denies he was a puppet of Japan, or could ever be dominated by communism, because he loves himself too much, and is a devout Moslem. China and Russia have been friendly and helpful but Sukarno insists he's his own man.

His admiration of beautiful women explains why he chose Cindy Adams to help write his book. A newspaperwoman, she was in Djakarta in 1961 with her husband, comedian Joey Adams, who headed President Kennedy's Cultural Exchange Troupe to Southeast Asia, and she interviewed Sukarno then. After U. S. Ambassador Howard Jones persuaded Sukarno to tell his story, Sukarno invited chic, attractive Mrs. Adams to write it.

REAL TRADERS such as Alexander Mackenzie and Peter Skene Ogden move across the pages of "THE FUR TRADER AND THE INDIAN" by Lewis O. Saum, assistant history professor at the University of Washington (University of Washington Press, $7.50. Saum has done a good research job, digging into records set down by the traders themselves about their difficult existence on the edge of civilization.

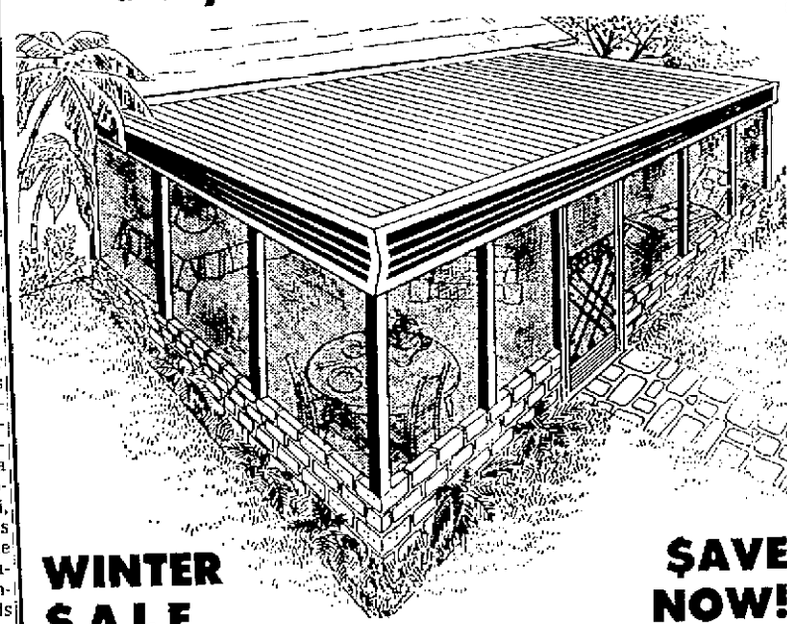

THE EXOTIC Oriental dancer, Mata Hari, burst on luxury-loving Paris in 1905. She became the rage as an entertainer and a voluptuous courtesan. Twelve years later she died at dawn before a French firing squad in the fortress of Vincennes, condemned as a German spy. Was she a spy or a too generous victim of circumstances? Sam Waagenaar probes the mystery in "MATA HARI" (Appleton-Century, $5.95).

CHARLES R. WALKER, industrial consultant, author, translator and inveterate student of Greek tragedy has added a new work to his credit—a translation of two Oedipus plays: "SOPHOCLES' OEDIPUS THE KING AND OEDIPUS AT COLONUS" (paperback Anchor Original, $1.25).

YOUNG PEOPLE'S Concert—For his third of this season's four concerts, Leonard Bernstein offers a 60th birthday greeting to the Russian composer Dmitri Shostakovich, leading the New York Philharmonic in his entire Ninth Symphnoy in salute at 7:30 p.m., ch. 2. Describing the symphony's five movements as "all humorous, every minute," pointing out that it's like a comedy in the theatre, "where you're treated to one joke after another — puns, wisecracks, sight gags, punch lines, surprises and twisteroos." (Final concert, Feb. 22, is the 7th annual show featuring young performers.)

WONDERFUL WORLD of Women — Becoming almost as omnipresent as Bill Welsh, Bill Burrud today launches another series, talking each week with women of five different countries, and decidedly different views and opinions. Opener, at 8:30 p.m., in color, ch. 13, asks questions about love, careers, children, sex and divorce of women from India, Israel, Russia, Japan and Scandinavia.

Tahitian in the Royal Mood

The Royal Tahitian in Ontario claims to be the world's largest Polynesian restaurant.

By Aubrey B. Haines

LAST SUMMER, at the Royal Tahitian Restaurant in Ontario, Duke Ellington and his band appeared in outdoor concert while Rex Stewart played dinner music in one room and Earl Bostic played dance music in another. This summer bigger entertainment plus exotic food is offered.

The newly expanded Royal Tahitian Concert Gardens offer big-name entertainers in an outdoor setting of fire pits, palm trees and lagoons. Japanese lanterns furnish various hues of light as they cover the entire 1,000-seat outdoor theater, which is provided with radiant heat for comfort of patrons. No seat is situated further than 55 feet from the stage.

Having been operating for five years, the Royal Tahitian attracts more than half its luau business from Orange County, the San Bernardino - Riverside area and Los Angeles County. About 45% of its business comes from the immediate Ontario - Pomona - West Covina area.

"THE COMMUNITIES have responded with overwhelming patronage," says Walt Boldig, co-owner of the restaurant. "Each year we try to add something new. Last year we hired Alfredo Reserva, a man of 35 years' experience who had been with the Hotel Del Coronado. Under his direction we've expanded our Sunday buffet to include such foods as Baron of Beef, Lobster Cantonese, eight to ten salads, various fish dishes.

"He bakes all our bread, rolls and pastries, prepares hot and cold vegetables. The man is adept at the culinary art.

"Regarding our entertainment, my partner, Jay Rodriguez, thought of having an outdoor theater. Within a year we offered six concerts, all of which were sold out. Jay believes that entertainers ought to be offered as much for their artistic abilities as for their popularity. Louis Armstrong, whom we're offering late this summer — now in his 50th year in show business — is the jewel of our attractions."

SITUATED at 2525 E. Riverside Dr. in Ontario, on the Whispering Lake Golf Course. The Royal Tahitian is south of the Ontario International Airport and east of Chino. This places it minutes away from the Southland's population centers of Los Angeles - Long Beach, Orange County and San Bernardino-Riverside.

There are two performances nightly in the Concert Gardens beginning at 8 o'clock and at 10:30. Beverages may be bought during concerts. Reservations for inside dining and dancing before and after the concerts may be arranged. Entertainers this fall will include Phyllis Diller, Arthur Lyman, Rusty Warren and Pat Collins.

With so many preparations constantly on the agenda the management has little time to contemplate what is happening next. Nevertheless, they have recently opened two other restaurants: The Casa de Mayo and the Barrister. "The Casa de Mayo is situated in Cucamonga, perhaps more remotely than the Royal Tahitian," Boldig says. "However, it's already won two awards in dining. Our strolling Mariachis and exotic decor make trying to locate us more an adventure than a problem.

"AFTER WE became fascinated with the exotic and spaciousness in restaurant construction, we turned toward creating a distinctive restaurant in the Continental sense: the 45-seat Barrister in the Pomona Civic Center. It has a French maitre d'hotel, captain service and all men waiters. Booths are made of the same underlying upholstery material used in the new Rolls-Royce."

Wherever one sits by a window at the Royal Tahitian, he may look out over a scenic view of landscaped grounds and gardens, which include the spacious golf course. The Royal Tahitian claims to be the world's largest Polynesian restaurant set amid 250 acres of tropical plants and lagoons. It features dining, dancing, entertainment, Polynesian shows, fashion luncheons, Sunday buffet, banquets and luaus.

Each Saturday night the restaurant offers an outdoor luau beside the luau lagoon. Here Polynesian dinner music is performed by the Royal Samoans, or patrons may dance to two American bands. A Polynesian floor show presents famous vocalists and comedians, Tahitian, Hawaiian and Samoan dancers, knife and fire dances, slap dances and a hula contest with Hawaiian Abe.

THE LUAU FEAST includes Lomi Lomi salmon and poi, barbecued ribs a la Hawaiian suckling pig (baked in the restaurant's underground fire pits), honied yams and fried rice, tossed green salad, fresh fruit salad and homemade date nut bread. A five-hour evening of dinner, dancing, and entertainment may be had for about $6.50 a person.

Regularly the restaurant menu includes appetizers such as Tahitian skewers (tender strips of beef marinated and broiled, served on bamboo spear) for $1.50, drinks such as mai tai for $1.90, and meals consisting of such Polynesian specialties as Lobster Cantonese (tender chunks of lobster sauted with Chinese vegetables in a savory sauce) for $4.25 or a Tahitian Mixed Grill (a combination of top sirloin, lobster tail and grilled tomato) for $5.50.

Tray of joy

Room service waiters at Jamaica's Plantation Inn, along the Ocho Rios shore, take guests seriously when they order fruit for breakfast. The tray usually includes a half melon, a half sliced pineapple served in the shell, papaya, grapefruit and a big beaker of orange juice, according to Pan Am travel writers.

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Programs

Program: "Astronauts' Press Conference," aired 8 a.m. Thursday on channel 7.

It is no wonder America's space program is so successful.

When one marvels at the poise of such astronauts as Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. on television —a foreign medium to them—it is not surprising to understand how completely undisturbed they would be during a mere 14 days of space travel.

The major trouble during the record-breaking space flight was a balky fuel cell. The principal difficulty during the televised press conference was a button controlling the switching of slides.

The astronauts handled both situations with aplomb.

Program: "Trials of O'Brien," aired Fridays on channel 2.

Isn't it about time television got around to a good rousing situation comedy series about a divorced couple?

I mean, if you're looking for a vast, untapped audience that wants contemporary realism, there it is.

CBS-TV's new "Trials of O'Brien" series has come pretty close to the target.

The best thing about the weekly show is the relationship of the flamboyant lawyer anti-hero (Peter Falk) and his ex-wife (Joanna Barnes).

The trouble is that "Trials of O'Brien" is so full of hokey, pretentious New Yorkese, scenery-chewing actors and plots that get in the way that the charming divorce relationship is diluted in its effect.

"Trials of O'Brien" probably isn't long for television anyway, what with its very low ratings, but it seems to me that some genius at CBS-TV might pull off a coup by junking the doomed format as it now stands, and keeping Falk and Miss Barnes in their same roles in a brand new situation comedy about divorce.

I'm sure I'm right about all this. People are getting tired of secret-agent spoofs and happy families. They want modern reality. Divorce.

To keep the teen-age televiewing audience happy too, there could be a teen-aged divorced couple outsmarting their divorced elders.

There are a million ways this whole new trend could be handled. You couldn't use the old Jackie Gleason-Audrey Meadows "Honeymooners" love-hate relationship of man and wife because it was much too unfriendly for divorce, although just right for marriage.

A much better idea, for instance, would simply be to take the Dick Van Dyke series and make a few adjustments. As you know, or maybe you don't if you only read the important news in the papers, the Van Dyke series is ending this season.

What I would do is simply take the fictional married couple of Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore, have them get a divorce and bring them back in a new (or continuing) series. There's no reason they couldn't be happy and civilized about the whole thing. It would be a smash.

He'll Bet Smoking Causes Cancer

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

A NEW YORK doctor is so convinced that one type of lung cancer is invariably a result of cigarette smoking that he is willing to bet on it.

Dr. David Spain, a pathologist, says he and his associates will pay $50 to anyone who shows that a victim of squamous-cell lung cancer has not been a heavy cigarette smoker.

This type of lung cancer is marked by flat, scaly cells. About 45% of all lung cancer in men is of this type. There are four possible cell types in lung cancer.

Dr. Spain, clinical professor of pathology at the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center, says he has never seen squamous-cell lung cancer in a nonsmoker.

He says the bet was made some time ago.

"We have had no takers," he told the American Geriatrics Society.

A STUDY conducted in San Diego shows that Navy cooks and bakers suffer from far more tooth decay than do men with other naval ratings.

The study, conducted at the U. S. Naval Training Station there, shows that the cooks and bakers develop 45% more decayed tooth surfaces than do other naval ratings. In addition, they have 35% more tooth surfaces restored and 50% more teeth extracted during service.

The reasons are not clear, according to a report in the U. S. Navy Medical News Letter.

A LOS ANGELES medical specialist says he thinks he has found the ideal dosage concentration for a one-shot-a-month contraceptive drug.

Dr. Edward T. Tyler says the "most promising" combination of ingredients is 150 milligrams of Deladroxone and 10 mg. of estradiol enanthate. Both are hormonal preparations.

Only one cubic centimeter of the combination is required. The injection is given between the seventh and 10th days of the woman's menstrual cycle.

Twenty-five highly fertile women have been given the once-a-month injections, with consistent inhibition of ovulation. Ovulation, of course, must occur before conception is possible.

The report is in Postgraduate Medicine.

INVOLUNTARY bladder control among women patients can sometimes be controlled by a new nonsurgical technique: injection of Teflon particles into the urethra, the channel leading from the bladdder.

Two Florida doctors report that the technique has resulted in normal or near-normal urinary control in four of five female patients.

So far the technique has not been successful for male patients suffering from urinary incontinence.

The new technique was reported to a meeting of the Southern Medical Association.

IF A BABY does a lot of kicking and squirming while still in the womb, he'll develop physical skills faster after birth, research shows.

The more active the baby during the last few months of pregnancy, the higher he scores in physical tests at age 3, 6 and 9 months, according to Dr. C. Etta Awalters at Florida State University's Institute of Human Development.

Convert a Closet to Cedar

By Eleanor Price

WHEN you started wearing your winter woolens and furs and brought out woolen blankets, you may have found tell-tale marks left by moths—a hole here, a hole there. If so, don't put off until another summer the creation of a place for these seasonal articles.

Look over the closets. Can you spare one? It should be a closet that need not be opened and closed constantly, and that, of course, eliminates the children's closets and probably the guest closet at the entrance. It also should be roomy, not tiny. When you have decided, convert the area now, not later, into a cedar closet with shelves as well as a rod. Keep it closed as much as possible, for the complete moth repellent effect of the aromatic red cedar which you use is lost if the door is repeatedly opened and closed or thoughtlessly left ajar.

WHEN COLD weather has gone, and go it will, store woolen blankets on the shelves and hang wool clothes of all family members on the rods. Some you may want to fold and put on the shelves. The consolidation of articles needing protection from the ravages of moths makes their keeping simpler on the housewife.

And if you build a house, try to create a large cedar closet as close to the center of the house as possible. This is the place recommended by interior designers.

Busy is the housewife with the hundred-and-one tasks of the day—breakfast, kids off to school, lunches, laundry, shopping, club, P-T.A., you name it. So it's welcome assistance with menu planning that Southland Magazine offers a weekly recipe for the family menu. Watch for Mildred K. Flanary's cooking column each Sunday in Southland.

SPECIAL

LONG, HOT SUMMER — Plagued by poor ratings, no color, production hassles and the walk-out of its star, Edmond O'Brien, series begins anew at 10 p.m., ch. 7. This week, a new star, as the Ireland-born, Abbey Theater veteran Dan O'Herlihy (late of "Jaimie McPheeters") bows in the Will Varney role. Next week, a distinguished guest, as Geraldine Page makes her filmed TV debut as one of those disturbed Southern belles for which she is famous. And the next week, a new time, as series moves into the vacated "Amos Burke" hour to make room here for the British-filmed "The Baron." Tonight's segment, introducing O'Herlihy, guestars Celeste Holm as a widow whose husband was slain, with Varner suspecting Ben Quick's father of being responsible for the man's death.

WOMEN OFTEN SUFFER
BLADDER & KIDNEY IRRITATION
Resulting in Secondary Backache, Nerve Tension & Loss of Sleep

After 21, twice as many women as men suffer from feeling old, tired, worn out and depressed by losing sleep and worrying about getting up nights, due to common irritation of the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages. This condition, often due to a germ called the colon bacillus, and non-specific germs resulting from colds, bad teeth and minor infections, may cause frequent, urgent and painful urination. These irritations may also cause strong, cloudy urine and sometimes result in secondary backache, headache and nervous tension. Then you should heed the warning from your nerves and try CYSTEX for quick help.

HOW CYSTEX HELPS

New Improved CYSTEX releases a gentle, soothing bacteriostat in acid urine to combat germs which may be causing irritation. This is like a gentle, mildly-antiseptic, soothing bath for the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages. CYSTEX also contains two of the very best known analgesics for soothing, gentle relaxing relief of discomforting pains due to common Kidney and Bladder Irritations.

WORLD WIDE SUCCESS

Formulated by American scientists, CYSTEX has been helping people (in 72 countries) for 40 years to combat the foregoing irritations and thus feel cleansed and refreshed—and because of less nerve tension able to sleep better and feel more vigorous and cheerful. Get CYSTEX from druggist today. See how fast it can help you.

PET PARADE

'People-Dog'

By Eleanor Avery Price

ONE OF the Weimaraner's most beautiful qualities is a sleek, shining appearance. Although this breed has no screens to hide show faults, the dog can parade in beauty until he is old. The handsome Weimaraner pictured today is Ch. Rec-B's Cati von Met, owned by Jack and Helen Houle of Garden Grove, and shown with her breeder, Richard Byrd.

The Weimaraner, one of Germany's fine sporting breeds, is not happy when relegated to a kennel. He is a "people-dog," and wants to be inside with the rest of the family. He learns to conduct himself well so he will be welcome as a member.

Any dog, with rare exceptions such as the Weimaraner, kept indoors needs more brushing than an outdoor dog, for his jacket is more or less always shedding. Perhaps not enough to notice, but quite consistently. A smooth-coated dog makes a better indoor dog than a long-coated unless you don't mind obvious hairs on the rugs and chairs.

A FEMALE dog may shed more than a male, for she often starts dropping hair about 12 to 14 weeks after the onset of each season whether she has been bred or not. She will get a new coat just as quickly with good care as she will if given expensive medicines. The good care consists of correct diet with adequate fat, considerate housing, plenty of exercise, and a lot of brushing and hand massaging. The brushing and massaging will eliminate loosened hair better than anything else. If the dog scratches profusely because the shedding itches, there may be some irritation. This can usually be soothed with camomile or a bit of bactine spray.

It may alarm you to note that, during heavy shedding, the dog's entire body may be influenced. The flesh may lose tone, and the pet may not be his usual gay self. This will pass when the coat starts to return.

PERHAPS nothing is so pleasing to a dog as the hand massage. It calms his nerves and makes him feel loved. Hand oil also helps make him gleam. You can also use a silk cloth, chamois, or a soft cloth slightly dampened with water.

Natural oils in a dog's coat are removed by baths, so do not bathe often. If your pet gets muddy, wipe him off quickly. If a bath is necessary, use a bath tub, if you don't mind chancing a crick in your back, or use a laundry tub. In sunny weather, snub the dog outside, attach a garden hose to an indoor faucet, and make the water comfortably warm. Plug the dog's ears with cotton and put a drop of mineral oil in each eye. Shampoo, then rinse well. Remove ear plugs and gently swab the ears with clean cotton. Towel dry, then use your hair dryer. It may make his coat stand up for a few hours, but that's better than getting him chilled in winter.

ENTRIES are being taken for Orange Empire Dog Club's show and obedience trial Jan. 30 at National Orange Show Grounds, San Bernardino. Superintendent is Jack Bradshaw, 727 Venice Blvd., Los Angeles.

Sled dog races are scheduled by the California Sled Dog Club at the summit of Palm Springs Aerial Tramway on Jan. 15-16; Jan. 22-23; Jan. 29-30. Races start at 11 a.m.

Weimaraners, like this beauty shown by breeder, enjoy people, and like to be with their families.

Special for a Little Doll

Susie France finds this revolving doll house is great for playtime hours.

By Steve Ellingson

EDUCATORS tell us that the early years, from infancy to eight, are the most important years for a child's will to learn. They also say that when we give youngsters a challenging environment during these early years, that they reach a higher adult level of intellectual capacity. Consequently the things we give children to play with has a great bearing on their future.

Doll houses are highly recommended for little girls. To be able to arrange and re-arrange the rooms, the people and the fixtures call for just the right amount of creativity and imagination. The doll house pictured with Susie France (see photo) revolves much like a motion picture stage. The easy access permits the little homemaker to move things about as her play requires. Also, more than one child can play with this house at one time without being in each other's way.

STANDARD plastic doll house furniture, found in all dime stores, is the correct size for this house. The rooms surround an outdoor patio, which also may be decorated. The entire house, including the base, is made from one sheet of ¼ inch plywood. Construction is easy with the full size pattern. You need only trace the pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and put them together. Complete directions and illustrations are included to help the most inexperienced amateur turn out a professional looking job.

To obtain the circular doll house pattern No. 329 send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

BULLETIN: FIRST 10 MONTHS OF 1965 IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA*

Anthony builds more pools than the next fifteen single pool builders combined!

WHY ANTHONY?

We believe that much of the overwhelming preference for Anthony results from the recommendation of satisfied pool owners. Here are some of the reasons:

DEPENDABLE ACCESSORIES. At our 15 acre facility we manufacture our own top-quality line of pool parts and accessories. Our reputation for the dependability of our filters, heaters, water purifier, and pool cleaner—plus the assurance of service on all equipment from one source—is one of the big reasons many people recommend Anthony Pools.

FINANCIAL BACK-UP. The warranties of a builder or manufacturer depend on his ability to back them up. Ask any builder for his financial statement. Here is Anthony's current financial back-up: Cash, $1,265,567; Total net worth, $3,050,832.

IT'S EASY TO JOIN THE POOL OWNER SET. On ten-year financing, a complete pool can be yours for very low monthly payments. For example, a loan balance of $2000 runs only $26.67 a month. Is it any wonder so many young families are adding an Anthony pool to their way of life?

*Per most recent building permits reported by Independent reporting service, Anthony also built more pools than all franchised pool builders combined!

Daffodils: The Poet's Choice

Daffodils herald spring for both gardeners and poets and now is the time to plant them.

By Edward Gottlieb

DAFFODILS, the trumpets of spring, have long stirred poets to create memorable lines. These flowers which once grew wild around the Mediterranean Sea have become the "love star" and "daffydowndillies" of some of the world's greatest poets. To Shakespeare, daffodils "came before the swallow dared," and through Wordsworth, readers have envisioned "a host of golden daffodils."

For gardeners, as well as poets, daffodils herald spring. Unlike poets, few gardeners are satisfied with writing lyrics about these lovely spring flowers. For the fall planter, "a host of golden daffodils" means the more than 10,000 registered named varieties from which his spring selection will be made.

The choice could be bewildering, but the Dutch bulb growers, who supply most of the daffodil bulbs, suggest that gardeners become familiar with the major classes or divisions to simplify selection. Individual varieties come and go and many one-time favorites are now obsolete. Some of the newest daffodils to catch the fancy of hybridists and specialists have begun to prove themselves as garden subjects. The major classes of daffodils are well established, and provide the home gardener with a sound basis for selection.

Daffodils are classified by the form of the flowers. Here is an outline of the major classes:

TRUMPET DAFFODILS—These are the familiar large flowers with the long cup, and are basic in every spring garden. They may be yellow ("King Alfred," "Unsurpassable") or white ("Mount Hood," "Beersheba"). They are valued for their size and clarity of form.

LARGE-CUPPED DAFFODILS—Although the cup is shorter than in the Trumpet daffodils, it is still long in relation to the petals. Both cup and petals may be colored ("Fortune"), or only the cup is colored and the petals are white ("Flower Record"). A daffodil is said to be "colored" when any part is some color other than white. For example, the slender long cup of "Mrs. R. O. Backhouse," a popular daffodil in this group, is a pale apricot while the petals are ivory-white.

SMALL-CUPPED DAFFODILS—As their name signifies, the cup is small—less than one-third the length of the petals. The petals may be the same color as the cup ("Edward Buxton"), or the cup may be colored and set off against white petals ("Verger"). Both cup and petals may be white in other daffodils in this group ("Chinese White").

DOUBLE DAFFODILS—Although there may be only a single flower to a stem, the flower is double—that is, the petals have multiplied to produce a resemblance to a full-blown rose. These sumptuous daffodils may be all yellow ("Inglescombe"), yellow-petaled with an orange center ("Texas"), or will have a colored cup against white petals ("Mary Copeland").

TRIANDRUS HYBRIDS—These daffodils are always white. They produce up to six flowers on one stem, and are available in both small-cupped and long-cupped varieties. The petals are usually sharply reflexed, or bent backwards. "Thalia" is a well-known variety in this group.

CYCLAMINEUS HYBRIDS—They are charming dwarf daffodils with drooping orange-yellow cups, bent sharply backwards, and lemon-yellow petals. "Baby Doll" and "February Gold" are two well-known examples.

JONQUILLA HYBRIDS—The jonquils are familiar flowers, much appreciated for their fragrance. They are characterized by rush-like foliage, and usually have several flowers on one stem. They are often a pale buttercup yellow ("Trevithian").

TAZETTA—Also known as "poetaz" daffodils, this group includes many doubles and produces clusters of flowers on one stem. Its color range is large: yellow cup against white petals ("Laurens Koster," "Cheerfulness"), orange cup and yellow petals ("Scarlet Gem"), or all yellow ("Yellow Cheerfulness").

POETICUS—Flowers have white petals with shallow, saucer-like yellow cups edged orange or red ("Actea"). They are usually well-defined daffodils which add a bright luminous note to the spring garden.

There are other divisions of daffodils, including many wild and hybrid forms. Some varieties bloom very early—others, like those in the Tazetta or Poeticus groups, are in bloom at the same time as late-flowering tulips. Some varieties multiply faster than others.

When making bulb selections for fall planting, Dutch bulb growers suggest that gardeners plant a few varieties of early and late-blossoming daffodils. They can be planted in small clumps of 12 to 25, in natural settings or to complement tulips and other spring-flowering bulbs—or planted "en masse" where they will be seen to their best advantage as a "host of golden daffodils."

Convert Bare Slopes to Beauty

Bare slopes can be made into areas of beauty, according to the California Association of Nurserymen. Success depends upon two things, primarily: good local advice on the varieties to use and careful planting.

The plant material used should be adapted to your climate and require a minimum of maintenance. Here are some popular ground covers for California slopes:

Algerian ivy has glossy, heart-shaped foliage in medium green or green with cream variegation and is a favorite where conditions approach the impossible. Where there is little soil and mostly rock, rooted cuttings are planted in straw held down with chicken wire.

There are also three excellent creeping manzanitas.

Garden Clubs

"South Coast Botanic Gardens" will be the topic of Mrs. Frances Young at a meeting of Belmont Heights Garden Club at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Wesley Hall, 317 Termino Ave. Mrs. Murlel Oyaas will preside and tea committeewomen will be Remona Jones, Ruth La Flash, June Moller, Stella Ward, Louise Wieding and Anna Woods. Visitors are welcome.

Liz Taylor Makes TV Singing Debut

SAMMY DAVIS JR., LIZ TAYLOR AND RICHARD BURTON

ELIZABETH TAYLOR is going to make her singing debut on television for a $320 fee.

Her husband, Richard Burton, will present a solo number from "Camelot" and then join his lovely wife in warbling "What Are the Common Folk doing?"

The pair, who could probably gross a half-million dollars for their act, are each doing it for the $320 scale figure and friendship.

They'll appear with Sammy Davis to help him start his new variety series at 8:30 p.m. Friday on channel 4 in COLOR.

As for Liz' singing, hubby Richard comments: "She has a great voice for cooling soup."

WITH LIZ TAYLOR and Richard Burton on the opener, what can Sammy possibly do for an encore the following week?

"I've got Sean Connery," said Sammy. "Also Frank Sinatra."

Filmdom's James Bond and the Thin Singer also will gross the $320 scale sum each.

Sammy has been trying for years to get his own television show.

"Finally," he said, "someone at NBC-TV was big enough to realize that people will watch me as long as I entertain them—no matter what my color.

"I'll give the show all Sammy Davis has."

Leg Expert

What does long-stemmed Juliet Prowse think of the new shorter skirts? Not much. "A lot of men have nice legs," says the star of NBC-TV's "Mona McCluskey" series, "but few women do."

$300,000 Fellowship

Establishment of the Edward R. Murrow Fellowship for American Foreign Correspondents has been announced by the Council on Foreign Relations.

The fellowship was made possible by a $300,000 grant from the CBS Foundation, affiliated with CBS radio and television networks.

Murrow, during World War II, was a CBS radio reporter in war-torn London. Murrow, who died on April 27 last year, also served as director for the U. S. Information Agency.

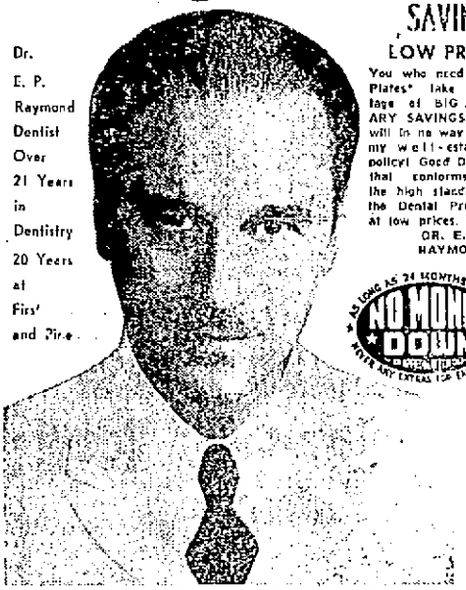

The fellowship will be granted annually to an American foreign correspondent. The purpose is to enable the annual winner to study events abroad without concern about daily deadlines.

How to Prune Fruit Trees

By Joe Littlefield

All-America Selections Photos

Home-grown vegetables are best by all tests, and of these, award winners like Gold Nugget squash and Butter King lettuce, are "tops."

FRUIT trees — peaches, nectariness, plums, and apricots—are pruned during the dormant winter season when the trees are leafless. Best place to study and observe how deciduous fruit trees are pruned, is to observe them in a commercial orchard after they have been pruned. If your neighbor harvests good crops from his fruit trees, study his trees after they have been pruned, then do likewise to your trees.

The first pruning principle to keep in mind is to cut close to just above a leaf, a bud (node), a side branch, or close to the trunk if you are cutting off a large branch, as the case may be.

Next cut off dead branches and dead twigs, branches that cross and rub on good nearby branches, then cut out branches that bore fruit last summer.

Now, you are ready to do the critical pruning for good fruit production.

MOST OF the fruit on apricots is borne on year-old wood. This means, if the apricot variety has fruit buds near tips of long, year-old branches, don't trim them back. If branches are thickly clustered trim some out to allow more light. Branches with fruit buds in the middle section should be cut back one-third their length. Branches with fruit buds in lowest area should be cut one-half to two-thirds their total length.

Peaches may need more drastic pruning than any of the others. The fruit grows on twigs and branches of last summer growth. Thin out closely set branches, then cut remainder back one-third of their length to shape the tree. The remainder twigs (short growths on branches) will bear most of the fruit.

Nectarines are closely related to the peaches and set best fruit in the central third section of year-old branches.

PLUMS produce fruit on short stubby growths for some years. The main pruning done is to cut back the long whip-like growths about two-thirds of their length growth, also trim out thickly set branches.

The pruning recommendations discussed are for normal size deciduous fruit trees, not the dwarf fruit trees. Don't prune flowering peaches, plums, cherries, or crab apples, till they finish flowering.

Spray dormant fruit trees for leaf curl after they've been pruned. The fruit trees are sprayed with fungus type spray just before the buds begin to swell.

Roses are sprayed with a combination spray consisting of an oil emulsion spray and fungus spray.

There are several such dormant sprays available at nurseries. Gardeners may mix the two separate sprays to combine as one spray.

BROWN ROT is a fungus that attacks fruiting twigs and sometimes flowers and fruit of the stone fruits. The infested fruit rots on the tree, shrivels and dries and sometimes hangs on throughout the season. Trim out such twigs and remove any of the shriveled fruit. Spray with fungus spray when flower buds start to show color, again when final petals are falling off.

Home Grown Best

By W. Ray Hastings

FRESH garden vegetables, as everyone knows, are far superior to any that are shipped or processed. Such as peas and sweet corn lose nearly half of their sugar content in 24 hours from picking; two-thirds of their sugar sweetness turns to tasteless starch in 48 hours.

The only way to enjoy garden fresh vegetables is to grow them at home for gathering just in time to prepare the meal. Or, have a kindly neighbor with a garden. Local market gardeners used to help but not many are left to visit or deliver to our doors.

Especially, the tender and salad vegetables must be grown at home for good eating. Peas and sweet corn, also snap and lima beans, beets, carrots, radishes, turnips, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, collards, cucumbers, squash, cantaloupes, and especially lettuce, tomatoes and herbs.

ANOTHER VERY important consideration is that the great bulk of vegetable varieties today are not bred for home and local market garden use. For shipping, commercial canning and freezing, with labor scarcity and high costs of harvesting, packing and shipping, suitable varieties are bred to withstand machine picking, cleaning, grading, packing, shipping or processing.

Some vegetables, like beans, okra and summer squash, should be picked and cooked when young and tender. Carrots and beets are better when small. Loose leaf lettuce is allowed to mature as outer leaves are discarded, but the blanched inner leaves should have small refined midribs, all edible.

Late or winter squash is usually allowed to mature completely. It develops a hard shell-like skin and holds well in storage for winter baking uses. Bush Acorn or Table Queen and the new Gold Nugget are compact bush varieties for home garden use.

AWARD VARIETIES, All-America Selections, are chosen for superior quality, primarily for home garden use, as well as for uniformity and yield, disease resistance and weather tolerance.

Seed packets and seed catalog listings showing the All-America award emblem or notice may be depended upon for the best of their types and for their home garden quality. Order always by variety name.

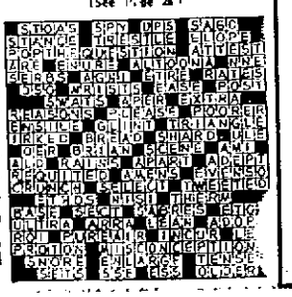

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week ... Check the camellias in bloom now at your nursery and see if they're the ones you've been looking for. Remember that camellias bloom when they're dormant, so you can move or plant them in full bloom safely for instant color.

To keep a poinsettia plant flowering for several weeks, place it in your sunniest window and keep it out of drafts. Water it whenever the soil begins to feel dry to the touch. To increase humidity, place the pot on a saucer filled with pebbles to which water has been added.

The All America Rose Selections for 1966, Matterhorn, (white hybrid tea) American Heritage, (ivory-yellow and scarlet hybrid tea) and Apricot Nectar (apricot floribunda) are arriving at your C.A.N. nursery now. Make your selection early to avoid disappointment. If you're too busy to plant them now, heel them into the ground until after the holidays.

Rainy Day Amusement

SHUT IN BY bad weather, a youngster is soon filled with boredom. The plaint is "What can I do now?" when the usual routine of indoor games is played out. Here's a look-see that may help.—HI SIBLEY.

A blackboard takes only wall space and appeals to youthful imaginations, as well as being educational. Two or three children can compete in drawing contests, games of tic-tac-toe and can brush up on their arithmetic.

Slide-out shelf is an idea. Can be slid out of way still set up after child tires of play there.

any desired color scheme. Apothecary jars can be obtained in many sizes and are most attractive when filled with tiny colored soaps or bath crystals. Bathroom and facial tissues, too, can lend an inexpensive touch of elegance to the bath. Lady Scott tissues in gold, green, pink or blue, mix or match with other accessories to create the Total Look that is so important in bath decor these days.

THOSE WHO feel that an oversized old-fashioned bath is a decorator's nightmare and might best be ignored, might consider partitioning this room to create a separate dressing area. If floor-to-ceiling partitions don't seem practical, an imaginative room divider might be the answer. Once its dimensions have been determined, this little room can take on a highly individualized decorating scheme — Spanish, Art Noveau, Greek Revival —whatever appeals to the individual who is going to use it.

Scouting second-hand furniture stores is a pleasant way to discover treasures for the dressing room. Because it is a small area and one that is not in constant use, one can safely wield a free hand in selecting dressing table, mirror and frame. An antique Spanish chest might hold jewelry or cosmetics, while a giant ceramic ashtray provides a home for small clutter. This is the one spot in the house where one can let imagination take over.

The Day of the Dual Hanging

GERVASIO withdrew the knife, wiped it in the sand, and cut the bonds that fastened his love.

"He will stand between us no more," Gervasio told her.

Together they dragged his body behind some bushes and covered it with rocks and brush. Mounting the two horses, they fled into Los Angeles.

Investigation later showed the footprints of a man and woman, and everyone knew who had committed the crime, which was discovered by two Indian boys.

There was but one place they could go, and that was the Plaza. A small posse soon located them.

Holy Week festivities were in progress. No one had paid attention to the two fugitives as they rode into town.

Dona Maria and Gervasio later were taken into custody and placed in separate jail cells; he was chained.

AN ANGRY crowd gathered and demanded their release so that they could hang them. The guards refused to deliver the prisoners, but were overpowered. The rebels would have been taken had not the priests intervened.

Monday, after the celebration ended, the crowd gathered and demanded the release of Gervasio so that he could be executed.

The prisoners were granted no absolution, nor the opportunity to confess. When they went to get Gervasio he had almost succeeded in filing through his chains. No one knew whence came the file; it was surmised that it had been thrown through an open window.

Hesitating no longer, the guards took Gervasio outside, placed him against a wall and asked if he had any last request before execution.

"Viva! Cara Mia, Maria!" he shouted.

Maria knew what had happened. Would they come for her next? She soon found out.

She walked beside those who led her across the Plaza.

"Cowards!" she taunted. "Miscreants! Goats! I do not wish to live without Gervasio, the only man I ever loved. We shall be together. Bury me beside him."

Her wish was fulfilled.

FINE FOOD COCKTAILS
Ken's
RESTAURANT

MANY TIMES a week, the following friendly exchange occurs between Rex Welch and guests at his large, fashionable restaurant, Welch's, 4401 Atlantic Ave. at San Antonio Drive in Long Beach.

GUEST (VERY HAPPILY): "My, that was a wonderful dinner! But there's something my husband and I just can't understand. How can you charge such low prices and still stay in business?"

WELCH (JOKINGLY): "Well, we're not interested in making money. We're just trying to make people happy and have a little fun while we're doing it!"

The guest and her husband depart laughing, aware that in his joshing way Welch has told them only part of the story. Welch's, now in its 18th year of operation, has always been one of Southern California's most successful restaurants, thanks to superb food, excellent service, refreshing atmosphere and proper management. During 1965 the restaurant eclipsed all its previous successes by attaining a 20% increase in dinner volume.

Its stepped-up volume explains why Welch's can charge laughably low prices and still operate at a profit. Since the introduction of its $1.95 prime-rib au jus dinner, the restaurant has enjoyed a fabulous popularity. That dinner, including soup du jour or fine salad; whipped potatoes or baked potato, fresh rolls and beverage, would cost considerably more in other quality restaurants (and wouldn't necessarily be as good). Because it maintains high standards of service and quality, despite its low tabs, Welch's continually attracts new patrons who in turn tell their friends about their discoveries.

—Caricature by PETE WILLETTE

REX WELCH
Making People Happy

Other popularly priced dinner entrees at Welch's include grilled swordfish, $1.75; mahi-mahi fish Tahitian, $1.75; deviled northern crab, $1.50, and a juicy New York cut steak with mushrooms, $3.50. All are consistently outstanding.

SUNDAY TREAT—Exceptional beef Stroganoff, rich and flavorful, is often hard to find. However, there's one place in Long Beach which always does a superlative preparation job on this delicacy, employing sour cream, wine and herbs. At Francois Manhattan, 1909 E. 4th St. (one of America's best restaurants), it's $3.95, with continental appetizers, soup served in a tureen, tossed salad, beverage and dessert.

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, Parade, 733 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. Is it true that the White House is trying to prevent Bobby Baker from writing his memoirs because of possible embarrassment to Lyndon Johnson?—L. T., Chillicothe, Ohio.

A. No. Baker has begun his book, has hired the Ashley Famous Agency to represent him.

Q. The story wasn't carried in the American press, but didn't Princess Margaret and Tony have a quarrel with plane passengers on their trip home from Bermuda after their tour of the U.S.A.? I believe the fight was with a Colonel Scott. Would you print the truth?—Asa Jackson, New York, N.Y.

A. On the BOAC flight that carried Princess Margaret and her husband home, first-class passengers were told they would have to accept tourist-class seats for that particular flight. Col. Murray Scott and his ill wife refused to give up their first-class seats in the compartment reserved for Princess Margaret and her party. There was no quarrel. Margaret and Tony were most gracious to the Scotts en route to London.

Q. Barry Goldwater's wife—wasn't she operated on for cancer in St. Joseph's, Phoenix?—Helen Alarcon, Carlsbad, N. Mex.

A. No, it was a hysterectomy, also a nonmalignant tumor was removed.

Q. Has Marlene Dietrich ever been divorced from Rudolf Sieber, her husband? Is she really hated in her native Germany? Does she have any talent?—M. Hartog, Baltimore, Md.

A. Dietrich has not been divorced. She was against Hitler and the Nazis in World War II and is therefore not widely loved by the Germans some of whom regard her as unloyal. She has scant singing or dancing talent but great stage presence.

Q. What does "laser" stand for? Who invented it?—V. C. Allen, Lubbock, Tex.

A. "Laser" stands for "light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation." The ownership of the basic laser patents is currently in legal dispute involving three physicists, Richard Gould, Charles H. Townes, Arthur L. Schawlow.

Q. It seems incredible to me that Elizabeth Taylor and her husband are each paid $100,000 a week overtime. Say it isn't so.—Elaine Margolis, Madison, Wis.

A. It isn't so. Miss Taylor gets $100,000 per week overtime, but Richard Burton gets only $75,000 per week overtime.

Q. Bobby Kennedy and his wife do so much traveling. Who minds the store when they're away? — Louis Morantz, Portland, Ore.

A. The Kennedys have 17 in help.

Q. How many war veterans in the U.S.?—G. T. Knox, St. Louis, Mo.

A. Approximately 21,625,000.

Q. You cannot tell me that someone hasn't put the fix in with the Selective Service for heavyweight champion Cassius Clay. How can this man be classified 4F, unfit for military service, and knock out such fighters as Sonny Liston and Floyd Patterson?—Charley Hennessy, Boston, Mass.

A. Cassius Clay has been examined twice, once at the Armed Forces Examination Station in Coral Gables, Fla., a second time at the Station in Louisville, Ky. His physical condition is excellent, but on both occasions he was unable to pass the mental and aptitude tests given by the Army. His level of intelligence does not meet the minimum military standards.

Q. Who was America named after—an Italian or an Englishman?—Brad Foster, New Haven, Conn.

A. It is popularly assumed that it was named after Amerigo Vespucci, the Medici shipping tycoon, but some historians now claim it was named in honor of an Englishman, Richard Amerycke, a high sheriff of Bristol who was the principal backer of John Cabot's voyage of discovery to the North American mainland.

Q. What is the truth about Kim Novak's back? I heard she hurt it on her honeymoon which is why she had to quit the movie she was making in England.—Bonnie Gray, Baltimore, Md.

A. The actress [with her husband below] hurt her back when she fell off a horse in France where she was filming The Eye of the Devil with David Niven.

Q. There's a simply marvelous story about Swifty Morgan, the guy who hangs around comedians, and J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI. If the story can be printed, will you print it?—A. P. S., Del Mar, Calif.

A. One version: Swifty Morgan is a lovable old character who peddles watches from time to time. He is well-known, well-liked in show business circles. One afternoon at the Del Mar race track Swifty spotted J. Edgar Hoover who regularly attends the races. He approached Hoover and offered to sell him a diamond wrist watch for $1500. Supposedly Hoover examined the watch, listened patiently to Swifty's sales pitch, then offered Morgan $500 for the timepiece. "You must be kidding!" exclaimed Swifty. "The reward on it alone is $750."

Q. Recently I saw a photo of the late President Kennedy with the following poem beneath it:

"When he shall die
Take him and cut him out in little stars.
And he will make the face of heaven so fine
That all the world will be in love with night,
And pay no worship to the garish sun."

Who is the author, his wife, Jackie?—R. E. Young, Buffalo, N.Y.

A. The lines are from Act III, scene II of Romeo and Juliet by William Shakespeare.

One servicewoman who got into action, SFC Betty Adams helps Vietnamese organize Women's Army Corps.

SHOULD WE SEND OUR WOMEN SOLDIERS TO VIETNAM?

by JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The WAC lieutenant, who but for her uniform could have passed for a trim, attractive housewife, fixed this reporter with her bright blue eyes and demanded pertly, "What kind of delicate creatures do the brass think we are? There's a war going on in Vietnam, but you have to be a civilian to get assigned there. Women are fighting in the jungles with the Viet Cong. Yet we aren't allowed to dirty our dainty hands."

She slammed down a picture of a Russian girl in Red Army uniform, squinting over the sights of an automatic rifle. "Look at that," she said indignantly. "The girl can't even hold the thing properly." In another office, a WAC major, gray and grandmotherly, echoed the same complaint. "Women fought as hard as the men to build this country and shot as many Indians," she grumped. "You'd think we were a bunch of sissies."

These WAC officers are not ardent feminists pleading for equality of the sexes on the battlefield. But they speak for a growing number of servicewomen who feel they have been left out of the Vietnam emergency. Scarcely a dozen WACs have wangled duty in Vietnam, and apart from nurses, none of the other services have women in the battle zone. Many have volunteered; others would be willing to go.

Yet despite the demand for more manpower in Vietnam, the Armed Forces aren't bothering to recruit their authorized strength of 2 per cent womanpower. Furthermore, no real recruiting drives are planned. The services seem quite content to go along with the present level of one woman for every 100 men.

TYPEWRITER SOLDIERS

Of the 9937 WACs, 5700 WAFs, 5690 WAVES and 1893 lady Marines now on active duty, less than 2000 have been shipped overseas. Most of these chosen few have been sent to safe, snug countries and have been given nothing more dangerous to handle than a typewriter. They are secretaries, clerks and typists, except for a few who have acquired Space Age skills and work with computers and electronics.

The Navy has sent 24 enlisted women to sea; all are assigned to transport ships to help handle dependents. Even the few WACs on duty in Saigon stay far from the fighting areas. Lt. Col. Judith Bennett of Corsicana, Tex., and Sgt. First Class Jane Szalobryt of Washington, N.J., are helping to train South Vietnamese WACs. Lt. Phyllis Puffer of Iron River, Mich., is doing intelligence work. One enterprising WAC, Maj. Janet Ziegler of Orange, N.J., wangled orders to go to Vietnam as a communications officer after her husband, a Red Cross official, was sent to Saigon. The other WACs in South Vietnam—two officers and seven NCO's—are holding down the usual desk jobs.

Servicewomen at home believe there are dozens, perhaps hundreds, more jobs that they could fill to relieve men for combat. The military's huge headquarters in Saigon, for instance, teems with secretarial and clerks' jobs, many of which are filled by GI's or by Vietnamese help. Even switchboard operators have been enlisted men. Servicewomen point out that some of their number can man aircraft control towers, run PX's, work in public relations offices, administer message centers—all of which are important in a big military operation.

The fact that a few WACs are serving in Vietnam indicates there is no official barrier against them, and the Pentagon says officially that volunteer applications are being accepted. But it is also admitted quietly that such service is being "discouraged." In fact, Col. Maribeth Simpson, a WAC personnel officer, has sent a stern note to the Army command in Saigon, insisting

Even switchboard operators have been enlisted men. Servicewomen point out that some of their number can man aircraft control towers, run PX's, work in public relations offices, administer message centers—all of which are important in a big military operation.

The fact that a few WACs are serving in Vietnam indicates there is no official barrier against them, and the Pentagon says officially that volunteer applications are being accepted. But it is also admitted quietly that such service is being "discouraged." In fact, Col. Maribeth Simpson, a WAC personnel officer, has sent a stern note to the Army command in Saigon, insisting that WACs be requested only for "appropriate" jobs. "There will be no escalation of the war as far as the WACs are concerned," she said emphatically.

The primary reason for keeping servicewomen out of Vietnam (even though many served with distinction in many combat zones during World War II) is a fatherly attitude of protection. A second reason is a recent policy that regards the women's services as an elite force on which to build only in time of general mobilization; women are to be tried out in various jobs, but there is to be no attempt, short of a national emergency, to relieve every possible man for battlefield duty.

Still a third reason why women are not being sent to Vietnam is that the services in recent years have evolved into something far different than they were in the beginning. During World War II American servicewomen were regarded as "soldiers in skirts" and were treated as such. But today the military aspects are played down and femininity and glamour played up. During basic training girls spend as much time studying the arts of make-up and good grooming as the military arts. More attention is paid to the rise and fall of hemlines than to the ebb and flow of battle lines. "Sometimes," said a WAC officer, "we have to speak to girls to make sure their skirts aren't dragging the ground when short skirts are in style."

The prettiest and most poised girls get the best jobs, usually as receptionists for the brass. For the top secretarial posts in the Pentagon, applicants from the women's services are screened almost as carefully as contestants for Miss America. They must not only be lookers but must have charm to soothe tired generals and admirals. Before a girl is given a job with the Secretary of Defense or any of the service secretaries, she is checked over personally by her commander in the WACs, WAVES, WAFs or Marines.

The servicewomen of World War II were given "bivouac" training—how to survive in the open, rig pup tents and move noiselessly at night. They also spent time on the firing range and performed all kinds of rugged jobs. But today the tough training has been abandoned for frilly courses on make-up and hair-dos.

They are still taught such military subjects as weapons familiarization. But they no longer go into the field to fend for themselves, and the M-1 and M-14 rifles are considered too heavy for a mere slip of a girl to handle. "I know some Girl Scouts who are more rugged than we are," snapped one NCO.

Many GI Janes toughen up on their own with private classes in judo and karate. A few, also privately, have gone in for marksmanship with pistol or rifle. "You never know when it might come in handy," said one pretty young thing in Air Force blue.

But the ladies of the Armed Forces no longer drive trucks and work as grease monkeys. The official attitude, as expressed by a Pentagon spokesman, is that they "cannot be employed at jobs that are not in conformance with the present cultural pattern of utilizing women's services in this country." The work must be "psychologically and sociologically" suitable.

The Armed Forces are more concerned with quality than quantity and indeed, today's servicewomen are better educated than their mothers and aunts of World War II. The number of women in uniform fell from a peak of 266,256 in 1945 to a low of 14,458 in 1948. The Korean War stimulated recruitment, and the women's forces jumped in strength to 48,675. Then the number began dwindling again.

If the Armed Forces treat their women like clinging vines, a woman is probably to blame. In the early 1950's, rivalry between the WAVES and WAFs became so intense that the Air Force recruited Jacqueline Cochran, glamorous pilot and beauty specialist, to improve WAF standards.

The Air Force, Miss Cochran declared, should pay more attention to recruiting women with good looks and good figures. She suggested they should be at least 61 inches tall but not more than 72 inches. Taking solemn heed, the Air Force at once set up a four-week grooming course for its recruits.

HAIR-DOS TO NAIL POLISH

Now all the women's forces teach grooming—everything from hair-dos to nail polish, all of which must be neat, modest and ladylike. Physical training is designed to keep the ladies "fit and slender." Service girls who gain too much weight must reduce and are not permitted to wear exotic make-up or beehive hair-dos in uniform. WAVES are given careful instruction in etiquette, posture, hair styling and the selection and care of clothing. They are told that the Navy doesn't consider boyish bobs, clipped necklines and extremely short hair as properly feminine.

The girls like to look smart and trim, but they don't think they need someone inspecting whether they washed behind the ears. They dislike being overprotected.

They also complain of too much chaperoning. New recruits, before going on overnight leave, are usually required to check in and record their time of departure, destination and probable time of return.

All of this is fine, the servicewomen of today contend, but it is a program perhaps better suited for a sorority than for a military organization. When the nation is in trouble, they contend, women want to respond to the fullest just as men do. They may not want to fire rifles and man guns, but they want to assist in whatever way they can. And they feel they should receive training that would fit them for just such an emergency.

Are you interested in a career in one of the women's services? To enlist, you must be unmarried, a high school graduate and a citizen of unquestioned character. With parental consent you can sign up at 18. To become an officer, you must have a college degree. WAF and Marine applicants must be unmarried, but married women will be accepted into the WACs and WAVES if they have no dependents under 18. Enlistment terms run from two to six years. The pay is the same as men of the same rank receive. For more information, write to Public Inquiries Branch, Room 2D773, the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. 20301.

that WACs be requested only for "appropriate" jobs. "There will be no escalation of the war as far as the WACs are concerned," she said emphatically.

The primary reason for keeping servicewomen out of Vietnam (even though many served with distinction in many combat zones during World War II) is a fatherly attitude of protection. A second reason is a recent policy that regards the women's services as an elite force on which to build only in time of general mobilization; women are to be tried out in various jobs, but there is to be no attempt, short of a national emergency, to relieve every possible man for battlefield duty.

Still a third reason why women are not being sent to Vietnam is that the services in recent years have evolved into something far different than they were in the beginning. During World War II American servicewomen were regarded as "soldiers in skirts" and were treated as such. But today the military aspects are played down and femininity and glamour played up. During basic training girls spend as much time studying the arts of make-up and good grooming as the military arts. More attention is paid to the rise and fall of hemlines than to the ebb and flow of battle lines. "Sometimes," said a WAC officer, "we have to speak to girls to make sure their skirts aren't dragging the ground when short skirts are in style."

The prettiest and most poised girls get the best jobs, usually as receptionists for the brass. For the top secretarial posts in the Pentagon, applicants from the women's services are screened almost as carefully as contestants for Miss America. They must not only be lookers but must have charm to soothe tired generals and admirals. Before a girl is given a job with the Secretary of Defense or any of the service secretaries, she is checked over personally by her commander in the WACs, WAVES, WAFs or Marines.

The servicewomen of World War II were given "bivouac" training—how to survive in the open, rig pup tents and move noiselessly at night. They also spent time on the firing range and performed all kinds of rugged jobs. But today the tough training has been abandoned for frilly courses on make-up and hair-dos.

They are still taught such military subjects as weapons familiarization. But they no longer go into the field to fend for themselves, and the M-1 and M-14 rifles are considered too heavy for a mere slip of a girl to handle. "I know some Girl Scouts who are more rugged than we are," snapped one NCO.

Many GI Janes toughen up on their own with private classes in judo and karate. A few, also privately, have gone in for marksmanship with pistol or rifle. "You never know when it might come in handy," said one pretty young thing in Air Force blue.

But the ladies of the Armed Forces no longer drive trucks and work as grease monkeys. The official attitude, as expressed by a Pentagon spokesman, is that they "cannot be employed at jobs that are not in conformance with the present cultural pattern of utilizing women's services in this country." The work must be "psychologically and sociologically" suitable.

The Armed Forces are more concerned with quality than quantity and indeed, today's servicewomen are better educated than their mothers and aunts of World War II. The number of women in uniform fell from a peak of 266,256 in 1945 to a low of 14,458 in 1948. The Korean War stimulated recruitment, and the women's forces jumped in strength to 48,675. Then the number began dwindling again.

If the Armed Forces treat their women like clinging vines, a woman is probably to blame. In the early 1950's, rivalry between the WAVES and WAFs became so intense that the Air Force recruited Jacqueline Cochran, glamorous pilot and beauty specialist, to improve WAF standards.

The Air Force, Miss Cochran declared, should pay more attention to recruiting women with good looks and good figures. She suggested they should be at least 61 inches tall but not more than 72 inches. Taking solemn heed, the Air Force at once set up a four-week grooming course for its recruits.

HAIR-DOS TO NAIL POLISH

Now all the women's forces teach grooming—everything from hair-dos to nail polish, all of which must be neat, modest and ladylike. Physical training is designed to keep the ladies "fit and slender." Service girls who gain too much weight must reduce and are not permitted to wear exotic make-up or beehive hair-dos in uniform. WAVES are given careful instruction in etiquette, posture, hair styling and the selection and care of clothing. They are told that the Navy doesn't consider boyish bobs, clipped necklines and extremely short hair as properly feminine.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The agonies and ecstacies of show business, sometimes depressing, other times rewarding, are clearly illustrated in the bittersweet career of comic Jackie Vernon. For 12 years this comedy star played tank towns and crummy bistros on a road seemingly going nowhere. In a lucky year his average weekly earnings were $75. Today, a familiar personality to viewers of the Ed Sullivan and Johnny Carson TV programs, a feature attraction at such major niteries as the Plaza in New York, the Fremont in Las Vegas, the Latin Casino in Philadelphia, Jackie earns more in one night than he grossed in an entire year of his traumatic past. A native of New York who launched his career after a stint in the Air Force, Vernon has developed a characterization as the "downtrodden man" hounded by all possible adversities. Basically it is Chaplinesque in quality. Vernon says he owes his current success to Danny Kaye who caught his act in San Francisco in 1959 "and wouldn't let me quit when I was discouraged." He is also grateful to Bob Chartoff, his manager who got him a lengthy booking in 1963 at the Blue Angel in New York. "It proved a good showcase for my act, and I've been working steady ever since." Career aside, Jackie claims to be extremely happy "because after years of schlepping around I recently was able to set my wife, Hazel, up in something she's always wanted—a nice apartment for her and our two youngsters." Herewith some of Vernon's favorite jokes which will give you some idea of his act:

To show you the kind of guy I am I must tell you I'm the only person Dale Carnegie ever punched in the mouth.

The other night I was in the White House. President Johnson took me aside—and left me there.

Things happen to me that never happened to anyone else. I bought a set of snow tires, and they melted . . . I had a nose job, and my nose grew back . . . I was adopted by a Korean family.

For a while I had a series of very unusual jobs. I was a night watchman in a day camp . . . a deckhand on a submarine . . . a traffic director in a phone booth . . . a cruise director on a Ferris wheel.

To really understand me you have to know a bit of my philosophy. Here's the bit: There are two sides to every broken window . . . A bird in the hand is a dead duck . . . It is much better to have loved and love—much better . . . A sieve may not hold water, but it will hold another sieve . . . Horse sense is what keeps a woman from becoming a nag . . . It usually takes more than three weeks to prepare a good impromptu speech . . . Overeating reduces the life span. A word to the wide should be sufficient.

I am also a highly regarded inventor. Among my more famous inventions are a square bathtub which cannot leave a ring . . . artificial false teeth . . . an imitation Cadillac.

The other day I walked into a car agency to buy a new car. The salesman approached and quickly sized me up. "You, sir," he declared, "are the sporty type. I know exactly what you want. Take a look at this vehicle. See the buttons on the dashboard? You press the red one and a redhead jumps into the car. Press the brown one and a brunette jumps in. Press the yellow one and a blonde leaps in. Now, sir, do you want to buy this car?"

"Nope, I said, "just the buttons."

Two drunks were lost in the Alps. After three days one of them spied a St. Bernard dog with a large keg of brandy around its neck coming toward them. One drunk turned to the other and said, "Hey! Look who's here, man's best friend."

Said the other drunk: "And look who's carrying it, too, a big dog."

Wired for sound: Sen. Edward V. Long (D., Mo.) demonstrates some of the equipment being used today by industrial firms that seek to ferret out their competitors' secrets.

WHO NEEDS THESE SPIES?

by SEN. EDWARD V. LONG

Government "snooping" was the subject of a recent, much-headlined investigation by the Senate subcommittee of which I am chairman.

We uncovered some startling facts, but perhaps even more startling was what we discovered about electronic eavesdropping and other espionage activities in industry. In fact, the investigation indicated that there may be more such spying by business concerns than by law enforcement agencies.

We have ordered a full-scale investigation and hearings before the Senate Subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Procedure are to begin soon. In the meantime, here are some of the things we have found:

The president of a large West Coast utilities company one day noticed the fluorescent lights in his office flickering strangely. The trouble seemed to be related to his use of the telephone. He called in an electronics expert. The man quickly found a "bug"—a tiny transmitter only two inches long—attached to his telephone line so that someone could listen in on his calls.

A few months later a lawyer for the same utilities company went East on a business trip. In his hotel he found a "bug" under a coffee table that was broadcasting every sound made in his room.

In his Florida home the board chairman of a large liquor firm found a transmitter concealed in his recreation room, which he also used as an office. Many business decisions were being revealed to his competitors the moment they were made.

As we delve further into electronic espionage, we are finding more and more such cases. We are speaking here of espionage, as distinguished from intelligence. Any business firm worth its salt collects intelligence—information—about its competitors by such methods as reading trade journals and buying and testing competing products.

IMPORTANT DISTINCTION

Industrial espionage is quite different. It involves the use of illegal and unethical methods to obtain information. For example, the "bug" on the West Coast executive's telephone might have been planted by a supplier or contractor who wanted to learn of decisions that could affect his firm's dealing with the utilities company. Competing companies spy on each other in the hope of finding out about such things as marketing plans, technical breakthroughs or new products. Company managements have been known to spy on union meetings, and industrial espionage is often directed at a firm's own personnel.

It was recently revealed, for instance, that more than 300 California companies had leased "service observing equipment." That's a fancy name for gear that enables employers to monitor telephone calls of employees without their knowledge.

Many concerns use such simple devices as microphones hidden in desk calendars, while others employ more sophisticated methods. At least one firm installed a closed-circuit TV system in the men's room.

Not all industrial espionage is carried out by electronic means of course. One company installed a false ceiling with peepholes into a room used for union meetings. Other common methods of obtaining information secretly include purchasing the contents of a competitor's waste baskets from janitors and cleaning people, planting spies in a competing firm, romancing secretaries of key executives, blackmail, bribery and sometimes simple breaking and entering.

No one knows exactly how extensive business spying is today, but our preliminary study would indicate that few if any major industries are immune. Moreover, espionage in industry seems to be on the increase. As technology becomes more complex and important, the data sought through much of this spying become more "essential." Also, the equipment is becoming easier to obtain, harder to detect—and cheaper.

Another important factor is that trained "spies" are now more readily available. World War II produced hundreds of thousands of men with enough knowledge of electronics to "bug" an office. Since then, such organizations as the CIA, Secret Service and FBI have "graduated" thousands of electronic spying experts.

EMPLOYMENT FOR "GRADUATES"

One well-known society of "graduates" lists between 4000 and 5000 former special agents and their present places of employment. Most are either in private detective firms that have many industrial clients or are employed directly by industry. As of 1964, for example, the four major auto makers had a total of 49 such former agents on their payrolls.

There is no reason to believe that all of the trained agents working in industry are assigned to espionage activities. Security and counterespionage activities also require highly qualified men. But every one of these "graduates" has the capability to carry out the kind of highly sophisticated spying I've described.

As espionage in industry increases, equipment designed to detect electronic devices is now being widely marketed. One firm is offering equipment designed to "jam" concealed transmitters. Many executives now have their offices "swept" periodically. One company built a "war room" designed to be as eavesdrop-proof as possible. Others have resorted to holding high-level conferences in speeding cars or on golf courses.

It is believed that most businessmen would like to rid their industries of espionage, especially electronic espionage. One possible approach is by self-policing. Several years ago the U.S. Department of Commerce established a Business Advisory Council. Unfortunately this council hasn't met for more than three years. It would be my suggestion that the council be reactivated and given the specific task of examining possible solutions to the spying problem. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers should be invited to participate actively.

Additionally, as part of its general study of wiretapping and eavesdropping, our Senate subcommittee shall take a close look at industrial espionage. We hope to determine its extent, techniques, legitimate purposes—if any—and to devise means to curb it. If we are going to limit law enforcement agencies in their use of wiretap and eavesdrop, we should certainly curb non-law-enforcement use even more stringently.

If we are to retain any of our right to privacy, we shall need not only new laws but also a public awareness of what is slipping away from us. We hope—and we believe—that we will have many leaders of business and industry at our side in this fight.

Wired for sound: Sen. Edward V. Long (D., Mo.) demonstrates some of the equipment being used today by industrial firms that seek to ferret out their competitors' secrets.

For example, the "bug" on the West Coast executive's telephone might have been planted by a supplier or contractor who wanted to learn of decisions that could affect his firm's dealing with the utilities company. Competing companies spy on each other in the hope of finding out about such things as marketing plans, technical breakthroughs or new products. Company managements have been known to spy on union meetings, and industrial espionage is often directed at a firm's own personnel.

It was recently revealed, for instance, that more than 300 California companies had leased "service observing equipment." That's a fancy name for gear that enables employers to monitor telephone calls of employees without their knowledge.

Many concerns use such simple devices as microphones hidden in desk calendars, while others employ more sophisticated methods. At least one firm installed a closed-circuit TV system in the men's room.

Not all industrial espionage is carried out by electronic means of course. One company installed a false ceiling with peepholes into a room used for union meetings. Other common methods of obtaining information secretly include purchasing the contents of a competitor's waste baskets from janitors and cleaning people, planting spies in a competing firm, romancing secretaries of key executives, blackmail, bribery and sometimes simple breaking and entering.

No one knows exactly how extensive business spying is today, but our preliminary study would indicate that few if any major industries are immune. Moreover, espionage in industry seems to be on the increase. As technology becomes more complex and important, the data sought through much of this spying become more "essential." Also, the equipment is becoming easier to obtain, harder to detect—and cheaper.

Another important factor is that trained "spies" are now more readily available. World War II produced hundreds of thousands of men with enough knowledge of electronics to "bug" an office. Since then, such organizations as the CIA, Secret Service and FBI have "graduated" thousands of electronic spying experts.

EMPLOYMENT FOR "GRADUATES"

One well-known society of "graduates" lists between 4000 and 5000 former special agents and their present places of employment. Most are either in private detective firms that have many industrial clients or are employed directly by industry. As of 1964, for example, the four major auto makers had a total of 49 such former agents on their payrolls.

There is no reason to believe that all of the trained agents working in industry are assigned to espionage activities. Security and counterespionage activities also require highly qualified men. But every one of these "graduates" has the capability to carry out the kind of highly sophisticated spying I've described.

As espionage in industry increases, equipment designed to detect electronic devices is now being widely marketed. One firm is offering equipment designed to "jam" concealed transmitters. Many executives now have their offices "swept" periodically. One company built a "war room" designed to be as eavesdrop-proof as possible. Others have resorted to holding high-level conferences in speeding cars or on golf courses.

It is believed that most businessmen would like to rid their industries of espionage, especially electronic espionage. One possible approach is by self-policing. Several years ago the U.S. Department of Commerce established a Business Advisory Council. Unfortunately this council hasn't met for more than three years. It would be my suggestion that the council be reactivated and given the specific task of examining possible solutions to the spying problem. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers should be invited to participate actively.

Additionally, as part of its general study of wiretapping and eavesdropping, our Senate subcommittee shall take a close look at industrial espionage. We hope to determine its extent, techniques, legitimate purposes—if any—and to devise means to curb it. If we are going to limit law enforcement agencies in their use of wiretap and eavesdrop, we should certainly curb non-law-enforcement use even more stringently.

If we are to retain any of our right to privacy, we shall need not only new laws but also a public awareness of what is slipping away from us. We hope—and we believe—that we will have many leaders of business and industry at our side in this fight.

Sugar Plums

by Beth Merriman · PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Little sweet rolls filled with a delicious blend of plum preserves, raisins, almonds and lemon peel are wonderful to have on hand for unexpected company. When guests drop in at any hour of the day or evening, pop the Sugar Plums into the oven to heat while the tea or coffee brews. Keep them fresh in a tightly covered container in the refrigerator—while they last.

Sugar Plums

- ¾ cup milk
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup warm water (105°-115°)
- 2 packages active dry yeast
- 1 egg
- 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ cup plum preserves
- ½ cup seedless raisins
- ¼ cup chopped blanched almonds
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and butter or margarine; cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, egg and half the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour to make a stiff batter. Cover tightly with wax paper or foil. Refrigerate at least 2 hours. Combine plum preserves, raisins, almonds and lemon peel. Divide dough in half. On a slightly floured board roll one half the dough into an 18" x 15" rectangle. Cut dough into 3-inch squares. Place about one level teaspoon of filling in center of each square. Fold each corner to center, covering filling; press ends together to seal. Place on greased baking sheets. Repeat with remaining dough and filling. Cover; let rise in warm place (85°), free from draft, until doubled in size. Bake at 400° for 10-15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool. Decorate with pecan halves held with dab of sugar icing. Makes 5 dozen.

PARADE MEDICAL REPORT

DON'T TRY TO DOCTOR YOURSELF WHEN YOU HAVE

the Blues

by LAWRENCE GALTON

In a Midwestern city, a 35-year-old engineer suddenly loses his appetite. He can't sleep, reports splitting headaches and alarming chest pains.

A medical check shows nothing physically wrong. But the doctor, refusing to leave it at that, questions the man closely. He discovers there have been several such episodes. Always they have come during periods of pressure on the job. Always, as now, they have been accompanied by feelings of discouragement and "blues."

To the credit of the physician, no psychiatrist but an alert general practitioner, the engineer doesn't get a medicine chest full of drugs, one for each symptom. He gets only a drug to fight mental depression and before long, all symptoms disappear.

In a Boston suburb, a young housewife suffers from overwhelming fatigue and constant abdominal distress. She has tried vitamins, "tonics" and assorted remedies without result.

When finally she consults a doctor, he notes a kind of dullness and mental withdrawal. And when he finds no physical explanation for her troubles, he gently asks if anything has happened to make her feel depressed. She had lost her mother eight months before, had grieved of course, but thought she had recovered. Yet—true, her symptoms had come on not long after her mother's death.

The housewife, too, is treated for depression and quickly relieved.

These are two of the lucky people.

Mental depression today is being recognized as a critical medical problem. It's "the most challenging one that confronts the modern physician," says Dr. Frank J. Ayd, Jr. of Baltimore, a distinguished psychiatrist.

"More human suffering has resulted from depression than from any other single disease," declares Dr. Nathan S. Kline, a Lasker Award winner for his mental health research.

"The great masquerader," Dr. Seymour Diamond of the Chicago Medical School calls it.

Says Dr. Paul H. Ornstein of the University of Cincinnati: "It has many faces and often hides behind somatic [physical] complaints without betraying its presence by an obviously sad or despairing mood."

Only a few months ago, the California State Medical Society adopted a special resolution that called depression "one of the most, if not the most, common conditions encountered in medical practice." The resolution noted the effectiveness of modern treatment and urged "more widespread dissemination of knowledge" about the whole subject.

PARADE MEDICAL REPORT

DON'T TRY TO DOCTOR YOURSELF WHEN YOU HAVE

the Blues

by LAWRENCE GALTON

In a Midwestern city, a 35-year-old engineer suddenly loses his appetite. He can't sleep, reports splitting headaches and alarming chest pains.

A medical check shows nothing physically wrong. But the doctor, refusing to leave it at that, questions the man closely. He discovers there have been several such episodes. Always they have come during periods of pressure on the job. Always, as now, they have been accompanied by feelings of discouragement and "blues."

To the credit of the physician, no psychiatrist but an alert general practitioner, the engineer doesn't get a medicine chest full of drugs, one for each symptom. He gets only a drug to fight mental depression and before long, all symptoms disappear.

In a Boston suburb, a young housewife suffers from overwhelming fatigue and constant abdominal distress. She has tried vitamins, "tonics" and assorted remedies without result.

When finally she consults a doctor, he notes a kind of dullness and mental withdrawal. And when he finds no physical explanation for her troubles, he gently asks if anything has happened to make her feel depressed. Is depression in disguised form right now affecting someone in your family or a friend or neighbor? Here's what authorities have been discovering recently about its mechanisms and disguises—and what can be done to combat it.

Overcoming the blues—which hits people from all walks of life—can be achieved with understanding, drugs and electroshock.

MORE THAN A MOOD

All of us have our ups and downs—days when we feel on top of the world, others when we feel "low."

But depression is another matter. It's a chronic change of mood and a drawn-out lowering of the spirits.

It can be triggered by a loss—of a loved one, money, job. Such a depression is called "exogenous," meaning it comes from outside.

But there's another common type of depression. Suddenly a person decides he or she is a failure in life. Self-confidence and self-esteem vanish. Ordinary everyday problems seem too much to cope with. This is "endogenous" depression—coming from within, perhaps as the result of some body chemical upset.

Many authorities believe depressions often are both endogenous and exogenous. Some argue there has to be an endogenous or internal factor, otherwise a death in the family or other loss would lead only to temporary normal sadness.

When depression does occur, it isn't limited to the mind. There is a general lowering of vitality.

In one study Johns Hopkins University investigators were able to show that depressed people can be harder hit when common illnesses strike. They gave psychological tests to a group of employees at Fort Detrick, Md. The following winter, when flu broke out and many of the employees were affected, those who had been found mildly depressed took three weeks or longer to recover. Others were over their flu in three to 14 days.

Some medical men believe depression may open the door for other illnesses. Dr. Edward J. Kollar of the University of California has noted that many people become sick for the first time, or begin to suffer from some chronic disorder, or decide to undergo surgery when they are depressed.

"During five years' experience as chief of a large general hospital," he says, "I gradually became aware of the large number of patients who had masked depressions . . . Anyone ill is entitled to react to his illness with depression. The point I wish to emphasize is that these individuals were depressed before they developed the illness."

ON TOP OF OTHER PROBLEMS

Actually, even when depression is the result of illness, doctors have discovered that treating the depression may help to treat the illness successfully.

Antidepressant drugs, for instance, seem to help in rheumatoid arthritis and chronic ulcerative colitis in cases in which depression is present.

Dr. M. D. Sanger of Brooklyn, N. Y., has used the drugs on asthma and eczema patients who have failed to benefit adequately from usual treatment and who were found to be depressed. Of 113 persons tested, 89 showed improvement.

At the Neuropsychiatric Institute of the University of California, Los Angeles, physicians tried antidepressant drug treatment on patients with shaking palsy, or Parkinson's disease. These persons hadn't been able to dress, cook or keep themselves clean—and were depressed as well. After three weeks, almost 90 per cent could care for themselves. Some could even do simple jobs.

DEPRESSION ALONE—AND IN DISGUISE

But if depression can complicate physical illness, it can also be the sole reason for a wide variety of symptoms that resemble those of physical ailments.

In a four-year study, doctors at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, found fatigue the single most frequent symptom of patients diagnosed as depressed. Sometimes the patients felt so exhausted they couldn't go through their daily routine.

Yet at the same time they reported they couldn't sleep well. They would doze off, then wake up early in the morning and toss for hours. In fact, any sudden tendency to wake up very early can be a cardinal sign of depression.

Headaches are another common symptom. In studying 423 patients with depression, Dr. Diamond found that 84 per cent complained of headache. Depressive headaches, Dr. Diamond reports, are capricious, aren't limited to one area, tend to be worse in the morning than in the evening and often resist all ordinary remedies. But once recognized for what they are, they can be relieved with antidepressant medication.

Dr. Diamond also found 75 per cent of depressed patients lost weight—from five to 20 pounds. Other symptoms included breathing difficulty, dizziness, weakness, urinary disturbance, palpitation, nausea.

In a recent seminar to alert family doctors to the guises emotional troubles can take, Dr. Jack R. Ewalt, a Harvard psychiatrist, warned that "depression symptoms are frequently referred to the gastrointestinal tract," and urged a check for depression when patients complained of gas or abdominal pains that couldn't be explained otherwise. He also warned that depression sometimes caused reduced potency in men, menstrual disturbance in women.

Nobody knows how many elderly people considered hopelessly senile are really only depressed. "The depressions of the geriatric patient often remain undiagnosed," says Dr. Sidney Cohen, Chief of Psychiatry Service, Wadsworth Veterans Administration Hospital, Los Angeles. "There is the feeling that he is too senile to be depressed. Actually, depressions can contribute to or even cause senile confusion."

NEW TREATMENTS

Until 1938, there was virtually nothing doctors could do about depression. Then came electroshock therapy. Now there are many drugs to attack the problem.

Late in 1965, 170 leading medical clinicians and researchers were polled on the most outstanding drug developments of recent years. One of the major advances listed was imipramine, an antidepression drug introduced in 1959. Another named was amitriptyline, introduced in 1965.

Recently, excellent results have been reported with another agent, diazepam, derived from a drug to combat anxiety. Physicians at the University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, tried it on 566 depressed patients over a two-and-a-half-year period, found that it benefited 90 per cent.

No one drug is a panacea. The drug that helps one patient may have little effect on another. Careful selection is necessary.

Some physicians prefer to use drugs only when psychotherapy does not work. They report that psychotherapy alone often accomplishes wonders. It can be brief and given by a family doctor—and can take the form of a few sessions in which the patient is told the reason for his physical complaints, is encouraged to talk out worries and feelings and is given reassurance.

Another new development is Indoklon, an inhalant drug. A few sniffs, some physicians report, can be as effective as electroshock for severe depression.

Recently, a new electroshock technique has shown promise. Ordinarily, brief bursts of current are applied to both sides of the brain. In the new technique, they're applied to just one side. Dr. Winston L. Martin of the University of Texas, Houston, has found that it is fully as effective—and it minimizes or avoids the temporary confusion and memory disturbance that sometimes follow conventional treatment.

SOLVING THE MAJOR PROBLEM

But the big problem with depression is not treatment, but recognition. Studies have shown that depressed people don't understand the significance of their blue feelings. They shrug them off as results, not causes, of their aches and pains.

Many doctor themselves for long periods. When they do seek medical help, they often fail to mention their dejection. Some vehemently deny feeling depressed out of a mistaken belief there is something shameful about depression.

There isn't. It's one of the most common of all disorders and it hits people in all walks of life. And if patients are alert to it—and report it to their physician—they can save a lot of needless treatment, expense and prolonged misery.

THE BIG CHANGE. For the remainder of this decade the major development on the American scene will highlight the political rise of the Negro. A few years from now, Newark, Washington, D.C., Cleveland, Dayton, New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, many other communities may boast Negro mayors. Other localities may well come up with Negro sheriffs, judges, councilmen, senators, even governors. Negroes have decided to run for office to protect their newly acquired rights. They expect the backing of their own people. In cities where Negroes predominate, their election to municipal office is already taken for granted. In many of these cities the whites have emigrated to the suburbs, leaving control to the Negroes by default. According to Mrs. Constance Motley, Negro borough president of Manhattan, "The basic reason Negroes are preparing to campaign for elective office is that executive jobs in big business, in the major corporations are still closed to them. They can go so high and no higher. That's why we turn to politics and government service in many cases."

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH. What is it that people with money want most? One answer: youth. Let any physician come along with claims of a new rejuvenation method, immediately the rich flock to his fold. Take Dr. Fritz Wiedemann, one-time Munich neurologist who claims to have developed a new way of regenerating the human body. Europe's wealthy are beating a path to his Starnberg clinic in southern Germany. Wiedemann's treatment consists of five sera taken from rabbits previously injected with cells from five organs of the human body. This serum is reinjected into the same area of the human body from which the cells were originally obtained. Wiedemann says this serum rejuvenates the cells of the entire body, nerve, muscle, and skin, enabling the patient to look and feel from ten to 20 years younger than he is. Many of the doctor's patients swear by him, return every two years for the three weeks treatment. American researchers claim that a large percentage of patients claim to feel better no matter what they're injected with, even distilled water. It's the power of suggestion which works wonders. Others claim Wiedemann's method cannot be scientifically evaluated without conducting control studies. One group of volunteers would have to be injected with his serum. Another group would not. Results would then be compared.

CITIZEN'S CHAMPION. Do we need an ombudsman in America? An ombudsman is a government official who protects private citizens from unfair or improper treatment by government agencies or employes. He is the counterpart of the Army's inspector general, the officer to whom all ranks may complain about unjust or incompetent officers. The idea of an ombudsman originated in Sweden decades ago. It's been adopted by the other Scandinavian countries, also Great Britain and New Zealand. Here's the way it works: A citizen complains about a government ruling or a bureaucrat's behavior. The ombudsman investigates the charge if it seems reasonable and is backed by evidence. If the ombudsman finds the government at fault, redress is made. In New Zealand last year, Sir Guy Powles, the ombudsman, handled 725 complaints. About 50 were found to be justified. "The very existence of our office," he explains, "keeps the various government departments on their toes." In this day and age the ordinary citizen needs a champion against the state and its mushrooming bureaucracy.

MENTAL HEALTH FALLACY. Personnel experts have long claimed that the well-adjusted man, the happy man is more likely to succeed at a job than the man who is equally skilled but less well-adjusted. Psychiatrists and psychologists have also passed this off as fact. Not true. Dr. Brewster Smith of the Institute of Human Development at the University of California, Berkeley, tested a group of Peace Corps volunteers before they left for Ghana to spend two years teaching. At the end of their duty tour he measured their competence on the job. The correlation between their mental health ratings and their job competence was "close to zero." In short a man's state of mental health is "essentially irrelevant" in trying to predict how he will perform. According to Dr. Smith, that is.

OVERBOOKED PASSENGERS. In 1963 and 1964 almost 100,000 air-line passengers with confirmed reservations were not allowed to occupy the seats they had purchased. In these cases the air lines had overbooked their flights, sold more tickets than seats were available. The Civil Aeronautics Board now proposes that air lines be required to give passengers at least 12 hours notice of an overbooked flight, so that the passenger has the time and opportunity to reserve another one.

ATTACK ON CANCER. President Johnson's Commission on Heart Disease, Cancer and Stroke has recommended a nation-wide campaign against cervical cancer. The Public Health Service plans to get it under way at once. Every woman, 25 or over, who is admitted to a U.S. hospital for any reason in the next five years, is to be given with her consent a Papanicolaou smear test. That's the campaign's major goal. Cervical cancer unnecessarily takes 8000 lives per year, but last year the test was given to only 20% of the nation's 62 million adult women. The Pap smear is simple and painless. The vagina and cervix of the uterus are swabbed with cotton and the cells so obtained are placed under the microscope.

THOSE CHINESE MULTIPLY. Of the ten most populated cities in the world, three are in Red China. Here's the tally from the 1964 United Nations Demographic Yearbook:

		Population
1.	Tokyo	8,733,000
2.	New York	8,086,000
3.	Shanghai	6,900,000
4.	Moscow	6,334,000
5.	Bombay	4,538,000
6.	Peking	4,010,000

A few years from now, Newark, Washington, D.C., Cleveland, Dayton, New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, many other communities may boast Negro mayors. Other localities may well come up with Negro sheriffs, judges, councilmen, senators, even governors. Negroes have decided to run for office to protect their newly acquired rights. They expect the backing of their own people. In cities where Negroes predominate, their election to municipal office is already taken for granted. In many of these cities the whites have emigrated to the suburbs, leaving control to the Negroes by default. According to Mrs. Constance Motley, Negro borough president of Manhattan, "The basic reason Negroes are preparing to campaign for elective office is that executive jobs in big business, in the major corporations are still closed to them. They can go so high and no higher. That's why we turn to politics and government service in many cases."

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH. What is it that people with money want most? One answer: youth. Let any physician come along with claims of a new rejuvenation method, immediately the rich flock to his fold. Take Dr. Fritz Wiedemann, one-time Munich neurologist who claims to have developed a new way of regenerating the human body. Europe's wealthy are beating a path to his Starnberg clinic in southern Germany. Wiedemann's treatment consists of five sera taken from rabbits previously injected with cells from five organs of the human body. This serum is reinjected into the same area of the human body from which the cells were originally obtained. Wiedemann says this serum rejuvenates the cells of the entire body, nerve, muscle, and skin, enabling the patient to look and feel from ten to 20 years younger than he is. Many of the doctor's patients swear by him, return every two years for the three weeks treatment. American researchers claim that a large percentage of patients claim to feel better no matter what they're injected with, even distilled water. It's the power of suggestion which works wonders. Others claim Wiedemann's method cannot be scientifically evaluated without conducting control studies. One group of volunteers would have to be injected with his serum. Another group would not. Results would then be compared.

CITIZEN'S CHAMPION. Do we need an ombudsman in America? An ombudsman is a government official who protects private citizens from unfair or improper treatment by government agencies or employes. He is the counterpart of the Army's inspector general, the officer to whom all ranks may complain about unjust or incompetent officers. The idea of an ombudsman originated in Sweden decades ago. It's been adopted by the other Scandinavian countries, also Great Britain and New Zealand. Here's the way it works: A citizen complains about a government ruling or a bureaucrat's behavior. The ombudsman investigates the charge if it seems reasonable and is backed by evidence. If the ombudsman finds the government at fault, redress is made. In New Zealand last year, Sir Guy Powles, the ombudsman, handled 725 complaints. About 50 were found to be justified. "The very existence of our office," he explains, "keeps the various government departments on their toes." In this day and age the ordinary citizen needs a champion against the state and its mushrooming bureaucracy.

MENTAL HEALTH FALLACY. Personnel experts have long claimed that the well-adjusted man, the happy man is more likely to succeed at a job than the man who is equally skilled but less well-adjusted. Psychiatrists and psychologists have also passed this off as fact. Not true. Dr. Brewster Smith of the Institute of Human Development at the University of California, Berkeley, tested a group of Peace Corps volunteers before they left for Ghana to spend two years teaching. At the end of their duty tour he measured their competence on the job. The correlation between their mental health ratings and their job competence was "close to zero." In short a man's state of mental health is "essentially irrelevant" in trying to predict how he will perform. According to Dr. Smith, that is.

OVERBOOKED PASSENGERS. In 1963 and 1964 almost 100,000 air-line passengers with confirmed reservations were not allowed to occupy the seats they had purchased. In these cases the air lines had overbooked their flights, sold more tickets than seats were available. The Civil Aeronautics Board now proposes that air lines be required to give passengers at least 12 hours notice of an overbooked flight, so that the passenger has the time and opportunity to reserve another one.

ATTACK ON CANCER. President Johnson's Commission on Heart Disease, Cancer and Stroke has recommended a nation-wide campaign against cervical cancer. The Public Health Service plans to get it under way at once. Every woman, 25 or over, who is admitted to a U.S. hospital for any reason in the next five years, is to be given with her consent a Papanicolaou smear test. That's the campaign's major goal. Cervical cancer unnecessarily takes 8000 lives per year, but last year the test was given to only 20% of the nation's 62 million adult women. The Pap smear is simple and painless. The vagina and cervix of the uterus are swabbed with cotton and the cells so obtained are placed under the microscope.

THOSE CHINESE MULTIPLY. Of the ten most populated cities in the world, three are in Red China. Here's the tally from the 1964 United Nations Demographic Yearbook:

ZANE GREY is the world's most beloved Western writer. He actually lived the rugged life made famous in his thrilling books.

Now Ready! YOUR FIRST 3 VOLUMES

RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE

Fiery gun fights! Wild chases! Hairbreadth escapes! The raw beauty and deadly pitfalls of the Plains — the whole colorful epoch of the pioneer! Against this backdrop of blazing action, a mysterious rider and the girl he loves gamble their lives in the winning of the West!

As you read this great adventure, you'll see why it's the most popular Western ever written! Read by over 2 MILLION people. And made into FOUR thrilling motion pictures!

THE LONE STAR RANGER

"The Rangers mean law and order for Texas," Buck Duane's uncle tells him. "Kill a man and you're ruined. If you resist arrest, they'll shoot you. If you submit, you go to jail and mebbe hang!"

But Buck has to kill Cal Bain. So he rides away toward the Rio Grande — to find refuge in the vast borderland country that is still untamed — inhabited mainly by rustlers, bandits, murderers and desperadoes — outlaws, every last bloodthirsty one of them!

CAPTIVES OF THE DESERT

"Man, you're crazy . . . . ridin' after them thievin' varmints without a gun," the cowboy known as High-Lo told his partner, John Curry. "Remember how they crippled my horse? What they did to that pore Indian gal? And what they're . . ."

His words died on his lips. Standing before them were the very two gun-slingers Curry had sworn to run out of the territory! "Stay where you are, Curry!" they warned. "Ride one step closer and you'll be feelin' some hot lead!"

MISS PEACH

By Mell

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

With Major Hoople

OFF THE RECORD

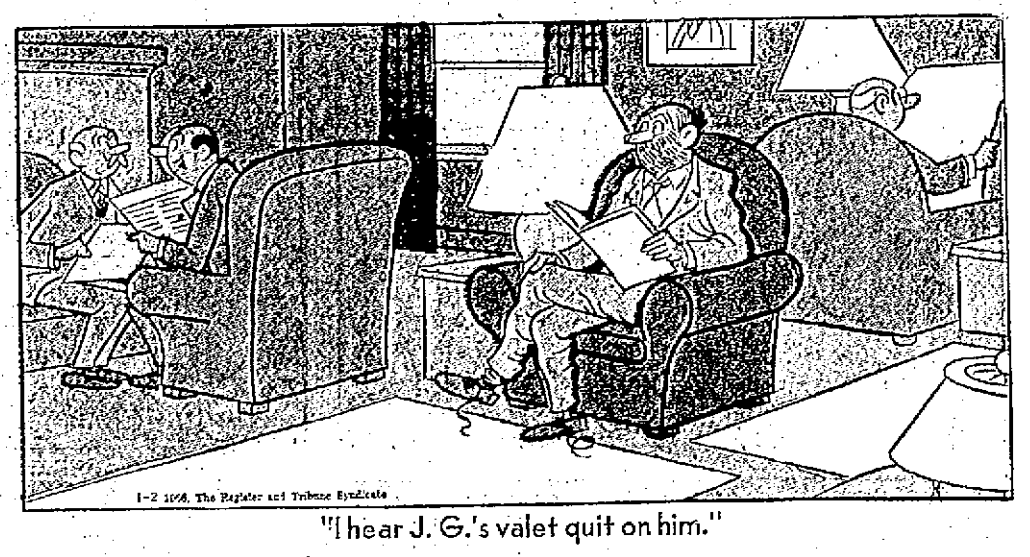

by ED REED

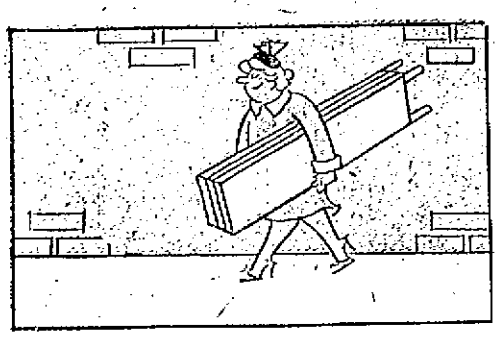

"RELAX -- this prosecutor has had 98 straight convictions--his luck can't last forever."

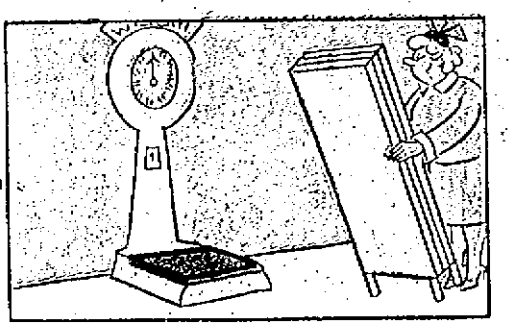

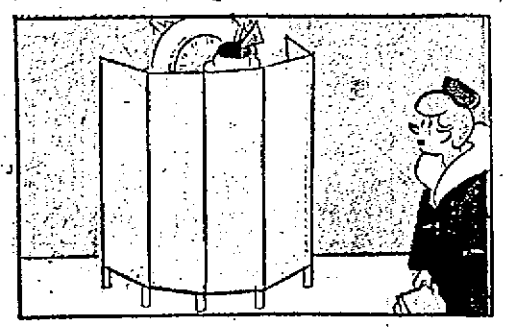

"Mother, will you please keep track of my phone calls and automobile honks."

"I hear J. G.'s valet quit on him."
